Poetry.

The Old Couple.

They sat in the sun together,
Till the day was almost done;
And then, at its close, an angel
Stepped over the threshold stone.

He folded their hands together,
He touched their eyelids with balm,
And their last breath floated upward
Like the close of a solemn psalm.

Like a bridal pair they traversed
The unseen, mystic road
That leads to the Beautiful City
Whose Builder and Maker is God.

Perhaps, in that miracle country,
They will give her lost youth back,
And the flowers of a vanished spring-time
Shall bloom in the spirit's track.

One draught of the living waters
Shall restore his manhood's prime,
And eternal years shall measure
And the love that outlives time.

But the shape they left behind them—
The wrinkles and silver hair—
Made sacred to us by the kisses
The angel imprinted there—

We'll hide away in the meadow,
When the sun is low in the west,
Where the moonbeams cannot find them,
Nor the wind disturb their rest.

But we'll let no tell-tale tombstone,
With its age and date, arise
O'er the two who are old no longer,
In their Father's House in the skies.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

A GOOD CAKE. One egg, one teacup of sugar, one of milk, two and a half cups of flour, one of butter, one teaspoonful of cream tartar, half teaspoonful soda.

CREAM. One pint of milk, let boil; four tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, a lump of butter the size of a small egg; one egg; let the mixture boil: when cool, flavor with lemon. When dished, cut the cake in small square pieces, placing a portion of the cream over.

RYE JOHNNY CAKE. One quart rye flour; one teacup molasses; one teaspoonful of salt; one teaspoonful of soda; one pint sour milk; one-half cup shortening.

☞ A romping four-year-old boy had been denied some trifling gratification by his mother, but it did not seem so trifling to him as to her; he said, with the utmost gravity, "Mother, were you ever a boy?"

☞ When the season of parties approaches boys begin to feel gallant, and "gals" buoyant.

☞ Said Bill to Jack, "How many legs would a calf have, calling the tail one?" "Five," answered Jack. "No it wouldn't, for calling the tail one wouldn't make it one."

☞ "What are you doing?" said a father to his son, who was tinkering at an old watch. "Improving my time, sir."

☞ "Sal," cried a girl, looking down from the upper story, addressing another girl, who was trying to enter the front door, "we've all been to meeting and we have been converted; so when you want milk on Sunday, you'll have to come round to the back door."

☞ A son of Erin, just arrived in this land of plenty, being in want, was told, by a person to whom he applied for aid, to go to ——. "Civility indeed," said the Hibernian, "to invite me to your father's house.

Miscellany.

A Gallant Rescue.

A man named Daniel Gibbs was among the earlier settlers of Kentucky. He removed his family from Virginia to his new home, and died the following year. Mrs. Gibbs remained in the place with an old negro servant, who had accompanied them from Virginia. He was a faithful domestic, and proceeded with his work of clearing the land, and tilling the soil, the same as when his much beloved master was alive.

The nearest neighbor to the widow lived at the distance of nearly a mile. Early one morn she was sent for to go over to this neighbor's the mistress of the family having been taken suddenly ill. As her child was asleep at the time, and she expected to return in a few hours at the farthest, she told Peter, the negro, to see to it, and went along. It so happened that her assistance was needed all day till night had set in, and then, the moment she could get released, she hurried home, with not a little of a fond mother's anxiety.

Between the two houses was a heavy wood, extending nearly the whole distance, the only open portion being immediately around each dwelling; and as Mrs. Gibbs neared the clearing before her own door, she was fearfully startled at perceiving a bright, ruddy light shoot upward toward the dark heavens, and at hearing some two or three exultant savage yells. She comprehended at once that her dwelling had just been fired by Indians, and the thought of her child made her faint with horror. Scarcely able to stand, she staggered forward, like one who had received a heavy blow, and for the next five minutes her mind was in a state of bewildered agony that she knew nothing of what she was doing.

Mechanically, however, she moved forward with considerable celerity—drawn, as it were, by instinct, to her child—her next recollection was of standing on the edge of the clearing, and seeing, by the horrid glare of her burning dwelling, three half-naked savages, with some light articles of plunder, moving off toward the wood, one of them leading her little boy by the hand. Her first impulse was to utter a cry of maternal agony, and run forward to her child; but fortunately a little reflection came to her aid, and she saw at once the folly of such a course—for, besides the fact that alone and unaided she could not rescue her little one she would thus put herself completely in the power of the Indians, who would undoubtedly either kill her at once or drag her into hopeless captivity. If she could have been sure of being allowed to go with her child and remain with it, her, mother's heart would not have permitted her to hesitate a minute; but the uncertainty as to what might be her fate, and the thought that if she were to be destroyed, her darling would be without a friend and protector in the wide world, led her to resolve upon another course. She would follow the savages, day and night if necessary, and be ever ready to, snatch her child from them, and for the opportunity she would send up to Heaven an incessant prayer.

The course she had determined on however, presented its difficulties at the very start. The Indians were moving toward the woods at a point some two hundred yards from where she stood, and should she remain where she was, while they were in sight, she might not be able to follow them in the dark, and should she go forward, so as to be near them, there would be great risk of her being seen or heard. She felt, though, that the risk of being discovered must be ventured upon—for rather would she be captured than lose all traces of her darling child—and so she hastened forward, along the edge of the wood, but used all the caution that the circumstances would permit. To her great relief, the Indians passed within a few yards of where she was crouching and trembling in the bushes, and plunged at once into the thickest part of the wood. Even now it was not safe to follow them—for the burning dwelling threw its ghastly light far into the forest, making visible its darkest places for more than a mile, and every moving object within seeing distance was liable to be perceived by the lynx eyes of the savages; still, something had to be risked, and so the trembling mother moved on, and at least kept within sound of her foes, till the light, growing dimmer by degrees, gradually faded out and left her less to fear, when she quickened her pace, and drew up so near that she could hear them when they spoke in their lowest tones, though their language of course she could not understand.

These Indians were evidently afraid of being followed by an avenging party of whites, and for this reason were anxious to put a long stretch of country between themselves and the scene of their late depredations; and so they pushed on and on, for a distance of ten long fatiguing miles, over a rough, hilly region, the last half of the route being through a wilderness, in which there was not a single white settler.

Foot-sore, weary and faint, her mind half distracted with hopes, doubts and fears, the poor mother followed on. She was no longer certain her child was still living, for she had not once heard it cry or utter a single word; she knew it could not 'walk such a great distance and keep up with the Indians, and to suppose it had been carried by one, or each of them in turn, was to give them credit for more humanity than their usual barbarities would justify. Still the mother went on, hoping as it were against hope, and praying Heaven to strengthen and sustain her, and restore her the lost one, without which life would seem of little value.

Thus far, several little creeks and streams had been crossed without difficulty; but now the Indians came to a broad, deep river, one of the tributaries of the Ohio. They seemed to think it important this should at once be placed between them and their probable pursuers, and they lost no time in preparing to swim it. They first got a small log, bound some bushes to it, and then fastened their fire-arms and powder-horns on the bushes, so as to keep them dry. This substitute for a boat they then placed in the water, and pushed before them as they swam across. It was here for the first time, as one of the Indians jumped into the water with it, that Mrs. Gibbs heard her child cry. The sound awakened the most powerful emotions. Her boy still was alive then, still in the hands of the savages, and might even now be drowned. At least it was going away from her—going where she might not be able to follow it—for how was she to cross this stream? She could not swim, there was no boat, and she had no means of constructing a raft; and even had there been a raft, she could not have worked her passage over. She came close to the water, and was tempted to scream, and thus draw the Indians back, that she might not be separated from the child. She knew when they reached the other side by the sounds they made, and her fond and troubled heart beat lighter when she again heard her child cry, and knew it was at least alive on the bank of the river.

In a state of mind bordering on distraction, the poor mother had begun to walk hurriedly to and fro, clasping and wringing, her hands, when a low voice, within hearing, said:—

"Hush, Miss Hannah! Don't take on so! Old Pete'll fotch young marse back agin—or die hisself, he will—so dar now.

The voice of an angel from heaven would scarcely have astonished the poor mother more than did these words from the lips of her honest, faithful servant. Her heart took a great bound of surprise, and then swelled with emotions of unspeakable joy. She had thought herself alone there in the great wilderness, without a single friend; and now she knew there was one by her side, the truest of the true—one who, of another face and color, and assigned by fate to the humblest walks of life, had the courage of a hero and the devotion of a martyr, and would brave death in any form to save herself or her child. And, yet, strange as it may seem, she could not recollect of having once thought of him, from the time of seeing her dwelling on fire up to the moment when his welcome voice sounded in her ear, so completely had her child absorbed her whole attention.

To her anxious inquiries, Peter now informed his mistress that he was a few rods from the house, when the Indians came up, and seeing them first, and knowing he could not get to the child in time to save it, he concealed himself and kept a watch on them, and when they retreated he followed, hoping like herself to get a chance to rescue the little captive. During the first half mile, he discovered her on the same errand as himself, but dared not speak, or in any other manner make himself known, lest, under the impulse of surprise on her part, she might forget her caution, and thus betray their presence to their enemies.

"God bless you, Peter, for a faithful friend!" said Mrs. Gibbs, with tears of emotion. "Oh, my poor, sweet child!" she added, wringing her hands; "what can we do for it? how can we rescue it?"

"I's jus' agwine to swim de riber, Miss Hannah," replied Peter. "You see de Injuns, now dey got de riber atween dem and us, won't go no furder dis night, I s'pect, but'll lay down dar, ober de riber dar, and sleep like um possums; and den, you see, I's jus' creep up to 'em, get hole young marse, git dat dar infon' in dese yere strong arms, and run like de debil! Dat's de way ole Pete'll fotch off de chile, Miss Hannah!"

"But I must go with you, Peter," returned the other, anxiously, "I must be near my child. I could not stay here and let you go alone! I should go wild with fear, Peter!"

"Den dar's only one way, Miss Hannah—I's jus' got to make a raft, to tote us ober de riber on."

This raft, under the circumstances, was not the work of minutes, but of hours. It could not be made where they were, without the risk of their being heard by the Indians; so they went down the stream some quarter of a mile, and began the laborious task of collecting in the dark such sticks of timber as they could easily move and place in the water; and these the negro bound together with withes—the only tool he had to assist him being a large clasp knife—and which, we may add, was his only weapon also.

At last, when Peter's rude water-craft was completed, so that he thought he might venture to risk the life of his mistress on it, day was just breaking in the east, and she was very much depressed with fear that the Indians had either gone on, or might see them while crossing—or, if neither of these, that it would be too light, by the time they could approach their camp, to hope for any chance of getting the child from their possession.

"Don't know, Miss Hannah," replied the negro, shaking his head dubiously; "'spect all dem tings mought happen, and I's powerful sorry you didn't let me swum ober, and try my chance in the dark. It can't be helped now, I 'spect; and if you is ready, we'll cross ober and try our luck."

Partly by poling, and partly by paddling, Peter succeeded in getting the raft across the stream in a very short time; and then, after securing it among the bushes, he and his mistress set off, to approach with great caution the spot where the Indians had landed.

By the time they got in sight of this place, it was light enough to see objects with some distinctness; and as they slowly and stealthily crept forward, they saw what made their hearts palpitate with strange emotions. There lay the Indians, three in number, stretched out at full length on the ground with the little boy between them, and all, apparently sound asleep.

"Now's de only chance, I's 'spect, to do so'thing," whispered the negro to his mistress."

"Now, Miss Hannah, if eber you wants your chile back agin, you does as I's tell you—dat is, jus' you stay here, in dese yere bushes, and don't make de leasted bit of noise, no matter what you sees and hears. I'll jus' creep forward and do my best; and if the Lord's on our side, we'll come out all right, I 'spect; and if He isn't, den whar's the use?"

"Oh, Peter, be very, very cautious what you do!" returned the anxious and trembling mother.

"Oh, yes, Miss Hannah, dat's what I'm agwine to do—dat is!"

He was true to his promise. As noiselessly as the panther, he slowly crept up to his sleeping foes without awaking them. Their three muskets lay close together, but within reach of only one of them. If he could only secure these before they should wake!

Slowly, silently, breathlessly he crept up, up—nearer, nearer—till at last his hand rested on one. He drew it away without disturbing the sleepers. His heart beat fast with hope. He drew away another, and felt he was almost safe. He drew away the third, and felt as if the enemy was in his power now!

Retreating a few steps, with the muskets in his possession, he began to debate with himself whether he should attempt to kill the savages as they lay, or endeavor to steal the child away from them. While still uncertain, he opened the pan of one of the pieces to see if it was loaded. He found it primed. In shutting it, the hammer slipped and came down with a loud click. In an instant one of the savages started up into a sitting posture, and stared around him. His eyes fell upon the negro, and he bounded to his feet with a yell. Peter was no longer undecided. Cocking the piece, as he brought it toward his shoulder, he fired, and shot the savage through the breast. By this time both the others were upon their feet, terrified and prepared for flight. Throwing down the discharged musket, Peter caught up another, fired again, and brought down the second Indian. The third one, with yells of dismay, took to flight and escaped.

All this was the work of a few seconds.

Peter now ran forward, snatched up the child, and carried it to its mother, who almost fainted for joy.

Both Mrs. Gibbs and Peter now hurried back to the raft, and recrossed the stream, and then continued their toilsome journey homeward.

On their way back, they were met by a small party of whites, who had set off in pursuit of the Indians; and the moment Mrs. Gibbs found herself once more among save the protectors of her own race, she kneeled down and offered up a heart-felt prayer of thanksgiving for the deliverance of her child.

From that day forth Peter was a hero among the whites, and a perfect oracle among the people of his own color, in all that pertained to Indian fights, wiles and stratagems.

Repentant.

Dean Storr had occasion one day to unite a rustic in the bands of matrimony. The ceremony over, the husband began to "sink in resolution," and falling into a fit of repentance, he said—

"Your reverence has tied the knot tightly, I fancy, but, under favor, may I ask if so it be you can untie it again?"

"Why, no," replied the dean, "we never do that on this part of the consecrated ground."

"Where then?" cried the man, eagerly.

"On that;" pointing to the burial ground.

How to take Disease.

Hall's Journal of Health says that contagious diseases of the ordinary kind are such as are communicated by contact, by coming near enough to a sick person to breathe into the lungs, and swallow with the saliva into the stomach, certain solid particles which have become detached from the invalid, and which speedily find their way into the blood and poison it. Among these are the following half dozen: Typhus fever, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, measles diphtheria, small pox. Persons who breathe through the nose only, and avoid swallowing, in the sick chamber, may come out of it unharmed; for the solid particles are arrested in their long circuitous passage through the dampened channel which leads from the nostrils to the windpipe. An additional safeguard is to sit so that the draught of air may be from you toward the patient; hence, not between him and the fireplace, towards which there is always a current passing, whether there is any fire there or not.

Let the Poor Fellow Go.

The amusing scene described below occurred in Roxbury, Mass., a short time ago:

A lad whom we will call Peter, for the sake of a name, playing truant from that school, and wishing an excuse the next day, altered over an old note which had been used for the same purpose on a former occasion, by expunging the old date, and substituing the present. The master immediately detected the trick, and, in the presence of the school, impressed upon him the dangerous character of such frauds.

He then told Peter he would leave him in the aisle for half an hour to reflect upon it, and be his own judge as to the punishment due the offence. The half hour elapsed, the whole school was called to the "third position," (the attitude of attention) and the teacher said:

"Now, sir, you yourself are the judge in this case; what is your decision?"

Peter hesitated a little, then, hanging his head, he pronounced in a whining voice the following impartial verdict:

"Why, as it's the first time, I think you better let the poor fellow go."

Intoxication no Excuse.

It appears now to be an established principle in our courts, and it ought to be better understood, that the brutalizing of one's self by intoxicating liquor is no valid plea for the commission of crime. If it were allowed as an excuse, and a ground of exemption, then all that ruffians would have to do before committing murder, or highway robbery, or any other crime, would be to stupefy their sensibilities with drink and the law would not hold them responsible for the offence.

The plea was never urged with more persistency than in the case of Foster, but the courts all set it aside. On the very day that Foster was executed, two ruffians were arraigned before Judge Brady for an assault committed on a citizen on the Sunday night previous. Their counsel admitted the offence, but pleaded among other things that they were under the influence of liquor, and did not know what they were about. Judge Brady said "he certainly should not pay the slightest attention to any plea of intoxication," and sentenced them each to fifteen years at hard labor in the State Prison. He said, moreover, that if he had the seller of the liquor before him, he should deal with him in the most severe manner the law allowed.—New York Observer.

A Competent Ploughman.

An Irishman, who let himself to a farmer, said, while selling his services, that he could hold a plough, and do all other kinds of farm-work. He was taken to the field, and told to hold the plough.—The horses started, and he showed his incapacity to control the instrument. "Did you not tell me you could hold the plough?" said the enraged farmer.

"And sure I did," said Paddy; "and I can hould it, if you'll unhitch them two horses that are trying to take it away from me."

PIGEON SHOOTING. On Thursday afternoon last a number of our sportsmen enjoyed Fast Day by engaging in that most exciting of all sports to gunnists, a pigeon shoot. The grounds selected were on the plain near the junction of Palmer and Sea streets; the distance shot twenty-one yards, each man shooting at eleven birds, except Messrs. Monk and Thos. Curtis, who shot at twelve. A large number of specators were present, and everything connected with the affair passed of pleasantly. The following is the score,—the first column showing the number killed from the stand with the first gun; the second, the number killed with the 2d barrel; the third the number killed in passing around the field—the fourth the total number killed.

WESTWARD. Mr. Nathaniel H. Eaton and family, left this town the present week, for North Lawrence, Kansas, where they intend making their future residence. Mr. Eaton has long been a resident of this town, and has carried on the Mount Wollaston farm with marked success for a great number of years.—As a practical farmer, he carries with him to his western home, the ripe experience of years. He and his family take with them the best wishes of their friends in this place, for their future success and prosperity.

It will be seen by an advertisement in to-day's paper, that any one desiring to write Mr. Eaton can address him at North Lawrence, Kansas, P. O. Box. 76.

ACCIDENT. Mrs. Flowers, a lady somewhat advanced in years, residing with her daughter, Mrs. George Shepherd who lives over Messrs. George L. Baxter & Co's. store, on Franklin street in this town, had the misfortune to fall down stairs, on Friday of last week, breaking one of her legs, between the knee and ankle.

SEVERELY SCALDED. A little child about three years of age, son of Mr. James Burr, residing in the north part of this town, was severely scalded about the neck and arms, on Monday last, by the upsetting of a tea kettle of boiling water. He was sitting in a chair near the stove, and probably caught hold of the handle of the kettle, and loosing his balance, fell to the floor, pulling the kettle over with him. Although very severely burned, the little sufferer is as comfortable as could be expected, considering the great pain that he undergoes.

DISTRICT COURT. An unfortunate man was one John Dolan, of Braintree, who for imbiding too much stimulant was brought before the Court on Friday, and his Honor fined him $3 and costs.—It was the only criminal case brought into Court the past week.

LARGE EGGS. Last week we gave an account of a big egg laid in Milton, and now we have the pleasure of announcing one in Quincy which beats it considerably. A hen of Mr. Jonathan Baxter, who resides on Washington street, Quincy Point, laid an egg which measures 9 by 7 1-2 inches and weighs six ounces. Who says eggs should not be sold by weight? Who has a biddy that can produced a larger quantity of meat inside of one shell?

INK YOUR TREES. Look out for the canker worms. Those who have been wise enough to use tarred paper and ink, are rejoicing over the great numbers that have been entrapped. All you who have neglected this duty, should attend to it at once, and thus save the trees from the ravages of these vile pests.

THE BOSTON STORE. At this store you can find an excellent assortment of new goods, suitable for spring and summer wear. Read their advertisement.

AN APPALLING CALAMITY. The steamship Atlantic of the White Star line from Liverpool for New York, with nearly one thousand persons aboard, struck on Meagher's Rock, twenty-two miles from Halifax, Tuesday morning last, and sunk soon afterwards, carrying down nearly one-half of her passengers, including many women in their berths. Only one little boy was saved of all the the ladies and children on board; and there were a great many. The passengers were mostly Europeans, seeking new homes in this country and composed of English, Irish, Scotch, Welch, German, Dutch, Norwegian, Swedes and Swiss.

The Atlantic left Liverpool March 20, and from Queenstown March 21. She was consequently eleven days from port at the time of the calamity. The Steamer was short of coal and in trying to get into the port of Halifax for a supply, the boat ran by the mouth of the harbor in the fog, past Sambro Light, something like twenty miles, and around the west side of the peninsula on to Meagher's Rocks, near Prospect. The Atlantic with her cargo was valued at $850,000 and was only partly insured.

Trees and Sidewalks at Wollaston.

Why the old patriarchs who once owned these charming Heights, skinned them so completely of arborial adornment is a puzzle to some of us here—perhaps reverence for the worship of the true God led to this act for fear lest some future Jeroboam might institute here the worship of groves and thus make this Israel to sin. Anyhow the good people here are determined to revive the temptation before scruge and skinflints move in among them,—and accordingly a shade tree and sidewalk association are about forming—each member agreeing to make a good plank or gravelled sidewalk, and set shade trees on the land abutting on the street. This is a move in the right direction and will receive the co-operation of every large hearted resident or land owner here. It is a law in some of the States of Germany, that for every shade tree cut down, another shall be planted; and in New York State twenty-five cents is abated from a land holder's road tax, for every shade tree properly set along the public highway. This is both human and christian,—compared with present value it gives to property, and the future comfort enjoyed, the expenses of a good sidewalk and shade trees along each man's land, is a mere trifle.

The Baptist Sabbath School here, completed its first quarter in the new Chapel last Sabbath. From about ninety (not fifty) it has increased the past quarter to one hundred and thirty,—Congregationalist and Methodists being largely represented. A new religious society will doubtless be organized the coming summer and a second place of worship be commenced.

With an improved hotel — a new school building and improved streets promised, we hope to grow good looking as well as larger the coming season.

QUINCY MUTUAL. The twenty-second annual meeting of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, which was held at the office of the Company, on Wednesday last, was the largest in number of any ever before,—366 members being present and represented at the meeting. Much interest being manifested in the welfare of a corporation, so extensive in its business, reputation and ability; and which has been so signally sustained by its members during the last few months. After passing triumphantly through the Boston fire, and paying nearly half a million dollars of losses in full, coming out at its annual meeting, reporting a Cash Fund restored of over $200,000, over all claims of every kind.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Losses paid the past year,	$525,220.00
Dividends paid the past year,	$39,397.93
Cash received for premiums,	$136,711.05
Cash received for assessments,	$160,000
Cash received for interest,	$30,599.91
Cash Fund April 1st, and all losses paid.	$210,249.76
Deposit Notes in force,	$545,929.79

The prospects of future success of the Company were never more promising than at the present time, and its reputation for prompt payment of losses having been fully tested is of the first class.—The following persons were chosen Directors for the ensuing year.

Israel W. Munroe, Whitcomb Porter, William B. Duggan, Thomas Curtis, Chas. A. Howland, H. Farnam Smith and John Hardwick of Quincy; Alfred Loring of Hingham; George Marston of New Bedford; H. W. Blanchard and Ebenezer Gay of Boston; Sumner A. Hayward of N. Bridgewater; Royal W. Turner of Randolph; Solomon J. Beal of Cohasset; Charles Breck of Milton; J. Alba Davis of West Roxbury; J. F. C. Hyde of Newton; John Gates of Worcester.

CHRIST CHURCH. Service with Holy Communion to-morrow at the Universalist Church at 11 A. M. Sunday School at the Rectory at 3 P. M. Next week being Passion Week, the Rector's Bible Class will meet on Tuesday at 4 P. M.—Lenten Service on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, at the same hour, and on Good Friday at 11 A. M. All at the Rectory.

GRANITE PAVING BLOCKS. The following are the bids from this town to furnish the city of Boston with pavers. Dell & Biganess, 250,000 blocks at $65 per thousand. Peter J. Donaher, 150,000 to be delivered in Dorchester and Roxbury, at $60; Cole & Murray, 120,000 at $65; Frederick & Field, 300,000 at $62; to be delivered in Roxbury and Dorchester at $64. The Granite Railway Co., 60,000 at $60. The lowest bid was that of John N. Stimson, Alfred, Me., who offered three million blocks at $58 a thousand, and to him the contract was awarded.

Since writing the above we learn that the contract will not probably be awarded Mr. Stimson. The bids of Mr. Donaher and the Granite Railway Company will now be accepted, and the balance of the material, which will be a very large supply will be procured of the Cape Ann Company.

MILK CANS. The State Senate on Tuesday engrossed the bill providing for a uniform size for cans in which milk is sold, which came upon special assignment.

CHANGE OF HOUR. The time of the regular afternoon worship, at the Universalist Church, has been changed, and services will begin each Sabbath at 2 1-2 o'clock, until further notice.

☞ Vice-President Wilson has refused to accept any of the back pay voted by the last Congress, and has requested the Secretary of the Treasury to devote his share toward the payment of the public debt.

For the Patriot.

West Quincy.

There was a meeting in Mr. Doble's Hall, on Tuesday evening, March 25th, of those interested in the success of the society worshipping in that place. The meeting was called to order by the chairman of the Finance Committee, and proceeded to the choice of officers for the ensuing year:

Clerk, Mr. Columbus Lary.

Finance Committee, Jonas Shackley, Alonzo G. Davis, Enoch H. Doble, Mrs. Kidder, Mrs. Elizabeth Badger and Mrs. Dewing.

Collector and Treasurer, Mr. M. P. Fuller.

About five hundred dollars have already been subscribed towards defraying the expenses for the next year.

The Sunday School is in a flourishing condition. The average attendance for March being one hundred and fifteen, and for the quarter, one hundred and three.

The School will give an exhibition on Tuesday evening, April 8th, in their regular place of meeting. The exhibition will consist of recitations, singing, tableaux, &c.

The addition to the Willard School House is completed and occupied, leaving only the basement room vacant, and that has been declared unfit for a school room. The school which has been kept near the Railroad has been broken up and merged with the other schools according to grade. The time is not far distant when there must be another house built in that part of the town lying west of Mr. Bunton's quarry.

The roads in this part of the town are in bad order and need a considerable amount of repairing, and we hope the Surveyors of Highways will devote more of the money to the roads in this part of the town than was applied here last year; which, according to the Auditors' Report, was five hundred and seventeen dollars, out of a total for the whole town of $18,485.91, which I think is rather "leaving us out in the cold."

J. S.

H. Farnam Smith, Esq.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

I regret to notice in the last three issues of your paper communications intended to reflect unfavorably towards H. Farnam Smith, Esq. His crime with X. Y. Z., seems to be that he advocated in a few able remarks $10.00 instead of $5.00 as the stipend for the yearly services of each member of the Quincy Fire Department, and the unanimity with which that amount was voted ought to silence the dissatisfied. There were only a few out of the hundreds present, but were of Mr. Smith's opinion.—Z. Y. X. next appeared on the stage and with an audacity worthy of a better cause adds to Mr. Smith's previous irregularity, his advocacy of Wollaston Heights interests. These roads were needed in the opinion of a large majority of our voters and were therefore so accorded.

"Newport avenue," and "B * * *" also lend their aid in the ignoble work of attempting to degrade and belittle a fellow townsman; but as their articles have in view the same object as did the gentlemen signing themselves under the tail end of the alphabet, we will consider their effusions together, (being too sickly to stand alone.) Please read over each article and you will notice one prominent idea is incorporated in each, they seem to desire to impress this idea on the minds of your readers, viz:—Mr. Smith desires to represent Quincy in the next Legislature, and advocates the above measures simply to gain the support those parties whose interests he represented. Then these communications appear to be simply this; a political dodge of either some other candidate, or the friends of some other candidate endeavoring in this manner to crush a rival. A very unwise action; for no man or men ever finally prosper who endeavor to build themselves up by procuring the downfall of others. It seems to me it is rather early, seven months before next election, to commence pulling political wires.

I deprecated all former articles relative to Mr. Faxon's gifts, and did sincerely consider them given as representing his friendly interest in the various association which were recipients of his bounty. I now also deprecate all these inuendoes against Mr. Smith, and think, if any man has a soul so selfish, is so narrow minded he can not conceive of a disinterested act by a fellow townsman, he had far better give it vent at the next town meeting, when the accused and the accuser can meet face to face, than over an unknown signature falsely attack the motives of an honorable and upright man.

JUSTICE.

ACCIDENT. Mr. Lund, a carpenter, residing at Wollaston, meet with a severe accident, on Monday evening while attempting to leave the cars at the Wollaston station. He slipped and fell, one leg falling under a car wheel, by which it was crushed in a horrible manner. He was immediately brought to this village and Dr. Morison was called, who did what laid in his power, and upon the arrival of the next train for Boston he was removed to that city. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where the injured limb was amputated.

A VALUABLE ANIMAL. One of the professional gentleman of Weymouth has a handsome Newfoundland dog that is very highly prized. The canine has been learned, when seeing any one passing with an umbrella under his arm, to go out and seize hold of it, and bring it in to his master. We doubt not but the town of Weymouth will reward this dog handsomely for getting rid of one dangerous article to pedestrians,—an umbrella carried under the arm, endangering the eyes of passers by.

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK.

FIFTY-SIXTH SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT.

At a semi-annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Quincy Savings Bank, held at the Banking Room, on Tuesday, April 1st, 1873, the Treasurer submitted the following report, which was accepted, and the dividend therein proposed was declared.

HEAVY RAID ON LIQUOR DEALERS. Chief Constable Boynton having determined to enforce the statute relating to the maintaining of liquor nuisances in Boston detailed a large force of his deputies on Tuesday, who visited over one hundred liquor dealers in various parts of the city and notified them that they would be expected to appear in the Municipal Court on Wednesday, to answer to charges prefered against them. Accordingly about sixty-five presented themselves.

When everything was in readiness the offenders in single file marched up to the bar of justice and each pleaded guilty to a "first offence" of maintaining a liquor nuisance. Judge Chamberlain thereupon imposed a fine of $50 and costs upon each violator of the law, which was promptly paid, amounting in the aggregate to $3375. Financially considered this is one of the best days's work ever done in this Court.

INSURANCE COMPANIES. The report of the Insurance Commission of this State, dated Jan. 1, 1873, gives the relative strength of the companies named below, as follows: "Cohasset, of Cohasset, has assets equal to $1.00 for every $69.00 insured; Weymouth and Braintree, of Weymouth, the same; Hingham, of Hingham, 1.00 for every 70.00, Citizens, of Brighton, 1.00 for every 74.90; Quincy, of Quincy, 1.00 for every 77.00; Norfolk, of Dedham, the same; Abington, of Abington, the same; Dorchester, of Dorchester, 1.00 for 102. Deposit notes were not included in these assets."

☞ The funded debt of New York city at the present time is $207,700; during the year 1872 the debt was reduced $39,700.

☞ The memorial exercises in honor of Mr. Seward are to take place in Albany on the 18th of April. The oration by the Hon. Charles Francis Adams is to be delivered in the North Reformed Church—the same in which Governor Seward pronounced his celebrated eulogy of John Quincy Adams twenty-five years ago.

Braintree.

The youngest child of Mr. Thomas Sullivan, died on Thursday of last week. This makes five who have died out of a family of seven chileren. The first died Saturday, March, 22d aged 11 years.—The next on Sunday, aged 6 years. The third on Monday aged 2 1-2 years. The fourth Wednesday the 26th, aged 9 years. The fifth on Tuesday the 27th aged 6 months. The disease called spinal meningitis. Is said to resemble the scarlet fever, only more fatal. The two remaining children are now out of danger, and no new cases of the disease are known.

AN EXPRESSMAN KILLED. On Friday afternon of last week. Mr. George Abbott, the Boston and Randolph expressman was instantly killed, at South Braintree, by being thrown from the door of the car, in which he was standing, under the trucks of the rear car which passed over him, crushing him in a frightful manner. He was about forty-five years of age, and leaves a wife and children to mourn his sudden death. At an inqust that was held at Braintree the company was exenorated from all blame.

STILL ANOTHER. On Thursday evening, April 3d, as the 6 o'clock train from Boston approached the South depot, Mr. Dennis Scury, of Bridgewater, who was imprudently standing upon the lower step of one of the cars, was thrown from his position by striking his head against the car house near the depot. The car passed over both legs crushing them fearfully. He was taken to the Hospital at Boston, and will not in all probability survive his injuries.

D.

UNFORTUNATE. A poor widow, belonging in Dedham, came into Boston, last Tuesday bringing all the money she possessed in the world, about $50, with her, and while on her way up Washington street found her satchel open and the money gone.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, APRIL 5, 1873.

Single Copies 5 cents
FOR SALE AT
The Old Colony & Newport Depot, Boston,
E. H. Doble & Co.'s Store, West Quincy,
Souther's Periodical Store, Quincy, and at
THE PATRIOT OFFICE.

☞ Roxbury Gazette says:—"The Old Colony Memorial and Quincy Patriot charge Burt, the Postmaster of Boston, with keeping their publications several days in the Office, before they are forwarded to subscribers. It is also probable that many other newspapers published in the county are likewise delayed in Burt's office. Complaints from all quarters are common, and Burt pays no attention whatever to them. The truth is Burt is not only the most incompetent Postmaster Boston has ever had, but he is absent most of the time from the office, engaged in projects and business entirely foreign to his duties as Postmaster. There is no head to the office, and the business of the public is slighted or entirely neglected; and these facts have been made public time and again, and are as well known by the Postmaster General and authorities at Washington as they are here, and yet Burt snaps his fingers and retains his position. The principal reason for the demoralized condition of the Post Office is, that the help employed is the cheapest that can be found, and that there is a mixture of white and black and of both sexes. It is an outrage upon the public that such a state of things should be countenanced in a public servant, and be be allowed to retain his position, in opposition to the remonstrances of business men generally.

☞ Pruning late in autumn, in winter or early spring, has the advantage of giving the operator a good chance to see what he is doing, on account of the absence of leaves.

ENTERPRISE. The Old Colony Railroad Company have just added to their rolling stock a new engine named the "Miles Standish," weighing 33 tons, with cylinders 16 by 24 inches, and built at Blood's Locomotive Works, Manchester, at a cost of $13,000. The road is to receive another soon of the same make and cost, from the same works, called the "John Quincy Adams."

☞ The town of Hollis, N. H., has a curious record. With 1100 inhabitants, it has 14 school districts, and but one church—the Congregational. The lower story of the church building is used for town purposes, schools, a circulating library,—from which books are drawn, usually, on Sunday—sociables and dances, the church and state seeming to get pretty near each other. Of the seven pastors of the church, one served 60 years and another 37. It has now a membership of 240, and a Sunday school of 250.—During the first 100 years of the town's history she gave 45 of her sons to the ministry, and is now erecting a fine granite monument to the memory of her 16 sons who died in the war of the rebellion.

THE GREAT TROTTER. Occident the great trotter of the Pacific coast was given away when a year old; when three years old he was traded for a wagon, his owner giving $100 boot, calling the horse $150. When six years old he was sold for $95. Six months later he was "traded" even for an ordinary work horse and $15. The man who got him sold him for $300 in gold, as he began to show speed. The man who bought him was offered $2,000 for him. This he refused, but finally made a bargain of $4,000 and a horse worth $500. The day of the sale the horse made his mile in 2.24, and the seller offered $1,000 to be released from his bargain, but was refused. The horse is now considered worth more than $40,000.

A NEW BRIDGE. The proposed bridge over the Hudson river near Peekskill will be one of the largest in the world. Its length between the towers will be 1,665 feet. It will be suspended 155 feet above the river by 20 cables made of 70,302 miles of steel wire, and will weigh altogether over 17,000 tons. Its working strength will be equal to 2,400 tons, and its breaking strength 25,171 tons. Three million tons of coal, besides a million tons of other freight, are expected to pass over this bridge annully.

☞ At least two of the men who have recently been hung have declared as they stood upon the scaffold, that "rum did it," and have made strong exhortations to those before them to "let whiskey alone." Such temperance lectures as these ought to be effective, for there can be no question but that the habitual use of alcoholic drinks has brought more men to stand upon the scaffold than any other single reason.—Springfield Union.

☞ The mortuary chapel which is about to be built by the Empress Eugenie for the reception of the remains of her husband will be in the mediaeval style, fourteenth century period, and will be twenty-four feet long by twelve feet wide. The tomb, which is the gift of the Queen, will be of polished Peterhead granite, and will be simply inscribed, "Napoleon III., H. I. P."

☞ We all consider Iron, the embodiment of strength and power, but how few are aware that it is this same element in the system that gives us strength and vigor and that an insufficiency of it causes weakness and debility. The Peruvian Syrup, a protoxide of iron, is prepared expressly to supply this vitalizing element.

CEREBRO-SPINAL MENINGITIS. The Boston daily papers say, that the mortality report of last week, gives three times the number of persons who died in that city from cerebro-spinal meningitis than from small-pox, and the number of cases seems to be rapidly increasing. The causes and cure of this malady are said to be alike mysteries. The patient becomes paralyzed in a measure, and his head is thrown back by curvature of the spine, creating intense pain. Before death, however, the body assumes a natural position, and disolution is comparatively painless. There is no wasting away of the system; on the contrary, some are said to have actually gained in weight during their illness, and all appear to eat and drink naturally. Outside of Boston the disease is termed "spotted fever," but eminent physicians claim that this is a misnomer.

BOSTON AND CRIME. The Chief of Police of Boston, in his annual report, has enunciated a new principle as governing the action of the police force of that city. It is, "To dimish crime, it must be prevented." In other words, the mere punishment of crime does not prevent it, any more than a steam fire engine diminishes the number of fires that are started. The detective system in Boston has been abolished. If crime is prevented, there are no criminals to be hunted and detected. If there is an influx of thieves and bruisers into Boston they are watched from the start. They are not let alone until they have broken into some one's house, and committed robbery or murder, and then hunted; they are marked, and prevented from perpetrating their depredations.

THE MILITIA. The Adjutant General has submitted his annual report to the Legislature, and in it he makes several suggestions, which if carried out, will tend to improve and render more efficient the militia of the State. He is gradually disposing of unserviceable military property, and during the past year has realized over four thousand dollars from such sales. About three thousand Peabody rifles have been purchased and issued to the troops, and an appropriation for the supply of the remainder of the troops with the same arms is strongly recommended. The Adjutant-General hopes to be able to have the full supply before the annual encampment.

Marriages.

In Quincy, April 1st, by Rev. J. L. Locke, Edal Worcester, Esq., to Miss Sarah J. Lougee, both of this town.

Mr. Worcester has been a subscriber to the Patriot for many years. It is with much pleasure that we congratulate the happy couple who have just been Locked. May their pathway be strewn with blessings and their days glide calmly and serenely to the end.

Deaths.

In this town, March 28th, at National Sailors' Home, Mr. John Brittan, aged 69 years and 3 months.

March 28th, Albert Forrest, son of Mr. Andrew J. and Mrs. L. Maria Simpson, aged 1 year, 6 months and 10 days.

March 31st, Laura B. daughter of Mr. George H. and Mrs. Lizzie Thomas, aged 4 years and 24 days.

April 1st, Mrs. Jane W. widow of the late Thomas Savil, aged 80 years and 3 months.

In Milton, March 31st, Annie Bass, daughter of Mrs. Helen M. and the late Adoniram J. Thomas, aged 12 years, 7 months and 26 days.

In South Boston, April 3d, Carrie E. daughter of Mr. S. Addison and Mrs. Catherine E. Bates, aged 1 year and 3 months.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of eveny organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels some times costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

☞ The Governor's proclamation for fast, sent a thrill of joy through the hearts of the school children, as it told of two days' release from hard studies. Monday morning will see the happy forms once more in their old places, with eager earnest faces, trying to solve their problems.

☞ Judge Brady has denied a motion to amend the judgement record in Stokes's case, and said the proper method is by certiorari, which will bring the case before the general term.

THE PUBLIC DEBT IN MARCH. The debt decreased during last month $1,644,058. The outstanding legal tender notes are still two and a half millions beyond the limit. The currency balance is $2,650,000, and the coin balance $69,500,000.

CURRENCY BALANCE. The balance of currency on hand for national bank circulation is only $32,000. The Comptroller of the Currency will apply this amount to increasing the national bank circulation in the Western States, as it is insufficient to organize any new bank.

L. S. TO WILSON TISDALE, of Stoughton in the County of Norfolk, and to any and all other persons claiming any interest in

About four gallons of Rum, in three jugs and one keg.

Which, by virtue of a warrant issued by me have been seized at the storage room of said Wilson Tisdale, in said Stoughton on the twenty-ninth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, the value of which liquor, with the vessels containing it, does not in my opinion exceed twenty dollars.

You are hereby required to appear before me at my office in said Canton, at two o'clock P. M., on the twenty-sxth day of April in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three to answer to the complaint against said li-quor and the vessels containing it, and for trial, and to show cause, if any you have, why said liquor and the vessels containing it should not be forfeited for being kept for sale by said Wilson Tisdale in violation of the laws of this Commonwealth.

Witness, my (hand and seal) at Canton this twenty-ninth day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

Mrs. Dr. Secor's
PRESCRIPTIONS.
QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually
Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup
Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of
Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the
CINCHONA BITTERS
Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the
Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwite, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

PREPARED BY DR. H. S. FLINT & CO., At their Great Medical Depot, 195 & 197 Broad Street, Providence, R. I.

Poetry.

Redeeming the Time.

He liveth long who liveth well;
All else is life but flung away;
He liveth longest who can tell
Of true thing truly done each day.

Then fill each hour with what will last;
Buy up the moments as they go;
The life above, when this is past,
Is the ripe fruit of life below.

Sow love, and taste its fruitage bright;
Sow peace, and reap its harvest bright;
Sow sunbeams on the rock and moor,
And find a harvest home of light.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Preparing for Gardening.

The winter has been so severe and protracted that, judging from past experience, the spring will probably open suddenly, and we may yet have an early season. The ground has been so well sheltered by a covering of snow that the frost has not had an opportunity to penetrate as in former years. It will be several weeks, however, before the ground in this latitude will be in a condition for working, but there are many matters connected with the garden which should be attended to at once.

THE HOT-BED.

One of the first requisites to having early vegetables is a hot-bed. This may be prepared without great expense, and its benefits will more than repay the outlay. The size required will depend on the size of the garden on which plants are to be reset, but even a large bed may be made profitable for growing some vegetables that do not require transplanting. A bed four feet by eight will enable one to start a variety of plants, and have them in readiness for transplanting as soon as the open ground is sufficiently warm, and the season far enough advanced to secure them against injury from the frost or cold.

A situation should be selected on the south side of a wall or close fence, where the bed will be protected against the northerly blast that for weeks to come will hold a check upon vegetation, and where it will have a sunny exposure, free from all shade. Make an excavation to the depth of eighteen to twenty inches, and considerably larger than the size of the bed required. This should be nearly filled with coarse, unrotted manure, fresh stable manure mixed with leaves or well saturated horse bedding that will prolong the process of fermentation and thus prolong the continuance of the heat. This should be well forked over and suffered to lie in a compact heap long enough before being thrown into the trench to allow the fermentation to commence. When put into the bed it should be well trodden down and the trench filled to within a few inches of the top. Over this place several inches of partially rotted, fine manure, bringing the bed above the surface of the ground. Place on the frame, cover with the sash and leave it a day or two for the heating to commence. Remove the frame with the sash and cover to the depth of six inches with good, rich soil, well pulverized. On it may be sprinkled a very light covering of sand, or sandy soil, which will prevent the baking of the surface. Replace the frame and recover with the sash, banking up the sides with coarse manure to protect the bed from the cold.

Seeds may be sown quite thick in drills, when they are intended for transplanting—lettuce, cabbage, tomato, egg plants, &c. Radishes may be sown for immediate use. Cucumbers, melons, squashes, and even corn may be sown on small pieces of inverted loose sod, three or four inches square, placed on the surface of the bed, the interstices being filled with fine soil, and the whole covered loosely with rich soil. When these plants have started, the pieces of sod may be removed to the garden and set in hills, without at all disturbing the roots, as in the case of cabbage, lettuce, &c., the roots of which are not so delicate.

☞ Lawns may be rolled as soon as the frost is out of the ground, and if they did not have a top-dressing last autumn, give one now of good compost.

Anecdotes.

An artist invited a gentleman to criticise a portrait he had painted of a person who was given to drink. Putting his hand toward it, the artist exclaimed:

"Don't touch it; it is not dry."

"Then," said he, "it cannot be like my friend."

Gen. Rawlins recently dined with a man who partook of wine rather freely and became talkative. Finally the latter said, speaking of somebody:—"Oh, that my enemy would write a book."

"Your enemy," said Rawlins, pointing to the bottle, "don't write books."

"What do you call that?" indignantly asked a customer at a cheap restaurant, pointing at an object that he had discovered in his plate of hash.

"Wristband with sleeve-button attached, sir," said the waiter, briskly.

"Well, do you consider that a proper thing for a man to find in his hash?" asked the customer, in wrath.

"Good heavens, sir!" cried the waiter, "would you expect to find a ten-dollar silk umbrella in a fifteen cent plate of hash!"

The little son of a prominent minister said to his father.

"Pa, St. Paul was a Yankee."

"How do you know that, my son?"

"Why, sir, in the 18th verse of the 8th chapter of Romans he says: "For I reckon," None but Yankees say reckon."

EMPLOYMENT.

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock, life insurance company of this country, and has the largest cash capital of any pure insurance company of like kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the ordinary Mutual rates, during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1,250,000 more than was paid it. By the mutual system the policyholders insure the company. By the stock system the company insures the policy-holders. The National has nearly two dollars of assets to every one of liabilities, and on January 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,157,909 55. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous commissions to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address, branch office, Philadelphia, where the business of the company is transacted.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

THE
Michigan Spring Bed.
WE, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have used the MICHIGAN SPRING BED, for which Thompson & Hitchcock are Proprietors for this County, and after giving said Bed a fair trial, we cheerfully recommend it, as in our opinion, superior to any in market:
Jesse Bunton, Jos. W. Lombard,
W. Q. Baxter, G. W. Miles,
Jos. Underwood, J. E. Hall,
Thaddeus H. Newcomb, J. H. Morrison,
Samuel T. Allen, James Newcomb.
The undersigned having purchased the Right for this County to put up and sell the Michigan Spring Bed, of Messrs. Thompson & Hitchcock, is now prepared to furnish all who may give him a call.
I have already taken off numerous kinds of Springs Beds and put mine in their place, to the entire satisfaction of those making the change.
My Ware-Rooms are at
No. 75 Hancock Street,
where all are invited to come and examine the Michigan Spring Bed, which I claim to be superior to any in the country in point of comfort, durability, price, and every other quality which goes to make up a good bed.
Beds put up on Trial—and no one is asked to purchase until after a fair test. Over one thousand of these Beds are sold every week in this State. C. T. MANSFIELD.

Poetry.

Mother Will Greet Me.

BY DEXTER SMITH.

Mother will greet me, when this life is o'er,
Where she is waiting on heaven's bright shore,
Waiting to take me from earth's realm of pain,—
Waiting to welcome her loved one again;
When I have entered at that golden door
She will caress me, again as of yore:
Past the blue dome where the silver stars peep
Mother will greet me, and rock me to sleep!

She will be waiting to welcome me there,
From this drear valley of sorrow and care,
Waiting to cheer me with love's fervent kiss,
When I shall enter the regions of bliss;
She will again be my guardian and guide,
When I have passed o'er the perilous tide,
Yes, though death's river is rapid and deep,
When it is crossed she will rock me to sleep!

She was so kind in the days that are past!
Days far too happy and joyous to last,—
E'en now her mem'ry is like some sweet dream:
Like some dear song, of which love is the theme;
She will again kiss the tears from my cheek—
Smlie with a language that words cannot speak,
Never again shall I sorrow or weep:
Mother will greet me and rock me to sleep.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

BOILED CUSTARD FOR SICKNESS.—Beat an egg with a heaped teaspoonful of sugar; stir it into a teacupful of boiled milk, and stir till it is thick; pour it in a bowl on a slice of toast cut up, and grate a little nutmeg over.

GINGER SNAPS. One pint of molasses, one cup of shortening, simmer together, and turn hot into the flour, in which put two teaspoonsful of soda, and a tablespoonful of ginger; put aside to cool, and when cold add more flour and roll out as thin as possible.

GERMAN PUFFS. One quart of sweet milk, three well beaten eggs, two and one half cups of flour, one and one-half cups of Indian meal, and salt. Bake in a quick oven in gem pans.

☞ A Western editor being asked to take tea with a lady friend, accepted.—While at the table the lady observed that he had no spoon. "Is it possible," said she "that I forgot to give you a spoon? I could not have made such a mistake." "I have no spoon, madam," said the editor, rising from his seat, "and if you don't believe it you may search me."

☞ If you want to make a "bustle in the world," take five newspapers and a piece of tape.

☞ A clergyman being much pressed by a lady of his acquaintance to preach a sermon the first Sunday after her marriage, chose the following passage in the Psalms as his text: "And there shall be abundance of peace—while the moon endureth."

☞ A question of privilege—asking to go home with a girl.

☞ The Danbury News says coffee is the "bay window of a good breakfast."—The Boston News says bay window is good, as from it the "grounds are plainly discernible." We think pea—azza is better.

☞ A Wisconsin singing master teaches the high notes by flogging his pupils.

☞ The latest fashionable kind is popcorn parties. It is claimed that they not only keep young men from another kind of corned parties, but are very suggestive of a question they ought to pop.

☞ A newly elected "Squire, in Lake City, Florida, having occasion to perform the marriage ceremony for the first time, got the affair considerably mixed, and wound up by saying: "Suffer little children to come unto them;" at which the bride remarked: "Thank you; John, let's go, that's all we want."

☞ A schoolboy spread his teacher's seat with shoemaker's wax. The consequences were serious.

☞ Three-fourths of the difficulties and miseries of men come from the fact that most want wealth without earning it, fame without deserving it, popularity without temperance, respect without virtue, and happiness without holiness.

☞ "Distress is an excellent schoolmistress," said an ancient philsopher, "but no man likes to put himself under her tuition."

Miscellany.

Paul Hampton's Good Fortune.

"Oh, Paul! don't you wish you were rich, like the family at Hill Lodge, and that Papa could drive to town every day in his carriage as Mr. Rivers does? and there's Julian too, only your age, rides a horse now—he might have given you his little pony, it was very mean to sell it."

"Sister, let us be thankful that our father is able to walk, and not crippled like Mr. Rivers; but do you believe that I, who am taller than Julian, would drive that little pony? A pretty figure I should cut with my long legs almost touching the ground."

"Ah, but sometimes I cannot help wishing we were rich," said Dora Hampton, and she sighed as she glanced down at her faded calico dress.

"Have courage and patience, little sister; I hope soon to get a place and earn some money; then, when I grow to be a man, you are to be my little housekeeper. But here comes Julian, riding at full gallop down the hill; what brings him, I wonder, for we have not been very good friends of late?"

"Hallo, there!" cried Julian. "Hold my horse while I come in for a few minutes." Again he repeated the summons, in a louder tone.

"Who are you calling to, Master Rivers?"

"To you, of course; you don't keep a groom, I guess?

"Certainly we do not, sir, neither am I one; so that when you condescend to ride down into the valley, attend to your horse yourself."

Dora watched Julian as he alighted and tied his horse to the garden gate. He was handsomely dressed in a velvet suit, with riding gloves, and dainty, little, well-fitting boots; but he looked pale and sickly, for his appetite was pampered with rich, unwholesome food, and he was allowed to sit up until all hours of the night. Then she glanced towards her brother. What a contrast! with his dark, handsome eyes, and noble brow, and cheeks browned by exposure to the sun; even those coarse, homemade garments looked well upon his erect figure. "I'll never wish for riches any more," thought Dora.

"Puff, puff!" exclaimed Julian, as he entered; "how smothering it is in this little room, with its low ceiling! Oh, Dora! I did not see you in that dark corner."

"Look you sir," cried Paul, indignantly, "this is my father's dwelling, and as such is sacred in my eyes. Stay without in future, and do not come here to insult us."

"Excuse, me, Paul, for I really didn't intend to offend you," and Julian held out his hand. "I came to ask if you would go to town with me; I want a new riding whip, and no end of things."

"Not in the dusty highway at your horse's heels; but if you walk there by the meadow, through the little wood, I don't object, for I have some errands in town for mother."

"Agreed, then; may I put up my horse somewhere till we return?"

"Yes, in the old barn; there is plenty of straw and he will be quite safe there. I'll assist you now, Julian, and any time when you treat me as your equal, and drop putting on airs."

"All right, Paul. But what shall I bring you from town, Dora?" and Julian rattled a handful of silver dollars in his pocket.

"Nothing, thank you," Dora Hampton was not a whit less proud than her brother.

The two boys followed the narrow footpath through the meadow, though almost hidden from their sight by long waving grass. Paul sometimes stopping to gather a few wild flowers, for the garden at Dale Cottage was not rich in floral ornaments. They did not wait to go round by the old bridge which spanned the little stream half a mile away, but drawing off their shoes and stockings they waded through the water, sitting awhile to rest on the other side, and planning a fishing excursion for a future day. Beyond the stream lay the little wood, and there Paul gathered the wild honeysuckle and the delicate fern to add to his bouquet, hiding it beneath the rushes at the water's edge until their return.

The pleasant shady wood was passed, a winding lane succeeded, from whence the spires and lofty buildings of the town were visible. The two companions, soon reaching the wide suburb of the principal street, traversed in all directions by many others.

They visited one store. Paul made the household purchases for his mother, and various others on Julian's account who soon disposed of all his money. "And now, he said," "I have not a red cent left."

"Precisely my case," cried Paul, "with this difference, that I started out without any of my own. Hallo! What's this?—Stop, stop, Jule."

The boy lifted something from beneath his feet; it was a pocket-book filled with notes, some of a high value.

"How lucky!" exclaimed Julian, "just when our pockets are empty. Let's go balves on the spot, or, rather, hurry on into the lane, and there count our treasure."

"OUR TREASURE!—YOU had passed by, and were not the finder, neither is it mine to divide."

"I never heard such stupidness! Do you really intend to restore that pocket-book, if inquired for? No one saw you pick it up."

"Yes, ONE did, who sees all things; but I shall not count the money now; my father will do that when he comes home, and keep it until we hear of the owner."

"And that owner reward you with his thanks, or, perhaps, a miserable five or ten dollar note."

"I shall rejoice to have earned that much honestly."

The walk home was far less pleasant to the two boys; Julian all the way coveting a share of that newly-found treasure, and Paul grave and silent with the responsibility of his charge. They no longer hunted the brown squirrel, nor paused to watch the fish leaping to the surface as the sunbeams danced upon the water, nor pluck the wild flowers in their path—even the hidden bouquet was forgotten—but they hurried on to the cottage, where Julian, uttering a hasty "good-bye," mounted his horse and rode away.

Mr. Hampton held a situation as clerk in an office in the town; he always went there early, but the following morning Paul accompanied him. They bought a paper, eagerly scanning the advertisements under the head of "Lost," and with a wildly beating heart, Paul read aloud, "$200 Reward!" then followed a description of the pocket-book and its contents. He was breathless with excitement.

"This appears to be the property of Owen Wainwright, one of our leading merchants," said Mr. Hampton, "you shall take it to him, my boy, relating, how and where you found it."

It was not long before Paul returned, his handsome face glowing with pleasure,—"After enquiring my name, father," said he, "and your employment, Mr. Wainwright asked what I should do with the reward—I answered give it all to father for he will know best how to lay it out. So here it is, sir," and Paul counted out ten $20 bills.

"And a real godsend it is, Paul."

"But stay—you have not heard all.—Mr. Wainwright seemed pleased with my answer, and taking $25 more from the pocketbook gave it to me, also, saying: "This, my honest boy, is for yourself." He next asked my age, and oh! father, I do believe my fortune is made, for I am to come again, bringing you with me, to-morrow morning, and he promises to give me then a post of trust in his warehouse; and, father, on my way here, I met old Miss Elmwood, who had the school house near our cottage, and she is going with me to the dry goods store to help me choose two pretty dresses for mother and Dora, and, dear father, try to get off with me this afternoon—we'll go home together and have a real banquet together in honor of this good luck."

Mr. Hampton made a sign of token of assent, for at that moment he could not speak.

"Oh, what a happy evening that was! The little cottage in the valley resounded with the children's songs and cheers as Paul's "banquet," for so they called it, was partaken, I question if the great house upon the hill was half so joyful a place.

It was wonderful what that $200 effected. It put a bright paper on the little parlor walls, and a new carpet over the floor, so strewn with rosebuds and green leaves that one feared to crush them by walking on it. Trees and shrubs were planted in the garden, and flowers round the windows—oh, you would hardly known Dale Cottage now.

Even Julian Rivers is convinced that it was a far wiser as well as more honorable course, to restore that money, for Paul advances each year in his situation.

And dear little Dora is proud of her brother! She will now and then remember a highly important commission, and write him a note sending it by some one going to town, merely for the pleasure of seeing the direction, "Paul Hampton, care of Owen Wainwright, Esq."

"Here's another letter from your sweet heart, Paul," said a fellow-clerk, one day.

"No, it is from my own dear sis," was Paul's reply," "but if I meet with such another true, kind girl for a sweetheart, also, I shall think myself a lucky fellow."

And so Paul keeps steadily upon his course, with every prospect of future advancement, with the brightest hopes of growing up to a noble manhood in spite of his humble beginning. His employer places the greatest confidence in him, and Dora is justly proud of her brother.—They have both learned on more than one occasion the truth of the old maxim—Honesty is the best policy; for does not Paul owe all his bright prospects and ambitions to that one little act of restoring the lost pocket-book to its owner.

An American Doctor in London.

Br. E. P. Miller is writing from Europe, to The Laws of Life and Journal of Health, edited by Harriet N. Austin, M. D, and published at Dansville, N. Y. some very interesting letters. From a lengthy letter from Dr. Miller in the January number we condense the following extracts:

There are some things in this world so vast that it is literally impossible for finite minds to comprehend them. It is true we are not quite so lost in thought in their contemplation as when we attempt to search the boundaries of space or number the fixed stars, yet we are amazed to find how much there is to learn, and after all we have done, how little we know.

London is a world of itself, and it would require more than a life time to know it. There are more than 3,000,000 human beings, crowded into an area of about 122 square miles. There are about 6,000 public houses, wine cellars, and beer saloons, where alcoholic liquors are sold, and these places dispense 43,200,000 gallons of ale, 7,800,000 gallons of wine, and 2,000,000 gallons of other strong drinks every year. As a result they have 129,000 paupers, and it requires 5,000 lawyers, 2,000 ministers, 3,000 doctors, and 500 undertakers to take care of the criminals, sinners and sick people. Nearly every street you traverse, and public or private building you examine, has a history of its own—many of which date back hundreds of years.

THE LONDON UNDERGROUND RAILWAY.

Dr. Ellis kindly invited me to visit the Crystal Palace with him on the day following my arrival, and I gladly embraced the opportunity of accompanying one so familiar with the grounds. The Crystal Palace is about six miles from my hotel, and the most convenient mode of reaching it was by the Underground Railway. I had wanted an opportunity to examine this subterranean enterprise, and was both surprised and delighted with its working. It has become one of the indispensable necessities of London.—They could no more get along without their underground railway than could New York without horse cars. Trains pass on these roads every ten or fifteen minutes, and a train often carries four or five hundred passengers. The stations are frequent and convenient, and cars are so constructed that a stoppage of not more than one or two minutes is required to load and unload an entire train. The cars are well lighted and frequent openings of the roadway to the surface secure tolerably good ventilation. The engines in use condense their own steam and consume their smoke so that these nuisances are almost entirely avoided.

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The train I took stopped at the Crystal Palace grounds; and, as I stepped out from the depot, at a short distance in front and above me stood that magnificent temple of glass and iron glistening in the sunlight, while all about, for acres, was one grand parterre of flowers and fountains. I can never forget the sudden change in my feelings as I passed from that subterranean passage of darkness to the magnificent scene which was the very perfection of light. I was literally chained to the spot. It was like a fairy vision so beautiful; I thought of the Bible description of "the Holy City coming down from God out of Heaven prepared as a bride adorned for her husband," and of the time when "all tears shall be wiped away and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things shall be passed away." It seems to me that all the beautiful things that were ever thought of in Paradise were concentrated here. I do not think it possible to find another place where can be seen more of the beauties of nature and of art in three or four hours' time than at the Crystal Palace.

The interior fulfilled the promise of the surroundings. Outside there are acres of flowers, tropical plants, trees, shrubs, and vines, native products of different countries and climes, growing in all their freshness and beauty. Acres of fountains, in glass and out of glass, picture galleries of ancient and modern masters, statuary architectural products and manufactured article, pictures and wax representations of all the different nations and tribes of people, and of the different beasts, birds, fishes and insects. I am quite sure Noah's ark was not half as large, nor did it contain half as many curiosities, or cost half as much to build it.

A concert is given in the Crystal Palace every afternoon. The view of the fountains in full play, when seen from the balcony of the Palace, beggars description. There are hundreds of them of every conceivable variety and form, the water being supplied from towers 260 feet in hight, which are erected on the grounds.

The Crystal Palace cost about $6,000,000, and not far from $3,000,000 are annually expended in supplying it with new curiosities and defraying the running expenses. May it always stand an emblem of the ingenuity, industry, enterprise, intelligence, and refinement of the English people!

I must confess my opinion of the English people was essentially changed by an acquaintance with them. They are a great people. They are proud of their race, and justly so. They are honest, industrious, and educated. They are above the average of the human race in health, physical strength and endurance. They are fond of out-door life, of sports, of physical exercise, and social enjoyments.

REMEDIES FOR SORE THROAT AND NASAL CATARRH.

Dr. Ellis gave me a simple recipe for throat and lung affections with which I propose to close this article. Upon my remarking on my tendency to such affection, he said "Now, Doctor, you may go home and thank God for having seen me, for I will give you a simple remedy that will be the means of prolonging your life many years. Get a silk ribbon an inch or more wide, tie it about your neck and wear until worn out and then replace it, and continue to do so." I confess I was a little surprised to find a man of Dr. Ellis's intelligence relying with so much confidence on such a remedy and I asked an explanation of its virtues, but this he was not prepared to give.—If any reader tries this or the following remedy, I should be pleased to know the result.

A remedy for nasal catarrh which I think of some value, I will also give.—Many cases of catarrh are caused by inability of the liver to perform its function properly. In such cases there is often a too alkaline condition of the blood. When this is the case, the liver does not take out as much of the carbon and other substances as it should, and the mucous membrane of the nose becomes a dumping ground for the foul matter. If persons thus afflicted will squeeze the juice of a good sized lemon into half a tumbler of water and drink it without sugar just before dinner, they will, if they live hygienically, be surprised to see how soon the catarrhal difficulty diminishes. When it fails to do so, it may be considered as due to other causes.—Scientific American.

Gold! Gold! Gold!

A New York correspondent tells us that every day the gold received at the Custom House for duties is wheeled to the Treasury in a common hand-cart.—The distance is about one-sixth of a mile and the amount averages about $500,000. The way they handle specie in this institution certainly strikes a stranger as free and easy in the extreme. The bags, containing $5000 apiece are tossed to and fro as though they held gravel or brickbats, and the clerks count up $1,000,000 as easily and as rapidly as a retailer counts up his dimes and pennies. The safe is a large room, say twenty feet square and about fifteen high, with tiers of iron doors about three feet in length, ranging one above the other. These are full of bags containing specie, and at set times they are counted, the Surveyor of the Port being present on such occasions. There are about $80,000,000 of gold and greenbacks in store here, and to make the safe burglar-proof the space next to the street is filled with musket balls, several thousand in number. Now, if a burglar should get through the outside he would meet with this loose mass, which would roll out upon him and sufficiently embarrass his progress. The Treasury contains a number of experts in detecting base coin. You may place a counterfeit gold piece in a heap of similar coin, and the clerk will close his eyes and pick out the counterfeit by sense of touch. This man cannot tell how he distinguishes the good from the bad.—The faculty is indescribable, and can only be acquired by years of practice.

May Festival.

As May Day will soon be here, the little folks, and larger ones as well, naturally enough, are looking anxiously forward to the annual festival which has become one of the events of the year. We learn that Mr. Brown, Master of the Coddington School is making extensive preparations for the amusement of all, both old and young, for the day and evening. The task of amusing the large number of children gathered on these occasions is no light one, and the small admission fee charged is barely sufficient to cover necessary expenses; and yet in view of the great pleasure experienced by the children, and the unfavorableness of the season for outdoor sports, Mr. B. has determined to strive once more to accomplish the task. In connection with the festival, Mr. Brown's annual concert will take place in the evening, and it is his intention to surpass all previous efforts to afford a rich treat to all lovers of first class music. Full particulars will be given next week.

PYTHIAN FUNERAL. On Tuesday afternoon last, funeral services were held over the remains of the late Richard J. Thomas, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Thomas Owens. After a prayer by Rev. Samuel Kelly, the body was taken in charge by St. Paul's Lodge No. 37, Knights of Pythias, of which Lodge the deceased was a member, and conveyed to Mount Wollaston Cemetery. The procession was formed in the following order:

Weymouth Brass Band, 18 pieces,
St. Paul's Lodge, 60 members,
Funeral car, drawn by 4 horses,
Relatives and friends of deceased.

On their arrival at the cemetery the impressive and beautiful burial service of the order was read by the proper officer. The music by the Weymouth Band was appropriate and beautiful.

The Knights appeared for the first time in public and their full ranks and general appearance was a matter of comment and surprise; but few of our citizens having any idea of the existence of such a large organization of this order in our midst.

☞ The Quincy Mutual is our style of an insurance company. It fights its way through all difficulties and comes out good as new, notwithstanding its losses by the big fire. Such a company you can "tie to." We advise insurance in it by all wise people, albeit a correspondent in to-day's paper talks rather severely against the Company. It is in our opinion one of the safest outside of Boston.

WOLLASTON. The contract for building the new school house at Wollaston, has been taken by Burt Bros. of Mattapan, at $13,300. The building will be very pleasantly situated on the corner of Beale street and Prospect Avenue. Mr. Stephen Maloney commenced digging the cellar last week.

DECEASED. We are sorry to learn of the death of a former resident of this town, Mr. William S. Perry, who died at Brunswick, Me., on Tuesday, the 8th inst., at the age of 56. He removed with his family from this place some six years ago. The beautiful estate now owned by Mr. James Edwards, on School street, was built by Mr. Perry. He carried on the lumber business in Boston for many years with marked success. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father.

MONDAY.

John McCarty, of Quincy was arrested by Constable Morrill, for being drunk.—He pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

WEDNESDAY.

Elliott M. Whitcomb, of Holbrook, pleaded not guilty to the charge of bastardy which was brought against him.—He was held in the sum of $700 for his appearance at Superior Court to be held in Dedham, on the 4th Monday in April.

Edward Whalen, of Braintree, was fined $50 and costs for maintaining a liquor nuisance.

Margaret Sanderson of Braintree, was charged with maintaining a liquor nuisance. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed upon her, from which she appealed.

THURSDAY.

Quincy Sprague, a resident of the new town of Holbrook, was complained of for being drunk. He was fined $3 and costs. In default of fine and trimmings he was committed to the House of Correction.

Thomas Pray of Weymouth, was fined $50 and costs, for keeping a liquor nuisance.

Lemuel W. French, Henry T. Roel, Thomas W. Pray, Thomas Pray, A. S. Vinton, Samuel Hilton and Gustavus W. Richmond, all of Weymouth, were before the Court this morning, on a charge of being present at a game of cards played on Saturday night. For this offence they were each fined $3 and costs.

LIBRARY. The Thayer Public Library will now be erected,—work has already commenced. Mr. Freeman Gilman of Charlestown contracts for the stone work and Mr. W. Penniman of Braintree has the contract for the wood work. It will be completed before another Fall.

TOWN MEETING. At the adjourned town meeting last Monday, the town adopted a code of by-laws presented by a committee chosen for that purpose. It containing ten articles and including in those articles some sixty sections. They also located the Soldiers' Monument in front of the Town Hall which is to be erected at once. N. H. Hunt of the south and N. F. T. Hayden of the north part of the town were elected Trustees on the part of the town for the Thayer Public Library. Improvements in Braintree are the order of the day. METHODIST CONFERENCE. At the conference held in Lynn this week, the methodist minister, at Quincy Point, Rev. J. L. Locke, was removed, to Rock Bottom, Boston District, and J. A. Deforest was appointed to take charge of the society at the Point.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS. On Wednesday Patrick Daily, thirty-five years of age, and residing in Arlington, fell from the front platform of a car on the Old Colony Railroad, as it was nearing the Harrison square depot, and was instantly killed, the car passing over his body.

Last Saturday afternoon an employe of the Old Colony Railroad jumped from the Plymouth outward train at Neponset, and had his right leg broken and received other severe injuries about the head. He was taken to his home in the city.

LUXURIOUS EASE. It will be seen by an advertisement in to-day's paper that Mr. S. F. Somers, 320 Washington street, Boston, can furnish easy chairs of many different patterns, at lower prices than can be found at any establishment in the city. His chairs and sofas are really beautiful, and the upholstering work, done by Mr. S. is perfectly elegant. The inducement to purchase goods at this establishment is not altogether in the style and finish of the work, but you can depend on procuring first class articles.

CHRIST CHURCH. To-morrow bring Easter Day, there will be service at the Universalist Church, at 7 A. M. and again at 11 A. M. with the Holy Communion. Sunday School at the Rectory at 3 P. M.

Pitt Street, North Quincy.

As the location of the new school-house on Squantum street is a fixed fact, I hope the voters in the North District will be prepared to have an article in the next town meeting warrant, asking the town to lay out and extend Pitt street from its present termination to a point on Squantum street, near the new school-house. About five hundred feet of the south end of Pitt street is now a private way forty feet in width; its present termination is on land considerably elevated, but not so high as the school-house lot. To make the grade easy it will require a deep cut which will furnish nearly enough gravel to grade the road to a suitable height over the meadow and swamp. The expense of the road grading and fencing, if there are no land damages to pay, will not probably exceed three thousand dollars.—We hope the gentlemen who composed the committee for the selection of the school-house lot will lend their influence in support of this contemplated street, so convenient for a considerable number of scholars in the the North District.

The town seems to be in danger of losing some of its old names by new comers or having them applied to places where they do not belong, as for instance, "Wollaston." We should not be surprised if Mr. Burkhardt, a large owner of real estate at Squantum, should think best to name the southerly part of Squantum, "Germantown;" and that "Germantown" ere many years should be known as Snug Harbor.

Some persons think the hill occupied by the dualin factory is Moswetuset; others think the name belongs to the smaller hummock easterly, near Squantum. Be that as it may, Col. Dittmar proprietor of the former place has named the hill Maria, in honor of his estimable wife.

We hope Mr. Dittmar will some time find it for his interest to remove his works for the manufactory of dualin to some more remote location, and that the land about that rocky eminence may be used for dwellings, in which case Pitt street should be extended northerly in nearly a straight line to the river. In view of such a probable event in the future, I would suggest that if Pitt street is opened from Atlantic street to the school-house, it be called Moswetuset Avenue. But I forbear, remembering that the Frenchman, in giving his friends instructions how to cook a hare, commenced by saying,—"first catch the animal."

Quincy Mutual Ins. Company.

It seems by the action of the managers of this Company at its annual meetings that the interests of the policy holders were entirely ignored, and naught but a division of the spoils by and among the officers and agents was looked after.

At last year's annual meeting one of the best directors in the Company, R. B. Leuchars, was left off the Board because he advocated retrenchment and reform, and opposed the wishes of the Secretary; and this year still another member of the board, Henry H. Faxon, Esq., has shared the same fate for the same reasons. It is high time, it seems to the writer for the policy holders to take matters into their own hands, not by proxy, through the connivance of some of its high salaried officers and agents, but in person, and see that the rights and interests of its members are looked after. We would further suggest civil treatment by officers of any company towards its patrons and supporters, who contribute in small sums to help support large salaries; it is certainly policy on the part of those holding positions even if civility is not natural to them. It may be interesting for the members of the Quincy Company to know the liberal sums, which are paid its officers and agents, as follows, viz. Secretary four thousand five hundred dollars per year besides pay as director and member of the executive committee, and he also receives other sums for commissions from other companies.

The salary of the President and Treasurer combined is one thousand dollars, with pay as director and member of executive committee, extra. There are five or six more persons employed about the office receiving ten to fifteen dollars per day. The Boston agent we presume has the softest place of any one connected with the company; he does a large business and has fifteen per cent. of the premiums, one dollar for the policy, when he can get it, and an extra premium on policies of five thousand dollars; thus it will be seen that upon such policies (of which there are many) his commissions, &c., amount to ten dollars and upwards. Then he draws pay as director, four dollars per meeting, and pay as one of the executive committee which meets weekly two dollars, and the writer thinks he has extra pay for examining risks. Besides the above emoluments the company has in the past paid annually towards his office rent in Boston the sum of five hundred dollars. Verily, we wonder that there has been anything to divide among the policy holders in the shape of return premiums. What are the probabilities of a return premium in the future as the five years come round? If the writer has made any statements not correct in point of facts he will feel obliged to any one who will set the matter right.

The Boston Burnt District. Building operations are becoming more lively as the Spring advances; foundations that had not already been prepared, are now receiving close attention, many structures are already up to the third and fourth story. Rapidly but solidly the work goes on. Operations are especially active in the vicinity of Washington and Summer Streets. These thoroughfares are too important to leave long unoccupied, and here especially the gap promises to be speedily closed. Those who prophesied that it would take Boston ten years to recover will find themselves agreeably disappointed.

Concert. Mr. A. P. Peck's Benefit, on Wednesday as was expected at Music Hall, Boston, was filled to its utmost capacity with one of Boston finest audiences. The length of the programme prevented the artists responding to the encors they all received, and were allowed to retire after bowing there acknowledgements, until Mr. Rubinstein finished his performance in the second part with the "Turkish March" by Beethoven, when he was thrice recalled and gave another selection. Mr. Henri Wieniawski came in for a large share of the glory, and received hearty applause after each of his solos on the violin. The Orchestral numbers were finely rendered and the performance of the parts assigned to Miss A. L. Cary and Nelson Varley added much to the pleasure of the entertainment which closed at a quarter to eleven.

A Friend in Need. Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is a friend in deed. Who has not found it such in curing all diseases of the lungs and throat, coughs, colds, and pul monary affections, and "last not least," Consumption? The sick are assured that the high standard of excellence on which the popularity of this preparation is based, will always be maintained by the proprietors.

For the Patriot.

Temperance Meeting.

The Norfolk Temperance Alliance are holding public meetings in the various town and villages of the county, whenever, and wherever, there is an invitation extended to them; The meetings, held in the afternoon and evening of Fast Day, in Rev. Mr. Emery's Church in North Weymouth, were the first of the series held in this part of the county, and it is to be hoped, if these were a fair sample of all, that many more will follow; for they cannot fail to do great good in awakening and renewing an interest in the temperance cause, that has seemed, for some time, to be slumbering. The meetings were quite well attended, and exhibited an excellent feeling. The President of the Alliance, E. S. Conant of Randolph, and its Secretary, H. G. Park of Norwood, were present and contributed not a little to the success of the enterprise. Nor must the music furnished for the occasion by the church choir, be forgotten, for it was unusually excellent, in appropriativeness and execution, a feature necessary to a complete success, and which it has been found expedient to hire in other places. The remarks were brief, spirited, and earnest, mainly from the friends in the vicinity.

East Norfolk.

The First Stage Coach. The first stage-coach in America started from Boston, from the site of No. 90 North street, in 1661. The first line of stage-coaches between Boston and New York was established in 1732, a coach leaving each city once a month; fourteen days were required to complete the journey. In 1802 the mail-stage started from Boston for New York on Monday morning at eight o'clock, and was due in New York at noon on Friday. On the 7th of April 1834 (thirty-nine years ago), the first train of passenger cars started from Boston for Needham, to which place the Worcester Railway was then opened; the Western Railway was opened to Albany December 31, 1841.

The Bank of England. The Bank of England covers five acres of ground, and employ nine hundreds clerks. There are no windows on the street. Light is admitted through open courts. No mob could take the bank therefore, without cannon to batter the immense walls. The clock in the centre of the bank has fifteen dials attached to it. Large cisterns are sunk in the court, and engines in perfect order are always in readiness in case of fire. This bank was incorporated in 1694—capital, $90,000,000.

Marriages.

In New London, Conn., April 2d, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. A. W. Page, Capt. Alonzo C. Jones of New York, to Miss Emma M., daughter of Mr. William M. Spear, formerly of this town.

The above notice was accompanied with a beautiful slice of the bridal loaf, for which the young couple will accept our thanks. May their home be a garden of Eden, and their voyage through life be one of contentment and happiness.

In this town, April 10th, by Rev. S. Kelley, Mr. Arthur L. Mitchell to Miss Lucy A. Shaw.

Consumption can be cured.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of every organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels some times costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

Coal. The statement that has been going the rounds recently, to the effect that coal had advanced one dollar per ton, had no foundation. The probability is that coal will not be above ten dollars and a half, and those who are best posted on the matter, say that the lowest price between the present time and autumn will be eight dollars. When it touches that figure, it will be safe to lay in the winter's supply.—Lynn Reporter.

☞ The dead body of an unknown man, found in the woods at Greenville, R. I., was removed on Tuesday to an undertaker's office where a coroney's jury and three doctors were summoned to investigate the cause of death. On removing the clothing it was found that the man died from small pox, and the consternation of the jury, the doctors, witnesses and officials may be better imagined than described. So many people were exposed, the town authorities at once ordered a general vaccination of the citizens.

Feline. A young married gentleman of Boston, who has no children, gave the other evening, a birthday party to his cat, and Thomas was adorned with ribbons and furbelows, and his portion of the feast consisted of a game supper and plenty of catnip. The rest of the assemblage sat down to a collation of which the centre piece was a cake covered with a sugar cat. Each guest had also a baked cat—made of gingerbread.

The Secretary of the Treasury has directed the sale of six million dollars in gold during the present month, and the purchase of one million in bonds.

For cleansing the system and purifying the blood effectually
Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup
Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.
In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.
Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of
Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.
If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the
CINCHONA BITTERS
Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.
For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.
If unable to sleep sound, try the
Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.
They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.
CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:
DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.
LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.
ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwise, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.
For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.
WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.
PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.
NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.
RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.
BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.
DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.
FEMALE DIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.
BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.
The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.
NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.
Prepared By DR. H. S. FLINT & CO.,
At their Great Medical Depot, 195 & 197 Broad Street, Providence, R. I.
For sale by J. H. Veazie, Quincy.

Vaccination from the Natural Source.
There has been so much trouble and uncertainty about procuring pure Vaccine Matter,—matter positively free from humors and other poisons, that I have thought it best to raise my own, from heifers known to be thoroughly healthy. These heifers are kept in the stable several weeks before being vaccinated, and none used that show the least symptoms of sickness. The virus will be collected by myself, and may be depended upon as pure.
Vaccination at Office, as usual.

Poetry.

Home.

Home's not merely four square walls,
  Though hung with pictures nicely gilded;
Home is where affection calls,
  Filled with shrines the heart hath builded.
Home! go watch the faithful dove,
  Sailing 'neath the heaven above us;
Home is where there's one to love—
  Home is where there's one to love us.

Home's not merely roof and room—
  Home needs something to endear it;
Home is where the heart can bloom,
  Where there's some kind lip to cheer it!
What is home with none to meet,
  None to welcome, none to greet us?
Home is sweet, and only sweet,
  When there's one we love, to meet us.

Home, Farm and Garden.

The Garden.

Where the soil is heavy, or where there is a liability to cold changes, very little advantage is gained in early sowing in the open air or early transplanting, excepting with a few seeds and plants that endure the frost. Late sown seeds, with unchecked growth, will soon overtake and leave behind the plants that have been retarded and often checked in their growth by cold.

Great care should be taken in selecting seeds. They should be bought from seedsmen who have a reputation for integrity already established. Great quantities of old and worthless seeds are sold, some of them mixed with new.

For early plants and vegetables of all kinds, obtain seed that has been grown as far North as possible. Northern Canada corn will come to perfection in a Southern soil two or three weeks earlier than the indigenous. But in the course of two or three years it will loose its early quality, becoming indigenous itself. The Northern season being shorter, nature adapts itself to the exigency, hurries up the growth; the plants will retain the influence of this stimulus until in the course of two or three years they become acclimated in their new abode.

Lime and Salt Mixtures.

Prof. Johnson recommends for fertilizing purposes to mix one bushel of salt and two bushels of dry lime under cover and allow the mixture to decompose gradually, thus forming an intimate chemical union of the two materials. For this purpose the mixture should be made at least six weeks before use, or still better, two or three months, the heap mentioned being turned over occasionally.—This salt and lime mixture, when applied at the rate of twenty or thirty bushels per acre, forms an excellent top-dressing for many crops. It acts powerfully on the vegetable matter of soils; fifty-six bushels applied to a turnip crop have produced as large a crop as barnyard manure. It is also very destructive to grubs and insects in the soil. Like salt it attracts moisture from the air, and is useful against drouth. Its decomposing power is remarkable, and if three or four bushels of it are mixed with a load of swamp muck, the latter will be reduced to a powder.

Paraffin and Peas.

At this season of the year it may be of interest to many of our readers to know that before sowing their garden peas, if they mix about a tablespoonful paraffin oil with a quart of peas, turning them about so that all may get a taste of it, not a mouse will touch one of them, and the peas will not be injured in the least by the paraffin.

It is said that Carter's First Crop is the earliest producer and desirable for home use; but Waite's Caractacus, only a day or two later, bears a large pod and is better for market.

☞ A Preventive of the Potato Disease is found by a French farmer who for three years has introduced a small quantity of the residue of the bark used in tanning, into each hole on planting his potato crop, and each time he had been completely successful in preserving his fields free from the annoying disease.

Anecdotes.

A little boy asked Dr. Burgess, the preacher, if he would have a light.

"No, my child," said the doctor, I am one of the lights of the world."

"I wish, then," replied the boy, "you were hung at the end of the alley, for it is a very dark one."

An Irishman having challenged a gentleman to fight a duel, who somehow "forgot" to attend the appointment, met accidentally that same day the offending party, and thus addressed him:

"Well, sir, I met you this morning, but you did not come; however I am determined to meet you to-morrow morning, whether you come or not."

One very cold night, a jolly old fellow, who had been drinking too freely at a tavern, started for home in a gig and on the way was upset and left by the side of the road. Some persons, passing a short time after, discovered him holding his feet to the moon, and ejaculating to some invisible persons:

"Pile on the wood, it's a miserable cold fire."

Old Gent,—"James! my son! Why this rude behavior, this unsteady gait? Have you been drinking, sir?"

James,—"Drinkin'? Nussir! nor-a-bir-of-it. Seen a drunk'n fell'r'n I'm a try'n er imertate 'm—tha's all, Govn'r.—You kno' 'ow 'tis 'erself!"

EMPLOYMENT.

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock, life insurance company of this country, and has the largest cash capital of any pure insurance company of like kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the ordinary Mutual rates, during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1 250,000 more than was paid it. By the mutual system the policy-holders insure the company. By the stock system the company insures the policy-holders. The National has nearly two dollars of assets to every one of liabilities, and on January 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,157,909 55. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous commissions to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address, branch office, Philadelphia, where the business of the company is transacted.

E. A. ROLLINS, Pres't; JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance Committee; J. M. BUTLER, Secretary.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN
SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Poetry.

A Mother's Love.

Hast thou sounded the depths of yonder sea?
Hast thou counted the sands that under it be?
Hast thou measured the heights of Heaven above?
Then may'st thou speak of a mother's love.

Hast thou talked with the blessed of leading on
To the throne of God some wandering son?
Hast thou witnessed the angel's bright employ?
Then may's thou speak of a mother's joy.

Hast thou gone with the traveler, near or far?
From pole to pole, from star to star!
Thou hast; and on earth, or river, or sea,
The heart of a mother has gone with thee.

There is not a grand, inspiring thought,
There is not a truth by wisdom taught,
There is not a feeling pure and high
That may not be read in a mother's eye.

There are teachings above, around, afar;
The heavens the glory of God declare;
But louder that voice, around, on high,
Is heard to speak from a mother's eye.

Lemon Jelly. Take a paper of gelatine, and let it soak in a pint of warm water an hour; then add a quart of boiling water and the juice of two lemons, and a pint and a half of sugar.

Wine Jelly. For an invalid with whom acid does not agree, wine jelly is preferable, viz.: One paper gelatine; pour one pint of cold water upon it and let it dissolve; then add one pint of boiling water, stir it well and add one pint of wine, then one half pound of white sugar. Put it in moulds and set it in a cool place for an hour or two.

THE RUSSELL MANSION: OR, THE HAUNTED HOUSE.

BY LYMBURNER.

Whenever we look upon an ancient homestead, be it either humble or pretentious in appearance, we naturally indulge in the wish to know something—be it more or less—concerning its former history, and of those who in other days occupied its rooms and premises. In the State of Massachusetts we have seen not a few such places, among which cluster events of no ordinary interest. In the old historic town of Mendon, is to be seen a house and its surroundings, which anticipates the remarks we have made.—We speak of what was known for many years as the Russell Place,—thus called from the name of its former owner, Hon. Jonathan Russell.

Mr. Russell is known in history as one of the negotiators of the Treaty of Ghent, as Minister to Sweden, and as a Representative to Congress. During his congressional career, he was regarded as one of the leading statesmen of the country, but the political altercation he had with John Quincy Adams, made it undesirable for him longer to continue as an actor in the arena of politics, and he decided to retire to the privacy of home life.

At that time he resided in Providence, but, having a desire to engage in the peaceful pursuits of agriculture he purchased a large farm house with its appendages of buildings and lands, situated in the village of Mendon.

Mendon was then one of the most flourishing towns in Worcester County, and as the village was located on a hill that overlooked the surrounding country, it was regarded by Mr. Russell as eminently suited to the purpose he had in view.

Soon after the rural estate was purchased, Mr. Russell engaged a large number of workmen, representing all the branches of labor that were necessary for the execution of the extensive alterations and improvements that were contemplated by him. The house was a large two-story one, and built of wood, and was surrounded with a few ancient trees. To the house were added two large wings, extending towards the south, the main house itself facing the north. Other additions were made to the house, so as to connect it with adjacent buildings. Of the out-buildings, there were two large barns for cattle, a building for sheep, one for poultry, another for swine, a work shop, a carriage house, and a sufficient number of other buildings to make the whole collection compare favorably with many of the so-called western "cities." The fields were twelve in number, embracing in all an area of about sixty acres. A lane run through these fields, to which access was had through a wide gate in each. The stone walls that enclosed the fields were so massively and compactly built as to make it probable that they will last for centuries longer—for at this day, after the lapse of over half a century, they seem to be as firm as ever. Orchards of apple, peach, pear, and other trees were laid out, and in a few years produced an abundance of fruit. Some of his fruit trees were brought from Russia, France and England, and it was said that a choicer variety of fruits of the tree and the vine, could not then be found in New England. So abundant were the peaches, as to enable Mr. R. to invite all who wished to delectate upon them, to do so freely to the fullest extent.

The grounds in front of the house and at the eastern end, were thickly set with forest trees of as many varieties as could be found in the State. These grounds were also laid out in lawns, and diversified with flower beds, that in shape were square, diamond, crescent, round, and of other forms. It is said that the front yard was one mass of flowers, and presented a most charming aspect. We have often heard it remarked that one could sense the perfume of the flowers when half a mile away from them.

Between two and three years were required for the completion of the work laid out by Mr. Russell.

The house contained in all, nearly thirty rooms — but none too many for the accommodation of the retinue of persons that comprised the entire household.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Russell and the three children he had by a former wife, were two housekeepers, a cook, a seamstress, a nursery maid, a dairy maid, a chamber maid, a gardener, a coachman, and how many more we are unable to say.

Two of the servants were brought by Mr. Russell from Holland, and one was obtained from South America. The last mentioned one was a swarthy Malay. It is said of him that he was found by a man in a South American forest sitting on the bough of a tree in a perfect state of nature. He was sold to Mr. R., who bestowed on him the high-sounding name of Marcus Aurelius—after that of a Roman Emperor. He became greatly attached to his master, or benefactor, and was a most-trusty and faithful servant.—After leaving Mr. R.'s employ he married, in a neighboring town, where he had several children, and died about a year since, at an advanced age.

The exterior of the house, which was of a neat and plain style of architecture, was painted white, with green blinds.—All the windows in the main house, with those in the south-eastern wing, were provided with inside shutters. The front door of the house opened into a hall, on either side of which were parlors. Back of the eastern parlor was the music room; back of the western parlor was the sitting room and the dining room, while in the south-west wing and in an ell adjoining, were too large kitchens. The side door of the eastern wing opened into an entrance hall, which led to a spacious reception room. The walls of this room were covered with paper which was obtained on purpose from France. The pattern of this paper, while it was designed to represent drapery looped aside in the middle of each section, bore a striking resemblance to a row of coffins, each mantled with a white shroud and adorned with wreaths of flowers.

This aspect of the room, reminding one so forcibly of a charnel house, was very chilling and repulsive at the first sight, notwithstanding the partial relief afforded by the massive border, which represented drapery festooned by encircling wreaths of flowers. The lower part of the walls was wainscoated to correspond with the casing around the windows and the pannel work beneath the windows. The mantel is of wood, painted black, and has the appearance of an entablature, which is upheld by four black Doric columns.

The wood-work of the mantel is quite elaborate in its ornamentation. The fire place, beneath the mantel, has an inserted iron back, evidently of foreign make, on which is a bass relief figure of a bounding stag, beneath which is an illegible inscription.

This room was always brought into requisition on special occasions—and not a few were the banquets, receptions, and dances that were held here by the Russell family — who often classed among their visitors, persons of distinction. In a few instances, by way of contrast, funeral ceremonies occurred in this room.

The broad stairs that led from the side entrance hall gave access to a long passage-way in the second story of the wing last mentioned, by which one entered the doors of several chambers, and also the library room, which was directly over the reception room. Two sides of the room were filled with books, and the other sides were hung with portraits, and other pictures. Adjoining the library were Mr. Russell's private apartments.

Beneath the reception room was the wine cellar, which was filled with wines of the choicest kinds. The other cellars were always well stocked by the owner, with fruit, provisions, etc., suited to the wants of his numerous household. In the south-west cellar, beneath the kitchen, was a large fire-place and spacious oven, which were suggestive of a generous hospitality.

We have alluded to the music room—and would again speak of it. This was said to have been well filled with musical instruments of various kinds, each one of which was skilfully played upon by the mistress of the mansion, who had a passionate love for music.

While Mr. Russell's first wife was noted for her amiability of mind and beauty of person — the last quality of which is plainly evident by her portrait, which we have seen, — the second Mrs. R., while lacking the grace of a charming face, was not deficient in the accomplishments of literature and the elegant arts. While born in the State of Massachusetts—in the town of Milton, we believe—the second Mrs. Russell was educated in France, and chiefly in Paris, at the school of the celebrated Madame Campagne.

Tradition affirms, that Josephine Tascher, who afterwards became Empress of France, was at one time classed as a schoolmate with Miss Smith, who subsequently married Jonathan Russell. While at Madame Campagne's school, Miss Smith acquired those accomplishments that afterwards shone so conspicuously in her life. To add to her skilfulness with the pencil, she became a pupil of the celebrated Francis West, and her aptitude with the brush of an artist may be seen to this day in the excellent family portraits we have examined, which were painted by her in her hours of leisure while at the Mendon mansion.

While Mrs. R. resided in Mendon, the retiring ladies of the village looked upon her as though she was of the strong-minded women class, when, especially, as was her wont, she engaged with distinguished visitors in political and other disputations, in which she very much delighted. For a number of years Mrs. R. was decidedly Frenchy in her manners and adopted the style of partaking of her food with her hat on, which strange proceeding was the source of much suppressed merriment on the part of her husband's then gay and romping daughters.

Mrs. R. shared with her husband in delighting to possess rare kinds of domestic fowls and animals—and these were obtained in abundance. Merino sheep were transported from Spain; poultry of different kinds were brought from England, and the most improved kinds of stock were obtained for farming purposes.

During the visit of LaFayette to this country, Mr. Russell gave him a most cordial and pressing invitation to become a guest at his Mendon mansion. The urgent request was reciprocated on the part of the famous Frenchman, by agreeing to visit Mendon as Mr. R.'s guest.

Great preparations were at once made by Mr. Russell for an entertainment that should be worthy of the friend of Washington. In front of the house, long tables were arranged beneath the umbrageous trees, and shorter tables were set in the vine-covered arbors. Viands, cakes, pastry, fruits, and other kinds of refreshments were furnished lavishly by the generous-hearted host. Doubtless the gold spoons and other gold ware which was possessed by the family—specimens of which are still preserved by Mr. R.'s descendants—were unlocked for the occasion. A large assemblage of people from Mendon and the neighboring towns were present, anticipating the appearance of the invited guest. The doors of the mansion were opened, and the rooms were thronged with the elite of the attendant multitude, who admired the elegant furniture, the beautiful pictures, and the costly books with which the house abounded. To make sure of the attendance of LaFayette, couriers were despatched to welcome him in advance.

Great was the disappointment of the assembly, and deep was the chagrin of Mr. Russell, when the returning couriers brought the intelligence that the expected guest had been induced from some unknown cause, to accept of an ovation tendered him in Worcester. It was subsequently ascertained that the change in LaFayette's programme was brought about through the management of some of Mr. Russell's bitter political opponents. It is said that Mr. R. could not reconcile himself to the great disappointment to which he was thus so unwillingly subjected.

In process of time Mrs. Russell became dissatisfied with living in Mendon, and persuaded her husband to dispose of the estate and invest his capital in a manufacturing enterprise in the flourishing and prosperous village of Woonsocket, R. I. It was with much reluctance that Mr. Russell turned his back upon the homestead he had adopted as the place of his permanent residence — and many and deep were the regrets expressed by his neighbors and friends when the time of his departure arrived.

Some forty years ago, Mr. Russell deceased in the town of Milton, Mass., and his wife survived him several years.

The Russell Place still stands as a suggestive monument of its former grandeur—but there is associated with it, other events than those we have mentioned, which remind us of mediæval times.

Quite a number of families have occupied the house since it passed from the hands of Mr. Russell—and not a few of those who have lived in it stoutly affirm that the house has been haunted.

Villagers, who in former years passed the premises, asserted that they saw at sundry times ghostly forms at the upper windows. A Mr. S—, who at one time resided in the mansion, declared that on several occasions he heard doors suddenly open, and could distinctly hear footsteps as though some one was striding through the room. He arose from his bed, saw no one, but found the door ajar. Another person is reported to have seen, from the outside, by the pale light of the moon, a negro child standing on the sash of a window. A young lady who lived in the house, declared that she was sometimes annoyed by the apparition of a colored child appearing at the window near which she sat sewing. The repeated visits of the little sprite occasioned the lady no small degree of apprehension and alarm, for like Banquo's ghost it would not always down at her bidding.

A short time since, while conversing with a clear-headed and phlegmatic man, some three-score years of age, about the weird-like stories that were current concerning the aforesaid house, he shifted his narcotic quid to the right side of his mouth, seated himself in a chair, and gave this relation:

"When I was a young man," said he, "I boarded for awhile at Capt. Green's—for the Captain then lived in the Russell House. Pervious to my boarding there, I knew nothing of the stories that were rife about that house. The Captain, at night, conducted me to the eastern attic chamber. Retiring, I slept soundly until near midnight, when I was awakened by the clothes being drawn from the bed. Supposing they naturally slipped from their place, I drew them back again. While composing myself for a continued sleep, the clothes were again drawn from me. Seizing the quilts in my hand I replaced them, and then held them fast, thinking I would be able to resume sleep without further inconvenience. Presently, something grasped the coverlid, and began gently to pull it towards the foot of the bed. I tried to retain my hold, but the opposing force was too strong for me, and the clothes were drawn from the bed and thrown in a heap upon the floor. As the door was securely fastened, I knew the strange proceedings were not traceable to any living person in the room. As it was then near morning, I arose, dressed myself, and came down stairs.

"After breakfast I went out to the barn, where I met Captain Green, and told him what had happened. Having heard my recital, he said:

'You'll not be troubled that way again—for you shall occupy another room.'"

Our informant, after changing rooms, was not again molested by the unknown agency — and no one has ever been able to convince him that there was not something superhuman in the transaction mentioned.

While the Russell family occupied the mansion — we should have mentioned it before—one of Mr. R.'s daughters, after the family had retired, heard a sprightly air played upon the piano. Some of the servants also hearing the music, said,

"Why C——— is playing a lively tune."

Miss R. was the more mystified, when she recalled the fact that the piano was not only closed, but locked.

This strange incident we derived from the "Miss R." we speak of, but who is now the accomplished and interesting wife of Mr. T. After narrating the story, our informant said,

"I would not stay in that house alone, over night, for any sum of money."

One day last summer, while chatting with a young and gay Lothario, whose parents resided in the old mansion for a year or more, he suddenly changed the topic we were upon, and said—

"Did you know that house yonder was haunted?"

With an incredulous laugh we replied, "O, yes, is has that reputation!"

"But," continued he, "I know it is so, for while I lived in it, I heard not a few unaccountable noises in the house."

"At one time," said he, as he cast his eyes towards the window of the room where he used to sleep, "I heard steps like those of a lady tripping through the hall, and as I lay awake listening to ascertain who it could be, I heard something rushing by my door — the sound resembling the rustling of a silk dress."

"The family were all in their beds," he continued," and hence the affair was somewhat startling to me."

Raising his hat from his head for a moment, "Lothario" proceeded to relate another of his entertaining stories;

"One night," said he, "I was awakened from my sleep by the sound of a viol, which appeared to come from the attic above. Directly after I heard noises that resembled the shuffling of feet, and still other noises followed, which almost scared me out of my wits."

Other occurrences of a kindred sort were rehearsed to us by Lothario, but those we have credited to him are as marvellous as we care to mention.

We are tempted to quote other authorities, whose testimonies are much the same as those already given, but as this is not designed to be an exhaustive article on the matter involved, we must be excused if we let that which we have written suffice for the present.

A few years since a denouement was made by an old lady in the waning hours of life, which, in the minds of many gives a clue to the mysterious occurrences we have impartially narrated. To those who stood by her death-bed, she declared that a great burden could only be lifted from her mind by a frank and full confession of a secret she had kept for many years. She confessed—and the confession involved a most singular transaction that occurred at the Russell Mansion over fifty years before. Further than this we care not to lift the veil.

The Russell Mansion, as we have already said, still remains, as a silent and suggestive monument of the past. Its present peaceful tenants have beheld no strange sights, nor heard any mysterious noises that would tend to awaken the slumbering memories of the past.

No more are heard the strains of music, and the joyous voices that once resounded through the many rooms of the old Russell Mansion. No more are to be seen the pageantry and festivity which centred at this noted homestead in the days of its once distinguished proprietor.

"So sleeps the pride of former days,
So glory's thrill is o'er,
And hearts that once beat high for praise,
Now feel that pulse no more."

It Didn't Hurt Him.

An Irishman, suffering severely from a toothache, called upon a distinguished physician and witty dentist of his native land to have the tooth extracted:—

"Oh, docther, darlin, I am sufferin' terribly; can you see the pain?"

"Sit down here," said the doctor, "and I'll fix you all right in a jiffy."

"Docther, dear, will it hurt me much?"

"If it don't," said the doctor, jocosely, I won't charge you a cent."

The poor fellow opened his mouth, and in a twinkling the doctor had hold of the offending member, and gave him such a twitch in drawing that his patient gave a jump and a scream, as if he thought his head was off. "Did it hurt much?" asked the doctor, as the poor sufferer was hobbling around, groaning loudly and was holding on to his head and jaws with all his might.

"Not a bit, docther, not a bit!"

"What!" exclaimed the astonished doctor.

"Oh, not a bid, docther, not a bit!"

The doctor concluded that he was euchred out of his fee that time, sure.

Calling up the Boy.

The Danbury News says; Calling a boy up in the morning can hardly be classed under the head of pastimes," especially if the boy is fond of exercise the day before. And it is a little singular that the next hardest thing to getting a boy out of bed is to get him into it. There is rarely a mother who is a success at rousing a boy. All mothers know this is so; so do their boys. And yet the mother seems to go at it in the right way. She opens the stair door and insinuatingly observes: "Johnny." There is no response. "John-ny." Still no response. Then there is a short, sharp "John," followed a moment later by a prolonged and emphatic "John Henry." A grunt from the upper regions signifies that an impression has been made, and the mother is encouraged to add, "You'd better be getting down here to your breakfast, young man, before I come up there, an' give you something you'll feel." This so startles the young man that he immediately goes to sleep again. And the operation has to be repeated several times.—A father knows nothing about this trouble. He merely opens his mouth like a soda bottle ejects a cork, and the "John Henry" that leaves the air of that stairway goes into that boy like electricity, and pierces the deepest recesses of his very nature.

And he pops out of that bed and into his clothes, and down the stairs, with a promptness that is commendable. It is rarely a boy allows himsely to disregard the paternal summons. About once a year is believed to be as often as is consistent with the rules of health. He saves his father a great many steps by his thoughtfulness.

How Barnum was Sold.

It is reported that a shrewd Yankee being aware of Barnum's desire to procure curiosities from all parts of the world, hit upon the following method to recuperate his meagre fortunes. "I have a negroman in my employ," he wrote, "who, besides his other wonderful qualities is able to read the finest printed newspaper in the country, when shut up in a room that is perfectly dark, without a candle or light of any kind, just as well as he can in the broad sunlight of midday.—Send me a hundred dollars and I will forward him to you." Barnum, ever alive to secure curiosities at any price, forwarded the necessary amount, and telegraphed the man to "send him at once." Ordering one of his trusty agents to meet the great prodigy at the depot of the New Haven railroad, when it was discovered that the darky could read just as well in the dark as in the light, for he was as blind as Bartemius!

Useful Proverbs.

Always tell the truth; you will find it easier than lying. He who gives a trifle meanly is far meaner than the trifle.—Men looking at the faults of woman should shut their eyes. If we seize too hastily, we may have to drop as hastily. Experience is a torch lighted in the ashes of our delusions. Better be upright with poverty than wicked with plenty. He who laughs at cruelty sets his heel on the neck of religion. Time never sits heavily upon us but when it is badly employed. Whatever you dislike in another, take care to correct in yourself. Resolve to perform what you ought, and perform what you resolve.

Said a pompous husband, whose wife had stolen up behind him and gave him a kiss, "Madam, I consider such an act indecorous!"

"Excuse me," said the wife, "I didn't know it was you."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

THE TIMES. The indications now are, that business will be very active in this town, as soon as the weather permits.—Houses are in great demand and high rents paid, and even then many seeking homes among us, cannot find accommodations. We are pleased to learn that several new houses are to be erected at once. Three fine houses are to be immediately built on Edwards street, by Mr. Charles H. Hardwick; I. W. Thayer is building two on Maple Place; Charles H. Spear, one on Franklin street; Mr. Southworth one on Greenleaf street. Several houses are also being built at Wollaston and North Quincy. Mr. John Quincy Adams's fine mansion at Mount Wollaston has been completed and he has moved into it the present week. This house is said to be one of the most costly in the State.

MAY FESTIVAL. C[illegible]pec-[illegible] we are unable to give the full particulars of this event this week. The absence from the city of certain of the artists Mr. Brown wishes to obtain, renders it impossible to give the programme. Suffice it to say, that the entire Festival, both day and evening, will merit and should receive the generous patronage of the public. Look out for programme in our next issue.

JURORS. Messrs. Edward H. Starbuck and Brooks Adams have been drawn to serve as jurors at the Civil Term of the Superior Court for Norfolk County.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS. Patrick Garvin of this town was fined ten dollars and costs, at Brighton, on Wednesday, for driving a horse unfit for labor.

PERSONAL. Charles Francis Adams attended the session of both branches of the New York Legialature on Thursday night. He was received with a warm welcome and made a brief speech in response.

SUPERIOR COURT, SUFFOLK COUNTY. Judge Lord presiding. The case of John Capless vs. Charles N. Ditson, administrator of the estate of Patrick Conway of this town, was tried on Thursday last.—Capless sued to recover a bill of $218.56 which he alleged, he paid for the benefit of Patrick Conway during his sickness, and also a bill $50.60, alleged to have been paid for funeral expenses. The defendant admitted some of the items of the two bills, but denied that he was liable for other items charged. The jury found for the plaintiff in the sum of $158.38.

S. J. Thomas for the plaintiff, and J. Q. Adams for the defendant.

☞ Miss R. A. Faxon, Principal of the Young Ladies' Female Seminary, at East Braintree, will make the tour of Europe, and attend the great Exposition at Vienna; Mr. Fred Hunt, of Weymouth, will likewise make the trip the coming June.

A MODEL ESTABLISHMENT. The extensive carpet warehouse of Messrs. Goldthwait, Snow & Knight, Nos. 43 and 45 Washington street, Boston, is with the single exception of Sloan's great carpet store, Broadway, N. Y., the largest establishment in this country devoted to the carpet trade. Every variety of carpet, oil cloth, matting, crumb cloth, and rug, manufactured in this country, Europe or the Indies, is on exhibition, and for sale. Their large capital and unrivalled facilities for procuring in large quantities the best productions in the market, enable them to offer goods at prices quite as low as any of their honorable competitors in the carpet trade can afford; and customers, whether judges or not, are certain of equitable treatment. Messrs. G. S. & K. give their unremitting personal attention to customers and their corps of salesmen are unrivalled for courtesy and reliability.

THE NEW SALARIES. The following table shows the new salaries provided by the bill. The increased salaries of the Speaker of the House and all other officials took effect on the 4th ult.

The salaries of all the clerks, doorkeepers, messengers, and other employes of the House were increased from fifteen to twenty-five per cent.

HARPER'S MONTHLY. The May number of this truly excellent monthly is before us, and its table of contents displays as usual, a large and varied amount of interesting reading. "Life under the ocean wave," and "A summer cruise among the Azores and Canary Islands," both of which are beautifully illustrated, and can be appreciated by the lovers of good reading. For sale at Souther's Periodical Store.

☞ Benj. F. Richardson, the blind me[illegible] will speak in Rodgers' Chapel, tomorrow at 2 1-2 o'clock P. M., if pleasant.

South Braintree and her Prominent Citizens.

During the past few years, the pale harvest angel, Death, has been walking in and out among the citizens of South Braintree, reaping "the bearded grain," as well as "the flowers that grow between." Threads have been drawn from the network of our society. Manufacturing interests have been projected among us, only to fail through the death of their owners. Men who a few years ago, represented their constituents in halls of legislation, now represent the great event that cometh to all. Hands that once grasped the sword, or directed the military engineering of their country, are now "gone down to sheol with their weapons of war," where they lie, pinioned to the side of the crumbling form, with the worm for their unconquered enemy.—Tongues that used to swell the choral songs of bygone years, are now, perhaps, singing the heavenly anthems above.—Death has taken a Davidson here, and a Randall there——a Stoddard here, and a Bradford there. Penniman, Thayer, Dyer, Porter and others have gone; a[illegible] recently another has been [illegible]own in the person of [illegible] cause of his death was heart disease. His health had been poor for some time, and he had seemed to have presentiments of his approaching end. He had made the remark to certain of his friends, that he did not expect to tarry with them long. The Monday before his death found him unable to attend to his business, and a physician was called; but he began to rally, and his friends entertained hopes of his recovery; but later in the week he began to fail rapidly, and on the morning of the 7th inst., his stricken family beheld the form, which had been so vigorous for over 61 years, yield to the cold embrace of death.

JOEL F. HOLBROOK.

Mr. Holbrook was born in South Braintree, Nov. 24th, 1811, and was more familiarly know to the citizens of the place as simply Edwin Holbrook. His father was a native of Braintree before him. In 1838, Mr. Holbrook began the manufacture of boots, in a building which then stood near where the Thayer Free Public Library is to be erected. He afterwards removed his business to a building which he had fitted up for the purpose, near his late residence, and the concern became known as the firm of Holbrook & Arnold. A store was opened in Boston, on Kilby street, and for about ten years this house made a speciality of the New England trade. During this time, the Hon. F. A. Hobart, who was then entering his business and public career, became a member of Mr. Holbrook's family, and afterwards a member of the firm. When Mr. Arnold withdrew, the house took the name of Holbrook & Hobart. After a time, the business was increased so as to include southern and western trade. Mr. Rodolphus Porter, the present Representative of Braintree, another son-in-law of Mr. Holbrook's became a partner, and the firm took the name of Holbrook, Hobart & Porter.—The shops formerly occupied by the late E. S. Bradford were purchased, and the company made arrangements to have the several branches of their work, even to bottoming, done in their own buildings. Here, Mr. Holbrook was engaged in business until his death. He was a sufferer by the great fire in Boston, having been burned out on Pearl St., to which place he had removed his store from Kilby St. some years before. He attended punctually to his affairs, and was an active and able business man. Even in his last sickness, his mind would sometimes wander, and he would hold business conversations with imaginary customers. The community has lost one of its most enterprising spirits.

The large factory, erected by the late E. S. Bradford, though occupied by the Boston Organ Company, yet stands comparatively unused, and not teeming with life as it would have been, had its builder lived. This is not the only business which death has stopped; and we are constrained to ask,—take away a few more such men as Bradford, Penniman, Stoddard and Holbrook, and what would become of the business interests of Braintree? Happily, in Mr. Holbrook's case, the firm, of which he was so long the senior member, will continue the business begun under his auspices.

In 1855, Mr. Holbrook was elected to the Legislature by a large majority. He has also held other important offices of public trust, and at the time of his death was Vice President and one of the Trustees of the Braintree Institution for savings. He was a leading member of the First Parish, and also a firm friend of the Baptist Parish in the south part of the town. The deceased was a self made man, and for one of his early advantages, was exceedingly well informed concerning the leading questions of his day. Whenever his advice was sought concerning social and political questions, the sequel seldom, if ever, proved that his opinions were mistaken.

Mr. Holbrook was a very public spirited man, and seemed anxious to build up his native town. He was instrumental in laying out the new street in South Braintree, to be called Holbrook street, thereby making several building lots available. He had already built one house thereon, and was intending to erect others.

The deceased was eminently a social spirit. Frequently would he gather his friends around him of an evening, and spend the time in social enjoyment. He was exceedingly democratic in his hospitality. He never gave himself any anxiety to entertain his guests, but they were just as welcome to the comforts which he himself enjoyed as though they were in their own home. He advised every one, except his own children, to have a home of his own. His children would sometimes conceive the idea of making a home for themselves, but he would always tell them no; his residence was commodious enough for them all, and he loved to gather his family around him, and wanted to keep them with him while he lived.

Unselfishness was no small trait in Mr. Holbrook's character; no small part of his enjoyment consisted in sharing his comforts with others. He was a good friend to his workmen. So far from being autocratic; he was one with them, instead of one over them. He did what he could to help them get homes of their own. There are those who now own pleasant homes, which they would not have had but for his kindness. There are employes at work for the firm now, who have continued with Mr. Holbrook over twenty, and some of them over thirty years. They have had children born and brought up during the time, and the children themselves, grow[illegible]manhood, and womanhoo[illegible] now at work for the [illegible]concern which enabled their parents to raise them. Until the workmen became so numerous as to render it impracticable, Mr. Holbrook remembered them, every Thanksgiving time, with a nice turkey. In this connection, the writer might relate many incidents which are unknown to the world, one of which, particularly, is very touching. But we forbear. This notice is not intended to parade Mr. Holbrook's virtues before the public gaze, but to pay a tribute of respect to his memory; not merely on the writer's own responsibility, but also, in some sense, as the representative of his brother employes, who hold the deceased in high esteem. As a token, they unitedly placed a beautiful wreath of flowers on the coffin of their long tried friend and employer, and sorrowfully followed him to his last resting place. There we leave him. His wife has lost an affectionate husband, his children a kind father, his workmen a firm friend, and the community a prominent citizen.

W. C. D.

District Court of East Norfolk.

SATURDAY.

Sanford White, of Weymouth, was fined $3 and costs for being present at a game of cards played on Saturday night of last week.

MONDAY.

The case before the Court this morning was listened to with deep interest by the anxious spectators. It was a case of adultery at Squantum, and the parties implicated are one James H. Nichols, of Boston, a man of some fifty or more years of age, and the lady a daughter of Lon Morris of Morris Brothers' Minstrel Troupe, who is said to be about twenty years of age. The case was continued till the 1st Monday in June, the defendant being required to give bonds in the sum of $800.

Peter Barney of Weymouth, next appeared. He put in a claim for 9 gallons of whiskey, which had been seized on the 15th day of March, by State Constables Garey and Furnald, at his place of residence. John Q. Adams, Esq., appeared for the defendant. Decision reserved.

Daniel Keleher, of Randolph, vs Geo. W. White, of Braintree. The plaintiff charges White with retaining 50 cedar logs valued at $1 each, that were delivered at his mill to be sawed into shingles. Case continued. John F. Kilton, for plaintiff and Asa Wellington for defendant.

TUESDAY.

Charles E. Tirrell of Weymouth, pleaded guilty to committing an assault on Philip McGee. He was fined $20 and costs.

FRIDAY.

But one case was before the court this morning. Barney Mundy of Quincy was arraigned on the charge of committing an assault on his wife, Ellen Mundy. Case continued till to-morrow.

In the Police report of last week, we accidently stated that John McCarty of Quincy was arrested by Constable Morrill; it should read John McCarty of Weymouth.

☞ The insurance on Horace Greeley's life, amounting to $100,000, has just been collected. The policy was taken out three years ago by the Trustees of the Tribune Association for their own benefit. Twenty thousand dollars was paid by the North America Company, $10,000 by the Globe, $20,000 by the Mutual, and the rest by out of town companies. Insurance men say that is the largest sum that has been paid in the last decade. The money is to be used in erecting a palace for the Tribune as a memorial.

To Whom it may Concern.

The business which was commenced in the "little store" on Sea Street, two months since, having proved a success, and outgrown its accommodations, the subscriber regrets taking leave of it, with many thanks, for the liberal patronage bestowed, and the hope that success may attend his efforts to build his contemplated block, at no distant day, thereby affording him more ample accommodations for business.

The present building has been leased to H. K. Appleton, Esq., of East Cambridge, a man of business experience, and ample means.

I shall expect to build the present season, two neat and convenient houses, on Maple Place, in the centre of the town, one of which, will be ready for use in June, and the other in September next. Any one having business with me, may find me at the little store.

Summary of News.

A Connecticut firm has shipped over 200,000 clocks to Japan and China during the last two years.

The two cent piece is to be abolished.

There are now sixty-seven cheese factories in Vermont. Richmond makes 200 tons of cheese annually.

The Misses Greeley intend to manage their father's farm at Chappaqua during the coming season.

J. B. Sears, formerly of South Dennis, has leased the Willard Hotel, at Hyde Park.

An old colored woman walked forty miles to Natchez, Miss., to get her recently deceased husband's bounty money. When she presented the documents they were found to be the dead man's registration papers.

The manufacture of tacks and nails in South Abington gives employment to 250 workmen, the monthly pay [illegible] whom amounts to $10,5[illegible]

A wealthy Californian named Lick has given $100,000 all at a lick, for a memorial to Thomas Paine.

The people of that part of East Bridgewater known as West Crook have voted that it shall hereafter be called Auburnville, which is a bad choice, as we now have Auburn and Auburndale.

A new society has been formed at South Weymouth, called the "South Weymouth Piscatorial Association," with 260 members—the object of the society being to lease Great Pond for twenty years and stock it with fish.

The auction sales of pews in Rev. Dr. Hepworth's new church, in New York, this week gave a gross yearly income of about $250,000.

The sugar season in Vermont is a very poor one, owing to the deep snow and stormy weather.

The Dorchester Universalist Church have decided to proceed at once with the erection of a commodious chapel upon their lot, corner of Adams and Gibson streets.

LEGISLATION. The great question before the Legislature this week was annexation. Bills passed the Senate on Tuesday for the annexation of Brookline and Charlestown to Boston. The vote was very strong in both cases. A bill was reported on Wednesday to annex Brighton. Another bill was reported the same day for a Commission, to sit during the recess and consider the subject of annexation of cities and towns around Boston.

The bill regulating the size of milk cans has received the Governor's signature.

DEDHAM. At a town meeting held in Dedham last week, it was voted to appropriate $7500 for the purchase of a steam fire engine, hose, hose carriage &c., by a vote of 109 to 90.

☞ Preaching to-morrow at the Congregational Church, by Rev. Geo. M. Adams of Wellesley.

THE POSTAL CARDS. The Postmaster General anticipates a great demand for the postal cards, five million of which are to be offered for sale at the leading post offices on the first of May.

REAL ESTATE. Quite a large sale of real estate was recently made at North Weymouth. The Messrs. Little disposing of nearly twenty acres of land to Mr. David Bates, about 19 acres to Wm. L. Bradley, and over 21 acres to L. B. Curtis and Peter B. Bradley,—for about $8000. The property is situated on the [illegible] Bridge street.

WHO CAN BEAT THIS. We learn that a child born in East Weymouth, April 1st, whose parents are named Pratt, is blessed with four great-grandmothers, whose united ages are 294; two great-grandfathers, whose united ages are 143 years; two grandfathers, whose united ages are 95 years; two grandmothers whose united ages are 93. The ages respectively of the great-grandmothers is 87, 76, 73, and 58 years; that of the great-grandfathers, 78, 65 years; that of the grandfathers, 54, 40 years; that of the grandmothers, 53, 40 years.

For the Patriot.

Policy Holders.

MR. EDITOR:—

A law of the State provides that each policy holder in a mutual fire insurance company shall be entitled to one vote at the annual meeting for the choice of directors. And yet you could count upon your fingers the number of policy holders, outside the directors, who attended the late annual meeting of the Quincy company. This state of things is true, to a greater or less extent, of nearly all the corporations of the State. The Quincy company seems to be in a prosperous condition, having received, under the assessment call, over $200,000. Still there was not interest enough in the good of the company to induce a score of policy holders to attend the meeting!

Richard J. Thomas.

At a meeting of St. Paul's Lodge, Knights of Pythias, held on Wednesday last, the following Resolutions, presented by the Committee, were accepted, and it was voted that a copy be sent to the afflicted family, and also to the Quincy Patriot for publication.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas,—It has pleased the Almighty Ruler of events to remove from our midst our brother, Richard J. Thomas, by death, it is hereby

Resolved,—That while we bow with submission to the stern decree of an all-wise Providence, we sincerely and deeply deplore the loss as that of a warm-hearted, true and faithful brother.

Resolved,—That while we miss our brother in the fraternal circle, we have the consolation that the loss to us is gain to him, who, we trust has gone to that Celestial Lodge above, where the Supreme Architect of the Universe presides.

Resolved,— That we deeply sympathize with the sisters and brothers who have been bereaved of a fond and loving companion. May they bear the heavy loss with christian fortitude, and feel that he is not lost but gone a little while before to share the joys of heaven with father, mother and brother, who but a short time since preceded him, and where all will finally be gathered never more to part.

E. B. SOUTHER,
G. W. PRESCOTT, } Committee.
C. N. DITSON,
Quincy, April 17, 1873.

Resolutions.

At a regular meeting of St. Paul's Lodge, No. 37, K. of P., held on Wednesday last, the following Resolutions, presented by the Committee appointed for that purpose, were accepted and ordered to be published.

WHEREAS,—Dr. James A. Gordon, of Quincy, has gratuitously presented to the Lodge his bill for services to our departed brother, Richard J. Thomas, it is

Resolved,—That the heartfelt thanks of its members be extended to him for his kind and watchful attention to our suffering brother during his sickness.

Resolved,—That the Friendship, Charity and Benevolence he has shown to us, in giving his bill, (amounting to $50,) will sink deeply into our hearts and strengthen us in the good work we have commenced.

Resolved, — That this generous act commands our warmest sympathies, and may our Heavenly Father deal with him as he in this noble, generous, and almost unprecedented manner, has dealt with us.

E. B. SOUTHER,
G. W. PRESCOTT, } Committee.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of eveny organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

Little Children.

Thank God for little children—
  When our skies are cold and gray,
They steal as sunshine in our hearts,
  And charm our cares away.

I almost think the angels,
  Who tend life's gardens fair,
Drop down the sweet, wild blossoms
  That bloom around us here.

It seems a breath of heaven
  Round many a cradle lies,
And every little baby
  Brings a blessing from the skies.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Suggestions of April.

April, supposed to derive it name from the Latin word Aperire, to open, because the buds open themselves at this period, is, according to our calendar, the fourth month of the year. With the Romans, it was the second month, and contained twenty-nine days. The thirtieth day was added by Julius Cæsar. As late as 1752 the legal year of the English nation commenced on the 25th of March. In England, at the present time, the four seasons are divided in different order from what they are in the United States.—Spring commences with February, summer with May, autumn with August, and winter with November. Each of the seasons commencing one month earlier than with us.

In the United States, we have years commencing at several different periods. The Presidental year begins on the 4th of March. In Massachusetts, the Gubernatorial year begins on the first Wednesday of January. So we have civil years, school years, and fiscal years,—each commencing at a different period of the Julian year. In New England, the farmers have, by common usage, made the first day of April the beginning of their fiscal year. Farm lands, whether sold or rented, change hands on the first of this month, and farm laborers commence their season at this time. In our latitude the custom could hardly be changed for the better. To be sure the buds have not yet opened as much as they have in those countries that gave April its name, but it is high time that all our New England farmers should have selected their location, and made their arrangements for the business of the year that is before them.—New England Farmer.

The Marblehead Squash.

Mr. James J. H. Gregory writes that he has cooked and tested it, and found it "surpassing good." He thus describes: "This new squash, as a rule, is characterized by a shell of a more flinty hardness than the Hubbard. It is usually thicker and flatter at the top. It has a greater specific gravity. The flesh is of rather a lighter color than the Hubbard, while its combination of sweetness, dryness and delicious flavor is something really remarkable. In yield it equals the Hubbard, while its keeping properties are declared to surpass that famous variety. In the important matter of purity, it excels the Hubbard and every squash that I have ever raised. Its outer color is a light blue; not to be confounded with the blue colored squashes that comes at times from the Hubbard seed—mongrels made by a cross of the Hubbard and a thin skinned squash which we used to call Middleton blue, which we were raising before we knew of the Hubbard, and raised for a few years after we had the Hubbard, side by side with it. If the seed of these mongrels be planted, their hybrid character will be seen by a terrible sporting, so dreaded by every farmer; while, on the contrary, the crop from the seed of the "Marblehead" will be found to excel in purity any standard variety of squash." Marshall P. Wilder says of it:—"For solidity and richness, I have seen no squash that ever surpassed it.—Geo. B. Loring says:—"It is delicious; I have seen nothing to equal it since the palmy days of the Marrow.

☞ There are more than a thousand names and described varieties of the pear raised in this country, in the gardens of pomologists and others, and about 2500 varieties of the apple. But few practical cultivators will want more than a dozen of each.

Anecdotes.

An old colored minister, in a sermon on hell, pictured it as a region of ice and snow, where the damned froze throughout eternity.

When privately asked his purpose in representing Gehenna in this way, he said: "I don't dare to tell them people nuffin else. Why, if I were to say dat hell was warm, some o' dem old'rhumatic niggas would be wantin' to start down dar de bery fust frost!"

The following notice was recently posted on the premises of a very rich Kentucky farmer:

"If any man's or woman's cows or oxen gits in these here oats, his or her tail will be cut off as the case may be."

"Mother, I'm afraid a fever would go hard with me."

"Why, my son?"

"'Cause, you see, mother, I'm so small that there wouldn't be room for it to turn."

A friend of ours saw a boy gathering mushrooms, and said "Bub, ain't you afraid of being poisoned?"

"No, I ain't," replied the juvenile; "you don't think I'm going to eat them, do you? I'm going to sell 'em to the restaurants."

SOMETHING NEW.

We have made arrangements with the manufacturers for a new article of Silver Plated

Forks, Spoons, and Knives,

being similar to Rodgers & Brothers' goods, but plated on a BETTER quality of White Metal.—To introduce them we shall sell at one-third less price than is asked for Rodgers & Bros., and WARRANT them to be equal or better.

We have a large stock of Useful House-Keeping Goods,

— IN —

TIN and WOODEN WARE,
TABLE CUTLERY
LAMP GOODS, &c.

In all, we have the largest and most extensive stock of House-keeping Goods to be found in BOSTON.

To those about to commence house-keeping, or to replenish their stock now on hand, we offer special inducements.

Horse-cars from all the depots pass within a few steps of our store.

The public are invited to call. We never ask people to buy, but are pleased to show our goods.

Letters of inquiry answered with pleasure.

THE

Michigan Spring Bed.

WE, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have used the MICHIGAN SPRING BED, for which Thompson & Hitchcock are Proprietors for this County, and after giving said Bed a fair trial, we cheerfully recommend it, as in our opinion, superior to any in market:

Jesse Bunton,	Jos. W. Lombard,
W. Q. Baxter,	G. W. Miles,
Jos. Underwood,	J. E. Hall,
Thaddeus H. Newcomb,	J. H. Morrison,
Samuel T. Allen,	James Newcomb.

The undersigned having purchased the Right for this County to put up and sell the Michigan Spring Bed, of Messrs. Thompson & Hitchcock, is now prepared to furnish all who may give him a call.

I have already taken off numerous kinds of Springs Beds and put mine in their place, to the entire satisfaction of those making the change.

My Ware-Rooms are at

No. 75 Hancock Street,

where all are invited to come and examine the Michigan Spring Bed, which I claim to be superior to any in the country in point of comfort, durability, price, and every other quality which goes to make up a good bed.

Beds put up on Trial—and no one is asked to purchase until after a fair test. Over one thousand of these Beds are sold every week in this State.

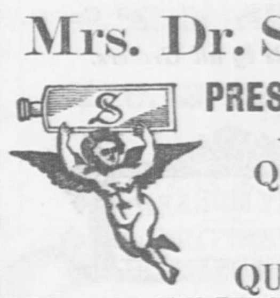
Mrs. Dr. Secor's



PRESCRIPTIONS.

QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the

Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No. 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions:

References.—Samuel Burnham, editor of the Congregational Yearly; E. R. Humphreys, LL. D., M. D., B. R. Gilbert, Esq., Benjamin Cushing, Esq., F. C. March 22—1y Post Office Building.

DR. FLINT'S QUAKER BITTERS

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwise, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE DIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Poetry.

The Young Husband's Dilemma.

John had just married and brought home a bride,
A graceful and buxom and beautiful miss;
And when at the altar he stood at her side,
It seemed the last drop in his full cup of bliss.

Indeed she was one of the fairest of creatures;
Her lips were like rubies, her teeth white as pearls;
The rose might have borrowed its hue from her features;
The sunlight was mocked by her bright golden curls.

With feasting and music the bright moments flew,
Till midnight approached, and the bride and her groom,
After bidding their friends and companions adieu,
Retired—together of course—to their room.

There her beautiful wreath, and her gossamer veil,
On the top of the bureau she carefully laid,
Then placing her dress with her long silken trail,
On the back of a chair by the side of the bed.

And then, one by one,—but I can't tell the name
Of the various garments, embroidered and white,
Nor the feeling which over the young husband came,
As he sat and observed her disrobe for the night.

But a brilliant and charming illusion, I ween,
The possessor of such a position dispels,
To a man who has heard, but never yet seen,
That wonderful process, the peeling of belles.

So John felt, on seeing those beautiful curls,
Those glorious masses of bright golden hair,
And the teeth he admired—they were whiter than pearls:
All laid in a box that she placed on a chair.

Meanwhile in that box something more caught his eye,—
To show how the artist Dame Nature can mock—
A full and judiciously chosen supply,
Of cosmetics ad lib., rouge, enamel and chalk.

From her cheeks came her plumpers; lest she should lose 'em,
She placed in her toilet box too, with the rest;
Then swiftly detached the full, palpitant bosom
Her lover so fondly, so blindly had pressed.

Then placed on the chair the huge cushions she wore,
When her husband was still more than ever nonplussed,
To see what he never had witnessed before—
A fair woman's bustle abreast of her bust.

Then touching a spring that was hidden somewhere,
Her lower limbs pared precisely in halves,
And she laid on the altar—I mean, on the chair—
Her last sacrifice,—a pair of fat calves.

Her dissection completed, she plunged under cover,
Like a lath that might into a rivulet drop—
Then tenderly asked of her motionless lover,
"My darling, how long do you mean to sit up?"

"My dear, I am quite undecided," he said,
"What course in the case would be proper and fair—
To follow the fraction that got into bed,
Or stay up with the part that is piled on the chair."

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

TO CLEAN OIL-PAINTED SURFACES. Take a piece of soft flannel, put it in warm water, and squeeze it till it feels dry; next dip it gently on to some very finely pulverized French chalk, and rub the painted surface with the flannel; the effect will be the removal of all dust, greasy matter and dirt; the surface is next washed with a clean sponge and water, and dried with a piece of wash-leather. This method does not injure the paint like soap, and produces a very good result.

CORN BREAD. Two teacups of sweet milk, one egg, one and one-half teacups wheat flour, two teacups Indian meal, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, a little salt, four teaspoonfuls of cream tartar put on with flour, two teaspoonsfuls of soda dissolved in warm water; add this the last thing. Bake in gem pans in a quick oven.

Miscellany.

The Deacon's Plot.

A reasonably good man was Deacon Pilsey, as times went, but if he had a weakness, it was for making things in general do about as he wanted them to. Not an overbearing man by any means, and certainly not a violent one, but, with wonderfully cute and quiet and subtle ways of his own, by which he brought matters about without letting other folks know how the thing was done. When a man is accustomed to have his own way, he makes up his mind pretty easily; but there was one point of all others upon which Deacon Pilsey had been set and fixed for years, and the care of which lay heavy on his mind, for the time had come when, in his judgement something deep required to be planned and all his skill exercised in carrying it out. To a mind like his, that had taken a perfect measure of every other in the village, and for miles around it, there could be little difficulty in selecting his tools and assistants, and he had no need of counsellors. That was how he came to be talking so confidentially with Joe Gaines, as they two stood by the yard-gate.

"Why deacon," said Joe, "I always thought you liked Bob Humphrey. He's a tiptop fellow, and a good match for any girl I know of."

"So he is, so he is," replied the deacon. "Can't say a word agin him. Known him from a boy. Can't forbid him the house, or any of that sort of nonsense; but, then, he can't have Irene Wyer."

"I don't see how you'll help it, deacon. You're only her guardian, and she is about of age."

"Not for a year yet—that's how the will reads—and she's in my own house, you know. I guess I can fix some things, 'specially if you'll turn in and help me.—You're a lawyer, Joe Gaines, but you're a young one yet, and I'll give you the fattest fee you ever dreamed of if you'll only hitch teams with me, and see that Bob Humphrey don't get the upper hand."

"Well, if that's what you're after, so it's all right and square, I'd as leif earn a fee one way as another. What's your programme.

"Well, you know there's nigh onto thirty thousand coming to Irene Wyer, in her own right, and I've took the best kind o' keer of it. It's been a mighty sight of trouble, and all along I've thought of my son Scott."

"Scott Pilsey?" interrupted Joe.—"Why he's in California."

"He won't be long. He's comin' home inside of six months, and I want to keep Irene safe for him. They used to be wonderful thick, and he writ to her reglar ever so long after he went away, and so did she to him.

"Do they not correspond now?" said Joe.

"No, not now. There's the rub.—That's one reason I'm looking out so sharp arter Bob. Now, I want you to just take a holt and try to keep Bob off till Scott gets back. 'Twon't be for long, and Irene ain't such bad company nohow.

"I don't know," said Joe. "There's Maggie and her mother. I couldn't be particularly attentive to Irene without Bob Humphrey'll be sure to be around most of the time, and it won't be long before I have the whole village talking the matter up."

"Never mind that, Joe, never mind that. It'll be all right when Scott gets home. I'll give you the biggest kind of a fee."

"Well, deacon," coolly replied the lawyer, "its a pretty tough case, but I'll take it on one condition."

"What's that?"

"Why, so long as it's only fun, and all that, I'll go ahead, but if it seems as if I was doing any harm, anything real bad, you know, I'm to be at liberty to back out."

"Well, I don't mind, so long as you let me know in time."

And so the deacon and the lawyer discussed their plot to their satisfaction, and when all was settled the latter took his own way down the broad and grass grown street of the village.

"The old shark!" he muttered, as he strolled leisurely on. "What on earth put it into his plotting old head to pitch on me for his tool? He never was more'n half decent to me before. I reckon I'll earn my fee, but I'll be fair and square with Bob Humphrey. What would Irene say if she knew what was up? Wouldn't those black eyes of her's strike fire!"

Now, it happened that of late, unknown perhaps, to the deacon, there had been growing up more than a little intimacy between Joe Gaines and Bob Humphrey, and thus it was treachery to his friend as well as unfair to the pretty heiress, to which the young lawyer had allowed himself to be bribed by the deacon's promised fee.

A deep fellow was Joe Gaines, and a marvelous manipulator of social affairs. Again and again, as the days and weeks and months went by, Deacon Pilsey congratulated himself on his admirable selection, and chuckled in his inmost being as he witnessed the well-contrived success of Joe's manœuvres. There were picnics and drives and parties, and entertainments of various kinds, but in vain did Bob Humphrey invite or propose, the young lawyer was sure to be beforehand with him, and it almost seemed as if sweet unassuming, quiet little Maggie Pilsey herself, the deacon's daughter, had joined the secret league against her friend Irene, so often was some excuse devised by which she was made to appear in the latter's stead.

Then, too, there were the home evenings at the deacon's house, when the subtle minded old plotter could have hugged himself with satisfaction as he sat by and witnessed with his own eyes the admirable manner in which Joe Gaines worked for his fee.

"It takes a lawyer, after all," he said to himself. "I don't care much what he charged. I only hope he'll keep it up that way till Scott gits home again. And then to see Bob Humphrey! Why, the feller's got perseverance of the saints, but he ain't nowhere with Joe Gaines."

As for Irene Wyer herself, her red lips laughed and pouted, and her bright black eyes sparkled and deepened, and her life seemed flowing onward very pleasantly, as if no deep-laid plots and schemings had any power over her or her happiness. Moreover, through it all Joe Gaines seemed to maintain the most complete external semblance of frank-hearted friendship with Bob Humphrey. Odd as it may seem, the young lawyer also found that his practice had undergone very sensible increase, caused mainly by the warm, though covert, encomiums which the good deacon's heart compelled him to utter here and there, in his keen appreciation of his young friend's tact and management.

Time will fly, however, and the mails at last brought to the Pilsey homestead the welcome news that its absent hope and heir would shortly return. There were letters from Scott Pilsey to his mother and his sister Maggie, and to Irene Wyer, and even to his old cronies and schoolmates, Joe Gaines and Bob Humphrey, and to each one he had doubtless some matter of special interest to communicate.

No noisy, smoky, disgusting railway trains as yet vexed the retirement and repose of the village, but at last, on a morning when all things were in a state of almost painful expectancy of his arrival, not the ordinary stage-coach, but a private hired carriage, heavy with trunks and packages, bore Scott Pilsey to the door of his father's home.

In an instant the little veranda was full of those who awaited him, but when the deacon's tall, sun-burned and bushy-beared son sprang out upon the grass, he turned his back to the veranda for a moment, while he aided the movements of a graceful, well-favored, dark-featured young lady, who followed him, and whom, even first in the warmth of his "welcome home," he introduced as "my wife, my Lucia."

Maggie Pilsey hugged and kissed her, and so did Irene Wyer, and so, in a moment more, did old Mrs. Pilsey, and the deacon was too wise a man to seem altogether astonished, while Joe Gaines and Bob Humphrey were fairly boisterous. In fact, Scott Pilsey's California bride was so overcome by the warmth of her greeting, that the poor young thing forgot her pride and burst into tears.—In half a minute after that there wasn't a lady visible, and then Bob and Joe knew enough to leave the deacon and his son to themselves. The two young men walked off arm in arm, but they were back again before the day was over.

The deacon's face was a trifle serious, but not exactly cloudy, and before long he managed to get Joe Gaines off by himself for a bit of private conversation.

"And so, Joe,' he said, "you and the rest knew all about this matter of Scott's some time ago!"

"Well, yes; Irene told me in confidence, and then, when they wrote and told Scott how matters were here, he wrote to congratulate us, and begged us not to spoil his surprise to you. We couldn't tell after all that, you know."

"Ahem! well—no—I can't say; but p'raps not. I can't be mad with Scott, for she's brought him a big ranche and a mine; but what am I to do with you now? I like Bob Humphrey first-rate—I allers did like Bob—and now it can't be Scott, I don't see as I ort to interfere. You've arned your fee, and I'll pay it; but, then, you see, there ain't no more use——"

"Oh! no; not a bit," interrupted Joe. Bob is a good fellow, and he and Maggie are just suited. Irene and I think that Maggie couldn't have made a better match, and we think Scott's done splendidly well."

"Irene and you," exclaimed the deacon.

"Yes, of course. I've explained to Irene that I can't afford to lose my fee. I told her so at the beginning, and she said I must earn it. Seems to me I've done that; but I'll let you up."

"Done it!" exclaimed the deacon.—"Well, yes, Joe: on the whole, I should rather be inclined to say I guess I think you HAVE!—Yes—YOU AND IRENE!"

Postal Cards.

The card adopted is five and one-eighth inches in length and three inches in width, and is made of good stiff paper, water-marked with the initials U. S. P. O. D. in monogram. The face of the card is engraved surrounded by a border in scroll work one-eighth of an inch in width. The one cent stamp, printed on the upper right-hand corner, is from a profile bust of the Goddess of Liberty, looking to the left and surrounded by a lathework border, with the words "U. S. Postage" inscribed above and "one cent" below. On the upper left-hand corner are the words "United States Postal Card," with directions to "write the address only on this side—the message on the other." Underneath and occupying the lower half of the card are ruled lines on which to write the address, the top line being prefixed with the word "To———." The back of the card, intended for the communication, is entirely plain, being devoid even of ruled lines. In color the body of the card is light cream; the printing velvet brown. No variation in size, shape, color, or in any other particular will be made from the regular style, to accomodate special cases; nor will the Department do any printing on the cards beyond the engraving specified in the description. Postal Cards will be sold for one cent each, neither more nor less, whether in large quantities or in small.

The object of the Postal Cards is to facilitate letter correspondence, and provide for the transmission through the mails, at a reduced rate of postage, of short communications either printed or written in pencil or ink. They may therefore be used for orders, invitations, notices, receipts, acknowledgments, and other requirements of business and social life, and the matter desired to be conveyed may be either in writing or in print, or partially in both. In their treatment as mail matter they are to be regarded by Postmasters the same as sealed letters, and not as printed matter, except that in no case will unclaimed cards be sent to the Dead Letter Office.

An ordinary printed business card may be sent through the mails when prepaid by a one cent postage stamp attached, but such card must contain absolutely no written matter except the address, otherwise it will be treated as not fully prepaid, and refused admission into the mails.

All cards different from those herein, described, bearing embossed or printed postage stamps, and purporting to be United States postal cards, are counterfeit: and the manufacturer of such cards, or the attempt to use the same, will subject the offender to a fine of five hundred dollars and imprisonment for five years.—[Sec. 178 Postal Code.

Postmasters will not under any circumstances, be permitted to reduce or exchange, postal cards that may be misdirected, spoiled in printing, or otherwise rendered unfit for use, in the hands of private holders.

The Department will not furnish less than five hundred cards on the order of a Postmaster. Individuals desiring postal cards will purchase them of a Postmaster, as in no case can they obtain them upon direct application to the Department.

Getting Ahead.

Here is a curious example of "taking time by the forelock":—My grandmother once awoke my grandfather in the middle of the night, and told him she much feared their son Willie had become deranged, as she had been listening to him for some time speaking loudly and rapidly to himself. Her husband listened, came to the same conclusion, and they forthwith hurried into their boy's bedroom to know what was the matter. Willie's explanation was, that as they were going to the seaside next day, he wished to save time and was saying his prayers over and over to last him through the holidays.

Breaking Ice.

While a colored gentleman was swinging himself from a hook in an ice house, at Louisville, the hook came out and the darkey landed in the cellar, striking his head on a chunk of ice, breaking it in pieces. His employer hurried down, expecting to find Sambo dead, but there he sat looking at the place he fell from; and on seeing the gentleman, the darkey exclaimed, "Fo' de Lord, boss, I'se sorry I broke dat ice; I is, sartin."

The Oyster Trade.

The New York Herald says the oyster season has already begun to wane, and those in the trade are able to detect a diminution in the demand. The appetites of the million oyster eaters of this city have already become satiated, and it will need the interval of another Summer to again render the bivalves appreciable. The month of May—in which name there is not to be found the cabalistic letter "R"—sees the trade almost at a standstill; for, strange as it may seem, there are many persons who will eat oysters up to the night of April 30, but who shun them on the following day. Even those who are not superstitious bow without hesitation to the generally received theory that the oyster becomes unfit to eat after April, and abandon their customary order at the lunch counter of "oysters on the half shell." Yet those who profess to be the best judges declare that during no part of the year are the oysters better than in the middle of May. The oyster is then in the healthiest condition, and unless the weather is exceedingly warm, they are as solid as during the Winter. Be this as it may the oystermen do not find that it pays to keep their large stores open, but devote their attention to planting seed for future crops.

During the season about closing the supply has been somewhat limited by the exceedingly cold weather, which has caused heavy sheets of ice to form over the beds and thus rendered them inaccessible to the fishermen. It is not believed that the oysters have to any great extent been killed by the cold weather.—The oysters are planted two years before the season for which they are to be put on the market.

The transplanting this Spring for next season was treble as great as in any previous year, and the preparations already making for putting down the young oysters are on a still larger scale.

The oysters used for planting are about the size of a grain of corn, and are obtained in great quantities from Great South Bay and from various coves up the Sound and up the Hudson. They average about three thousand to the basket, and at the end of two years have grown so large that not more than one hundred and fifty to two hundred can be placed in the same measure.

New York city consumes at present an average of 1,500,000 oysters daily.—Fulton market alone using 200,000.

Nearly three thousand vessels, including those from a sailboat to a schooner of 200 tons burden, are employed in the service.

Disinfectants in the School Room.

While sulphurous acid, chloride of lime, and carbolate of lime cannot be used without inconvenience, on account of their unpleasant odor, in frequented rooms chemical science has brought out a disinfectant apparently more effective than either, which can be safely and conveniently used anywhere, since it is free from odor, and when properly diluted does no harm to the color texture of carpets or furniture. This is brom-chloralum.—Would it not be worth while, as a sanitary measure, occasionally to sprinkle the floors of our school rooms, churches, and other assembly rooms with it? If this were done at the close of a season, the air, instead of being kept in its foul condition until the next gathering would have a tendency to accumulation of healthiness in the atmosphere of the rooms. No thoughtful person can doubt that; the question how may we secure the best sanitary condition of our school rooms and public halls? is worthy of more attention than it has generally received.—Journal of Applied Chemistry.

No repentance in the Grave.

A Scottish clergyman, happening to go into the churchyard, while the beadle was employed neck deep in digging a grave, thus accosted him:—"Well, Saunders, that's a work you're employed in well calculated to make an old man like you thoughtful. I wonder you don't repent of your evil ways." The old worthy, resting on the head of his spade, and taking a pinch of snuff, replied, "I thought, sir, ye ken'd that there was nae repentance in the grave."

Learning to Write.

A youthful American citizen of African descent emigrated some time ago to the town of Lebanon, Pa., where his reconstruction was at once undertaken by the benevolent inhabitants. With much difficulty he advanced as far as "pothooks and hangers," and while still at that stage of progress, had the occasion to visit one of the local papers. Glancing around, his eye lighted on a pile of editorial manuscript, and he suddenly electrified the establishment by exclaiming in a tone of delighted surprise:—

"By golly! heah's another feller jist larnin' to writ!"

Then they put him out.]

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1873.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

A Merited Presentation. Over one hundred ladies and gentlemen with their children, on the 17th inst, surprised their popular teacher L. F. Hobbs, Esq., principal in the Quincy school by calling at his residence and presenting him with a splendid bronze clock, valued at sixty dollars.

The presentation address was made by Thos. Gurney, Esq. It was brief, but very appropriate, expressing the feelings of the donors and the high estimation they entertain for their popular teacher; which was feelingly responded to by the recipient, who was a little embarrassed at this sudden and unexpected testimonial for his services as a teacher. Then followed cordial congratulations from his numerous friends present; after which, instrumental and vocal music filled every room, which was kept up until 10 o'clock, when this great surprise party, heartily invited the recipient and his good lady, to join them in a repast, bountifully supplied by them. The party, then retired, with many kind wishes for their teacher's future good health, happiness and prosperity.

May Festival. As will be seen by announcement in another column, both old and young are to have an opportunity of enjoying a day's recreation in a rational manner. The change of our climate has rendered a change from out-door to in-door sports necessary, and this annual gathering is looked forward to with ardent longings by the children. Let all the parents who can then join with the children and show by their presence their interest in their pleasure and enjoyment. In the evening Mr. Brown's annual concert will take place.

Among the artists he will then present will be the far-famed and justly celebrated favorites, The "Highland Quartette," whose beautiful rendering of the standard English Glees and four-part songs, have made them so popular.

Miss Abbie R. Clark, who as Solo Pianist, Accompanist and Contralto ranks second to none in the State.

Miss Eloise L. Fuller of Boston, whose young, but full and powerful Soprano thrills the listener.

Mrs. J. W. Howland whose sympathetic tones appeal most powerfully to each one's finer feelings.

Mr. M. A. Perkins is too well known to require either introduction or compliment.

With this array of talent it is confidently expected that the Town Hall will be filled, and all hearts made glad with the choice morceaux presented.

Auctions. Joseph T. French will sell on Monday next, at 1 o'clock, at the Ledge of Z. M. Strong, two derricks, stone tools, blacksmith's tools, chains, horse, express wagon, stone wagon, four shoats, cow and numerous other articles.

On Tuesday at 1 o'clock, he will sell the household furniture at the house recently occupied by Josiah Bass, in North Quincy.

On Wednesday at the same hour, the same gentleman will sell real and personal property, belonging to Mr. Alexander Feltis, on Quincy Avenue. For full particulars read advertisement in to-day's paper.

Auction Sale. E. F. E. Thayer, Esq., will sell at auction on Thursday next, at 1 o'clock at the residence of Ebenezer C. Thayer, on Elm street in Braintree, a horse, farming tools and household furniture. There will be no postponement, weather fair or foul.—Good bargains may be secured by visiting this sale.

Farm for Sale. It will be seen by an advertisement in to-day's paper, that Mr. Joseph R. Frasier, will sell a farm, dwelling house and other buildings, on Wednesday next, in Braintree. Read advertisement for particulars.

Large Invoice of Eggs. Four tons of eggs, which were collected from the several towns on Cape Cod, were delivered to a firm in Quincy on Tuesday. They will be assorted and sent to Boston in small boxes. A like quantity of eggs or about one thousand dozen, are received by this firm tri-weekly, packed in small quantities and sent to Boston.—Boston Journal.

Runaway Accident. Last Sunday evening, a little after nine o'clock, as a gentleman named Binney, and a lady from Weymouth, were driving through town, the horse became frightened, when near the town pump, and sheered, striking a stone post at the head of Granite street, with such force as to break off one of the wheels of the buggy. At this, the animal started off at Gilpin speed, and the top of the carriage came in contact with one of the posts under the bridge, throwing out the occupants with great violence. The lady was fortunate in escaping without injury, but the gentleman was picked up insensible, and we have since learned, that doubts are entertained of his recovery.

Accident. A little boy about nine years of age, son of Mr. Henry E. Flint, of this town, while playing ball in front of Mr. Daniel Baxter's store, on Thursday morning last, was run over and quite badly injured

Yachting. Much interest in yachting is beginning to be manifested by our local yachtmen, and the coming season promises to be one of unusual excitement among our "jolly tars," who have the taste, means, and time to spend in dancing on the bounding billows.

Capt. Maybury of the Point, has at his yard, one of his finest yachts nearly completed, for a member of the Dorchester yacht club.

The success which attended Capt. Bass in the construction of his little prize yacht "Rocket," last fall, has had a wonderful effect on our marine builders, and already Capt. Newcomb's "F. F. Wait," lies as graceful as a swan in the canal, awaiting her mast and rigging; and Capt Turner has nearly completed his "Dolphin," while Capt. Keith has the keel laid for another addition to the "mosquito fleet." In another issue we will endeavor to present our readers with a minute description of each of the above yachts, together with such other information of interest to yachtmen as we may be able to gather.

District Court. The business before this Court has been very light the present week. On Saturday last, David B. Barnes of Weymouth, was tried for an assault on Joseph Dessotelle. He was ordered to pay the costs, and give bonds in the sum of $300 to keep the peace for one year.

But one case was on trial Friday.—Joseph H. Thayer of Quincy Neck, charged with committing an assault, with a knife, on Charles Harrington. He was ordered to pay the costs, and give security in the sum of $200, to keep the peace for six months.

Large Eggs. The biddies in this vicinity have been striving to vie with each other, in producing the largest hen fruit. On Saturday last, Mr. Ira Litchfield, who resides on Pearl street, in this town, sent to this office one dozen of the largest and handsomest eggs, which we ever saw. These eggs are the most profitable kind to buy as it will only need one to make a pudding or pie, and three will do for a dinner for a large family.—This dozen weighed two pounds, ten and a half ounces, and this was no extra exertion of these famous hens, but an every day affair. Had the biddies expected a puff in the Patriot we hardly know what would have been the consequences. The hens are of the Brahma breed. If any of our friends can show a better production of eggs we will be glad to announce the fact, and give the eggs-act weight and measure.

Real Estate Sales. Nancy G. wife of Isaiah P. White has sold 11,650 feet of land, on the southerly side of Liberty street in this town, with buildings to Abel Nutting for $2700.

Emanuel Samuels sold to Flora A., wife of Edward Hardwick, land with buildings on the southerly side of Quincy street in this town for $3500.

H. W. Blanchard, sold to Edward W. Coleman, house and about 8000 feet of land, on Atlantic Avenue, North Quincy, for $2,650.00

The remainder of the Josiah Bass estate, situated on Squantum and Hancock streets, was sold at auction recently at 2 1-4 cents per foot, amounting to $2649.51. The purchaser was A. W. Russell, Esq., of this town.

Winslow Burrell sold 55 rods of land with buildings, between Sea street and Newton avenue, Weymouth, to Augusta B., wife of Joseph T. French of this town, for $2000.

Life Insurance. A very large number of our citizens have had their lives insured, still there are many more who could and should do so.

A gentleman of fortune should avail himself of life insurance, as it will provide money for immediate use on the death of the insured. His property may consist of dwelling houses, warehouses, land, mines, ships, stock shares, loans, and yet when he dies there may be very little actual money at his credit or within reach. Money is needed now and must be raised either by borrowing or selling. Both processes are likely to be costly and troublesome. The safest and most independent course is to take out a life policy for a few thousand dollars, and then the difficulties all vanish. The ready money is provided for urgent claims, and no trouble, no sacrifice of any kind is needed.

If it is of great value to the rich, it is much more so to the medium classes.—Many of our citizens who have looked into this matter have come to this conclusion, and have taken policies in the New York Life Insurance Company,—one of the largest, safest, and most reliable companies in this country. Read their twenty-eighth annual report in our columns to-day, and think of the matter carefully for yourself.

Tragedy in Malden. There was a great excitement in Malden, on Wednesday last, caused by the murder of Mrs. Mark Boothby by her husband, while intoxicated. The terrible deed was done with an Enfield rifle, loaded with buck shot; killing her instantly.

☞ Rev. Mr. Emery, who recently resigned his pastorate of the First Church at North Weymouth, will erect a new dwelling on his land near the site of the Parsonage, the Parish having added to his estate a piece of land belonging to them, and which they are empowered to convey by Legislative act. The parish, we learn, presented their retiring pastor with a gift of $1,500 in money.—Hingham Journal.

The library of congress has twice doubled within twelve years, and now numbers 250,000 volumes.

Burlesque Performance. "Dan Mitchell's Triple Combination Troupe," appeared before a Quincy audience, at the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, in the "first of a series of entertainments," as the printed advertisements announce. The "series" will probably be short, if the next performance equals the first.

Entertainments, either dramatic or musical, when they are of real excellence, find favor with our citizens; but the frequent raids made upon us by travelling troupes with high-sounding titles, startling announcements, and — half-fledged artists, have created contempt and disgust among the play-goers, and in consequence, as a general thing—slim houses.

We would advise Dan, in a friendly way, to discharge at least two-thirds of his "distinguished artists," who would be of more benefit to the community by blacking boots, than in trying to amuse the public by blacking their faces.

Base Ball. A friendly game of ball was played at Braintree, on the 19th instant, between the Quincy B. B. C. of Quincy and the Actives of Braintree, in which the former were victorious by a score of 21 to 20. Below is a summary.

Hard on Moses. About 2 o'clock Sunday morning, Special Officer Robinson found in State street, Moses M Bixby of Quincy, who had on a vest, shirt and a small portion of a pair of pants. He said he had been robbed of the rest, together with $15 in money. That portion of the pants which he retained consisted of a pocket which contained $25 which he had desperately clung to. He is reported as having been slightly intoxicated.—Boston Herald.

Accident. Alonzo Burke, attempted to get upon the 5 1-2 o'clock train on the Old Colony road on Monday while it was in motion near Milton Lower Mills. He slipped and fell under the train, and two cars passed over his head, killing him instantly. He was a married man and lived in Mattapan, to which place his body was carried.

The Stokes Case. A decision adverse to Edward S. Stokes having been rendered in New York, on Wednesday, there was consternation among the friends of the prisoner. It is now thought that all hopes of saving Stokes from the gallows are at an end, The prisoner himself was very much dejected, and seems to have abandoned all hope. There was considerable excitement in Court when the decision was annouced.

Political. General Butler announces that he will again be a candidate for the Massachusetts Governorship.

☞ The May number of Demorest's Monthly Magazine presents its usual array of beautiful novelties in the way of Stories, Household matters, Spring Fashions, original Music, etc. The amount of useful information and entertaining literature in each number of this model Magazine makes it a marvel of enterprise.

Two Oil Chromos, worth $10, are given as a premium to each subscriber.

Transportation of Live Fish. The California Fish Commissioners, with the object of improving the fish stock of that State, have undertaken the project of transporting alive across the continent a car load of the best varieties of Atlantic coast fish not found in California. The car will be sent to the Cold Spring Trout Ponds, Charlestown, N H., where the fish will be collected, and the car will be thoroughly fitted up previous to its departure so as to form as complete an aquarium as the circumstances will permit. The car will probably leave the latter part of May, and is expected to carry eight or ten different varieties of live fish with nearly two thousand gallons of water. The undertaking will be on the largest scale yet attempted in this line.

The Great Eastern. It is said that the Great Eastern, after laying the Atlantic Cable, will take a cargo to Europe, on her return trip, to consist of fifteen thousand tons of coal—the largest cargo of that commodity ever afloat. One of the principal shippers has contracted to load the steamer in fifteen days, and is now building a number of flat boats for the purpose, which will be used in lightering to her at a distance of one and a half miles out.

Divorces in Connecticut. The Hartford Courant publishes a list of twenty-five divorce cases granted during the present term of the Superior Court in that city which began last month, making an average of about one a day.

The couple that suffered the longest stood it sixteen years and four months; but one pair got more than they bargained for in one year and three months, "and yet they were not happy."

DOWNING'S SEEDLING

GOOSEBERRIES.

A NEW VARIETY, very thrifty and prolific, of upright growth—fruit of large size and of best quality.

The Fruit Committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in their last Annual Report, say:—

"The shows of native Gooseberries have been remarkably fine. The prizes on the 20th of July, were awarded first, to the Downing; second, to Smith's Seedling — and third to Houghton's Seedling, and we think that these awards justly express the relative value of the kinds. Certainly they are all superior in quality to the Mountain Seedling."

At the Society's Exhibitions on the 20th and 27th of July, 1872, the first premiums (for best Gooseberries) were awarded to the subscriber for Downing's Seedling.

DOGS. DOGS.

OWNERS of Dogs in this town are hereby reminded that said dogs must be registered in the Clerk's Office during the present month. Dogs which were numbered and registered in 1872, can retain the same numbers the present year, if their owners make application therefor before the first of May next. The fee in all cases to be paid in advance.

GEO. L. GILL, Town Clerk.

Quincy, April 3, 1872.

Extracts from the Statutes of 1867,

CHAPTER 130.

Sect. 1. Every owner or keeper of a dog shall annually, on or before the thirtieth day of April, cause it to be registered, numbered, described and licensed for one year from the first day of the ensuing May, in the office of the clerk in the city or town wherein said dog is kept, and shall cause it to wear around its neck a collar, distinctly marked with its owner's name and its registered number, and shall pay for such license for a male dog two dollars, and for a female dog five dollars.

Sect. 5. Any person keeping a dog contrary to the provisions of this act, shall forfeit fifteen dollars, to be recovered by complaint or indictment; and of said fine or forfeiture five dollars shall be paid to the complainant, and ten dollars shall be paid to the treasurer of the county in which the dog is kept, except that in the County of Suffolk the ten dollars shall be paid to the treasurer of the city or town wherein said dog is kept. A license from the Clerk of any city or town shall be valid in any part of the Commonwealth and may be transferred with the dog licensed.—Provided said license be recorded by the clerk of the city or town where such dog is kept.

Single Copies 5 cents
FOR SALE AT
The Old Colony & Newport Depot, Boston,
E. H. Doble & Co.'s Store, West Quincy,
Souther's Periodical Store, Quincy, and at
THE PATRIOT OFFICE.

A BIG PRICE. We copy the following paragraph from the Boston Traveller, of Wednesday last. It seems impossible, that it can be the truth and if not it should be corrected. We call on those knowing the facts, to give them to our citizens through the columns of the PATRIOT:—

A pretty steep Charge. In making up the auditors' account for the year, one of the board of auditors spoke to a Mr. Washburn to help him write it up. After the town meeting, Mr. Washburn presented his bill to the selectmen for 24 1-2 days' work, at $7 per day, amounting to $171.50. The fathers of the town refused to pay the exorbitant charge without the approval of the board of auditors, and the names of Messrs. Parker, Howland and Taylor were obtained, but Mr. Henry H. Faxon would not approve the bill, and informed the selectmen that such a claim never ought to be paid. The bill was paid, the majority as above, three out of five of the auditors, having approved it.

BIG EGGS. John Hobart of East Abington, presented the Editor of the Standard, with an egg laid by one of his hens, measuring eight and three-eighths inches in circumference the long way, and six and three-quarters inches over the larger part of the shortest way. It does not compare very favorably with the one shown us by Mr. Jonathan Baxter of this town, which measured nine by seven and one-half inches.

THE HOOSAC TUNNEL. Copies of the majority report of the Legislative Committee on Railways were in circulation about the State House on Tuesday last signed by six members of the Committee. It provides for the consolidation of the Fitchburg, Vermont and Massachusetts, Boston and Lowell, Troy and Boston Railroads with the interest of the State in the Troy and Greenfield, which includes the Tunnel, and the Southern Vermont Railroads, the whole to be known as the Boston and Northwestern Railroad Company. The bill is a very important one, and the result of a great amount of labor. Its main features are: The control by the State of the Tunnel, Southern Vermont, Troy and Greenfield, Troy and Boston, Vermont and Massachusetts and Fitchburg Railroads—by leasing the last two perpetually—the whole managed by a Board of Trustees.

Marriages.

In Boston, April 17th, by Rev. Warren H. Cudworth, John J. Glover, Esq., to Mrs. Orpah B. Roundy, both of this town.

No cards issued, friends cordially received.

In this town, April 22d, by Rev. S. Kelley, Mr. Charles T. Blakney to Miss Margaret Flaherty, both of Hudson Mass.

April 17th, at the residence of the bride's father by the Rev. Dr. Morrison of Milton, Mr. Eugene Cain, of Boston, to Miss Juliet A., youngest daughter of Noah Cummings, Esq., of this town.

The young couple who so kindly remembered us, will please accept our congratulations. May their paths be strewn with buds and blossoms, and their future be one of pleasure and happiness.

April 17th, by Rev. Francis A. Friguglietti, Mr. Joseph Murcill to Miss Ellen Falvey.

April 22d, by Rev. John D. Wells, Mr. Isaac H. Young of Barrington, N. H. to Miss Ada Ewell, of this town.

In East Braintree, April 22d, by Rev. William F. Lloyd, Mr. Craumore N. Wallace to Miss Mary A. Avery.

Deaths.

In this town, April 16th, Mrs. Ann wife of Mr. Lawrence Rossiter, aged 52 years. [Corrected.]

April 24th, Nellie G., daughter of Mr. Chas. H. and Mrs. Margetta Richards, aged 2 years, 2 months and 26 days.

In Bridgewater, April 22d, Mr. Jonathan F. Wellington, of Milton, aged 73 years and 4 months.

In South Braintree, April 22d, Mr. Gardner S. Penniman, aged 47 years.

Special Notices.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of every organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a billious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

SPRING FLOWERS. Notwithstanding the backward state of the season, spring flowers have commenced blooming. Here and there, in a garden, may be seen a modest looking little flower, peeping out of the earth, but looking as if it were frightened when it saw the profusion of rich colors, glowing in the sunshine in the windows of the house. One of the earliest of the wild wood flowers, is the trailing arbutus, which has already made its appearance in the woods at Plymouth and the Cape, and is eagerly sought after by everybody for its beauty and fragrance. A friend made us the recipient of a bunch of these beautiful flowers this week, for which she will please accept our thanks.

SPLENDID BARGAINS. By referring to our advertising columns it will be seen that at Cushman & Brooks' establishment 37 and 39 Temple Place, Boston, parasols and sun umbrellas, in the latest and most fashionable shapes are to be found at low prices. They also offer splendid bargains in gloves, for spring and summer wear. But their specialty is in their hoisery department to which they would particularly invite the attention of the ladies of Quincy. A fine assortment of Spring and Summer under-clothing, at prices much below any former season, are to be seen in this model establishment. But the most attractive display to the ladies is their magnificent stock of millinery goods. No other store can produce such a line of these goods, and sell them at such reasonable prices. Ladies of Quincy and vicinity, Messrs Cushman & Brooks particularly invite you to visit their establishment when on a shopping expedition, to admire their beautiful French flowers, rich ribbons and handsome trimmings, of which articles they always have a full line.

REDEMPTION OF STAMPS. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue states that his Bureau has redeemed since last Oct. $200,000 worth of stamps made useless by the act abolishing the tax on many dutiable articles.

☞ Five of the public schools in Holyoke, Mass., have been closed, and another soon will be, because the Catholic citizens prefer to educate their children in their own way. In consequence, the town's school expenses have been reduced four thousand dollars in the item of salaries.

RELIGIOUS. The Portland ministers in one of the daily papers there, are discussing with warmth religious matters as treated in a recent Easter sermon. The strictures have led to some personalities, which are always to be depercated. Revivals are reported in some of the churches. Rev. Dr Hill is giving great satisfaction at the First Unitarian Society of Portland.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Whichever way we turn our eyes,
We see improvements have been made;
Each seeking by some new device
To cast all others in the shade;
In commerce and mechanics, too,
Great changes a few years do show;
Things which our fathers never knew
Nor dreamed of fifty years ago.
See what improvements at FENNO'S,
Where Boys can buy a "SUIT COMPLETE"
Of handsome, seasonable "CLOTHES,"

Poetry.

Premium Sewing Machine.

One of the kind a man can love,
That wears a shawl and a soft kid glove;
Has the merriest eye and the dantiest foot,
And sports the charmingest gaiter boot;
And a bonnet with feathers, ribbons and loops,
And an indefinite number of hoops.

One that can dance, and possibly—flirt,
And make a pudding as well as a shirt.
One that can sing without dropping a stitch,
And play the housewife, lady, or witch,
Ready to give us the sagest advice,
And do up our collars and things so nice.

We like the sort that can laugh and talk,
And take our arm for an evening walk;
That will do whatever the owner may choose,
With the slightest perceptible turn of the screws;
'Tis the cleverest thing that ever was seen,
Our wonderful family sewing machine.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Immense Wheat Farms.

There are three wheat farms in the San Joaquin valley, California, with areas respectively of 36,000 acres, 23,000 acres and 17,000 acres. On the largest of these farms the wheat crop this year is reputed to be equal to an average of forty bushels to the acre, the yield running up on some parts of the farm to sixty bushels. The product of this farm for the present year is 1,440,000 bushels. The boundary on one side of this farm is about seventeen miles long. At the season of plowing ten four-horse teams were attached to ten gang plows, each gang having four plows—or forty horses with as many plows were started at the same time, the teams following in close succession. Lunch or dinner was served at a midway station, and supper at the terminus of the field, seventeen miles distant from the starting point. They returned on the following day. The wheat in this immense field was cut with twenty of the largest reapers. It would require over forty ships of medium size to transport the wheat raised on this farm to a foreign market. Even the sacks required would make a large hole in the surplus money of most farmers. We have not the figures touching the product of the other two farms; but presume that the average is not much below that of the first. There are thousands of tons of wheat which cannot be taken out of the valley this season, and must remain over as dead capital, or, what is nearly as undesirable, will only command advances at heavy rates of interest.

Drainage of Roads.

The point in which many towns make a radical mistake in the management of their roads is in neglecting to provide suitable drainage. And here is where comes in the great necessity of attending to road repairs very early in the season. It is then very easy to see just where drains are most needed, and where the work can be put upon them to the greatest advantage.

There is no need of compelling the public to wade through mud every spring, and the only way to prevent it is to provide ample drains just wherever the water stands so as to create mud and break up the road-bed.

We wish we could impress every town officer with the importance of the fact that there is no economy to the town in allowing its roads to run down from neglect to attend to them in time. Poor and inefficient roads cost more in the end than good ones. Above all see to it that the drainage of all public roads is perfect.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

Seeds of hardy flowering plants require a temperature in the soil of about 50 degrees or 60 degrees to germinate well, and tender plants 75 degrees and upwards. These facts should be borne in mind by those who would succeed with annual flowers, and the seeds be sown at corresponding periods in spring.

☞ Why are horses in cold weather like meddlesome gossips?—Because they are bearers of idle tales.

Anecdotes.

"Well, Jim, how did you make it out down South?"

"First-rate; made plenty of money."

"What did you do with it?"

"Laid it out in houses and lots."

"Where?"

"Every place I have been where there are any."

"What kind of houses and lots!"

"Coffee houses and lots of whiskey."

A young man of limited intelligence, who was recovering from a long fit of sickness, being told by the physician that he "might venture on a little animal food," exclaimed:

"No you don't doctor; I have suffered enough on your gruel and stuff, hang me if I touch any of your hay and oats."

A political orator, speaking of a certain general whom he admired, said he was always, on the field of battle, where the bullets were the thickest.

"Where was that?"

"In the ammunition wagon."

"Pompey, can you tell me in what building people are most likely to catch cold?"

"Why no; me stranger in de town, and can't tell dat."

"Well, I will tell you; it is the bank."

"How is dat?"

"Because there is so many drafts in it."

"Dat is good; but can you tell me what makes so many drafts in it."

"No."

"Because so many go dere to raise de wind."

Vaccination from the Natural Source.

THERE has been so much tronble and uncertainty about procuring pure Vaccine Matter,—matter positively free from humors and other poisons, that I have thought it best to raise my own, from heifers known to be thoroughly healthy. These heifers are kept in the stable several weeks before being vaccinated, and none used that show the least symptoms of sickness. The virus will be collected by myself, and may be depended upon as pure.

PRESCRIPTIONS.

QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the

Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

Poetry.

I Wonder Why.

I wonder why this world's good things
Should fall in such unequal shares;
Why some should taste of all the joys,
And others only feel the cares!
I wonder why the sunshine bright
Should fall in paths some people tread,
While others shiver in the shade
Of clouds that gather overhead!
I wonder why the trees that hang
So full of luscious fruit should grow
Only where some may reach and eat,
While others faint and thirsty go!
Why should sweet flowers bloom for some,
For others only thorns be found?
And some grow rich on fruitful earth,
While others till but barren ground?

I wonder why the hearts of some
O'erflow with joy and happiness,
While others go their lonely way
Unblessed with aught of tenderness!
I wonder why the eyes of some
Should ne'er be moistened with a tear,
While others weep from morn till night,
Their hearts so crushed with sorrow here!

Ah! well; we may not know indeed
The whys, the wherefores of each life;
But this we know—there's One who sees
And watches us through joy or strife.
Each life its mission here fulfils,
And only He may know the end,
And loving Him, we may be strong,
Tho' storm and sunshine He may send.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

A Common Loaf Cake. Three-quarters of a pound of butter, a pound and a half of brown sugar, and beat them well together; then add one pint of molasses, one pint of sour milk, one spoonful of saleratus, five eggs, one spoonful of cloves, one of allspice, one of cinnamon, one nutmeg, and three pounds of flour, and then two pounds of currants, and one of stoned raisins. This will make about three loaves. Bake it two hours.

Extracting Grease from Clothing. The yolk of egg is the best thing I know of for extracting grease from clothing of any kind, and for cleansing fine woolens; rub it well on the grease spots as you would soap, and then wash out in soft water, use no soap. It is also excellent for cleaning the head; rub it in well with a piece of flannel, and work out well in two waters. An ounce of borax in a quart of whiskey is also an excellent thing for the hair; rub the head thoroughly and comb with a fine comb.

☞ "Why do women spend so much time and money on dress?" asked a gentleman of a belle. "To worry other women," was the diabolical but truthful reply.

☞ An amorous swain declares that he is so fond of his sweetheart that he has rubbed the skin from his nose by kissing her shadow on the wall. A hopeless case that.

☞ Grief knits two hearts in closer bonds than joy ever can, and common sufferings are far stronger than common joys.

☞ A Cincinnati widow advertised for "every Christian in the city" to send her ten cents. She realized twenty cents, indicating an unexpectedly large number of Christians in that city.

Just So. A man ceases to be a good fellow the moment he refuses to do precisely what other people wish him to do. How true this is. The young man who treats all hands when asked to put the party through is a clever fellow, while his friend who declines to fool away his money on bad whiskey, is a mean cuss. What a queer world this is.

☞ "I don't care much about the bugs," said Warmley to the head of a genteel boarding house, "but the fact is, madam, I haven't the blood to spare; you see that yourself."

☞ "Well, George," asked a friend of a young lawyer, who had been admitted about a year, "how do you like your new profession?" The reply was accompanied by a brief sigh to suit the occasion. My profession is much better than my practice."

☞ At a christening, while the minister was making his certificate, he inquired the day of the month, and happened to say, "Let me see, this is the 30th." "The thirtieth," exclaimed the indignant mother, "indeed, it is only the thirteenth!"

Overwork. Overwork is undoubtedly one the great evils of the day. The overworked man goes home from his toil unhappy and irritable; he can't help it his vitality is too much exhausted to admit of spiritual exuberance—he is mentally prostrated if not physically used up.

Old Lady. "When does the next train stop here?" Porter (explaining) "Well'm, you see the next train don't stop 'ere at all, and the next train as stops 'ere don't go no farther, and the next train is a through express." The old lady is much better for the explanation.

Miscellany.

The Chained Host.

The potato famine in Ireland was nowhere felt more severely than in that part of the country where the following story is told as a true tale.

In a small village in one of the most barren districts of the west of Ireland there lived a poor widow, whose sole inheritance from her husband were two healthy children, girls, of the respective ages of three and five. Painfully, and by the utmost efforts, she had contrived to pass two years of her sorrowful widowhood. Bad and scanty food, obtained only by labor too great for her delicate frame, had at last thrown her upon a sick bed, and death, in pity, removed her in a few days and without great suffering from all her earthly troubles.

The poverty of the whole parish was so great that nothing could be done for the poor orphans. All the neighbors with the utmost desire to help, were too famine stricken, and heard their own children too often cry in vain for bread to assist others.

"If the children could only be got to Kilburn"—a village some miles distant—said one of the neighbors, after the poor mother had been buried, "a brother of their father lives there, and he could not possibly refuse to take care of them."

"But matters are as bad there as here," replied another, "and I fear they will be no better off there."

"It cannot possibly be worse than here, for nothing but starvation stares them in the face. If we send them to their relations, we have done our duty. We cannot possibly keep them here."

All were at last agreed upon this; and as there was a carrier, who on the next day was going near to Kilburn, he was requested, as an act of charity, to take the children with him. The man readily consented, and the neighbors felt satisfied that they had done all that could be required of them.

The carrier as agreed, came the next day and took the two girls—Lizzie was seven now and Mary five—in his cart with him. The timid children kept very quiet and close together, the carrier hardly looked at them. Towards noon they reached the spot where the cart would turn off. The man lifted them out, showed them the road to the left, and bade, them go straight forward, and if they did not turn from the high road they would, in about two hours, come to the place. He then drove off. The children sobbed out "good by," and looked after him as long as they could see the least speck of the cart, and then they both began to cry.

Lizzie ceased her crying first; she took hold of her little sister's hand, who had seated herself on the grass, and said, "Get up Mary! we must not stay here if we wish to get to Kilburn. We cannot stop here on the road."

"I am so hungry" sobbed Mary, "I have had nothing to eat all day."

And again they both began to cry; for Lizzie was equally hungry. The poor children had gone to bed without food the night before; it was a long time since they had had a full meal; and their neighbors where they had stayed since the death of their mother, had not given them any breakfast as the poor people really had nothing to eat. It was now dinner time, but there was no dinner for them.

"Come Mary," at last said Lizzie, "we must try to get to some house, we may, perhaps, get a little bread or a few potatoes. If we stay here we shall starve; for no one will bring us anything to eat here."

"Oh! if our mother were but alive!" exclaimed the little one, getting up with difficulty.

The children were very weak, and could only drag themselves along. Hand in hand they tottered on. Several times Mary declared that she could not go any further, and sat down on the high road; and it was with the greatest difficulty that Lizzie persuaded her to get up again, and to pursue their way.

At last Lizzie fancied she saw a house and pointed toward the spot. "Now," said Mary, "we shall soon get something to eat; we shall find kind people there."

It took them more than a quarter of an hour before they reached the farmhouse, for such it proved to be. With hesitating steps they entered the house, for they had never begged before, in spite of their former misery. But at this moment they could think of nothing else but their terrible hunger. When a few steps from the house, they heard the farmer violently scolding one of his men. Then he went into the house, fiercely closed the door after him, so as to make the windows rattle, continuing his abuse all the time. The children, terrified, and with beating hearts, stood still at the door, until the voice ceased. Then Lizzie opened the door, and both the children, entered. The farmer sat in an arm-chair by the fire.

"Well, what do you want?" he harshly asked the children, who were too frightened to utter a word, and to tell their errand. "Can't you speak?" he asked, still more roughly.

Lizzie at last took courage, and said gently, "Oh, if you would be so good and give us the least little bite to eat—a small piece of bread or a few potatoes."

"I thought so," shouted the farmer; "I was sure you were nothing but beggars, although you do not seem to belong to this neighborhood. We have plenty of those here, and do not want them to come from other parts. We have not bread for ourselves in these hard times.—You will get nothing here. Be off this moment!" The children dreadfully frightened, began to cry bitterly.

"That will not do you any good," continued the man; that kind of whining is nothing new to me, and won't move me. Let your parents feed you; but they no doubt prefer idling rather than getting their living by honest labor."

"Our parents are both dead," said Lizzie.

"I thought so," replied the farmer.—"Whenever children are sent out to beg, their father and mother are always dead, or at least their father. This is a mere excuse for begging. Be off this minute!"

"We have not eaten a morsel the whole day," pleaded Lizzie, "we are so tired that we cannot move a step. If you would but give us the least little bit to eat, we are so hungry."

"I have told you I would not. Beggars get nothing here."

The farmer got up with a threatening look. Lizzie quickly opened the door, and drew her sister with her. The children again stood in the farm-yard, but knew not what to do. Suddenly little Mary drew her hand from her sister's clasp, and went to the other side of the yard; there was a fierce dog chained; his dinner stood before him in a wooden basin. Mary put her hand into the basin and began to eat with the dog. Lizzie went nearer, and saw that in the basin there was some liquor in which a few pieces of bread and some boiled potatoes were floating. She likewise, could not resist, she had but one feeling—that of the most gnawing hunger; she took some of the bread and potatoes, and ate them greedily.

The dog, not accustomed to such guests looked at the children full of astonishment; he drew back a little, then sat down, and left them his dinner, of which he had eaten but a very little. At this moment the farmer stepped into the yard; he wished to see whether the children had really left, and then he saw this singular scene. The dog was noted for his fierceness, and feared alike by old and young he was obliged to be constantly chained. No one dared to come near him except his master. Even the servant put the food before him in the most cautious manner.

In the first movement the man thought of nothing but the fearful danger in which the children were, and quickly walking towards them he exclaimed, "don't you see the dog? He will tear you to pieces!" But suddenly he stopped, as if rooted to the ground; the dog had got up again gone near the children, then he looked up to his master and wagged his tail. It seemed as if he wished to say, "don't you drive my guest away!" At that sight a great change came over the man, the spectacle before him acted like an electric shock, and a feeling such as he never before experienced, seemed to stir within him.

The children had risen, terrified at the call of the man, fearful of punishment for having eaten against his command.—They stood with downcast eyes. At last, after several minutes' silence, the farmer asked "Are you really so fearfully hungry that you do not even despise dog's food?" But without waiting for an answer, he continued. "Come in, then, you shall have something to eat, and as much as you like." And taking them by the hand he led them into the house, calling out to his servant, "Biddy, get some hot bread and milk, and be quick, for those children."

The dog had shamed his master—the brute had shamed the man. Touched by what he had seen, the farmer was anxious to make amends for what his conscience showed him to be a great sin.—He seated the children at the table, sat down by them and kindly asked them their names.

"My name is Lizzie," said the eldest, "and my sister is called Mary."

"Have your parents been dead long?"

Our father has been dead two years, but our mother died only last week."

At the thought of their recent loss, both children again began to weep.

"Don't cry, children," said the farmer, kindly. "God will in one way or another take care of you. But tell me, now, where do you come from?"

"From Loughrea," replied the child.

"From Loughrea?" asked he, "from Loughrea? That is strange." He began to suspect the truth, and asked hesitatingly. "What was your father's name?"

"Martin Sullivan," replied Lizzie.

"What?—Martin—Martin Sullivan?" he exclaimed, jumping up at the same time, and casting a piercing look at the children thoroughly frightening them.—His face grew red—then tears came into his eyes—at last he sobbed aloud. He took the youngest child in his arms, pressed her to his heart and kissed her. The child struggled and called for help to her sister; she could not think what the man meant.

Then he put down the little one and did the same to Lizzie, who took it more quietly, as she had seen that the man did not hurt her sister. At last, becoming more composed, he dried his tears, and said, "Do you know my name, children?"

"No," replied Lizzie.

"How happened it, then, that you have come to me?" he asked. "Has any one sent you to me?"

"Nobody has sent us," replied Lizzie. "We were to go to Kilburn, where a brother of our father lives, and they said he would gladly receive us. But I do not believe it, for our mother always said that he was a hard-hearted man who did not care for his relations."

"Your mother was quite right when she said so," said the farmer. "But what will you do if the hard-hearted man does not receive you?"

"Then we shall have to starve," answered Lizzie.

"No, no," exclaimed the man quickly; "it shall never come to that—never!—Dry your tears. The merciful God has had pity on your helplessnes, and has made use of a fierce brute to soften the hard-heart of your uncle, and therefore he will never forsake you—never!"

The children looked at the man in utter bewilderment; they did not understand what he said—his words and his behavior were alike strange to them.—This he soon perceived, for he added. "You were going to Kilburn to Patrick Sullivan's; you are already there. I am your uncle; and now that I know that you are the children of my brother Martin, I make you welcome."

The children's tears quickly changed into smiles, and the meal which Biddy just then put on the table for them made them forget their grief.

Patrick Sullivan had taken this farm near Kilburn a year before. A kind Providence had directed the children's steps to him; but if the dog had not taught him a lesson of kindness, who knows what might, after all, have become of the poor orphans. But He, who is the Father of the fatherless would surely not have forsaken them.

Make a Beginning.

If you do not begin, you will never come to the end. The first weed pulled up in the garden, the first seed set in ground, the first shilling put in the savings-bank, and the first mile travelled on a journey, are all important things; they make a beginning, and thereby give a hope, a promise, a pledge, an assurance that you are in earnest with what you have undertaken. How many a poor, idle, erring, hesitating outcast is now creeping his way through the world, who might have held up his head and prospered, if, instead of putting off his resolutions of amendment and industry, he had only made a beginning. The Popish fable of St. Denys, who lifted up his head from the ground after decapitation, and walked away with it, was drawn by Sir Joshua Reynolds with the legend underneath: "It is but the first step which is difficult."

House Work.

There is not a girl on earth, whether the daughter of a prince or pauper, who if made a perfect mistress of all household duties, and were thrown into a community wholly unknown, would not rise from one station to another, and eventually become the mistress of her own mansion, while multitudes of young women placed in positions of ease, elegance and affluence, but being unfitted to fill them, will as certainly descend from one round of the ladder to another until at the close of life, they are found where the really competent started from. Mothers of America if you wish to rid your own and your children's households of the destroying locusts which infect your houses and eat up your substance, take pride in educating your daughters to be perfect mistresses of every home duty; then if you leave them without a dollar, be assured they will never lack a warm garment, a bounteous meal, or a cozy roof, nor fail of the respect of any one who knows them.

A Pair of Saw-Horses.

The fourth wife of a man in the eastern part of Milton, Mass., was (as is usual for ladies after marriage) regulating the fixtures in general about the house, and went into the attic, accompanied by a boy of some six or seven summers, where she saw a pair of neatly made saw-horses, such as carpenters use in cutting lumber. She said: "Sammy, my son, what are these horses for?" "Well, father keeps them horses to put his wives' coffins on." Imagine that span of horses taking a Sam Patch leap from the attic window of a two-story house with, "I guess my coffin won't ride you this week."—Exchange.

Opening of Spring.

> "Spring time o' year is coming, coming,
> Birds are blithe, are blithe and gay."
> Old Song.

Spring yet lingers in the lap of winter, and rude Old Boreas and the chilly atmosphere continue to remind us of the long and dreary "winter of our discontent,"—still there are portentious signs that "spring, gentle spring," is nigh upon us:—the piping of the frogs in the neighboring meadows, the chirping of the birds in the branches of Dr. French's big elm trees, the arrival in town of the lightning rod men, the grinding of the hand-organ on the street corner,—are signs, indubitable signs of warmer weather. Then let us be gay, let us be happy, and thank God for the sunshine, and the flowers as they bloom. It is an ill winter that is devoid of any redeeming quality, and the big blanket of snow which has covered mother earth and the steady cold atmosphere which has prevailed seems to have been favorable to the grass and trees, and the prospect of a large hay and fruit crops, is by no means small.

Our village has already begun to assume a bright and lively aspect, and the prospects for business are encouraging.—The dry goods and clothing stores are budding rich; the "Boston store," thus early, is in full bloom—how it happens, the genial and warm hearted proprietor can best explain. At Saville's, next door, the piles of goods upon his counters give bona fide evidence that he will enter into the spring business with a vim.

Next in this line comes, friends Spear, Hails and Holden who have their counters well filled with goods of a superior quality and are prepared to cater to the tastes of the most fastidious, who feel desirous of being suited.

The ladies, also, are beginning to think about their love of a bonnet, or a nobby hat, all loaded with fuss and flowers. Miss Hussey, as is her usual custom at this season of the year, has a large and handsome variety of splendid flowers, rich ribbons and handsome hats, on which she will display her excellent taste.

A Change. We learn that Postmaster Bass, proposes to make a change in the location of the Quincy Post Office. John Q. Adams has offered to extend his store on the opposite side of the street, now occupied by Mr. Geo. Saville, twenty or thirty feet in the rear, so as to make a very large, handsome room.—This room is to be fitted in a very neat and handsome manner, the centre to be occupied for a post office, and a most capital one it will make we should judge.

On one side will be found friend Saville, and on the other it is said Mr. Souther intends to keep his periodicals, &c.

Fire Department. The Selectmen having appointed Messrs. Washington M. French, Geo. B. Pray, Amos M. Litchfield, Horace S. Feltis, Edward A. Spear and Richard W. Dexter, Engineers of the Quincy Fire Department for the ensuing year, they met on Friday evening, April 25th, and organized by the choice of Washington M. French as Chief Engineer, and Geo. B. Pray, Clerk.

May Day. This day was one of the warmest and finest of the season. It not only started the grass, buds, etc., but brought out large numbers of ladies and children upon the streets. Mr. and Mrs. Brown had a crowded house of "little ones" to their May Day Festival and as far as we learn all had an excellent time. In the evening a good audience assembled to listen to some sweet music by the Highland Quartette and others, under the management of Mr. Brown. Two hours were passed very pleasantly.

Jennie Kimball's Burlesque Company. This company will perform at Town Hall on Monday evening May 5th. Miss Kimball is an actress well know to many of our Theatre going people. Mr. Hunter commenced his career in the profession in Boston several years ago and has since been through the Western States and as a comedian and vocalist became so popular that he was secured as manager of Nevilles theatre, Montreal, to which he returns in September next.—Miss Lizzie Wilson, Banjoist, is also a great favorite in New York and will become so here we trust as she comes before us with the highest encomiums of press and public. The company will appear in Irish acts, Dutch sketches and good variety bill ending with the favorite afterpiece "Home in a Regular Fix." Geo. E. Hayden is the business manager of the Co. Mr. H. has been before the public of this town several times as Manager and Actor and whenever he has been here whether managing for himself or other parties we have always had good entertainments furnished. Let them know Quincy can appreciate a good show.

Dress Making. Miss H. L. Clark, is prepared to do this branch of business in the latest style. See advertisement.

A Pleasant Surprise. The neighbors and friends of Dea. Geo. R. Smalley and wife, made an unexpected call upon them Wednesday evening, to the number of sixty or more, it being the fifth anniversary of their marriage. Included among the substantial tokens of their regard, which they carried with them to the good deacon and his wife, was an elegant reclining easy chair, the merits of which as to strength and capacity were fully tested by various members of the company whose very ample breadth is customarily regarded as out of all proportion to their length, and by others who are considered by a few misguided individuals as enjoying a longitude somewhat disproportionate to their latitude.—But the chair was found to be entirely safe, and the wish expressed was a cordial one that our beloved friends may for long years of health and prosperity live to enjoy it.

The evening was a fine one and was passed enjoyable by all. Hearty congratulations, excellent singing, a bountiful collation, and social enjoyment were the features of this occasion, pleasantly to be remembered by all.

Police Report. The following is the record of business at the Police Station for the month of April:

Number of arrests seven—four for being drunk, and two for assault.

Number of persons furnished with lodging, sixty-two,

The excellent accommodations and courteous treatment dispensed at the new lock-up, seem to make it quite a popular place of

"Rest for the weary."

The Hotel. We learn that Hon. Chas. F. Adams, through his son John Quincy, has purchased of Mr. S. T. Allen, landlord of the Hancock House, his unexpired lease of said house. Also, that the same gentleman has secured of Henry H. Faxon, Esq., a lease of the hotel for ten years from next July. Mr. Adams found the Academy was languishing for want of good boarding accommodations for its students, and has taken this step privately for the good of the school. The thoughtfulness and good wishes of our distinguished townsman for this Academy will be highly appreciated by all connected with it.

Real Estate Sales. Henry H. Faxon, bought of Joseph Hardwick, about one-third acre of land, with house and shop, on School street, in this town, for $5,500.

Henry Edwards, of this town, bought of John E. Huntress, Trustee of the estate of George W. Huntress, 36 acres of land in North Weymouth, for about $7,500.

The Feltis estate on Quincy Avenue was bid off by Mr Patrick McDonnell, at the auction on Wednesday, but it is rumored that it is not a bona fide sale.

Taxes. The Assessors of this town commenced their arduous duties on Thursday morning last. All persons liable to be taxed are requested to bring in a schedule of their property, as will be seen by a notice in to-day's paper.

☞ Preaching to-morrow morning in Congregational Church, by Rev. F. P. Chapin. Communion Service in the afternoon. Monthly Concert in behalf of Missions in the evening at 7 1-2 o'clock,

☞ A. P. Hill is prepared to furnish splendid pianos of Vose & Sons' make, at the most reasonable prices. Read his announcement in another column.

A Rare Chance. The splendid seaside property occupied for many years by Mr. Samuel Belcher at Houghs Neck is to let. It consists of several houses and about eighty-five acres of land. Read the notice in another column.

Military. Among the resignations forwarded to head-quarters of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, is that of Captain William Boyd of Co. H, 3d Regiment of Infantry. Capt. Boyd has long been the popular commander of the McClellan Guards of this town, and to his management is due the present efficiency of the company; and his resignation at this time will be much regretted by those interested in military matters.

Squantum Free Bridge. The House and Senate has passed to be engrossed the bill to incorporate the Squantum Free Bridge Company. The Governor will probably sign it, if he has not already, and then will be wanted the cash to build it which is usually the most difficult part of any new undertaking. We do not know how it may be in this instance.

North Weymouth. This pleasant village presents many tokens of thrift, at the present time. Mr. Alexis Tirrell has placed a French roof upon the whole of his extensive boot works, thereby greatly increasing his capacity for the despatch of work; and Mr. Moulton's large building is about completed. Quite a number of tenement houses are also to be erected, and work on some of them has already began. Dr. Tirrell will put up four, and Messrs. Bartlett and Shaw quite a number more. Altogether the village has not seemed so prosperous in many years.

Narrow Escape. On Saturday evening last, as our old friend and former attache of this office, Mr. Matthew M. Teprell (who had made us a flying visit), was passing through the Square on his way to the depot, he was knocked down and slightly bruised, by a horse and buggy, the driver of which was so busily intent in trotting his horse, that he did not see Mr. Teprell until he was upon him.

North Weymouth.

As Quincy gentlemen are interesting themselves in real estate in this beautiful, picturesque, and nearly sea-girt village, perhaps it may be of interest to your readers to learn somewhat more concerning the matter than is yet generally known.

This village has a beautiful variety of hill and plain, exactly adapted to the various needs and tastes of the public mind, and when it shall be properly laid out and built up, as ere long it probably will be, there will not be a more beautiful sea-side watering place between Cape Cod and Cape Ann. It has, in all, about eight miles of sea-shore, with a beautiful, clean, fast progressing central village, which is accommodated with a large, modern built school house, two churches, two large stores, a market house, and the mail twice a day.

The principal business of this place is manufacturing boots and shoes, there being seven or eight large factories in full operation; and there are also two furniture manufactories, — one with a steam saw-mill attached,— and the convenient shops of carpenters, blacksmiths, wheelwrights, painters, harness-makers, stove and tin ware dealers, tailors and barbers.

The North Weymouth depot on the South Shore Railroad, is about three-fourths of a mile from the village centre, and at about the same distance in two other directions are two steamboat landings. The steamboat Summer Hotel, and Lovell's Grove, have become fixed facts, for the reason that there is no superior convenient location for healthful recreation in all the region round about Boston.

Everybody expects that but a short time will elapse before the projected line of railroad connecting the South-Shore at West Hingham with the Old Colony at Quincy, will be built, thus saving to all passengers on the South Shore east of Weymouth, who go to and from Boston, more than three miles each way—nearly seven miles each round trip — and at once giving many trains each way every day to the people of North Weymouth.

Mr. James Edwards and Mr. Joseph Adams of Quincy, have recently purchased nearly one hundred acres of choice lands in this place, and they are consequently in a fair way to realize a golden harvest in the early future.

If all the landholders most interested would agree—as probably they will soon—to build a perfectly level sea-shore drive-way about fifty feet wide, running from "Sandy Bank" or Pearl street, to "Great Hill," the distance of about three miles, and connecting with several good roads already built, it will add many thousands of dollars to their already valuable property, and at once give an element of grandeur to the entire village, which will please the eye of every beholder and be the means of at once causing hundreds of the lovers of the grand and beautiful in nature and art to erect cottages, villas and mansions on and near the pleasant shore, for the summer or permanent residence for themselves and families.

The Surprise Party.

Rarely is it the fortune of a person to participate in a more pleasant occasion than the one which was lately proposed and carried through by the people of North Quincy in honor of the esteemed and worthy teacher of their school, Mr. Lewis F. Hobbs.

Mr. Hobbs has for many years been the principal of the Grammar school in the place, and by the conscientious, faithful and able discharge of the arduous duties of the situation, and by his uniform courtesy of manner and strict integrity of character, has won the confidence of all who have children under his charge, and the esteem of a large circle of acquaintances and friends. The proposal to an unmistakable exhibition of their friendship and confidence was universally approved, and, accordingly on Thursday evening, a large number of gentlemen and ladies with many of his present and former pupils, repaired to his residence, and taking quiet possession, proceeded to make the occasion a pleasant one to all,

After all had had the opportunity of taking the hand of Mr. Hobbs and his estimable lady with the usual saluations and compliments of the occasion, he was again surprised by the presentation of an elegant French bronze clock. Mr. Hobbs' remarks in reply were very appropriate and expressive of many thanks for the gift, not alone for its intrinsic worth, but as a token of their friendship and confidence. The remainder of the evening till quite a late hour, was agreeably passed in social conversation, music by Mr. Hobbs' pupils and others, and in partaking of an excellent repast prepared for the occasion.

Many were the congratulations on success attained in the past, and hopes freely expressed that for many years to come would the school have the benefit of his labors.

A Quincy Man Robbed. Mr. William H. Jones of this town, while visiting Boston on Saturday forenoon last, was made the victim of a pickpocket, by whom he was deprived of a long wallet, containing $425 in cash, and a note for $750, besides other valuable papers. He had been meandering around the streets, and mingling with various crowds which some passing attraction had called together, and is not aware of the time or place at which his valuables were abstracted.

What games does a lady's bustle resemble? Backgammon.

CULVERTS.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

I wish to inquire through the columns of your paper whether the Selectmen of Quincy are elected for the purpose of looking out for and protecting the rights of the inhabitants of the town, or for the purpose of tending to and carrying out the whims and inclinations of private individuals to the detriment of the public in general?

There is a certain street in the South part of the town which is travelled by pedestrians from early morn till eve; men, women and children are constantly passing upon this great thoroughfare, which was formerly in a fair condition for travel; but some kind and all providing town father, constructed two culverts across the gutter; (I wish to speak of only one of them at present) now what was the result? why before two weeks the culvert was filled up by leaves, sticks, &c. which had been washed down by the water,—of course after the next rain the sidewalk in that vicinity was flooded to the depth of nearly a foot, thus obliging pedestrians to choose between the two evils, either to cross to the opposite sidewalk through the mud and slush in the middle of the road, or to paddle through the pond, getting their feet and clothes wet. This place being universally complained of by the people having occasion to travel that way, and the Surveyor of the Highways, seeing the disastrous effect, had it removed; the result was that we had once more a good and dry sidewalk and we saw no inconvenience or injury to the person for whose benefit this culvert was constructed; for why should their be any inconvenience? are there not other driveways in the immediate vicinity! driveways that are used as much if not more than the one spoken of! do they ask for culverts? No, they say they have no trouble about getting in and out of their yards, and see no reason why other people should. The last week we have seen this culvert replaced, we know of no necessity or exigency that requires it. As a natural consequence we expect in a few weeks to wend our way through mud and water to reach our destination. Now it alone remains to be decided, whether the Selectmen, who are annually elected by the voters of Quincy, are to consider the wellfare of the public in general or of private individuals; whether the people who are not blessed with riches sufficient to ride in their carriages, shall be incommoded by the erection of a structure, at the town's expense, for the purpose of facilitating the ingress and egress of a single individual.

PEDES.

Wollaston Heights.

The work of improving the street scenes here, goes bravely on. Already the good taste and regard for the public comfort, are foreshadowed along several corner estates, among which may be mentioned, those of Messrs. Sanborn, Pinkham and Waterhouse, whose walks and rows of beautiful, and carefully set elms betray a spirit of improvement which we hope may be contagious.

Even edgestones are proposed if the Highway Surveyor will only pave certain gutters. Do Mr. Surveyor spend some of the late appropriation and help us in this matter this spring. If so, we will soon have connected gravel walks, if we even have to bless the grounds of the narrow speculator by building along these also.

Enterprise,—not palsied wealth, pioneers in new settlements, and gives value to landed property. The faith of those who early cast their lot in here, is being rewarded by the increased value which their efforts have given to property for which they paid the then, full value.—What are beautiful grounds without houses and inhabitants?

An attack has been commenced on the ground of the new school building and a hall for public gatherings is projected.—An apothecary shop is also talked of.—After this the doctor and cemetery. The prospects for the last three are however very unpromising.

Rev. S. G. Abbott vigorously discoursed for the second time (a third promised) last sabbath evening, to prove baptism by immersion the form expressly commanded by our Saviour. Such pedobaptist scholars as Profs. Stuart and McKnight were summoned to testify to the meaning of the Greek, baptizo, in open contradiction of their whole teaching, and practice; while baptism by complete immersion was assumed to be the only form in use among the early fathers of the church, and not until the ascendency of the Romish Church, was any other practised.—Such a knowledge of church history, backed by "thirty-one Greek Lexicons," was satisfactory, and in the language of lawyers "a case was made out," nemo contendere. We confess our faith in the religious integrity of such divines as Stuart, Dwight and Humphrey, was a little shaken; when reminded by the preacher, that "whosoever shall break one of the least of these commands and teach men so" &c. We shall however examine farther before casting them aside.

Controversy among Evangelical denominations over non essential rites, for whatever purpose, is only fruitful of evil. Hence we trust no one of different views here will ever be found able to reply; but that the broader spirit of such divines as Spurgeon, Pentecost, Beecher and of Christ, the great teacher himself, will ever prevail, here among all who love our Lord and Saviour.

Assessors' Notice.

To the Inhabitants and all other persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy:

THE Assessors of the Town of Quincy hereby give notice to the inhabitants of said Town, and all other persons liable to pay Taxes therein, that their Office will be open on and after the 21st day of May, until and including the 7th day of June, from 5 to 6 1-2 o'clock, P. M., to receive the valuation of estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said town are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the real and personal estates for which they are liable to pay taxes.

Persons holding estates in trust are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed.

Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list, within the time above specified, will at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.

All Persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 7th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.

When a person has failed to bring in a list or a schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate.

DOWNING'S SEEDLING GOOSEBERRIES.

A NEW VARIETY, very thrifty and prolific, of upright growth—fruit of large size and of best quality.

The Fruit Committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in their last Annual Report, say:—

"The shows of native Gooseberries have been remarkably fine. The prizes on the 20th of July, were awarded first, to the Downing; second, to Smith's Seedling — and third to Houghton's Seedling, and we think that these awards justly express the relative value of the kinds. Certainly they are all superior in quality to the Mountain Seedling."

At the Society's Exhibitions on the 20th and 27th of July, 1872, the first premiums (for best Gooseberries) were awarded to the subscriber for Downing's Seedling.

Rumors about Town.

A lady in South Quincy received a present of half a ton of coal last winter, and was astonished a few days ago by being requested to pay for it. But she will not.

We shall have no more circuses in Quincy, as there will be no hotel accommodations, as the Hancock House lease has been sold.

It is said that several club rooms will be in order next fall for social entertainment.

Quincy was referred to by a member of the legislature a short time since as the "Rip Van Winkle" town.

H. F. Alley, a gentleman well known to our readers, has hired the Photograph rooms over the Post Office. His smiling face will invite the mothers who are anxious to procure a good likeness of their darlings.

PARADE OF THE CONSTABLES. On Monday evening last, might have been seen issuing from the portals of the Town House, a formidable body of men, fourteen in number, armed to the teeth with new belts and bludgeons. This sturdy force was none other than the Quincy constabulary for the current year, under the command of that veteran and worthy Chief, Washington M. French, and were out for drill. The novelty of the parade attracted the curiosity and interest of the crowd, and was the wonderment of the hour. As they wheeled the corner at the Hancock House, in solemn column, a spectator remarked, "That is a robust looking body of men!" "Yes," was the quaint reply of Deck, who stood near by, with a peculiar twinkle in his eye, "the majority of them are robust-ers." The corps is now under excellent drill and discipline, and are a power in the town and our citizens may feel secure from home or foreign aggression. It is understood that a new and appropriate uniform is being built for the force, in which they will shine, for the first time, as escort for the Grand Army of the Republic on Decoration Day.

MASONIC. At a meeting of Rural Lodge of F. & A. M., on Tuesday evening last, there was a large number of visiting friends from Randolph, North Bridgewater and other towns in this vicinity. After the conclusion of business, an adjournment was had to Robertson's Hall, where a plentiful collation was spread; after which short and effective remarks of a social as well as of a masonic character were made. A pleasant time was had, and all wished for more of such gatherings.

DEATH OF A NOBLE DOG. Poor "Tige" wagged his tail for the last time on Thursday morning. Everybody knew Tige and mourns his departure. Tige has a history. He was brought by a soldier from Fortress Munroe in 1861, where after doing his country some service, he has been the faithful watch-dog at the stable of Mr. French, near the depot, for the past twelve years. He was one of nature's noble animals, of the coach-dog species, favored with a fine prepossessing appearance, good natured disposition,—the pet of old and young, and his sudden demise by poison, has cast a gloom over the stable yard, and many are ready to exclaim with the poet:—

"He was gentle, he was kind,
And you'll never, never find,
A better friend than poor dog Tige."

Two other pet dogs in the vicinity of the depot died by poison the day previous, and foul play is suspected. The matter should be investigated.

☞ Benj. F. Richardson the blind medium, will speak in Rodgers' Chapel to-morrow, at 2 30 P. M. Seats free.

BARNUM'S SHOW. Barnum's great show travels only by railroad, requiring nearly a hundred cars and four or five locomotives. Although they travel fifty to a hundred miles in a night, with their great twelve mammoth tents, yet they give three entertainments each day, the first being at ten o'clock in the morning. A steam-engine is carried along, and made to propel the machinery and automatic scenes in the Museum Department.

In the hippodrome tent, which comfortably seats 13,000 persons, an entirely novel feature is presented. Three equestrian rings are introduced, in which three distinct equestrian companies give performances simultaneously, all of which are witnessed by the audience at the same moment. The exhibition in one of these rings, of trained Elephants, Ostriches, Camels, riding Goats, &c., is said to be marvelously interesting.

MEMORIAL DAY. The two Grand Army Posts of Weymouth, are to unite in the observance of Memorial Day, and have engaged the Germania Band of Boston, for the occasion. In the evening there will be a grand concert under the auspices of the two Posts, at which the above band will perform and other musical artists of note have also been secured.

☞ A large Volume would not contain the mass of testimony which has accumulated in favor of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry as a safe, efficient, and reliable remedy in curing coughs, colds and pulmonary disease. Many of the cures are truly wonderful.

For the Patriot.

MR. EDITOR:—I called on Jonas, the other day,—old Jonas, that keeps a grocery around the corner just off the main street,—to talk over town affairs. Now Jonas has been known not to utter a word for a whole evening, but to just keep on dealing out butter and eggs and a pound of cheese to the end of the chapter, doing the needed conversation by means of signs. In consequence of this eminent gravity of demeanor, Jonas, I find, has acquired a great reputation for wisdom and good judgment, and, having an axe to grind with the "Town Fathers," I concluded to make use of him to accomplish my object. Entering the store I sat down on a butter-firkin near the stove waiting for a chance to begin. The old gentleman was busy in weighing out a pound of raisins, and had just taken off one to make the needed equipoise of the scales, when I opened upon him after this style: "Mr. Jonas," said I, "don't you think we need some crossing stones at intervals across the main street? I think that you are just the man to induce the "town fathers" to lay down some flag stones so that pedestrians can cross the street."

"Look at that sea of mud," said I, in my most tragic tone, pointing at the same time out of the window. Jonas gave a great start, the suspended raisin went with a jerk into the flour barrel, instead of the raisin box, and he opened upon me. "Young man," said he, "you know not what you ask. That is sacred mud; next summer, it will be dust, sacred dust! The feet of the Pilgrim fathers,—" at this moment one of the young Gushingtons, son of old Gushington down the Point way, who had entered while I was speaking, turned upon me with severity, interrupting Jonas, and cried out in classic English, "shut up! Where were you born?" "New Hampshire" said I, meekly. "I thought so," said he.—Why do you come down here and wish to disturb hallowed ground? Do you not know that the feet of the pious Morton of May-pole memory, once pressed the dust of these streets, and would you with desecrating hands—"

"Enough," said I, "no crossings for me!" I saw young Gushington the next day in a Tom Thumb gig with a "fast plug," borrowed from the neighboring livery stable, careering up and down the consecrated road, while the reins, like streamers, flapped behind. The "town fathers" of course, like wise men, will not put down crossings for the reasons stated above.

Truly yours, JAMES JOHADAB.

☞ A veteran of the seas, who has a great care for old and disabled seamen, made the following practical suggestion: "If any members of Congress, who have a claim for their share of the late extra pay, feel unhappy in pocketing the same, and desire to relieve their consciences, let them bear in mind that the Sailors' Snug Harbor, Quincy, requires money."

☞ The Belfast Journal says that there is a girl in Searsport, Me., 13 years and 6 months old, weighs 220 pounds; 5 feet 6 inches high; measures around the breast 42 inches; around the waist 42 inches; around the arm above the elbow 16 inches. She is in good health and still growing.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of every organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

DANCING SCHOOL. The popular and favorite teacher of dancing and etiquette Russ B. Walker, has now one of the largest schools ever taught in this town. Parents who so wisely placed their little ones under his care have felt satisfied with his manner of instruction, as he endeavors to impart grace and refinment to those under his charge. The following notice from the Taunton Daily Gazette, we copy with pleasure:—

"Mr. Walker, professor of the saltatory art, who has had two separate schools under his tuition this season, gave an elegant reception to his pupils last evening in Music Hall. The ball was a full dress one, consequently the ladies especially came arrayed in elegant toilets, with choice floral adornments prepared with refined taste, doing honor to the occasion. The earlier part of the evening was devoted to the children who swarmed about the hall like beautiful fairies, going through the intricacies of the mazy dance with such correctness as to receive the commendation of every spectator."

☞ The Michigan legislature having made a stringent law against watering milk, a sharp witted dealer has found a method of evading the law by milking his water, that is, he dilutes two quarts of the latter with one quart of the former.

The State will receive nearly $200,000 from the license law revenue the past year.

The Original Yankee Doodle.

Father and I to Boston went
To get some chairs and tables,
And there they told us wondrous yarns
That sounded just like fables.

They told us of a splendid place,
Where everything is sold
That we could want in FURNITURE,
Fit for the young and old.

But the beauty of their trading is,
They have a novel plan,
And give their goods on easy lease
To the very poorest man.

So up we went to CUNNINGHAM'S
To put our business through;
When we got there we found at once
That all they said was true.

Now father had but little cash,
But they his heart did ease,
And said, Good friend take what you want,
And pay on monthly lease.

DOGS. DOGS.

OWNERS of Dogs in this town are hereby reminded that said dogs must be registered in the Clerk's Office during the present month.

Dogs which were numbered and registered in 1872, can retain the same numbers the present year, if their owners make application therefor before the first of May next. The fee in all cases to be paid in advance.

GEO. L. GILL, Town Clerk.
Quincy, April 3, 1872.

Extracts from the Statutes of 1867,
CHAPTER 130.

SECT. 1. Every owner or keeper of a dog shall annually, on or before the thirtieth day of April, cause it to be registered, numbered, described and licensed for one year from the first day of the ensuing May, in the office of the clerk in the city or town wherein said dog is kept, and shall cause it to wear around its neck a collar, distinctly marked with its owner's name and its registered number, and shall pay for such license for a male dog two dollars, and for a female dog five dollars.

SECT. 5. Any person keeping a dog contrary to the provisions of this act, shall forfeit fifteen dollars, to be recovered by complaint or indictment; and of said fine or forfeiture five dollars shall be paid to the complainant, and ten dollars shall be paid to the treasurer of the county in which the dog is kept, except that in the County of Suffolk the ten dollars shall be paid to the treasurer of the city or town wherein said dog is kept. A license from the Clerk of any city or town shall be valid in any part of the Commonwealth and may be transferred with the dog licensed.—Provided said license be recorded by the clerk of the city or town where such dog is kept.

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the Estate of JOSEPH N. BROWN, late of Quincy, in said County, deceased

GREETING:

WHEREAS John F. Brown and William J. Vinal, Executors of the will of said deceased, have presented for allowance their first account of their administration upon the estate of said deceased:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the second Wednesday of May next, at Nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said executors are ordered to serve this Citation, by publishing the same once a week, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, three weeks successively, the last publication to be two days, at least, before said Court.

Witness, GEORGE WHITE, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this Twenty-third day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

Poetry.

Old and Young.

The old folks sent the boys to bed
But out of the window, over the shed,
They went to the ground for a little spree:
But it's the same as is used to be.

The damsels old, they fume and fret;
They say they never saw such a set
Of girls as these—"they make so free;"
But they're just like the girls that used to be.

Home, Farm and Garden.

The Kitchen Garden.

It is a matter of surprise, says Robert B. Thomas, that so little attention is paid, as a general rule, to the kitchen garden. Many a farmer neglects it entirely, and very few indeed give it the prominence it deserves. There are certain vegetables, lettuce, asparagus, celery, rhubarb and the like, that are quite indispensable in their season, upon every well supplied table. They are healthful as well as palatable, and any farmer who deprives his family of an abundant and free supply of them must expect to pay for his neglect in the shape of a large doctor's bill.

If the garden is conveniently located as it should be, near the house, it will not take an unreasonable amount of time from others parts of the farm. It is a place where many an odd hour may be filled up with pleasure as well as profit, and there is no estimating the saving that can be effected by it.

The farmer is better situated to have upon his table every luxury in the way of vegetables and small fruits of every description than any other man. He can raise them himself easily and at little expense. And yet though everbody knows that the pie plant, for example, is one of the greatest luxuries and one of the most healthful of all vegetables, scarcely one garden in ten contains it. Though the most luscious strawberries can be raised in any farmer's garden at a cost of two cents a quart, and the free use of them in their season is sure to save the doctor's bill, not one farmer in a hundred will devote his time to them. Even the few old currant bushes are neglected and grown up with grass and rubbish, though the currant is one of the most desirable fruits in the world. Now we entreat every farmer to lay out a larger garden than ever before, and to make up his mind to take better care of it. It will promote the comfort, the health and the economy of the household, and need interfere but little with the general operations of the farm.

Floriculture.

All lovers of flowers must remember that one blossom allowed to mature or "go to seed" injures the plant more than a dozen new buds. Cut your flowers then, all of them, before they begin to fade. Adorn your rooms with them; put them on your tables; send boquets to your friends who have no flowers; or exchange favors with those who have. You will surely find that the more you cut off the more you will have. All roses after they have ceased to bloom should be cut back, that the strength of the root may go to forming new roots for next year. On bushes not a seed should be allowed to mature.—Scribner's.

Keeping Leather Harness Pliable.

It is well known that leather articles, kept in stables, soon become brittle in consequence of ammoniacal exhalations, which affect both harness in such localities and the shoes of those who frequent them. The usual applications of grease are not always sufficient to meet this difficulty; but it is said that by adding to them a small quantity of glycerine the leather will be kept continually in a soft and pliable condition.

☞ It does not seem to be as generally appreciated as the fact ought to be, that it pays just as well to manure a crop of grass as any other crop, but we have seen cases where fully a double crop of hay was the result of a liberal supply of manure.

☞ A crrespondent inform the Practical Farmer that he cleans and polishes his plows with muriatic acid. This searching stuff does the work in short meter, but should not be allowed to remain on the metal.

☞ To send strawberry or other plants by mail, lift them, wash the roots, wrap them tightly in nearly dry moss, encase them in thin oil-paper, leaving the package open at one end if the plants point one way, or open at both ends if they point both ways, with the roots in the middle. Cover with wrapping paper, cord on, and write the direction.

Anecdotes.

A Frenchman cannot pronounce "ship." The word is "sheep" in his mouth. Seeing an ironclad, he said to a boy. "Ish dish a war sheep?"

"No," answered the boy, "it's a ram."

"Phil, my jewel," said Pat, "I'm mighty sorry you can't dine with me today."

"Indeed, and why can't I dine with you?" said the astonished Phil.

"Because, my dear," resumed Pat, "I haven't asked ye as yet."

"I want to buy a sewing machine," said an old lady, entering a shop.

"Do you wish a machine with a feller?" inquired the shopman.

"Goodness, no?" she exclaimed.—"Don't want any of your fellers about me."

Vaccination from the Natural Source.

THERE has been so much trouble and uncertainty about procuring pure Vaccine Matter,—matter positively free from humors and other poisons, that I have thought it best to raise my own, from heifers known to be thoroughly healthy. These heifers are kept in the stable several weeks before being vaccinated, and none used that show the least symptoms of sickness. The virus will be collected by myself, and may be depended upon as pure.

QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the

Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

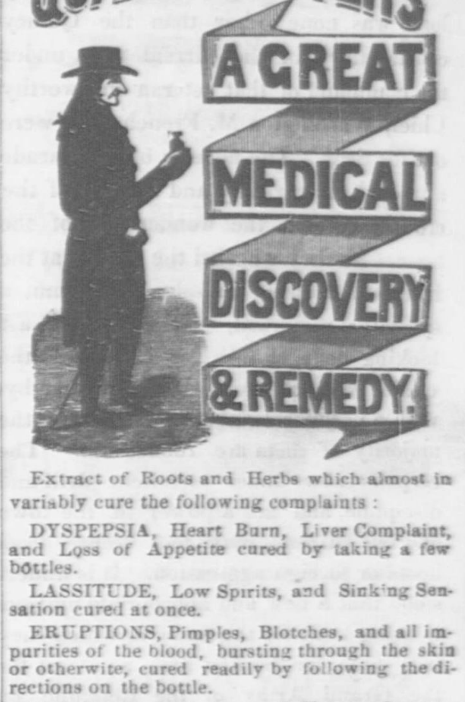
DR. FLINT'S
QUAKER BITTERS



Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwite, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

PREPARED BY DR. H. S. FLINT & CO.,
At their Great Medical Depot, 195 & 197 Broad Street, Providence, R. I.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN
SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

For the Quincy Patriot.

The Great Fire.

Fire, fire, fire, fire!
Higher, higher, higher, higher!
Up through the warerooms, up through the loft,
Over the balcony on to the roof,
The fire-fiend leaps in his mad career,
The City shudders and quakes with fear.

Strikes the alarm, as they come,
Hooks and ladders, engines and men;
Hosemen, policemen come with a rush;
They know the Demon—they'll stay his course.

Above the turret, above the vane,
His blasting breath ascends in a flame;
All is ruin beneath his feet,
With fiery leap he vaults the street
And alights on the roof of a stately pile,
While brave men tremble, and villains smile
Like jackals that follow the lion's path,
To feed on the carcasses slain in his wrath.

The second alarm rings out on the air,
Calling the reserves, for we no man can spare;
Every engine and every man,
Come to the rescue—firemen, come!
The Demon is loose, he will do his worst,
His work is destruction, his mission accursed:
Vain your efforts, fruitless the fight,
He has grown too strong at his feast to-night.
You cannot stay his vengeful ire,
You must send for help to fight the fire.

With lightning speed the alarm went forth,
To the west, to the east, to the south, to the north,
Flashes the message along the wire—
Help us, save us, we are all a-fire!

Our sister cities hear the call;
Another flash—the alarm bells toll;
Men—engines thunder down the street;
Where is the foe they long to meet?
This answer whets their fierce desire,—
The dear old "Hub" is all on fire.

The iron-horse with loosened rein,
Brings o'er the track the flying train;
With shriek, and scream, and rush, and roar,
And speed that steam ne'er knew before.

And now they are with us, the brave volunteers,
Reckless of danger, guiltless of fears;
They have come to the rescue to do or die
For the city whose anguish is mapped on the sky.

Up the ladders see them climb—
A warning cry from the surging line
Of spectators who gaze on their gallant ascent;
They see the walls totter, their firm supports bent,
Come down! come down! the building will fall!
O, God! they are buried beneath the wall!

It will never do, this unequal fight—
He will burn the whole city e'er morning light.
No time to parley, no time for fear,
Back, ye timid! Ye brave ones, here!

The train is laid, the match applied,
The stately pile, the city's pride,
As with a shock of earthquake riven,
Scattering its fragments far and wide,
With one tremendous leap toward heaven,
Cheats the vile Demon of his prey,
And there the smoking ruins lay.

The firemen quick their vantage spy,
And crowding in the breach, they ply
Their engines, which like things of life
Have gathered to the dreadful strife.
Surrounded now on every side,
From every point the drenching tide
Is poured upon the wreathing fiend.
His fate is sealed, [illegible]
Still like the hydra, which to slay
Did valiant Hercules essay,
The fiend, though vanquished in the strife,
From seeming death bursts into life,
And taxes all the firemen's skill,
Ere his dismembered parts they kill.
Days passed 'ere came the joyful shout,
Boys limber up—the fire is out.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

Molasses Candy. One cup of milk, one cup of vinegar, one cup of molasses one-half cup of butter; mix all these together and let it boil briskly and steadily twenty minutes, stirring every moment. If you add the juice and grated rind of half a lemon, the candy will have a nice flavor. And by substitution for the lemon three-fourths of a cup of chocolate or cocoa, and when nearly cold, marking it off in little squares, you will have as nice tasting chocolate taffy as ever came from Southmayd's.

Breakfast Cakes. Two cups of sour milk, half a cup of molasses, one teaspoon of soda, one heaping cup of flour and Indian meal to make a stiff batter.—Add a litte salt, and fry as griddle cakes.

☞ When the angel took up the plants of Eden, and carried them away to transplant above, one little flower dropped upon the earth, and took root wherever there were pure and gentle hands to rear and keep it—a wee, white flower of wondrous sweetness, and men call it Love.

Choice Words. Infinite toil would not enable you to sweep away a mist; but by ascending a little you may look over it altogether. So it is with our moral improvement. We wrestle fiercely with a vicious habit, which would have no hold upon us if we ascended into a higher moral atmosphere.

☞ The crow that has no voice—the scarecrow.

☞ A young, beautiful and bewitching lady entered a lawyer's office in New Orleans, and wanted a divorce. On being asked her grounds, she naively replied: "Well, nothing in particular; but to tell the truth, "I can do better."

☞ "Pretty bad under foot to-day," said one citizen to another. "Yes, but it promises to be fine overhead by-and-by," responded the other. "Perhaps so," said the first," but everybody is not going that way."

☞ Don't fret over what you can't help, and then again don't fret over what you can help; therefore, don't fret at all."

☞ Reader, you can endure to toil and sweat from year to year to prevent poverty; and why not spend a little time in self-examination to prevent eternal misery? Come, let us reason a little.

Miscellany.

A Woman's Ruse.

"A new arrival in town, Hatty," exclaimed Sue Holmes, as she bounded into the room of her particular friend, a young girl of very unusual beauty and elegance.

"Indeed! Who is it?"

"Dick Silvertop is his name, and a most appropriate one, for he is rich as a Jew, and handsome as—as"

"Apollo," suggested the less enthusiastic listener.

"Thank you dear. He is from New York, and is looking for a wife, but he has a terrible fear of being married for his money, as his father left in his will that whoever happens to be the fortunate lady shall receive upon her wedding-day twenty-five thousand dollars—merely as a slight foretaste of what will follow."

"To whom did he tell all that?"

"To Cousin Frank."

"Well, if he is so fearful of being married for his money, what did he say anything about it for?"

"To set all the girls crazy, I suppose."

"He must be a purse-proud simpleton."

"No indeed, he is perfectly splendid, and awfully aristocratic. He will be at the party to-night."

"The observed of all observers, of course."

"Yes, his only fault is that he like wine a little too well."

"Oh!" was the significant exclamation in return.

"Well, Hatty, I have made up my mind to marry that young man when he asks me. Rich, handsome and good-natured. What more can a reasonable girl demand?"

"A good deal more, I should say. Brains, soul and heart would be more preferable in my opinion."

"O, well, Hatty, you are not an ordinary mortal, we all know, you never will find a man perfect enough to please your fastidious taste, and you will certainly be the most pititable creature, an old maid."

"Better that than a drunkard's wife, Sue."

"Drunkard's wife, Hatty! who said [illegible] about such a fearful alternative as that? Because a young man takes a little too much wine at a party sometimes, is no proof that he will turn out a regular inebriate. Anyway, I am willing to run the risk in this case, so now, Hat, don't you dare to stand in my way, and make yourself too charming to-night. You are the only girl that I am afraid of."

"Then you may set your heart entirely at rest, for your description of Mr. Silvertop is not a fascinating one to me I assure you."

She did not feel quite assured, however, for she had too often seen Hatty's cool, indifferent manner prove far more attractive than the affability of others. And in the evening the provoking girl did indeed look lovely enough to subdue a stoic, Sue thought, in spite of all her entreaties to the contrary—and Mr. Silvertop, the lion of the evening, being no stoic at all, was captivated at the first glance, and obtaining an introduction, invited her to dance. But his face was greatly flushed, his voice husky and indistinct, and his walk quite unsteady, and Hatty who hated the slightest approach to intoxication, gave a polite, but very decided refusal. He turned away, and Sue, hoping that he would be seriously offended with her fastidious friend placed herself where she could overhear his remarks to the gentleman near him.

"She is the prettiest girl in the room," he said: "and it is such an unusual thing for me to be refused. By Jove, it is rather a joke. I would dare wager a cool thousand, that there isn't another young lady in the room who would refuse Dick Silvertop, with his millions of dollars."

"Well, who shall I introduce you to, next?" inquired his listener.

"Any one you please—provided she is pretty."

"Miss Holmes is a very bright, pleasant girl."

"Which is she."

"I will find her," said the gentleman.

So Sue slipped from her hiding-place, and managed to have him meet her, just as she had perfected her plans in regard to the self-satisfied and unsuspecting stranger.

"Miss Holmes, allow me to present Mr. Silvertop."

They stood and talked for some time—and then as the dancers took their places for a waltz, the gentleman invited Sue to join them.

"Please excuse me," she said, "I would rather not."

"Indeed, Miss," he replied, and turned on his heel, with a look of indignant astonishment.

Sue was completely chagrined by his manner—and having succeeded in playing eavesdropper a second time, she realized, in a cheering way, that listeners never hear any good of themselves.

"The little snob!" she heard him say, "because Miss Percy refused me, she follows suit. A Silvertop refused by a Holmes. Why, we are one of the oldest families in America. The presuming little simpleton. She really elevated her pug-nose quite loftily."

So poor Sue, very much discomfitted, withdrew to the dressing-room, in tears. She never indulged in the melting mood very long, however. So drying her eyes, she returned to the dancing-room, inwardly vowing that she would win the rich aristocrat yet; and when a pretty woman once fully makes up her mind to marry a certain man, she is very apt to do it—because, "if a woman says she will, you may depend on't."

Soon after this the gentleman, who was evidently more loquacious than reticent, avowed his intention of going into the country to seek a wife, who would marry him for himself alone. Of course this artless acknowledgment was repeated far and wide, and soon reached the ears of Sue, always wide-awake, and on the alert. So she managed, without any trouble whatever, to find out his intended hiding-place, and there the quick-witted girl went before him. He had never seen her but once, and then it was in the evening, so that it was no very difficult matter to change herself beyond his recognition. She cut off her hair, and wore it in curling ringlets about her face, which always makes a wonderful difference in a young girl's appearance. Then she artfully colored her cheeks, which were usually pale, so that when Mr. Silvertop met the pretty school mistress in the country, although her face did seem a little familiar, still it never occurred to him that it was the same Miss Holmes who had so offended him in the city, and much further was he from ever dreaming that she had come out purposely to meet him.

She had prepared herself especially for conquest. The short black curls on her forehead made her look several years younger than she was in reality, and over them she had jauntily tied a gypsy hat with blue ribbons, in which she was certainly quite bewitching. Then assuming an air of rustic bashfulness, she raised her great black eyes to Dick's face, and quickly lowered them again, in a way that fascinated the susceptible fellow immediately, and he congratulated himself upon having [illegible] at a little distance, and followed her, which was all in the programme made out by Sue, so from time to time she looked slyly back over her shoulder, playing her part to perfection. He soon succeded in making her acquaintance, and she continued to fill the role she had assigned herself, with all the art of a finished actress.

"Miss Sue," he said one day as they sat in an appropriate nook, by the side of a pretty babbling stream, "have you always lived in this village?"

"O, no," she replied, somewhat hesitatingly. "I came here to teach."

"Do you like to teach?"

"Not very well, I should prefer to have my time all to myself, and there are so few pretty children here. I do not like such rough, homely little creatures, and they all want to kiss me," she said, with a cheering affectation of artlessness.

"I do not blame them for that," exclaimed the young man, with an admiring look, then suddenly—"How would you like to live in the city in a fine house, and have an elegant carriage and horses, and plenty of servants to do your bidding?"

"O, it would be splendid!—that is—if—"

"If what, Sue, dear?" he asked in tones that became more tender.

"I do not like to tell," she replied, turning away her blushing face. "Tell me, darling," he whispered, as he seized her unresisting hand, for resistance was very far from her thoughts.

"I should not want to go there alone," she stammered.

"Will you go with me?" he asked, as he drew her towards him, and Sue had not played her part in vain. But when she saw that the young man was really very much in love with her, quite giving up his old ways for her sake, her conscience began to reproach her; and one day when he was pleading eagerly for a speedy marriage, she acknowledged that she had deceived him, and told him who she was. Then much to her surprise and relief, he burst into a merry laugh, and seemed to consider it a very funny achievement.

"Why, you little, sly puss," he exclaimed, "then you were just cheating me all the time, and I thought you were the sweetest little country girl in the world. Why, what an actress you would make! Charlotte Cushman and Ristori might hide their 'diminished heads.'"

"Oh, Dick," she said humbly, "can you forgive me?"

"Forgive you? Yes, if you will grant me a kiss for every one of the naughty stories you told. And it seemed to me all the time that I had seen your face before—"

"And you are not angry with me?"

"Why no, not a bit;" and after they were married he boasted of having the smartest wife in the world. Sue made him perfectly happy, and he became quite a steady married man. She never would have been a good wife for a poor man, but prosperity brought out all her best points. She received the promised twenty-five thousand dollars upon her wedding-day, and spent it generously. Her greatest annoyance was that her husband would perist in telling every one about their courtship, and, as she said to Hatty, "I absolutely dread having a stranger come into the house, for I know that Dick will have to tell the whole story." Hatty was not ill-natured, but Food Medicine.

Dr. Hall relates the case of a man who was cured of biliousness by going without his supper and drinking freely of lemonade. Every morning, says the doctor, this patient rose with a wonderful sense of rest and refreshment, and a feeling as though the blood had been literally washed, cleansed and cooled by the lemonade and the fast. His theory is that food will be used as a remedy for many diseases successfully. For example, he cures cases of spitting blood by the use of salt; epilepsy and yellow fever by watermelons; kidney affections, by celery; poison, olive or sweet oil; erysipelas, pounded cranberries applied to the parts affected; hydrophobia, onions, etc. So the way to keep in good health is really to know what to eat, not what medicine to take.

Puzzled.

A jolly young fellow named Corcoran when he arrived in this country some years since, propounded a puzzle to a gruff old clerk "in the New York City Hall, which is believed to have shortened that official's days. Corcoran went up to the office for his "first papers."

The deputy was a serious old chap, who, without even looking up, proceeded to put his formal interrogatories. "What is your name, sir?" he demanded.

"John Corcoran."

"Twenty-one."

"Your nativity?"

"Well—that's what bothers me—I'll tell you, and maybe you make it out.

"My father was Irish, my mother English, and I was born on board of a Dutch brig under the French flag, in Flemish water. Now how is it?"

The old clerk looked up aghast, shoved his spectacles on his brow, and, slowly made answer:

"Young man, your nativity and that of our Saviour are the only ones which ever puzzled me."

Wanting Friends.

I wish that I had some good friends to help me on in life."

"Good friends! Why, you have ten," replied his master.

"I'm sure I haven't half so many, and those I have are too poor to help me."

"Count your fingers, my boy."

Dennis, looked at his large, strong hands. "Count thumbs and all."

"I have; there are ten," said the lad.

"Then never say that you have not got ten good friends to help you on in life. Try what those true friends can do before you begin grumbling and fretting because you do not get any help from others."

A Minister's Sweat.

A Michigan paper tells an amusing story of a minister of that State who took an old-fashioned sweat, and was wrapped up in an old-fashioned patch quilt of many colors. In due course of time he waked up to find himself all over spotted blue, black and purple. Believing that mortification had already set in, he began to settle up his earthly accounts and prepare for his final dissolution, while the members of the flock gave themselves up to uncontrollable grief.—The arrival of a physician and the examination of the faded quilt gave another explanation of the spots, and turned the house of mourning to one of laughter.

SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1873.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

Sudden Death. The sad and sudden announcement of the death of Mr. Geo. M. Washburn, at Chicago, Ill., was received by his relatives and friends in this place, with deep gloom, on Saturday last. He had left the bosom of his family but a few days previous, for a short visit to this western city, on business, and was expected to return the day the sad intelligence reached Quincy. The particulars of his death, are as yet, quite meagre to his friends. It appears while walking in one of the streets he fell and was picked up insensible and carried to a hospital, where he survived but a few hours in an unconscious state.

His remains were brought home on Tuesday. The funeral ceremonies took place at his late residence on Sea street, and the body was followed to the grave by a large number of mourners, among which were delegations from the Boston Commandery of Knights Templars, Columbian Lodge of F. & A. Masons, of Boston, and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery.

Runaway Accident. Hon. George T. Bigelow's horse while being driven to the depot on Monday morning, became unmanageable and run furiously down the hill near his residence and when reaching Elm street the carriage was upset throwing the Judge and his driver out. They were both considerably bruised, but fortunately were not seriously injured. The carriage was badly broken.

At Home. Hon. Charles Francis Adams and family arrived in town on Wednesday, for their annual summer sojourn in the old homestead;—which venerable structure and its surroundings, are made to retain as near as possible the same rural aspect as they did in the days of the "old man eloquent."

☞ Rev. Edward P. Hooker, of Middlebury, Vermont, is expected to preach in the Congregational Church, in this place to-morrow.

"Death Loves a Shining Mark." The announcement of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth F., wife of Mr. George Monk on Tuesday morning, was quite unexpected, and threw a sadness over her large circle of relatives and friends, who deeply sympathize with the family in their great affliction.

☞ We would call the attention of our citizens in want of house lots by the sea-shore to an advertisement in our columns to-day. Forty excellent lots at Houghs Neck are offered for sale, and a two-story house. These lots are unsur- [illegible] those thinking of building a summer cot near the salt water.

Fire Department. We learn that the Selectmen drew orders on the Town Treasurer to the amount of $2730.00, on Saturday last to pay the members of the Fire Department for services the past year. A sum nearly twice as large as usually required for that purpose.

Sudden Death. Mrs. Catherine Cronin died very suddenly on Sunday morning last at her residence on school street, of heart disease. From what we have learned, it appears that her husband who was paralyzed about ten days ago and is entirely helpless, awakened her about five o'clock to move him to a more comfortable position. After waiting on him she returned to bed requesting him not to disturb her until she had a little sleep. About seven, her babe, which is only eight weeks old, commenced crying, and her husband spoke to her but received no answer, when he called his daughter, who on touching her mother found she was dead.

Directory. We have received the Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree Directory for 1873, but as we have been unable to examine it, shall defer a more extended notice for another week.

The Beer Law. This new law went into effect the present week, and for the enforcement of the same the State Police are being reorganized. Among the changes which have been ordered are the following:—

Messrs. Morse and Pindar of Lowell are ordered to Charlestown for duty.—Capt. Garey of Weymouth and Eldridge of Neponset will go to Lowell.—Detective Hammond will have charge of Weymouth, Quincy, Braintree and Randolph. N. B. Furnald of Quincy will go to Hyde Park and Brookline. Transfers are being made in all parts of the State. Notification to dealers to close and immediate prosecution in case of non-compliance is the programme laid out.

Stokes Doomed. At the general term of the Supreme Court, held in New York on Wednesday, Judges Brady, Davis and Fancher presiding, it was decided to deny Stokes a new trial.—Stokes' friends have abandoned all hope of saving him from the gallows, and he is quite despondent at the unfavorable turn matters have taken. His counsel will now take the case to the court of appeals, where it will have precedence over all other business.

For the Patriot.

Mr. Brown's Concert.

On the evening of May 1st, occurred the Concert which Mr. H. B. Brown gives annually in connection with the May Festival. The evening could not have been finer if it had been ordered for the occasion, and this with the excellent programme offered, called out a large and appreciating audience. He was assisted on this occasion by the "Highland Quartette," Mrs. J. W. Howland and Miss Eloise L. Fuller. The first afforded a rich treat to the many lovers of a quartette of male voices, which nothing else excels if indeed it can equal. The rich, deep, pure tones, while they subdue, tone up and invigorate the listener till he can give a positive negative to the question of Keats "why does sweet music make us sad?"

If a little lack of power was noticed at some points, the contrast this evening was sufficiently noticeable to verify the remark. Nor is this intended to detract from the merit of any other. Miss Fuller sang sweetly, with great variety, and indicated more power than she actually exercised. In the last strains of "L'Etoile du Nord" she shook her voice out in a very natural and sprightly way. In the duet with Mr. Brown, Mrs. Howland sustained a pleasing part and it was here that we appreciated the unusual power of Mr. Brown's voice. It was unmistakable and deserves recognition. If there was a slight sacrifice of sweetness the clearness and freedom of the execution would explain its success which we freely admit. Mrs. Brown, though not on the programme, by request came from the audience and sang O Luce di quest anima, with success. Miss Abby Clark was the Accompanist of the evening and acquitted herself in her own delightful manner.

There was a harmony and grace about the whole which indicated not only the culture of the performers, but skill and tact in the entire arrangements and conduct of the evening. The manifestations which the encores, and the remarks of those leaving the hall, would justify us in pronouncing it a delightful entertainment.

District Court of East Norfolk.

Saturday.

Leander Pratt, of Weymouth, for being a common drunkard. He pleaded guilty, and said in a very affecting manner, that he had no peace or happiness at home, and wished to go away. The Judge accordingly sent him to the House of Correction for two months.

Wednesday.

David B. Lincoln of Cohasset, was arraigned on complaint of State Constable Garey, for keeping and maintaining a liquor nuisance at Cohasset, to which he plead not guilty. After examing two witnesses for the Commonwealth, the case was continued to Wednesday, May 14th, at Cohasset. Hon. Solomon J. Beal, appeared as counsel for Lincoln.

Thursday.

Gayton Eddy of Randolph, was complained of for stealing goods valued at $15 from Mrs. Nancy Swain of Randolph. The case was continued one week.

[illegible] assault on James Dowd. Case was continued till Saturday morning.

George N. Keegan of Boston, was arrested by Constable Furnald, for being drunk in Quincy. He plead guilty to the charge and was fined $3 and costs.

Friday.

Joseph M. Walsh of Quincy, for assault on his brother Peter. The case was continued one month, and Joseph was ordered to give sureties in the sum of $300 for his appearance and to keep the peace.

Samuel H. Gouch of Braintree for being drunk. Fined $3 and costs.

☞ In the real estate sales last week we announced that Henry Edwards had purchased a large tract of land in North Weymouth; it should have read James Edwards.

New Drug Store. We would call the attention of our readers to the new and pretty store just opened on Sea street by Mr. Appleton. He has had seventeen years' experience in the apothecary business in Boston and Cambridge, and knows how to keep a shop that will attract the attention and patronage of the public.—His assistant, Mr. Davies, is too well known to our citizens to need any notice from us. His careful attention in compounding prescriptions, has won him a high reputation. Mr. Appleton intends to make his new store a permanent one, as well as desirable and attractive. May it be a blessing to the community.

Postal Cards. Requisitions for twelve million postal cards have thus far been received at Washington, from the postmasters. Government will derive eight mills profit on each card, or to be exact, eight dollars and sixty cents on one thousand. Efforts will be made to negotiate a treaty with the Dominion of Canada, under which postal cards can pass between the two countries without the payment of additional postage.

Ladies! Ladies!! Ladies!!! A splendid, a beautiful, yes a truly attractive stock of Hats and Bonnets of the spring styles is now offered at very low prices at Cushman & Brooks, 37 and 39 Temple Place, Boston. Read their advertisement in another column.

Luxuries. A residence in San Francisco would be very desirable at this time. The papers say that new cherries are arriving from Sunny Vale Orchard; peas and asparagus are in good supply, the former selling at 5 a 8 cents per pound and the latter at 8 a 12 cents per bunch. Strawberries are very plentiful at reduced prices—15 a 20 cents per pound.

The Excursion Season of 1873.

People have already begun to think and talk about their anticipated excursions down the harbor during the coming season, and have lived over again the scenes and pleasures of past seasons, justly expecting that the coming season will be more enjoyable than any of its predecessors.

Messrs. T. J. Dunbar & Co. are making arrangements to commence the first of June and run excursion steamers during the summer to Lovell's Grove Weymouth and Quincy Point. They will employ two steamers, the Massasoit, Capt. French, and the Stamford, Capt. Davidson both of which have been refitted in the most thorough manner. A new 28 ton boiler has been placed in the Stamford and the Massasoit has received the boiler which was used in the Stamford last year, being then entirely new. The Massasoit has been greatly improved by the addition of a new bottom. New sponsing has also been placed in this boat measuring in front 60 by 13 and aft 40 by 12. This makes air-tight compartments, so that if the whole bottom of the boat should suddenly drop out it would float without difficulty, even with a load of 1000 persons. The cost of this improvement was $1500. In making these repairs and improvements it has been the constant aim of the owners to ensure the safety of their vessels, and that they have well accomplished this no one can doubt who will take the pains to examine the Massasoit and Stamford.

At the same time while they have been taking continual thought for the safety of the hundreds of passengers whom they will doubtless provide for during the summer, they have not been unmindful of the speed of their vessels, but have secured in them a combination of speed and safety which makes them well adapted to the purposes intended. The Massasoit will make three trips daily to Quincy Point and Lovell's Grove, stopping twice at Long Island. One trip from Lewis wharf at 9.45 o'clock in the morning will be made directly to Lovell's Grove without stopping, and the boat will return at 5.15 in the afternoon, allowing one hour more at the grove than was had last year. Societies, schools and other organizations can secure the use of the grove in connection with an excursion, at the usual rates. Several Sunday schools have already made such engagements. The grove at Quincy Point has been fittted up and put in good repair, and together with the hotel, is in charge of Howard Rowe, Esq. The grove is provided with everything that is needed to make it a first-class picnic grove, such as swings, dancing-floors, music-platform, &c., &c. In addition to these attractions the proprietors have erected an elegant Chinese pagoda, 75 feet high, with four stories, cupola and steeple.

Crops. Intelligence from portions of the South and Southwest represents the growing crops in those sections to be in an almost unprecedentedly prosperous condition. In all the Southern States the area of land under [illegible] at any time since the war, and if no material drawback intervenes before the harvest month to check the growth of the crops the productions of the South this year will be fully equal to any previous season.

The Veteran Bell-ringer. Mr. Clement Bates of Plymouth has rung the town bell for forty-two consecutive years, and thinks he may possibly stick to it forty-two years longer, but the chances are against him. Five times a day, and in former years oftener, he has visited the church porch.

A Big Price. An old lady of 74 years, living on the extremity of Cape Cod, among the sands of Provincetown, was asked what price she wanted for her homestead, lying in the line of the new railroad; to which she replied, with the utmost seriousness, that it was "useless to name it, for the Old Colony Railroad Company hadn't money enough to buy it!"

The Lady's Friend for May. We do not know when we have seen a more graceful and spirited engraving than "The Huntress of Armorica," which leads off the present number of this admirable Magazine. It is that of a veritable Diana. The Music is the "Over Sticks and Stones Galop," by Carl Faust. In the literary we have the usual rich variety. The Fashion Department and Work Tables Varieties will be valued by the ladies. For sale at Souther's.

☞ The total loss by the Boston fire is fixed by the National Board of Underwriters at $70,000,000, of which about sixty-five and three-quarters per cent. will be paid by insurance.

Summary of News.

Birds' Nests. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has issued placards to remind boys that they are liable to be arrested and fined for robbing birds' nests. Thousands of dollars worth of crops are annually lost, because the birds, that devoured the insects that preyed upon them, have been wantonly destroyed. City people leave our beautiful suburbs, and go back in the country because "they want to hear the birds sing." Our Wollaston friends are doing nobly in planting trees,—let them protect the birds who build in them! And let every man, woman and boy among us see that the letter and spirit of our wise State law is duly respected.

That Half-Ton of Coal.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

Under the head of rumors about town, mention was made of a person receiving a half-ton of coal and was astonished when the bill was presented for the same.

The facts in the case are as follows:—I received an order to deliver a half-ton of coal to a lady on Phipps street, but through a mistake of my clerk, it was delivered to a lady of the same name on another street, who, I have no doubt, will pay for it when she ascertains the facts in the case.

Fearing that some of your readers might think that some blame rested upon the gentleman who sent the order, and whose acts of charity (especially the past winter) are known to all, is why I make this explanation.

DOWNING'S SEEDLING
GOOSEBERRIES.
A NEW VARIETY, very thrifty and prolific, of upright growth—fruit of large size and of best quality.
The Fruit Committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in their last Annual Report, say:—
"The shows of native Gooseberries have been remarkably fine. The prizes on the 20th of July, were awarded first, to the Downing; second, to Smith's Seedling — and third to Houghton's Seedling, and we think that these awards justly express the relative value of the kinds. Certainly they are all superior in quality to the Mountain Seedling."
At the Society's Exhibitions on the 20th and 27th of July, 1872, the first premiums (for best Gooseberries) were awarded to the subscriber for Downing's Seedling.

Death of Chiet Justice Chase.

The sudden departure of Hon. Salmon P. Chase, the highest judicial officer of the Government, has cast a gloom over the country. He was on a visit to his daughter, in New York city, and was prostrated by a stroke of apoplexy on Tuesday, and died on the following morning. The announcement spread rapidly through the city and before noon the flags on the City Hall, Court House and other public buildings were displayed at half mast.

Judge Chase arose from humble life. He was born at Cornish, N. H., 1808.—His father died when he was about ten years of age, and he was placed under the care of his uncle,—Rev. Philander Chase of Ohio.

After graduating, the eighth in his class, at Dartmouth College, he applied to his uncle, Dudley Chase, then a member of the United States Senate from Vermont, for a place in the Treasury Department. The wise old New Englander replied that he had once procured an appointment for a nephew and it had ruined him. "If you want half a dollar to buy a spade," he consolingly added, "I'll give it to you, but I will not help you to a place under Government." Thus the future Secretary of the Treasury was refused a position in the department which he subsequently did so much to develope under the emergency of a great crisis.

☞ The bills for the annexation of Charlestown, West Roxbury, Brookline and Brighton, have passed both branches of the legislature though slight amendments necessitate further votes upon them. Very few of the active, live business men of Boston will vote against the annexation of either of these municipalities, and there is now little doubt that the next city government will contain representatives from twenty-two wards.

DRAMATIC. The entertainment at the Town Hall, on Monday evening last, by the Jennie Kimball Troupe, was greatly relished by a small audience. The troupe, taken as a whole, is composed of the best travelling talent that has appeared on our boards for an indefinite period of time. Mr. Harry Hunter proved all he was advertised to be, a superior vocalist and comedian; Miss Lizzie Wilson appeared to great acceptance, and Miss Jennie Kimball is a host in herself. It is understood that the company, nothing daunted by their seemingly ill-success, will soon favor our citizens with another visit:—in which event, we would modestly suggest to the managers, that if they will keep lamp-black in the background and appear with white faces in some lively play or farce (for which the company possesses talent to enact in a superior manner) they will meet with better favor from a Quincy audience who are never backward in patronizing the true and the beautiful.

NORFOLK CONFERENCE. At a recent spring session of the Norfolk Conference, held with the Unitarian Society at Hyde Park, the following resolution, offered by Rev. Mr. Nickerson of Neponset, was adopted by a large majority, viz.:

Resolved, That in the sense of the Conference the drinking usages of society are opposed to the best interests of humanity and the church, and we deem it the duty of every minister of our denomination to take a bold stand for the temperance reform.

A VERY INTERESTING WORK. We have just received from the National Publishing Co. of Philadelphia, a copy of Prof. O. S. Fowler's great work, on Manhood, Womanhood, and their Mutual Interrelations; Love, its Laws, Power, etc. We hail its advent with undisguised satisfaction, and cordially commend it to the perusal of all classes of our community. Forty years experience as a teacher and lecturer on science, and a long life devoted to consultations and advice in connection with subjects concerning which men and women hesitate to confide—even in their physicians—have enabled Prof. Fowler to give to the world the most remarkable and useful volume of the day, and one which should find its way into the hands of every conscientious man and woman.

As its title indicates, it is devoted to an explanation of the laws which governs the sexes in their relations to each other; the ignorance of which causes so much sorrow and suffering in the world. Thousands will thank the author for his disclosures, and we predict that the book will mark the beginning of a clearer understanding of the subjects whereof it treats. Men will be arrested in their heedless course, and made to think of the misery they are entailing upon their families and themselves through ignorance. Wives will find in this volume a sure and safe road to the accomplishment of every true wife's desires. Women who wish to retain their health and beauty in mature life will be taught in this volume the secret of doing so, and will also learn here the true means of keeping their husbands faithful.

It is pure and elevated in tone, and abounds in the most useful information concerning the sexes. Its low price brings it within reach of all, and the information it contains is beyond value.—Its circulation will be a benefit to society.

The book is sold by subscription only and the publishers want agents in every county.

☞ "The Blood owes its red color to minute globules which float in that fluid, and contain, in a healthy person, a large amount of Iron, which gives vitality to the blood. The Peruvian Syrup supplies the blood with this vital element, and gives strength and vigor to the whole system.

VORACITY OF A HEN. A gentleman living in Lexington bought some hens of a neighbor. After getting them home he noticed that one of them had an immense crop, which hung down nearly to the ground, and seemed to cause her much trouble, if not considerable pain. Being somewhat of an amateur surgeon, it occurred to the gentleman that he might perhaps relieve the hen of her unnatural burden. He accordingly procured a sharp instrument, and making an incision through her neck into the crop, took out a large dish cloth, which in some greedy moment poor biddy had swallowed. He then, after applying water and lard to the wound, sewed it up and the hen now is apparently as well as ever.

☞ Out of every 300 idiots in this country 143 are children of drunkards. In 1872 there was paid out in this country for liquors over $600,000,000 which gives about $15 apiece to every man, woman and child in America.

RANDOLPH. At a meeting of the Baptist parish, it was unanimously voted to remodel the church at an expense of not less than $25,000. A subscription paper was immediately started, and a sum amounting to $17,000 was guaranteed.

BILLIARDS. At the meeting held in Weymouth recently the matter of licensing billiard saloons was settled by a vote allowing eight persons of good moral character to open saloons in the town. This will give the champions of the cue the opportunity of indulging in their favorite amusement to the fullest extent of their purses.

The Original Yankee Doodle.

Father and I to Boston went
To get some chairs and tables,
And there they told us wondrous yarns
That sounded just like fables.
They told us of a splendid place,
Where everything is sold
That we could want in FURNITURE,
Fit for the young and old.

But the beauty of their trading is,
They have a novel plan,
And give their goods on easy lease
To the very poorest man.

So up we went to CUNNINGHAM'S
To put our business through;
When we got there we found at once
That all they said was true.

Now father had but little cash,
But they his heart did ease,
And said, Good friend take what you want,
And pay on monthly lease.

Whichever way we turn our eyes,
We see improvements have been made;
Each seeking by some new device
To cast all others in the shade;
In commerce and mechanics, too,
Great changes a few years do show;

Nor dreamed of fifty years ago.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of every organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels some times costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

Assessors' Notice.

To the Inhabitants and all other persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy:

THE Assessors of the Town of Quincy hereby give notice to the inhabitants of said Town, and all other persons liable to pay Taxes therein, that their Office will be open on and after the 21st day of May, until and including the 7th day of June, from 5 to 6 1-2 o'clock, P. M., to receive the valuation of estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said town are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the real and personal estates for which they are liable to pay taxes.

Persons holding estates in trust are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed.

Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list, within the time above specified, will at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.

All Persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 7th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.

When a person has failed to bring in a list or a schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate.

Poetry.

Not Yet.

When I hear souls lamenting while they pray,
That so small fruit of good in them appears,
I think of earth before the first spring day,
When the half-trusted promise of her years
Slow in the weary waiting dies away.
I know that heaven need only stoop and smile,
To find her flowers were growing all the while.

God is more kind than sunshine, and He knows
What souls are His—more hopeful thus than we.
Who for the possible glory of a rose,
Leave in our garden many a thorny tree;
So in this wintry world our nature grows.
What joy, if at the feast we see Him stand,
And know our perfect flowering is in his hand!

Gypsum for Potatoes.

In the region south and west of Boston, and not so far from the city that the farmer cannot go and return with a load on the same day, the early potato crop is a source of large income and fair profit. The potatoes are planted as early in April, as the soil can be made fit to receive them, and taken to market when they are ripe or not. Some of the earliest are sent in the latter part of July, and the bulk of them in August. This is the harvest season for this crop, and occurs before potatoes are brought in from Maine and Vermont. The demand for them at that period is always quick, and at a paying price. Under these circumstances, it is an object for the farmer to get the crop matured at the earliest moment, as one bushel in July will usually fetch as much as two bushels will in September. In order to secure this, various plans are adopted to start them early, such as sprouting them in baskets by the kitchen stove, or placing them in sheltered and sunny places on layers of horse manure, until the germ has pushed out a fourth of an inch, when they are carefully planted.

After a thorough preparation of the soil, no application of what is termed special manure, seems to have so favorable an influence on potatoes, as that of gypsum, or the common plaster of paris. Gypsum is made up of Egg-Eating Hens.

A writer in the Journal of Horticulture advises: "Any one who is troubled with hens eating their eggs, to break and dust the contents with fine Cayenne pepper turning the egg round, so as to get the pepper before the yolk if possible, and leave the egg in the offender's nest. Or, if he catches her in the act of eating an egg, let him drive her away quietly and place pepper in the remainder of the egg, endeavoring, as stated above, to get the pepper underneath. He will very soon see her running furiously about with distended beak. If one dose is not sufficient, administer another a little stronger; but one dose has proved to be a pefect cure.

A correspondent of N. E. Homestead says:—Hens eat their eggs because they desire food of the kind of which the egg is composed—the shell to procure lime and the yolk and white to procure albumen and other oily substances. Now if the hens can obtain a sufficient quantity of these oily substances in their daily food, they will not eat their eggs. This can be effectually accomplished by keeping within reach of the fowls, a constant supply of air slaked lime, fat meat and pulverized bone.

WATER CURE FOR HORSES. A correspondent of the New York Tribune cured a bad case of founder as follows:—In the first place, I physicked him; then I took a tight, strong box, got his feet into it, and poured boiling hot water into it, as high as the hair on his feet, and in ten or fifteen minutes he was able to stand on his forelegs without the assistance of the tackle. I kept up this treatment for 36 hours, when he was able to go about and help himself. In a few days I had his shoes put on, and in less than a fortnight more he was able to work as well as ever.

Anecdotes.

"What would you like to be when you become a man?" said a fond mother to her young hopeful; "would you like to be a merchant, or doctor, or lawyer, or preacher?"

"I think, mamma," said the urchin "I'd rather be a candy shop."

"Did it rain to-morrow?" inquired a Dutchman of a Frenchman.

"Me guess it was," replied the Frenchman.

A Pearl street, Cincinnati, firm hired a new drummer. They didn't hear from him for about six weeks, when he made his appearance.

"Did you get any orders?" asked the boss, somewhat angrily.

"Yes," said the new man, dejectedly, "one man gave me an order."

"What was it?"

"He ordered me out of his store."

"Oh, my dear, there is a most lovely set—pin, ear-ring, and sleeve-buttons.—Do go buy them."

"Yes my dear, I mean to go by them as fast as possible."

A drunkard, on being told that the earth is round and turns on its axis all the time, said:

"I believe that, for I've never been able to stand on the darned thing."

Mrs. Dr. Secor's

PRESCRIPTIONS.
QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the
Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwise, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Ring the Bell Softly.

Some one has gone from this strange world of ours,
No more to gather its thorns with the flowers;
No more to linger where sunbeams must fade,
Where on all beauty death's fingers are laid;
Weary with mingling life's bitter and sweet,
Weary with parting and never to meet,
Some one has gone to the bright golden shore—
Ring the bell softly, there's crape on the door!
Ring the bell softly, there's crape on the door!

Some one is resting from sorrow and sin,
Happy where earth's conflicts enter not in;
Joyous as birds, when the morning is bright,
When the sweet sunbeams have brought us their light;
Weary with sowing and never to reap,
Weary with labor and welcoming sleep—
Some one's departed to heaven's bright shore—
Ring the bell softly, there's crape on the door!
Ring the bell softly, there's crape on the door!

Angels were anxiously longing to meet
One who walks with them in Heaven's bright street;
Loved ones have whispered that some one is blest;
Free from earth's trials, and taking sweet rest.
Yes! there is one more in angelic bliss—
One less to cherish, and one less to kiss;
One more departed to heaven's bright shore—
Ring the bell softly, there's crape on the door!
Ring the bell softly, there's crape on the door.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

BEEFSTEAK SMOTHERED WITH ONIONS. Cut up six onions very fine; put them into a saucepan, with two cups of hot water and about two ounces of butter, pepper and salt; dredge in a little flour; let it stew until the onions are quite soft; then have the steak broiled; put it in the saucepan with the onions; let it simmer about ten minutes; send it to the table hot.

LEMON PUDDING. Juice and rind of one lemon, one cup of sugar, yolks of two eggs, three tablespoons of flour, one pint of milk. Line a dish with paste; pour on the mixture and bake. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and stir in four tablespoons of sugar; take it out of the oven or stove, pour the white of an egg on lightly, return and bake it a light brown.

Miscellany.

The Silent Deacon's Opinion.

When next summer comes, with its heat and dust and languor, and the tired spirit, fainting by the way, cries out for the wings of a dove, go up to W——, among the hills made sacred to nature, where the hurry and anxiety of commerce are unknown, and the silent Sundays are never broken by the whizzing of machinery, or defiled by its smoke and steam. If you have toiled hard enough to deserve rest, you will find it in W——, if not, you will seek it anywhere in vain.

It is the most pleasant place in the world; and were it not for the farmer turning his furrows, or casting in seed, you might imagine yourself already where "Sundays never end."

Entering the neat, capacious church, fatherly and motherly faces meet your eye at every hand, and you will soon forget that you are a stranger.

Yonder, in the square pew, sits Deacon Lee; you would know he was a deacon if he had not told you. Some men are born deacons—what a pity that some should enter the holy office who are not! Deacon Lee was not a native of W——, but went there to till a farm left him by an aged relative some twenty years ago—about the time Deacon Bell died, leaving a sad void in the church and the parsonage—for he was a pillar in Zion, and a strong arm to his pastor. After seeking long to fill his place, the minds of the church settled on the new-comer, who, by his solemnity, piety and zeal, seemed created for the place. He was a man of few words, rarely ever talking, so that the boys called him at first "a glum old man." But they soon changed their opinion; for he set apart a tree of summer-sweetings and one of bell-pears for their express benefit, as they went to and from school, and surprised them by a fine swing, which he hung for them in his walnut-grove. So the verdict of that and of each succeeding generation of boys was tha[illegible] lover of children. Every boy, for twenty years back, has been his shepherd, his watchman, or his assistant farmer; feeling it a high honor to hitch his horse on Sunday, or to drive his manure-cart on Monday; and all because they saw through the thick veil of reserve, that love burned and glowed in his heart.

Deacon Lee's minister trusted in him, and the church felt her temporal affairs safe in his hands, and the world honored his stern consistency.

There was a serpent in Eden, and a Judas in that thrice-blessed band who walked and talked with our Redeemer on earth, and who saw His glory mingled with His humanity; why, then, need we wonder that one man, subtle and treacherous, hid himself in the calm verdure of W——, crawling out only to deceive God's people with a kiss, till ready to spring upon them with his poisoned fangs? Upright, faithful and earnest as were the people, they were not proof against flattery and deception. There came among them one quite unused to their unostentatious way of serving God, and ambitious, as he said, "of seeing them make some stir in the world." We know from God's Word that "one sinner destroyeth much good," and yet we are often annoyed at the wide results of one man's evil work in the church. One may sow tares which a hundred cannot pluck out; and therefore it becomes God's children to stay the enemy in his first efforts.

He who aimed at the life of the gospel church in W—— was "dead, while he had a name to live." He scorned many of the humble ones whose crown is waiting them on high. He hated the humbling doctrines of the Cross, and desired to see man glorified and exalted; he rebelled against the "iron bars," which he chose to call the bonds of love which separate God's chosen and obedient ones from the world that lieth in wickedness. He declared that the Millennium could never dawn till all Christians were as one—by which he meant that, for the sake of union, right must yield to wrong—as if he were of the number who loved and longed for the appearing of Christ! He began stealthily to sow his seeds among the younger and weaker of the flock, and when he saw the first token of their taking root he grew bold, and began to cast them in on the strong, high hills. But here he found resistance; the soil which had borne such rich harvests of grace repelled his seed from its bosom; and he came to the mad resolve to assail the deacon, and try how he would receive it. If he, with his piety, zeal and influence, opened his bosom to it, the end was easily attained. The minister was not worthy of consideration in the matter—ministers are so readily put out of the way if they do not yield to ungodliness. If he proved a dead sentinel, he would not molest him; if alive and jealous of his Master's honor, one bullet would settle him forever.

In pursuance of his "liberal views" and his deep-laid plan, our valiant reformer rode up and fastened his horse before the unpretending dwelling of Deacon Lee. Ushered into the neat "keeping room" to await his coming from the harvest-field, his restless spirit was almost awed by the silence which reigned there. The tall clock in the corner, with its ever-sailing ship, ticked painfully loud; and even the buzzing of the few flies on the panes annoyed him. He suffered much the same oppression as to those who wait long in a silent, darkened room, the coming of a minister to a funeral. He wished for, and then dreaded the good man, being not quite sure of a warm reception. He had just decided on a clandestine flight, when the door opened and the deacon entered, as calm and neat as if toil had never ruffled his spirits or soiled his garments. After the usual greetings, and a dead, awful pause, the visitor began—think of the wiles of Satan!—by lamenting the low state of religion, asking the good man why this church has enjoyed no revival for three or four years! What cared he for God's set time to visit Zion? He was far more deeply interested in the opening of a new stage-road to the summit, and in getting up stock in the projected hotel there.

"Now what do you think is the cause of things being dull here? Do you know?" he persisted in asking.

The deacon was not ready to give his opinion, and, after a little thought, frankly answered, "No, I don't."

"Do you think the church are alive to the work before them?"

"No, I don't."

"Do you think the minister fully realizes the solemnity of his work?"

"No, I don't."

A twinkle was seen in the eye of this troubler in Zion, and taking courage, he asked:

"Do you think Mr. B. a very extraordinary man?"

"No, I don't."

"Do you thing his sermon on 'Their eyes were holden,' anything wonderfully

Making bold, after all this encouragement in monosyllables, he asked, "Then don't you think we had better dismiss this man and 'hire' another?"

The old deacon started as if shot with an arrow, and in a tone far louder than his wont, shouted, "No, I don't!"

"Why," cried the amazed visitor, "you agree with me in all I have said, don't you?"

"No, I don't."

"You talk so little, sir," replied the guest, not a little abashed, "that no one can find out what you do mean."

"I talked enough once," replied the old man, rising to his feet, "for six praying Christians. Thirty years ago I got my heart humbled and my tongue bridled, and ever since that I've walked softly before God. I then made vows solemn as eternity; and don't you tempt me to break them!"

The troubler was startled at the earnestness of the hitherto silent, immovable man, and asked. "What happened to you thirty years ago?"

"Well, sir, I'll tell you. I was drawn into a scheme just like this of yours, to uproot one of God's servants from the field in which He had planted him. In my blindness I fancied it a little thing to remove one of the 'stars' which Jesus holds in his right hand, if thereby my ear could be tickled by more flowery words and the pews filled with those who turned away from the simplicity of the gospel. I and the men that led me—for I admit that I was a dupe and a tool—flattered ourselves that we were conscientious.—We thought we were doing God service when we drove that holy man from his pulpit and his work, and said we considered his labors ended in B——, where I then lived. We groaned because there was no revival, while we were gossiping about and criticising, and crushing instead of upholding by our efforts and our prayers the instrument at whose hand we harshly demanded the blessings. Well, sir, he could not drag on the chariot of salvation with half a dozen of us taunting him for his weakness, while we hung on as a dead weight to the wheel; he had not the power of the Spirit, and could not convert men; so we hunted him like a deer till, worn and bleeding, he fled into a covert to die.—Scarcely had he gone, when God came among us by His Spirit to show that he had blessed the labors of his dear, rejected servant. Our own hearts were broken and our wayward children converted, and I resolved at a convenient season to visit my former pastor and confess my sin, and thank him for his faithfulness to my wayward sons, which, like long buried seed, had now sprung up.—But God denied me that relief, that He might teach me a lesson every child of His ought to learn, that he who toucheth one of His servants toucheth the apple of His eye. I heard my old pastor was ill, and taking my oldest son with me, set out on a twenty-five miles' ride to see him. It was evening when I arrived, and his wife, with the spirit which any woman ought to exhibit toward one who had so wronged her husband, denied me admittance to his chamber. She said, and her words were arrows to my soul, "He may be dying, and the sight of your face might add to his anguish!"

"Had it come to this, I said to myself, that the man whose labors had, through Christ, brought me into His fold, whose hands had buried me in baptism, who had consoled my spirit in a terrible bereavement, and who had, till designing men had alienated us, been to me a brother—that this man could not die in peace with my face before him. "God pity me!" I cried "what have I done!" I confessed my sin to that meek woman, and implored her for Christ's sake to let me keel before His dying servant and receive his forgiveness. What did I care then whether the pews by the door were rented or not? I would gladly have taken his whole family to my home forever as my own flesh and blood, but no such happiness was before me.

"As I entered the room of the blessed warrior, whose armor was falling from his limbs, he opened his languid eyes, and said, "Brother Lee! brother Lee!" I bent over him, and sobbed out, "My pastor! my pastor!" Then raising his white hand, he said in a deep, impressive voice, "Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm!" I spoke tenderly to him, told him I had come to confess my sin, and bring some of his fruit to him, calling my son to tell him how he found Christ. But he was unconscious of all around; the sight of my face had brought the last pang of earth to his spirit.

"I kissed his brow, and told how dear he had been to me; I craved his pardon for my unfaithfulness, and promised to care for his widow and fatherless little ones; but his only reply, murmured as if in a troubled dream, was, "Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm."

"I staid by him all night, and at dayof her days; but like a heroine she said, "I freely forgive you. But my children, who entered deeply into their father's anguish, shall never see me so regardless of his memory as to take anything from those who caused it. He has left us all with his covenant God, and he will care for us."

"Well, sir, those dying words sounded in my ears from that coffin and from that grave. When I slept, Christ stood before me in my dream, saying: "Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm." These words followed me till I fully realized the esteem in which Christ holds those men who had given up all for His sake, and I vowed to love them evermore for His sake, even if they are not perfect. And since that day, sir, I have talked less than before, and have supported my pastor, even if he is not a "very extraordinary man." My tongue shall cleave to the roof of my mouth, and my right hand forget her cunning, before I dare to put asunder what God has joined together. When a minister's work is done in a place, I believe God will show it to him. I will not join you, sir, in the scheme that brought you here; and moreover, if I hear another word of this from your lips, I shall ask my brethren to deal with you as with them who cause divisions. I would give all I own to recall what I did thirty years ago. Stop where you are, and pray God, if perchance the thought of your heart may be forgiven you."

This decided reply put an end to the new comer's efforts to get a minister who could make more stir, and left him free to lay out roads and build hotels.

There is often great power in the little word "no," but sometimes it requires not a little courage to speak it as resolutely as did the silent deacon.

READY FOR BUSINESS. There is a model nurse up among the hills, who, on being called to watch with his sick pastor a few nights since, entered the room, and having thrown his hat into one corner, took off boot No. 1 and threw it into the opposite corner, following it with boot No. 2, and then his coat, giving to each a separate corner. Then, rolling up his sleeves, he shouted out, "Now, bring in your medicine, and we'll put it through by daylight."

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

The Hancock House.

As this house is soon to pass out of existance as a public hotel, a few reminiscences of it may be interesting to most of our readers. It was opened in September, 1837 by Mr. Daniel French and his son George H. French, the latter gentleman, presiding over the establishment, till April 1st, 1855, when he retired to take charge of the Briggs House, in Chicago. In those days the stages from Plymouth, Weymouth, Cohasset and Hingham, made this a stopping place on their trips to and from Boston, and many distinguished guests were entertained at this house; among whom we can name the Hon. Alexander Everett and Hon. Daniel Webster.

This hotel was always a pleasant resort for parties in winter, and beautiful sleighs filled with old and young might be seen in our streets during the sleighing season. Parties were attracted to this house by the pleasant enjoyments and excellent suppers that were always to be found within its hospitable doors.

Many changes have taken place during the long space of time it has been in operation. Twice we believe the hotel has been enlarged; and there have been five changes in landlords. Geo. H. Bundy succeeded Mr. George French for the next two years. He was followed by Albert Webb, who was the landlord from 1857 to 1861. W. P. F. Meserve then carried it on till 1865 when John P. Willey, Esq., the now popular proprietor of the Creighton House, Boston, took charge of the establishment, and on his retirement about three years since Mr. Samuel T. Allen, the present "worthy mine host of the Hancock," assumed the responsibilities of the situation. Mr. Allen has proved himself well fitted for the command, and the house under his administration has lost none of its former prestige. The house will remain open for the accommodation of the public, as ever, till the first of July (notwithstanding the reports to the contrary) at which time Mr. Allen will remove, with his family to Lynn, to take charge of the Kirtland House in that thriving city—taking with him the best wishes of hosts of friends and the public at large for his future prosperity. Quincy by the movement will be the loser of a good citizen and popular publican, and Lynn will be the gainer.

[illegible] the following notice from the [illegible] the completion of [illegible] may be of interest to our readers at this time.

"The new hotel erected by Daniel French, Esq., now nearly completed, is a truly elegant and commodious house. It stands on the same spot where stood the late public house. It is four stories high, and contains forty-one rooms. On the first floor is a large and pleasant Dining Hall, well calculated to accommodate one hundred and fifty persons at a time.—The excellent Dancing Hall, on the second floor, is fifty feet in length and twenty-five feet in width. Of the forty-one rooms, twenty-four are designed for lodging, some of which have excellent sitting rooms attached, in order to accommodate gentlemen with their families. The situation is very fine, as it possesses not only a beautiful view of Boston harbor, but of the surrounding picturesque scenery.—The house, in all respects, is not surpassed by any other within our knowledge, in the vicinity of Boston. It will be opened for the reception of visitors in a few days. We doubt not, when furnished, the interior will correspond with the exterior; and if we are not greatly mistaken, visitors and travellers will find this a home—a comfortable and convenient retreat for innocent amusement and recreation."

The Episcopal Church. The granite walls of this edifice built upon the ruins of the old church, have risen quite satisfactorily of late, and were so far completed as to allow the carpenters to place on a roof the present week. The work on this church will now go rapidly forward, and in a few weeks the society will be able once more to worship under their own roof.

Horse Railroad. Surveyors have been engaged the present week in surveying on Washington street, for the new horse railroad to Quincy Point. It is rumored that the work will be commenced soon on this route and our citizens will be provided in a few months, with a good conveyance to that most beautiful part of the town, known as the Point.

Decoration Day. Post 88 of this town have completed their arrangements for the proceedings for decoration. The oration will be delivered at the Town Hall by Professor Wm. R. Dimmock, of the Adams Academy. Singing will be under the charge of H. B. Brown, Esq. The procession will be escorted by the Weymouth Brass Band, preceded by the Quincy Police, under the command of Washington M. French, Esq.

Post Office. The change of location in the Quincy Post Office, as announced in our columns recently, has fallen through from various reasons, but a better one is talked of. Dr. French has agreed to raise his shop in the Square, and have a story built under it, expressly for the Post Office. Carpenters have been engaged, and in three months our citizens may expect to see the Post Office located in a room by itself.

No more copper two-cent pieces are to be coined.

The Catholic Church. This church, situated on School street in this town, which has been undergoing extensive improvements, during the past winter and spring, is rapidly approaching completion. It will be when finished one of the handsomest public edifices to be found in this town or vicinity. The seating capacity of the church is estimated at about twelve hundred. The vestry or basement room will accommodate about eight hundred, and is intended for early masses, Sunday School, etc., but is now used for the regular services. The carpenters are in hopes of completing their labors in six or eight weeks; then the interior has got to be frescoed which will occupy a few weeks. Probably in August with good luck, it will be ready for occupancy.

Presentation to a Fireman. The Tiger Engine Company presented their Foreman, Joseph W. Hayden, with an elegant fireman's hat, on Monday evening last. The presentation was made by Warren Dunbar, in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Hayden thanked the company for their kind appreciation of his services, and made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

Election of Officers. At the annual meeting of the Tiger Engine Company, No. 2, held at the engine house on Monday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Foreman,—Joseph W. Hayden.
First Assistant,—John S. Hanson.
Second " Louis S. Frederick.
Clerk,—R. G. Williams.
Treasurer,—John S. Hanson.
Suction Hosemen,—Jonathan Tanner, George Wentworth, Frederick Sproule, and E. A. Hanson.
Leading Hosemen,—Wm. Smith, W. A. Hayden, Thos. Williams, L. A. McCurdy, Herbert French, George Osborn.
Standing Committee,—J. T. H. Thayer, David Gunville, Jonathan Tanner.
Steward,—Louis S. Frederick.

Granite Engine Company. The annual meeting of the Granite Engine Company, was held at their Hall on the 5th inst., when the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:—

Foreman,—Peter Farrell.
1st Assistant,—William Barry.
2d Assistant,—James Dunn.
Clerk and Treasurer,—William Cole.
Steward,—Patrick Burke.
Standing Committee,—Daniel Devine, Thomas Lamb and L. G. McIntire.

Officers Elected. At a meeting of the Washington M. French Hose Co. held on Saturday evening last, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Foreman,—Horace S. Feltis.
1st. Assistant,—James E. Maxim.
Clerk and Treasurer,—Gridley B. Totman.
Standing Committee,—E. W. Underwood, E. N. Nightingale, T. J. Nightingale.
Axmen,—Peter Newcomb and Richard Newcomb, Jr.

Hook and Ladder Company. At the annual meeting of the Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, held on the 5th inst., the following gentlemen were elected officers for the year ensuing:

Foreman,—Joseph M. Glover.
Assistant Foreman,—John Q. Bent.
Clerk and Treasurer, Geo. W. Prescott.
Foreman of the Hook, Chas. S. French.
Assistant, " " " John H. Veazie.
Foreman of Ladder, Thos. H. Plumer.
Assistant, " " " John W. Hersey.

Braintree.

Presentation. Mr. J. R. Smith, a member of the Braintree Brass Band, having come to the conclusion that man should not live alone, was visited by the Band on Monday evening of last week, and presented with a very beautiful French clock. The clock ticked many good wishes for the happiness of Mr. S. and his companion, and after spending the evening in music, social intercourse, and in the enjoyment of the hospitality of the new made Benedict, the Band retired, well-pleased; the younger members determined to go and do likewise.

Store Breaking. The store of Mr. H. M. White was broken into on Monday night last. Cigars and cutlery to the amount of some $20, were stolen.

Real Estate Sale. Mr. Isaac Porter has bought the estate corner of Washington and Taylor streets, of Mr. C. T. Mansfield, for $3000.

Improvements. Great improvements are being made on the estate formerly owned by Mr. Josiah Hollis. Building lots are being laid out, new streets are being made; some $6000 are being expended in improvements; this will place some very beautiful building lots in the market. The estate is on Washington street — a very pleasant and healthy location. The work on the new Library goes bravely on; the black bass are growing finely, and a battalion of herring have already made their appearance. D.

The New Directory. After a careful examination of the new Directory, that has just been issued, of Quincy, Weymouth, and Braintree, we are pleased to say, we have found it to be the most perfect one of this town that has ever been published. It is well filled with valuable information, relating to town records and various branches of business, and is an excellent guide for our citizens or a stranger, desiring to find families or places. Like the old Farmer's Almanac it should find a place in every household. Souther has it for sale.

District Court of East Norfolk.

Saturday.

Francis Boyd of Randolph, was arraigned for being a common drunkard.—By request of his wife, who said he had behaved soberly of late, he was placed on probation by paying costs.

The case of James Kelly of Braintree, for an assault on James Dowd, of Weymouth which was continued from Thursday last came before the Court this morning. It appeared from the evidence, that Dowd had insulted Kelly's sister, and when Kelly questioned him about the matter, he struck him. This raised Kelly's dander, and he gave Dowd some pretty hard knocks. He was let off by paying the costs, amounting to $9.95.

Patrick Hayes, William Condrick, James Dowd and Thomas Flannigan, four witnesses in the above trial failed to appear in Court. Dowd was orded to pay $5.45, and the other three were let off by paying the cost of the serving of the Capias, which was $3.10 each.

Monday.

Daniel Whittemore of Weymouth plead guilty to the charge of being a common drunkard. He was sentenced to the House of Correction for two months.

William Walsh, of North Weymouth, was arrested and brought before the Court for being drunk on Phipps street, in Quincy, on Sunday evening last. He was found guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

Catherine Ford, of Quincy, was in Court charged with illegally selling intoxicating liquors. Case continued till Tuesday.

Tuesday.

Jeremiah Ford, of Quincy, for selling intoxicating liquors. Fined $10 and costs.

John O'Neil and Patrick Hayes of Quincy, for larceny of rope from the Episcopal Church, belonging to Edward Anderson of Weymouth. Case continued till Thursday morning. Mr O'Neil failed to get surety was taken from the court room to the lock-up. On his way there the prisoner left the officer suddenly and started on a run. On being caught by Dr. French he said he was after bail,—leg bail we presume he meant.

Thursday.

Three drunks were before the Court this morning for settlement.

Daniel O'Hern of Braintree was ordered to pay a fine of $3 and costs for being drunk.

Patrick Malony of Weymouth for the same offence, settled his bill by paying $3 and costs.

James O'Hern of Braintree was likewise found guilty of indulging too freely in the balm that exhilerates and he was invited to pay the sum of $3 and costs.

Jeremiah Ford, of Quincy plead guilty to keeping intoxicating liquor with intent to sell, and was fined $10 and costs.

Patrick Hayes for larceny was cont [illegible] morning. It appeared by the evidence that Hayes was hired by O'Neil to help him cart the stolen article, therefore he was let off by paying a fine of $10 and costs. John O'Neil was sent to the House of Correction for three months.

Friday.

James Scannell of Quincy for assault on his wife. Fined $20 and costs. For non-payment of fine and costs he was carried to jail.

Base Ball.

A game of ball was played at South Braintree on May Day, between the Quincys of this town and a picked nine, composed of players over fifteen years of age, with two exceptions, in which the Quincys were disasterously defeated, as will be seen by the following Score by Innings:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Quincys,—	2	2	2	0	7	8	2	1	1	—25
Picked 9,—	1	4	4	6	2	10	2	2	11	—42

Umpire—George Genders of South Braintree.
Time of Game, two hours.

The Saturday following the Quincys visited Atlantic to contest with the Club at that place, but owing to the high wind which prevailed the game was stopped on the second innings. They therefore agreed to play the game at Quincy on the following Saturday. The game was quite interesting until the fifth inning, when the Quincy boys took the lead and had it their own way throughout the rest of the game. This quite balances the defeat of May Day, and leaves them the victors in two games and the losers in one. Here is a score of the game by innings:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Atlantic,—	1	0	1	2	4	0	4	5	5	—18
Quincy,—	0	4	1	1	22	0	0	1	0	—33

Umpire—W. Young.
Time of game, 2 hours and 15 minutes.

Recovered. George H. Locke, Esq., who has been quite seriously sick, has so far recovered his health as to be able to ride out this week. His many friends will be glad to hear of his convalescence, and it is our earnest wish, that health may be restored to him and his family.

The French wine crop is reported to be entirely destroyed by frost. The estimated loss in the Gironde is 40,000,000 francs.

Facts and Fancy.

Is our country to have trouble with France? This is a very serious question; for rumors says that the French, led by Bonaparte or his spirit, were seen reclining on the banks of a classic stream, under cover of a war vessel, a short time since. The smelters near by gave the alarm, and then fled.

Would it not be well for all towns, to remove their public libraries into private or public boarding houses, for the benefit of endowed literary institutions, as food for the mind is of equal importance as nourishment for the body.

Could not the enterprising gentlemen at Wollaston, be induced to move their excellent hotel, to the centre of our town, where the needy can get something to eat, and the thirsty way farer something to drink. This is not suggested by any faction.

NICE OAT STRAW!! For Filling Beds,

At KEATING & SPEAR'S.
Quincy, Sept. 14. tf

Cold. The weather this season continues quite cold, some of the cherry and pear trees have sent forth beautiful white blossoms reminding us that although slowly yet surely the fruitful season of the year is approaching. The fields are putting on their new rich spring dress, and the indications are that the farmers will be blessed with a good grass crop. We were visited on Tuesday afternoon by a thunder shower, making the third time during this month that this terrific music has greeted our ears; although the weather does not feel any too warm for comfort. Good judges say the trees are from ten to fifteen days backward compared to last season.

A Large Funeral. The last services over the remains of the Hon. Oakes Ames took place at his old residence at North Easton on Sunday afternoon last. In spite of the rain, between two and three thousand persons were present. A special train of cars passed through this place about noon for the express purpose of carrying all who desired to attend, free of charge, and many of our citizens availed themselves of the opportunity offered. Many distinguished gentlemen were present, including Vice President Wilson, Senator Boutwell, Hon. Alexander H. Rice, Hon. D. W. Gooch, General B. F. Butler, Hon. Ginery Twichell, Collector Russell, Ex-Gov. Gardner and others.

The casket was very plain, and was covered with black broadcloth, festooned with smilax. The top was half-opened, showing the face of the deceased, the expression of which was calm and peaceful. The floral tributes were very beautiful. At the head and feet were crosses of rosebuds and lilies standing in beds of violets and verbenas. At the feet there were also standing a crown and an anchor. On each side were crowns, anchors, crosses and lyres, and on the casket in a bed of carnations was the word "Rest" in blue violets with a frame-work of calla-lilies. There was also a number of beautiful wreaths.

It is estimated that Oakes Ames' estate when settled will amount to about one million dollars.

A Tangible Token. One of those pleasant incidents which sometimes ripple the dull stream of business life recently occurred in the well known establishment of C. F. Hovey & Co., of Boston, the heroine of the occasion being a native of this town, Miss Mary Chubbuck. This lady has been employed in Hovey's sewing rooms for a number of years, winning, by her virtues of heart and mind, the good opinion of all her lady associates, a fact kindly demonstrated by them on the occasion of Miss C's farewell to the scene of her faithful labors, when she was presented with several valuable pieces of silver as a tangible token of the esteem in which she was held by her companions. Miss Chubbuck was much gratified by the unexpected demonstration, and goes to fulfil that mystic promise which men and women seldom break, with the sure knowledge that she carries with her the best wishes of all those to whom her amiability of character has endeared her.

Real Estate Sales. Moses Fairbanks sold 11,250 feet of land on Winthrop Avenue, Wollaston, to Howard Gannett, for $2025.

Nathaniel H. Beals bought 40 rods of land with buildings on the corner of Adams and Pierce streets, Milton, of John P. Bates, for $4000.

George Owen, Jr., bought 7 1-2 acres, on Scotts wood road, Milton, of William Wadsworth for $8500.

George O. Wales, bought 10 acres of land, with buildings, on the corner of Washington street, Braintree, of Edward Reed, for $7250.

By order of George H. Locke, Administrator, the homestead of the late Martin Smith, on Quarry street, was sold on Tuesday last, at public auction to John Hayes of Boston for $1875.00, by Joseph T. French.

Mr. Patrick McDonnell has purchased recently of Capt. Thomas Drake a piece of land on Adams place containing from 5000 to 6000 feet with barn for $1000.

☞ Rev. Edward P. Hooker, will preach in the Congregational Church to-morrow.

Christ Church. Service to-morrow at the Universalist Church at 11 A. M.—Sunday School at the Rectory at 3 P. M.

Snakes. Two boys recently killed in about two hour twenty-eight striped snakes at Spear's swamp, near Mount Wollaston Cemetery, in this town.

☞ Benj. F. Richardson, the Blind medium, will speak at Rodgers' Chapel on Sunday next, at 2 30 P. M. The subject presented will be a description of the spiritual spheres. Infidels are earnestly invited. Seats free.

☞ Arrived at Quincy Point, on the 14th inst., from Philadelphia, schooner Emily and Jenney, Capt. J. F. Hewett with a cargo of 420 tons Lyken's Valley Coal, consigned to D. Howard Bills.

Another "Great Eastern." Work on a new ship of 2000 tons burden, has been commenced at Quincy Point the present week by Deacon Thomas.

☞ The grand Union Hotel, owned by Mr. A. T. Stewart, at Saratoga Springs, opens June 1. The hotel has been newly furnished and frescoed throughout on a scale of unexampled magnificence. It is not only the largest hotel in America, but also the most complete in all of its appointments.

A Household Remedy. No family should be without some efficacious remedy for the cure of affections so universally prevalent as coughs, colds, sore throat, whooping-cough and croup—some remedy, too, which can be relied on as safe, sure and certain. Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry combines the desideratum.

Large Contracts. The Gilbert Elevated Railway to be built in New York has been contracted for with the New England Iron Company of Boston. The document called the contract makes a volume of many pages, and is full of the dryest details and figures, the size and cost of each pillar and post and rail being stated. It is by far the largest contract for iron work ever made in this country, and no single company could complete it in the time allowed. The company is now under obligations to finish the double track a distance of over three miles, by the middle of October. This will require track laying at the rate of a mile a month, for it will probably be three months before the iron can be supplied in quantities to begin.

☞ The postal authorities of New York City ordered half a million postal cards of which 275,000 arrived on Tuesday. Their sale began at 11 o'clock and during the succeeding three hours 200,000 were disposed of. They were chiefly purchased in large quantities for advertising purposes, a single firm taking 20,000.

Double Postage. In his answer to the inquiry of the Postmaster-General, the Attorney-General said: "I have to say that, in my opinion, letters not fully prepaid at the time of mailing should not be charged with double the deficient postage, but only with the actual balance not prepaid."

Pleasant to Think of.

'Tis pleasant to think of those we love,
Who are our friends "indeed;"
Who their regard for us to prove,
Have helped us in our need;
'Tis pleasant to think when we have "erred,"
As all sometimes have done,
That we're forgiven each act or word,
By the offended one;
'Tis pleasant for Boys to have good Clothes,
Coats, Pants, Vest, Hat and Shoes complete,
To think they bought them at Fenno's
Corner of Beach and Washington Street.
Boston, April 12.—12w

The Origina l Yankee Doode.

Father and I to Boston went
To get some chairs and tables,
And there they told us wondrous yarns
That sounded just like fables.

They told us of a splendid place,
Where everything is sold
That we could want in Furniture,
Fit for the young and old.

But the beauty of their trading is,
They have a novel plan,
And give their goods on easy lease
To the very poorest man.

So up we went to Cunningham's
To put our business through;
When we got there we found at once
That all they said was true.

Now father had but little cash,
But they his heart did ease,
And said, Good friend take what you want,
And pay on monthly lease.

At Cunningham's 296 Washington Street.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of eveny [organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels some times costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

DOWNING'S SEEDLING
GOOSEBERRIES.

A NEW VARIETY, very thrifty and prolific, of upright growth—fruit of large size and of best quality.

The Fruit Committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in their last Annual Report, say:—

"The shows of native Gooseberries have been remarkably fine. The prizes on the 20th of July, were awarded first, to the Downing; second, to Smith's Seedling — and third to Houghton's Seedling, and we think that these awards justly express the relative value of the kinds. Certainly they are all superior in quality to the Mountain Seedling."

At the Society's Exhibitions on the 20th and 27th of July, 1872, the first premiums (for best Gooseberries) were awarded to the subscriber for Downing's Seedling.

Poetry.

Be Thankful.

For sunny fields and sheltering trees,
Whose green leaves stir to every breeze;
For Brooklets murm'ring soft and low;
For ocean's deep, unceasing flow;
For sweet green grass, and daises fair;
For lilies bright and roses rare;
For life, and for our power of love,
Let us give thanks to Him above.

For Spring's glad promise, Summer's glow,
Autumn's rich fruits, and Winter's snow;
For morning's east illuming ray;
For the calm time of closing day;
For the sleep with soothing dreams and rest;
For children's merry laugh and jest;
But most for those dear friends we love,
Let us give thanks to Him above.

For holy peace in grief concealed;
For knowledge gained and truth revealed;
Religious aspirations high,
For Faith, for Hope, for Charity;
For memories of joys long past;
For time, which brings the right at last;
For death, uniting all we love,
Let us give thanks to Him above.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Plaster Treatment of Vines.

An Italian correspondent furnishes the following experience:—I have a large quantity of grape vines planted in the open ground, and trained on poles and wires along the gravel walks. In planting these I had the holes dug 25 inches deep; I then threw into each hole five or six lumps of old plaster of Paris, about the size of my fist. I threw a little earth over these lumps, and then planted the vines in the usual way. The result has been wonderful; the vines which were not half an inch thick when planted three years ago, are now two inches or more in diameter, and bear finely. The grapes are also freer from disease. Other vines, not so treated, are much smaller and produce less, the fruit being also more liable to disease. To try the effect of this plaster, in planting two American black walnuts, we put plaster to the one and not to the other. The former grew twice as fast as the other. Last year we dug about the roots, of the one to which no plaster was put, and we threw in seven or eight large lumps of plaster among the roots; the trees are now both of the same size, and though only four years old, are 16 or 17 feet high.

Coal Ashes and Potatoes.

I want to relate a little piece of personal experience in regard to both, which may be of value to those who live in districts where the bituminous coals are burned, and where they have rich prairie, corn-bearing soil. I have found the ashes of the soft coals (but it may be true also of the ashes of the hard ones) one of the best manures for potatoes. If the ashes have lain in a pile a year or two before using, so much the better. If fresh ashes are used with strong manure, the result is pretty nearly as good. In the case of the potato, coal ashes do not so much produce large growth of stalk as large and smooth tubers, which seem to be done by keeping moisture in the soil and insects out of it. Indeed coal ashes in conjunction with well rotted manure, seems to be particularly suited to all crops which like a cool and moist climate. So then let me advise dwellers in large towns that they may make a profitable use of that which has been considered almost as pure waste and offal, and the fertility of their grounds and gardens may be maintained, both in wet seasons and dry ones, by the liberal but judicious use of bituminous coal ashes.—Cor. of Exchange.

The most important work of spring is to cleanse and purify the cellar under the house. The "bulkhead or rollway" and windows should be left open so that the vapors may pass out and not permeate through the house as vapors rise.

Anecdotes.

A story is told of a negro in Virginia, whose master threatened to give him a flogging if he boiled his eggs hard again. Next morning the eggs came to the table still harder than before.

"You rascal!" shouted the enraged planter, "didn't I tell you to cook these eggs soft?"

"Yes, massa," said the frightened slave, "an' I got up at two o'clock dis mornin' an' I biled them five hours, an' it seems to me I never kin get dese eggs softer!"

"If a man bequeathed you a hundred dollars, would you pray for him?" said a Sunday-school teacher to a pupil.

"No," said he, I would pray for another like him."

A married man was recently urged by an insurance agent to take out a policy for the benefit of his wife to the amount of twelve or fifteen thousand dollars, and a long discussion ensued, which was ended by the husband, who said,

"No; a widow with more than ten thousand dollars would be a dangerous legacy to leave to posterity."

A gentleman, not long since, wishing to pop the question, did it in the following singular manner: Taking up the lady's cat he said, "Pussy, may I have your mistress?"

It was answered by the lady, who said, "Say yes, Pussy."

Teacher.—"What bird did Noah send out of the ark?"

Smallest Boy.—"A dove, sir."

Teacher.—"Very well. But I should have thought some of you big boys would have known that."

"Tall Pupil.—"Please, sir, that boy ought to know, sir, 'cause his father's a bird ketcher, sir!"

Assessors' Notice.

To the Inhabitants and all other persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy:

THE Assessors of the Town of Quincy hereby give notice to the inhabitants of said Town, and all other persons liable to pay Taxes therein, that their Office will be open on and after the 21st day of May, until and including the 7th day of June, from 5 to 6 1-2 o'clock, P. M., to receive the valuation of estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said town are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the real and personal estates for which they are liable to pay taxes.

Persons holding estates in trust are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed.

Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list, within the time above specified, will at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.

All Persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 7th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.

When a person has failed to bring in a list or a schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate.

The undersigned having purchased the Right for this County to put up and sell the Michigan Spring Bed, of Messrs. Thompson & Hitchcock, is now prepared to furnish all who may give him a call.

I have already taken off numerous kinds of Springs Beds and put mine in their place, to the entire satisfaction of those making the change.

My Ware-Rooms are at

No. 75 Hancock Street,

where all are invited to come and examine the Michigan Spring Bed, which I claim to be superior to any in the country in point of comfort, durability, price, and every other quality which goes to make up a good bed.

Beds put up on Trial—and no one is asked to purchase until after a fair test. Over one thousand of these Beds are sold every week in this State.

Mrs. Dr. Secor's

PRESCRIPTIONS.

QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the

Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions:

DR. FLINT'S QUAKER BITTERS

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwite, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Affictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

PREPARED BY DR. H. S. FLINT & CO.,
At their Great Medical Depot, 195 & 197 Broad Street, Providence, R. I.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN SYRUP
AN IRON TONIC

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Assessors' Notice.

To the Inhabitants and all other persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy:

THE Assessors of the Town of Quincy hereby give notice to the inhabitants of said Town, and all other persons liable to pay Taxes therein, that their Office will be open on and after the 21st day of May, until and including the 7th day of June, from 5 to 6 1-2 o'clock, P. M., to receive the valuation of estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said town are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the real and personal estates for which they are liable to pay taxes.

Persons holding estates in trust are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed.

Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list, within the time above specified, will at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.

All Persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 7th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.

When a person has failed to bring in a list or a schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate.

Beautiful Spring.

Beautiful Spring!
Beautiful Spring!
Coming again on thy wandering wing,
Sunshine and beauty and pleasure to bring;
Gladly we welcome thee, beautiful Spring!

Virgin of purity, beauty is thine,
Bright is thy brow, as the lode of the mine,
Fair is thy cheek, as the flush of the rose,
Sweet is thy smile, as an infant's repose.

Robed in a mantle of gorgeous array,
Girded with tendrils of amaranth gay,
Gemm'd with bright flowrets of every hue,
Fresco'd with sunbeams and spangled with dew.

Hollow-cheek'd Sorrow, and Sadness and Gloom
Vanish away to their wintry tomb;
Grief bows her fennel-crowned head to the sway,
Time, like a phantom, glides swiftly away.

Genial laughter and frolicsome mirth,
Herald thy coming again upon earth,
Welcome thee back to thy throne in our bowers,
Queen of the empire of beauty and flowers.

Everything beautiful, noble, or grand,
Wakes into life at the wave of thy wand;
Earth dons her mantle of radiant sheen,
Azure and purple, and scarlet and green.

Hedgerows and forests burst out into bloom,
Flowers load the air with delicious perfume;
Winds hail thy coming with boisterous cheers,
Clouds in their gladness gush out into tears.

Birds sing thy praise with a sonorous voice,
Trees clap their broad waving hands and rejoice,
Lambkins and fledglings the chorus prolong,
Streamlets gush out into rapturous song.

Mortals, enamor'd, bow down at thy shrine,
Painters portray thee a goddess divine,
Poets, the landmarks of every clime,
Praise and extol thee in epic sublime.

Everything beautiful, noble or bright,
Hails thy approach with a shout of delight,
Welcomes thee back with a jubilant ring,
Radiant, sunny-eyed, beautiful Spring!

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

MADISON CAKE. One pound of fresh butter and one pound of pulverized sugar, rubbed together and beat light; add a tablespoonful of grated nutmeg and a tablespoonful of ground cinnamon; separate and beat until light fourteen eggs; mix in the yolks, and beat them well with the sugar. Pulverize a teaspoonful of soda, and sift it with a pound and three-fourths of flour; seed two pounds of raisins, cut them once, dredge them with flour, and stir them in the cake; and lastly, stir in a pint of rich sour milk.—Bake immediately in a moderate oven, and ice when partly cold. If more fruit is desired, mix in the same quantity of washed Zante currants.

PORK CHOWDER. Take six large potatoes, and peel and slice them; take a small piece of pork, slice it thin, put in your kettle and let it fry, then pour hot water on it; put in your potatoes and onions; salt and pepper to taste: let it boil. For a crust, take one quart of flour; two teaspoons of cream tartar; one teaspoon of soda; a little salt; mix with water or sweet milk: put in and boil fifteen minutes; boiling the crust too long makes it hard and clammy.

☞ Nothing is more easy than to do mischief; nothing is more difficult than to suffer without complaining.

☞ Why is it that a young fellow and his girl can sit in the parlor until after midnight without making noise enough for the old folks to hear them through the partition, but can't sit in a public place five minutes without annoying the whole house with their giggling and talk?

☞ To believe good, and to do good, truly and trustfully, is the healthiest of humanity's condition.

☞ Those who mourn over their petty aches and pains may learn a lesson in pluck and hope from a young man in Mississippi. In the war he lost one leg, and recently the other one was so crushed as to need amputation. During the operation he said to his friends: "I thank God that I have two strong arms left to get a living with."

☞ Nothing is really troublesome that we do willingly.

EFFECT OF A BAD COLD. Little five-year-old Annie, who was suffering from a bad cold, went to pay a visit to auntie. During the day she related her various successes at school, and ended by declaring that she could read a great deal better than Sabina, who was eight years old. "Well," questioned auntie, "wouldn't it sound better if some one else said it?" "Yes," answered Annie, with a sober countenance, "I think it would. I have such a bad cold I can't say it very well."

☞ The heart that is once softened by gratitude and the tear of joy will show its thankfulness in this at least, that it will be milder towards others.

☞ It is a short step from modesty to humility, but a shorter one from vanity to folly, and from weakness to falsehood.

☞ A New Orleans youth thought he would commit suicide, and accordingly jumped into the river. Finding it too cold for comfort, he changed his mind, swam ashore, and scrambled upon a dock, whence he viewed with much interest the effort of the police and citizens to recover his body.

Miscellany.

Caught in his own Trap.

"Wandering in the May-time,
Sweet it is to rove
Just before the hay-time,
Through the shady grove."

So sang Elery Vane as he made his appearance beneath the old cherry-tree where pretty Rosa Rae was seated, making a pretence of reading an odd volume of poetry, but in reality waiting for the coming of the man who now stood before her.

He put up his hand and shook down a shower of the snow-white petals all over Rosa's sunny hair.

"They become you, vastly, Mignonne," said he, with an admiring look at the petite figure before him. "Let me weave you a crown and you shall be queen of the May on the spot;" and catching a spray from the nearest limb he deftly wove a fragrant wreath which he set among her golden curls. Having adjusted it to his satisfaction, he stood off to study its effect, and Rosa, with blushing cheeks and downcast eyes, was the very picture of maiden sweetness and purity."

"Charming!" pronounced he when he had completed his survey; "and now let me see what you are reading. Ah! Bianca Among the Nightingales;" and taking the book from Rosa he read, in a clear tenor voice that pathetic story of love unrequited.

"Giulio, my Giulio!—sing they so,
And you be silent? Do I speak,
And you not hear? An arm you throw
Round some one, and I feel so weak?
Oh, owl-like birds! They sing for spite,
They sing for hate, they sing for doom!
They'll sing through death who sing through night,
They'll sing and stun me in the tomb—
The nightingales, the nightingales!"

He read well, and an indefinable feeling of sadness crept into Rosa's heart as the plaint of the Tuscan maiden was breathed forth in the words of the beloved Queen Poet, and from the lips of the man she loved. For Rosa had quite fallen in love with the handsome fellow beside her, and she was almost certain, though no word of love making had passed between them, that Elery Vane loved her: at all events, he evidently preferred her to all the other village girls, and made no secret of his preference.

Vane had come to Riverdale six months before an assistant to his uncle, old Dr. Vane. The old gentleman was in failing health, and there were rumors that he was about to retire from the practice of his profession, while the nephew was to take his place. Any way, Elery Vane was looked upon as a rising young man, and was likely to get on in the world.

All the marriageable young ladies of Riverdale had set their caps at him, but he had managed to steer clear of their machinations, and nearly every day saw him a visitor at Col. Rae's hospital mansion. The colonel was pleased with the young man's gentlemanly bearing, and saw in this possible suitor an intelligent, upright man who would make Rosa a good husband. In the event of their marriage, he speculated, his child would not be taken from him, since Vane would unquestionably settle at Riverside, and the old Rae mansion was large enough to hold them all with comfort.

Vane was uncommonly good-looking man of six or eight and twenty, with an Apollo-like head, and crisp, curling rings of brown hair which matched a pair of dark brown eyes. He wore no whiskers, but a slight moustache shaded his lip, and altogether, as Rosa looked up at him now, he seemed such a perfect Adonis that the maiden must have been cold indeed who could look upon him with indifference.

"Now," said Vane, after they had discussed Bianca and her bitter grief, "how have you spent the day? Tell me what you have been doing and what has happened since yesterday?"

"Oh," cried Rosa, brightening up, "a wonderful thing has happened. You'd never guess, so I must tell you. Only think! we have had a letter from my Cousin Victorine, and she is coming to stay with us here at Riverdale. I have never seen her, for she has always lived at the south; but I am sure we shall love each other and that she will be like a sister to me."

"And you are glad to have her come," said Vane, reproachfully; "this stranger who will interrupt all our pleasant intercourse. No more delightful chats with you beneath this old tree, no more nice walks at twilight or quiet evenings on the old porch with you beside me. This cousin will be continually in the way and coming between us on every occasion. And I wanted you all to myself, little Rose," in a sad voice and with a caress of one of her shining curls.

"But, Elery, only think! Victorine has no other home. She is an orphan and has always lived at New Orleans with Uncle Charles. Since his death she has been at school in some convent or other, and I expect she is a highly accomplished young lady, and that she will find me but a dull companion. I quite depend upon you to help me entertain her. O, you must like her for my sake."

"For your sake I would do a great deal, Rose, but don't ask me to be glad, because I am honestly sorry our quiet is to be invaded by the arrival of your expected guest. I suppose you will devote yourself to her and leave me to take care of myself, in which case you will not see me very often, for I shall certainly retire and leave Miss Victorine a clear field."

"Oh! Elery;" cried Rosa in an aggrieved tone. And then she paused, for she could not tell him she cared more for him than all the rest of the world, her Cousin Victorine included.

But I think Vane understood, for he looked as if he would have taken her in his arms and kissed her on the spot, if the colonel himself had not that instant made his appearance.

And then they all strolled toward the house, and the evening passed as so many of its predecessors had done. Rosa's heart was very light, and she sang Vane's favorite songs twice as sweetly as was her wont; and then there was the chat on the moonlit porch, with the buff honeysuckle dispensing its penetrating sweets, the tender goodnight, a little more love-like than usual, and the dreams afterward, full of the face of Elery Vane.

A few days thereafter Vane was called away to the city on business. During his saunterings about town he dropped into a picture store, and while examining some new engravings was an involuntary listener to a conversation between a pair of ladies who were retailing gossip before one of Newell's sea pieces.

"No, it was her uncle who died," said one. "Miss Rae must be a great heiress. I am told she inherits not far from a million." Then there were a few sentences he conld not catch, and again he heard distinctly: "Yes, at school in a convent. She is said to be strikingly handsome.—A belle, of course." Another hiatus, and then—"The great catch of the season."

"Now tell me, Laura, you have such exquisite taste, do you think pink silk with my point lace and white roses—" etc., etc.

But Vane had heard sufficient to set him to thinking. Victorine Rae,—for it was of her they had spoken, of course,—an heiress! He must see to this. It would never do to let such a prize slip through his fingers. He was struggling for a position. Wealth was just what he needed, and if he obtained also a wife who was reputed even by her own sex to be "strikingly handsome," why, so much the better. Rosa was a pretty little child, but not at all his style, when he came to think seriously of marriage." So he concluded his business and went back to Riverdale.

Handsome, Victorine Rae was most certainly. A brunette of the clearest type, tall, graceful, and with that perfect ease and quietude of manner which denotes habitude to the best society. She was never flurried, or nervous, or taken by surprise, or in any way thrown off her guard. She was quite at home in Riverdale already, and both her uncle and cousin seemed but to live to devise plans for her amusement.

Vane easily fell into the current, and contributed his might to the securing of Miss Victorine's happiness. He did more; he set himself earnestly to work to win the lady's favor, thinking, with Macbeth, that 'twere well the end he had in view were reached quickly. As for the young lady herself, she was all sweetness, and the enchantment she speedily wove about Vane soon set him raving over her. She had a way of appealing to him in the prettiest, most child-like way, which was immensely flattering to his vanity, and when she lifted her brilliant eyes and blinded him with their sudden splendor, he was ready to fall at her feet in adoration.

In a remarkably brief space of time, the old cherry-tree, the porch, and the dim walks about Riverdale, could have told tales of the ardent love-making which went on daily within their shadows.

Victorine quickly fulfilled Vane's prediction, for she came between him and Rosa so effectually, that the latter scarcely saw him, or only met him in the presence of others. It was the old story of Bianca and the Nightingales over again.

"A worthless woman! mere cold clay,
As all false things are! but so fair,
She takes the breath of men away
Who gaze upon her unaware."

Such a woman had arisen between them, and Rosa's dream was broken. She was too true a woman to exhibit a sign of the pain which rent her heart—and so she went on her way, smiling and peaceful, apparently, and was twice as affectionate and tender as a daughter, and ever so charming as hostess and dispenser of the hospitalities of her father's house.—But in the solitude of her chamber when the lights were put out, and she could lay aside the smiles which were put on with her festal array, I will not say that little Rose did not weep tears as bitter as ever the Florentine girl shed over the defection of her Giulio.

But she laid the bright dream aside, and was ready with her congratulations when the engagement was announced.

It was not long before there was a splendid wedding at Riverdale, for Col. Rae decided it was incumbent upon him to celebrate the occasion with the most brilliant of festivities. So the house and grounds were illuminated, and all the hot houses in the city were emptied of their rarest exotics, and a troupe of florists and confectioners and decorators took things in hand, and between them managed to turn the place into a perfect fairy land. There was likewise an invasion of guests from the city, and the house was one blaze of light and beauty and fashion, and amidst all this glitter little Rosa moved like a princess, simply attired in a fleecy white muslin.

Elery Vane was full of gratified vanity as he swept through the crowd with his stately bride on his arm. He had won the prize for which he had striven, and had no doubt all his bachelor friends were dying with envy.

On board the train which was carrying them forward the first stage of their wedding journey, Victorine fell to criticising the dress of some of the bridesmaids.

"You noticed those diamonds of Miss Candos? They are superb! I should like just such a set."

"My love," said Vane, "you shall have them if money can procure them," and he would as readily have promised her the moon had she signified her desire for the possession of that luminary.

"But there was Rose," continued Mrs. Elery in a reflective tone, "whatever possessed that girl to dress so plainly, do you suppose? Actually a plain white muslin, and she is so rich, too!"

"Is she rich?" asked Vane carelessly.

"Rich? Why, I should think so! Uncle Charles willed her all his property—a million or more, and—" subsiding into a querulous tone, as if it were an old grievance, "he only gave me a paltry two or three thousand."

Poor Vane he had made a dreadful mistake, and there was no remedy. Caught in his own trap, he could only bear his disappointment as stoically as possible, and try to satisfy himself with the beauty of his portionless bride.

Victorine never knew that she owed her husband to the mistake into which he had fallen respecting the disposal of her uncle's wealth. She queened it in society that winter, and then, the money having all disappeared and debts having accumulated, the pair vanished.

Rose is the delight of her old father's eyes, but he lives in continual fear less some one of her numerous admirers should succeed in winning her away from him. Among them all there is no one who stands so good a chance as a young artist, who is poor indeed in this world's goods, but rich in every high and noble aspiration. Rose's great wealth at first discouraged his approach, but her sweet, unpretending loveliness so won upon him that, despite of this drawback, he has recently mustered sufficient courage to confess his love, and I am certain the tale fell upon willing ears.—Saturday Evening Post.

Matting and Oilcloth.

Tell your readers, writes Mrs. G. E., that if they wish their straw matting to keep new looking and bright, they must wash it twice during the summer with salt and water, say about a pint of salt, dissolved in half a pailful of warm, soft water, drying the matting quickly with a soft cloth. The salt, she says, will prevent it from turning yellow. Far away, and from quite an opposite quarter, we hear another friendly voice, begging us to say to our readers that after oilcloth is scrubbed and dried, it should be rubbed all over with a cloth dipped in milk.—"You've no idea," says our friend, "how brightly the colors come out. Husband says it's the albumen in the milk, but I think it's the very thin film of grease deposited. Meantime, our oilcloth shines the whole year through."—Scientific Am.

Bad Egg.

An Irishman who had just landed went to his sister, who was married to a Yankee. The couple lived happily together, and when Pat came, the gentleman took him over his place to show it to him.—Pat, at the evidence of prosperity, said to his brother-in-law:

"Begorra, you are very happy here, with this fine property to live on; my sister had good luck intirely, so she had, in getting you for a husband."

"Ah, yes," responded the married man, "we would be very happy but for one thing."

"And what's that?" asked Pat.

"Ah, Pat," returned the gentleman, "I am sorry to say that we have no children."

"No children!" exclaimed Pat; "Thin, begorra, it's not my sister Maggie's fault; for she had two before she left Ireland, and that't the rayson me father sint her to America!"

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, MAY 24, 1873.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

Memorial Day.

On Friday next, falls the day that has been set apart by the citizens of the Union, for the sad, yet pleasant duty of decorating the graves of our brave Union soldiers, who so nobly died, while defending their country, in the late war. Paul Revere Post of this town, will visit the several cemeteries in the forenoon, and place on the graves of every soldier or sailor, known to them, a floral tribute.—As flowers are very scarce this season, owing to the lateness of the spring, it is hoped that all who possess them will be as liberal as they can for this occasion. They may be left at the Lyceum Room, Town Hall, on Thursday afternoon next.

In the afternoon the Post, returned soldiers and sailors, National Sailors' Home Delegates and others will proceed to the Mt. Wollaston Cemetery under the escort of Quincy Police and McClellan Guards and accompanied by the Weymouth Band, where they will proceed to decorate the monument with brief but touching ceremony. After these impressive services they will return to the Town Hall, where Prof. Wm. Reynolds Dimmock will deliver an oration and other exercises as per programme in another column. The public are cordially invited to the Town Hall, and we trust will fill the same to repletion as they will be amply repaid by the exercises which will take place about 3 P. M., or on return of the procession from the cemetery.

TOWN MEETING. It will be seen in to-day's paper that a warrant has been issued calling a town meeting on Monday the 2d day of June, to take action on the reports of the Selectmen in regard to laying out and accepting several streets, also to act on the report of the Mount Wollaston Cemetery Committee, in regard to the rules and regulations.

POSTPONED. Russ B. Walker, Esq., having met with an accident, which compels him to lay up for repairs for a brief time, has been obliged to postpone his last dancing lesson, and also his grand reception, which was to have taken place on Wednesday evening next, for one week. His pupils trust that nothing serious has befallen their beloved teacher, and hope soon to welcome him again.

IMPROVEMENTS. It is quite surprising how nicely the carpenters will do a piece of work now, that they would have hesitated to undertake but a few years since. Acts similar to the one we are about to relate, only on a much larger scale, are of almost daily occurrence in Boston and other large cities, but this is the first instance we have noticed anything of the kind in Quincy.

Mr. Abel Wright, who resides on Granite street, secured the services of Messrs. Bailey & Baxter last month to raise his house and place a story underneath. They commenced operations about four weeks ago, and now have it raised; the joist and timber placed in position; boarded and lathed, and the masons have commenced plastering. Up to the present week the family has cooked, eat and slept in the house as usual.

We would say to those who wish to rise in the world and cannot wait for the slow "one-horse coach," that this is a quick, safe and sure way; and those who have cottage houses can soon have large two-story ones.

A WONDERFUL EGG. We were shown one day the present week by Deacon Clapp a curiosity in the shape of an egg. A hen owned by E. R. Tilden of Marshfield laid a very large egg, the smallest circumference of which measured 6 7-8 inches. On breaking it what was the surprise of the good lady of the house to find within, not only the common yolk and white, but also a perfect egg, with a good hard shell, which measured five and seven-eighths inches in circumference.—We believe this to be the most remarkable thing, we have been called to chronicle in the shape of hen's eggs.—Those who say that a hen will not lay two eggs a day, must give in, for this is an instance where a biddy has laid two eggs at the same time.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS. We would call the attention of the Soldiers and Sailors in this town, to a notice in another column, for a meeting at Revere Hall this evening. It seems to be a very laudable movement and we trust they will respond in goodly numbers.

A CAREFULLY SELECTED STOCK.—We would invite the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Miss C. S. Hubbard, who has a large and well selected stock of dry and fancy goods, which she sells at very reasonable prices. Call and see for yourselves.

HOME ON A VISIT. Mr. William H. Wilson who has spent many years in California has returned home on a visit, to recruit his health, and to enjoy a few months in his old native town. May he gather strength and pass the time he allows for this recreation in a pleasant manner. He has our thanks for California papers.

Fourth of July.

An invitation is extended to all interested in a celebration of the coming 4th of July, to meet at the Lyceum Room, on Monday evening next, at 7 1-2 o'clock to choose a committee, and take such action as may be proper. A number of gentlemen who believe that we can well afford to spend a few hundred dollars for amusement on the 4th, rather than have the day dead, have sketched out a programme, and if the people by their contributions approve it, they will see it properly carried out.

PROGRAMME.

1. The usual salute morning, noon, and night.
2. Comic Procession interspersed with representations of ancient times; ancient home scenes, &c., &c.
3. Exercises in Town Hall of a humorous nature; gallery reserved for ladies.
4. (Afternoon.) Children's entertainment in the Hall.
5. Boat Races.
6. Ball match near the regatta grounds.
7. (Evening.) Band Concert near centre of the town; display of rockets, bombs, colored and Indian fires. Illuminations by electric and calcium lights from some high position; the whole concluding with the raising of the national flag, the ringing of bells, halo of artillery, and a general illumination.

If the people at large desire this programme, let them respond by attending the meeting, or by their contributions.—From those who cannot be present but who are willing to assist, letters of encouragement are solicited.

Address, 4th July Com., Quincy P. O.

District Court of East Norfolk.

MONDAY.

Edwin Foster of Holbrook, was before the Court this morning for being drunk. He was fined $3 and trimmings.

James Forrest of Randolph, for smashing glass, was sentenced to imprisonment for 6 months at Dedham. He appealed from this sentence, and was ordered to give bonds in $500, for his appearance at the Superior Court, to be held in Dedham on the first Monday in September.

Thomas Looney of Cohasset, was fined $15 and costs for committing an assault on Otis W. Sherburne.

TUESDAY.

Margaret Daily of Quincy, was arrested for keeping and selling intoxicating liquors. This case was continued till Monday next.

WEDNESDAY.

Deputy Sheriff French, arrested James Billings of Holbrook, for being drunk. He plead guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $3 and costs, but being short of funds, at the suggestion of the Court concluded to work it out at the Stone Mansion, at Dedham.

DORCHESTER YACHT CLUB. The first regatta of the season by this Club will take place off Commercial Point on Saturday next, at 2.30 o'clock. Two prizes of silver ware will be awarded to each class in which five or more yachts start. Judges, Coolidge Barnard, Henry B. Jackson and Frank L. Willard.

☞ We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Guy & Brothers. The old fashioned Blue Ware is a great curiosity at present as it reminds us of old times. They imported it principally to match old sets, and already have orders from all parts of New England for it. We recently visited their store and find much more than they advertise.

POSTAL CARDS. These cards have passed through the Post office in this town quite plentifully the present week. We think they will be found very handy for business purposes. Mr. Bass has not received any for distributing as yet.

THEY ARE COMING. Buckley & Sharpley's Troupe will give one of their popular entertainments at the Town Hall, on Saturday evening next. See their advertisement.

☞ The weather continues quite cold,—and several mornings this week heavy frosts have been noticed in the low lands in this vicinity. On one occasion handsome ice was formed. The cherry and pear trees are in full bloom and look quite beautiful and promising.

CAUTION. We are requested to caution persons against a mulatto girl, who invents various stories in begging for money to bring her mother and family from South Carolina. She has succeeded for two years in swindling many citizens out of money.

MILITARY CAMP GROUND. Governor Washburn has signed a contract for purchase by the State of a tract of land in South Framingham for a camp ground for the militia. The land comprises one hundred and ten acres, and lies about half a mile from the depot. It is a large tract, and said to be admirably adapted to the purpose, being but nineteen miles from Boston. It is reported that all the encampments during the summer will be held there. The Adjutant General has at his disposal twenty thousand dollars, appropriated by the Legislature, for fencing, grading and erecting suitable buildings, including one for the State arsenal, and work will be immediately commenced.

The courts of Missouri have decided that debts contracted on Sunday are legal.

Litchfield, Ct., boasts a white robin.

Watermelons are abundant in New York markets.

Murray's Circus.

This favorite organization formerly known as Stone & Murray's, but now directed solely by John H. Murray will exhibit on land of Henry H. Faxon, in the rear of Mrs. Lunt's residence, on Presidents Hill, in this town, on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, May 27th. Where there is so much that is novel and original to enumerate, it is difficult to do justice to the merits of the entertainment in the limited space at our command. But we desire particularly to call attention to John Henry Cooke's new equestrian act the "Bounding Jockey." The daring feats of the beautiful Spanish girl Millie Turnour, the wonderful gymnastics of the Brothers Leopold and the equestrian pieces produced by this company and performed by none other.—Every afternoon is given the "Clowns Cavalry" introducing the clowns and the ponies, and in the evening the thrilling equestrian drama entitled Dick Turpin's ride to York and the Death of Black Bess.

The company will reach this town by special train and shortly after exhibiting here will inaugurate a season in Boston. The announcement will be found in another column.

Braintree.

The Mass Concert on Sabbath evening last, was decidedly a success. The Town Hall was filled with an attentive audience, the singing by the united Sabbath Schools of Braintree was excellent. Some ten or twelve including the superintendents of each Sabbath School were allowed five minutes speeches. A generous collection was taken up for the good of the cause. Other meetings of a similar character are to follow.

NARROW ESCAPE. Monday afternoon as Mr. Warren Penniman, was driving a spirited horse accompanied by three ladies, the horse became unmanageable, the occupants of the carriage were thrown out, fortunately without injury. The horse free from all restraint ran some distance, finally turning into the front yard of a house near by, striking a carriage from which two ladies had but just alighted, both carriages were made a complete wreck. It was fortunate for all concerned that this happened upon one of the back streets.

AN APRON FESTIVAL. An apron festival was held on Tuesday evening at the Town Hall, by the South Congregational Society. Success attended them.

A CONCERT. A concert and entertainment was given at the Town Hall on Thursday evening, by the Catholic Sabbath School. The singing and tableaux were all very fine, and a large audience were in attendance. D.

REAL ESTATE SALES. Henry S. Totman bought of Francis Williams the lot of land with buildings, on the corner of Elm and Mechanic streets for $3000.

John A. Mitchell bought of Wollaston Land Association a lot of land containing 22,500 feet, on the south west side of Prospect Avenue, Wollaston, for $2,700.

Adoram Clapp sold 25,319 feet of land on the south west side of Front street, Weymouth, to Maria L. wife of Solon W. Pratt for $2000.

George Wales sold 3 3-4 acres of land between North and South Avenue Braintree, to Robert S. Clisby and John B. Berry, for $2,850.

E. F. E. Thayer, sold 6 acres of land with buildings, on Washington street, Braintree, to Sarah W. Lane, for $5,900.

INVITATION. The Washington M. French Hose Co. of this town, have been invited by the Columbians of North Bridgewater, to be present and join with them in the procession on Decoration Day.

HEAVY LOSS. The Wabash Company's Elevator, at Toledo, Ohio, was destroyed on Monday last, together with about 125,000 bushels of oats and 75,000 bushels of corn. Loss about $160,000; mostly covered by insurance.

THE STOKE'S CASE. At the opening of the Court of Appeals at Albany on Monday last, the case of Edward S. Stokes was set down for the 26th inst., and placed at the head of the calendar for that day.

☞ The pulpit of the Congregational Church, will be occupied to-morrow, by the Rev. Albert C. Reed, of Port Byron, N. Y.

☞ The following amendments to the pension laws will be of interest to the pensioners; All persons who have lost a leg above the knee, and are so disabled thereby that they cannot use an artificial limb shall be rated in the second class and receive $24 per month. All persons having lost the hearing of both ears to receive $13 per month. Section 5 provides that the rate of $18 per month may be proportionately divided for any degree of disability established for which the second section makes no provision. The old law provided for no rates between $8 and $18. The new law adds two years to the limitation under which pension claims may be established.

MANUFACTURES. The census report enumerate the following values of our manufacturing products in 1870, viz: of heavy iron works, $347,000,000; of steel, $12,000,000; produts of flour and grist mills, $445,000,000; leather, $160,000,000; boots and shoes, $180,000,000; worsted goods, $22,000,000; cotton goods $168,000,000; woolen goods, $151,000,000; men's clothing, $147,000,000; hosiry, $6,000,000.

Western Correspondence.

RED ROCK, LINCOLN CO., KANSAS, May 2d, 1873.

The unprecedented cold of the winter of 71 and 72 killed about three-fourths of the winter wheat in this vicinity, and the crop of the last winter fared but little better. Never before has it been so near a failure. Nearly all has been plowed in and the ground sowed to the spring variety, which in some cases makes as good flour as the winter. The price of spring wheat has advanced and a larger amount than usual has been sown, and is now looking finely, so we are not left without a good prospect of a crop.

The weather this spring has been uncommonly changeable and cold,—everything is backward. Peas are about six inches high, while here and there is a radish large enough for use; tomato plants present a sickly appearance, and early potatoes are just peeping through the ground.

The present prices for wheat are $1 to $1.50 per bushel; corn 15 to 20 cents; oats 20 cents; potatoes 15 to 30; eggs 10 per dozen; butter 20 per pound; live fowl $2.50 to $3 per dozen; beef in quarters 4 to 5 cents per pound; steak 6 to 8 cents; buffalo dull at 3 and 4 cents; antelope and deer 12 to 15.

In the absence of excitement, or business of any great importance, we have organized a Farmer's Institute, near Red Rock, which numbers sixty members, and promises to be a great benefit to the farmers.

Prairie schooners are to be seen in all parts of the State. Their occupants are emigrants from Western States, in search of homesteads; coming hundreds of miles with their families and camping out at night. In this way they can travel at small expense, and see more of the country. Those coming by rail are more profitable to us; bringing all in their pockets and scattering it among the settlers. It is best for those intending to make their homes in Kansas to bring all the furniture and farm implements with them, that they will be likely to need, as the loss in selling would often more than pay transportation. Our country is filling up faster than ever before; still they come and yet there is room and choice sections of land unoccupied.

This is court week at Lincoln Center with but few cases on the docket. This is a poor place for pettifoggers, several have set up here and left forgetting to settle their accounts with the hotel keeper and washerwoman; yet contests are common and usually settled without appeal to law. All lawyers are respectfully invited to give us a wide berth.

Considerable building is going on at the county seat. Limestone blocks have been finished and others commenced, besides many frame buildings going up. In view of this busy town are the bleached bones of buffalo scattered around and the signs of wild life among the copper-colored demons. This was evidently a favorite place with the Indians, probably on account of its beautiful location; its nearness to timbered lands and the Saline river, which supplied them with fish and water fowl.

Capitalist coming to this place are sure to invest. The town is but two years old, yet it numbers near a thousand inhabitants and is one of the most enterprising go-ahead towns in Western Kansas. C. C. P.

AN OLD APPLE. Mrs. Drake, a widow of Muhlenburg Co., Ky., has in her possession an apple which has been in existence since the beginning of the Revolutionary war. The Greenville Gazette gives this account of it: Mr. Drake received the apple from his betrothed just as he departed for the army of Washington; kept it during the whole war; returned after the surrender of Yorktown, and married the fair donor.—The apple is sacredly preserved in the family. It is dry and shrivelled, nothing remaining but the woody fibre. The heirloom is highly prized by every member of the family.

A REPUTED SPECIFIC FOR MENINGITIS. A Michigan correspondent of the Freeport, Illinois, Bulletin pronounces what is now know as the cerebro-spinal meningitis, now prevailing so extensively and fatally in many parts of the country as the same epidemic which raged in Michigan about twenty-five years ago to such an extent that it actually broke up the legislature and carried to the grave every one whom it attacked, until the "old-fashioned hemlock sweats were adopted," after which every one was saved. He says: "Our people sent about twenty-five miles distant and procured hemlock boughs, and they sent for it from all parts of the State. There was a company called the Hook and Ladder Company, and for weeks they did nothing night or day but go from house to house giving hemlock sweats, and it never failed to save every case. Thorough sweating might do, but there is no mistake about hemlock sweats being a specific."

Base Ball.

The newly re-organized Active Base Ball Club of this town, defeated the Norfolks of Neponset, a Club fully equal to the Actives in stature and corpulency, on Saturday last, by the following score:

The Actives play the King Philips of Boston next Friday, "Decoration Day," on the "Base Ball Field," back of the Point School House, at 2 1-2 o'clock.—It would be advisable for all admirers of base ball to be present, as a finely contested game is expected.

A game of Base ball was to have been played last Saturday, between the Stars and Quincys. The latter club not appearing on the ground, the game was given to the Stars.

The best game of ball in this town this season, was played between the Adams School nine and the High School nine, in which the former were victorious. Below is a score:

Greeting:

In the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, you are hereby required to notify and warn the Inhabitants of the Town of Quincy, qualified to vote in town affairs, to meet at the Town Hall, in said Quincy, on MONDAY, the Second day of JUNE next, at Four o'clock, P. M., to act on the following articles, viz:

ARTICLE 1. To choose a Moderator.

ART. 2 To see if the town will accept the report of the Selectmen in laying out a town way from Hancock street to Adams street.

ART. 3. To see if the town will accept the report of the Selectmen in laying out a town way from Hancock street to land of the Old Colony Railroad.

ART. 4. To see if the town will accept the report of the Selectmen in laying out a town way from Washington street to Pond street.

ART. 5. To see what action the town will take in regard to the report of the Committee on Rules and Regulations for Mount Wollaston Cemetery, reported at the last annual meeting and published in the Quincy Patriot.

ART. 6. To see if the town will change the name of Liberty street to Water street.

ART. 7. To hear and act on the report of any Committee the town may think proper.

Hereof fail not, to make due return of this Warrant, with your doings thereon, unto the Town Clerk, on or before the day and time appointed for said meeting.

Given under our hands at Quincy, this twenty-third day of May, A. D., One Thousand Eight Hundred and Seventy-three.

WILLIAM A. HODGES,
WYMAN ABERCROMBIE,
ENSIGN S. FELLOWS, } Selectmen of Quincy.

A True Copy—Attest.
WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,
Constable of Quincy.

NORFOLK, SS. Quincy, May 23d, 1873.

Pursuant to the foregoing Warrant, I hereby notify and warn the Inhabitants of the Town of Quincy, qualified as therein expressed, to meet at the time and place, and for the purposes therein named.

WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,

MEMORIAL DAY.
May 30, 1873.

THE GRAVES of the deceased Heroes of the late War, will be Decorated on FRIDAY next, May 30th, with appropriate ceremonies, under the direction of PAUL REVERE POST, No. 88, G. A. R., of this town.

Details from the Post will assemble at Revere Hall at 8 o'clock, A. M., and will proceed thence, without parade, to the various Cemeteries, where they will carefully but informally place Flowers upon every spot known as the resting place of a deceased Soldier or Sailor, from 1776 to the present time.

The Post will report in Uniform at Lyceum Room, Town Hall, at 9 A. M., and accompanied by the Weymouth Brass Band, proceed to West Quincy, and upon conclusion of proper ceremonies at the Cemetery in that place, will return to Lyceum Room and partake of a Collation.

The Post will also report, in uniform, at Lyceum Room, at half-past one o'clock, P. M., and at two o'clock, under the escort of the Quincy Police force and McClellan Guards, and accompanied by Invited Guests and delegations of returned Soldiers and Sailors, and Weymouth Brass Band, will proceed to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument in the Mount Wollaston Cemetery, which will be Decorated by the Post, with a brief but touching and impressive service; after which the Procession will march to the TOWN HALL, where the following EXERCISES will take place:

1. Invocation—By Post Chaplain, Rev. Stephen G. Abbott.
2. Quartette—"Strew fresh flowers o'er their graves,"—By a select Quartette Club, under the direction of H. B. Brown.
3. Oration—By Prof. W. Reynolds Dimmock.
4. Quartette—"A tear for the comrade that's gone." By Quartette Club.
5. Music—By Weymouth Brass Band.
6. Benediction.

All honorably discharged Soldiers and Sailors, and Citizens generally, are cordially invited to unite with the Post in carrying out the ceremonies of the day, and to join them in Procession to and from the Monument.

CONTRIBUTIONS of Boquets, Wreaths, Cut Flowers, and Evergreens are solicted, and will be thankfully received at the Lyceum Room, Thursday afternoon, or early Friday morning.

Emblems designed for special graves, if committed to the charge of the Post, will be faithfully cared for and placed in accordance with the directions, which should in every case be plainly marked, to avoid possible mistakes.

WILL OF HON. OAKES AMES. The will of Hon. Oakes Ames was admitted to probate on Saturday. The bequests are as follows:—To his wife, Eveline O. Ames, $100,000, all the household furniture, horses and carriages, and the use of the dwelling house during her life.—To his daughter, Susan E. French, $2000 a year during her life. To each grandson now or hereafter to be born, $25,000. To each granddaughter $20,000. To his son, Frank M. Ames, all his interest in the Kinsley Iron and Machine Co., and in the houses lands and buildings bought or received from the estate of Lyman Kingsley in Canton. To his sons Oakes A. Ames and Oliver Ames, all his real estate in Easton, Canton, Braintree and West Bridgewater, with all machinery, tools and fixtures that pertain to or are in any way connected with the shovel business. The income of $50,000 7 per cent. railroad bonds to be used for the support of schools in School District No. 7 in North Easton. All the rest, residue and remainder, to be equally divided among his three sons, Oakes A., Oliver and Frank M. Ames. Oakes A. Ames and Oliver Ames, his sons, are appointed executors.

THE LANE MURDER. The Coroner's Jury in the case of Charles Lane, murdered some months ago in Dorchester, closed their labors on Monday last, having held twenty-two meetings, and examined some seventy-five witnesses.

A most thorough and searching investigation has been made, without discovering who committed the fatal act. The jury has rendered the following verdict:

That the said Charles Lane came to his death on the morning of the 14th of October, 1872, at nine o'clock, from the wound of a pistol bullet fired into him while standing at the door of his house on the evening previous, at about half-past eight o'clock, by the hand of some person to the jurors unknown.

MEN. Nantucket tells great stories about its old men. In addition to Geo. Swain, 83, who does wonders in the way of horse-shoeing, they say that George F. Bunker, 86, pump and block maker, a short time since descended to the bottom of a well three times in one day to do certain work that he thought no one could do as well; Walter Folger, also 86 continues to repair the town clock, climbing to the tower; and George Easton, over 88, does a good day's work at farming.

☞ A young, beautiful and bewitching lady entered a lawyer's office in New Orleans, and wanted a divorce. On being asked her grounds, she naively replied: 'Well, nothing in particular; but to tell the truth, 'I can do better.'

☞ The Blind Medium will hold a Sceance at Rodgers' Chapel this evening at 7 1-2 o'clock, for investigation. Admittance 10 cents.

The regular Sunday services will be held at the usual hour.

Out of 136 persons, not connected with railways, in Massachusetts last year, 80 were hurt while walking on the track.

Ann S. Stephen's New Novel.

THE OLD COUNTESS; OR THE TWO PROPOSALS, "a Sequel to Lord Hope's Choice," by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, is in press and will be published in a few days by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa. It is the best book that this popular American Authoress has yet written. "The Old Countess," will be issued in a large duodecimo volume, uniform with "Lord Hope's Choice," and Mrs. Ann S. Stephens' nineteen other works, and will be for sale at all the Bookstores at the low price of $1.75 in cloth, or $1.50 in paper cover; or copies will be sent by mail, to any place, post-paid, by the Publishers, on receipt of the price of the work in a letter to them. All of Mrs. Ann S. Stephens' Books, comprising "The Old Countess," "Lord Hope's Choice," "The Reigning Belle." "A Noble Woman," "Palaces and Prisons," "Married in Haste." An Appeal of the Clergy.

The Boston Traveller of the 15th inst., has the following appeal to the clergy of the State:—

BOSTON, MAY 13, 1873.

Dear Sir,—It is becoming daily more evident that we have reached a turning point in the progress of the temperance cause; a crisis in its history. The re-enactment of the prohibitory law, and the active steps taken for its enforcement, are inciting the liquor interest to the adoption of means to secure its repeal. Our reliance must be upon the Christian and temperance sentiment of the State to secure the perpetuation of the law, and its enforcement. This sentiment can be reached more easily and effectively through the clergy of the State than in any other way. The first aim of the friends of prohibition in this crisis, must be to secure the thorough and impartial enforcement of the law.

An aggressive policy will create enthusiasm among its friends. It is the sworn duty of the local authorities of the different towns and cities to enforce the law, as will be seen by the following extracts from the law of the Commonwealth.

Sec. 57, chapter 415, of 1869, reads as follows:

Any mayor, alderman, deputy sheriff chief of police, deputy chief of police, city marshal, deputy or assistant marshal, police officer, constable or watchman, in his city or town, may, without a warrant, arrest any person whom he finds in the act of illegally selling, transporting, or distributing intoxicating liquors, and seize the liquors, vessels and implements of sale in the possession of said person.— * * * The several officers aforesaid shall enforce, or cause to be enforced, the penalties provided in this chapter against every person guilty of any violation thereof of which they can obtain reasonable proof.

Sec. 3, Chapter 161, Acts of 1866, amending the act to establish a State Police, reads as follows:

This act, and the act to which this is in addition, shall not be construed as releasing the police officers of the towns and cities of the Commonwealth from their duty to see that all the laws of the Commonwealth are observed and enforced, it being the design of this act and the aforesaid act that all the police officers herein named shall act in harmony and full co-operation, to the end that the laws may be executed and crime suppressed.

If the attention of the public can be fixed upon this point they will demand that the supremacy of the law be maintained. It is necessary to reach the people upon this point first of all: The duty of those in power is to enforce all the laws of the State.

The undersigned, a committee appointed at a meeting of the temperance men of Boston and vicinity, respectfully ask that, if consistent with your ideas, you will, during the present month, preach a discourse upon the subject, and that you will follow it with such arguments as you may find in favor of prohibition itself, which will be brought to the bar of public opinion during the coming few months.—Believing that one of the first principles of Christianity is obedience to righteous law, and that the wisdom of the prohibitory law has been so fully demonstrated as to secure for it the support of all law-abiding and order-loving citizens, we leave this matter with you, soliciting for it your favorable consideration.

MEMORIAL DAY. All returned Soldiers and Sailors now residing in this town are hereby invited to unite with Paul Revere Post, Grand Army of the Republic, in the proper observance of Decoration Day, May 30, 1873. Should sufficient numbers parade, they are at liberty to choose their own Officers and perfect their own organization.

J. P. JORDAN, Post Com.

We, the undersigned, in accordance with the above invitation to assist in commemorating the services of our fallen comrades, do respectfully request our fellow townsmen who served in the Army or Navy in the late war, and who are not now members of the Quincy Grand Army Post, to meet us at Revere Hall, (over the Post Office,) on SATURDAY EVENING, next, May 24th, at 7 30 o'clock.

REGULAR CONVOCATIONS.

The Regular Convocations of St. Paul's Lodge, No. 37, will be held every WEDNESDAY EVENING, at 7 1-2 o'clock, at their new Hall.

Per order.

☞ Some doubt is expressed at the War Department as to the immediate prospect of placing headstones at the graves of the Union dead. A millon dollars were appropriated for the purpose, but as the number of graves is two hundred and fifty thousand, it is thought that the appropriation is not sufficient to defray the aggregate expense. It is not thought possible that proper stones can be obtained at four dollars each, and if the contract price should be more than that the work will not be undertaken.

The forty-fourth birthday of the Rev. Phœbe A. Hanaford, pastor of the Universalist Church in New Haven, occurred a few days since, and her church made it the occasion of a donation visit. Among the gifts was a roll of $100 in greenbacks.

Pleasant to Think of.

'Tis pleasant to think of those we love,
Who are our friends "indeed;"
Who their regard for us to prove,
Have helped us in our need;
'Tis pleasant to think when we have "erred,"
As all sometimes have done,
That we're forgiven each act or word,
By the offended one;
'Tis pleasant for BOYS to have good CLOTHES,
Coats, Pants, Vest, Hat and Shoes complete,
To think they bought them at FENNO'S
Corner of Beach and Washington Street.

I respectfully offer my services to the people of Quincy and vicinity as a
PRACTICAL DRUGGIST,
I WOULD INVITE ALL TO EXAMINE MY STOCK OF
CAREFULLY SELECTED
Pure Drugs, Chemicals,
— AND —
Pharmaceutical Preparations,
OF ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND AMERICAN MANUFACTURE.

I shall keep on hand at all times an assortment of such

FANCY GOODS,

as are usually to be found in an Apothecary Store. My intention is to keep as near the strictly Drug and Medicine trade as possible—in short to be known as a FIRST CLASS

DRUG, MEDICINE, AND
Prescription Store.

I would call particular attention to my manner of dispensing PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS, none but competent Pharmacists being allowed to compound them.

I shall keep on hand a FULL STOCK of all the popular PATENT MEDICINES of the day.

I respectfully solicit your patronage, and shall endeavor to merit your approbation in the future by a strict attention to the wants of my patrons, by keeping a Full and Complete Stock of Goods, by the fairness of my prices, and by carefulness in dispensing medicines.

Mr. JOHN A. DAVIES, who is well known to many of the citizens of Quincy as a reliable Pharmacist, will give his personal attention to compounding Physicians' Prescriptions, DAY or NIGHT. Yours respectfully,

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

& REMEDY.

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwite, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

Poetry.

How Short is Life.

Life is short, too short for strife;
  Put a world of loving in it,
When there's good that can be done,
  Do not wait, but just begin it.
Do not dream of coming days,
  All the future overrating:
Wherefore trust an idle dream?
  Life is short, too short for waiting.

Learn we kindness unto all,
  From the pitying ones above us;
Let us love our fellow men
  As the blessed angels love us.
Work in love and work in faith;
  Trust me, 'tis a noble calling,
It is almost eventide,
  Soon the shadows will be falling.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Shade as a Fertilizer.

H. J. C., in a letter to the Ohio Farmer, upon the subject of shade as a fertilizer, makes the following true and very sensible remarks:

"That shade is a fertilizer is a fact that has been noticed, and much has been written to explain it. A few words will be sufficient for that purpose. Shade operates simply by preserving the ammonia which is in the soil and which is continually furnished by rain and snow water, and also by manures, and which is rapidly driven off from a naked surface of the soil by a scorching sun. To preserve the ammonia, the skilful farmer ploughs his manure shortly after it is spread upon the soil; and spreads his manures upon his meadows late in the fall, or in the winter, or early in the spring, so that the ammonia may be washed out of it into the soil, and prevent its evaporation by the sun.

"Ammonia is either food or a condiment for most plants, which is necessary to their rapid growth. It has been ascertained by repeated experiments in England that the largest crops of wheat can be raised by imparting to the soil an extra quantity of ammonia, either by directly spreading salts of ammonia or by guano. Hence the greatest fertility of the soil will be more surely preserved by an alternation of crops rather than naked fallow, from which a scorching sun drives off the ammonia rapidly. We should ever bear in mind the eloquent words of an English writer that "mighty nature renews her strength, not only by indolent repose, but in alternations in energy."

How to Water Horses.

One writer says, never water immediately before or after feeding. I say that if a horse is thirsty always give him drink, and he will thank you for it. I have often seen horses put in the stable at noon for an hour or two, and eat a pound of hay or grain, but looking wistfully for water, and then their careful owner, who would not let them have water when warm, will come to give enough to kill, and drive the remainder of the day on two buckets of water and no feed. Ten chances to one his horse gives out with him or gets sick before night. Now, I say, give the horse water if he is ever so warm, give him a swallow, rinse out his mouth and nostrils, give him a bite of hay, in a short time a little more water, but not too much.

If he is watered several times, a little at a time, until he is satisfied, he will not drink more than half what he would if you let him gulp it down all at once.—Cor. Tribune.

Transplanting Garden Plants.

A gardener of experience says:—In transplanting tomatoes, cabbages and lettuce plants, prepare a tub of manure water, and thicken it to the stiffness of mush by stirring in rich garden mold; dip the root of the plant in this paste before setting in the ground; press the earth firmly around the root, and sprinkle with manure water.

☞ Why is coal the most contradictory article known to commence? Because, when purchased, instead of going to the buyer it goes to the cellar.

Anecdotes.

At a late funeral the undertaker arranged for the husband and mother-in-law to ride in the same carriage. "Must I," said the broken-hearted man, "must I ride with that awful woman?"

"I think you will have to," answered the undertaker.

"Well, if I must, I must," said the stricken man, "but to ride with her destroys all my pleasure on this occasion."

"Will your puppy bite?" drawled a languid young "exquisite" to the owner of a beautiful little Scotch terrier.

"Yes, but he isn't a cannibal," was the satisfactory reply.

"Charley, what makes your cheeks so red?" asked his sister's admirer of a little urchin five years old.

"'Cause I put some of sister's paint on. She puts it on every day."

It was an embarrassing disclosure all around. At least Charley thought so after the visitor had gone.

"My dear boy, honesty is the best policy.

"Well, you ought to know, father, for you have tried 'em both."

"How easy these cars ride?" observed a rural traveller on the New York & New Haven Road; "what kinds of springs do they use?"

"Saratoga springs," replied his facetious companion.

"I have heard of them," rejoined the rural traveller, in a gratified manner.

THE

Michigan Spring Bed.

WE, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have used the MICHIGAN SPRING BED, for which Thompson & Hitchcock are Proprietors for this County, and after giving said Bed a fair trial, we cheerfully recommend it, as in our opinion, superior to any in market:

Jesse Bunton,
W. Q. Baxter,
Jos. Underwood,
Thaddeus H. Newcomb,
Samuel T. Allen,
Jos. W. Lombard,
G. W. Miles,
J. E. Hall,

James Newcomb.

The undersigned having purchased the Right for this County to put up and sell the Michigan Spring Bed, of Messrs. Thompson & Hitchcock, is now prepared to furnish all who may give him a call.

I have already taken off numerous kinds of Springs Beds and put mine in their place, to the entire satisfaction of those making the change.

My Ware-Rooms are at

No. 75 Hancock Street,

where all are invited to come and examine the Michigan Spring Bed, which I claim to be superior to any in the country in point of comfort, durability, price, and every other quality which goes to make up a good bed.

Beds put up on Trial—and no one is asked to purchase until after a fair test. Over one thousand of these Beds are sold every week in this State.

A True Copy—Attest.
WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,
Constable of Quincy.

NORFOLK, SS. Quincy, May 23d, 1873.

Pursuant to the foregoing Warrant, I hereby notify and warn the Inhabitants of the Town of Quincy, qualified as therein expressed, to meet at the time and place, and for the purposes therein named.

WASHINGTON M. FRENCH,
May 24. Constable of Quincy.

Assessors' Notice.

To the Inhabitants and all other persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy:

THE Assessors of the Town of Quincy hereby give notice to the inhabitants of said Town, and all other persons liable to pay Taxes therein, that their Office will be open on and after the 21st day of May, until and including the 7th day of June, from 5 to 6 1-2 o'clock, P. M., to receive the valuation of estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said town are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the real and personal estate which they are liable to pay taxes.

Persons holding estates in trust are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed.

Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list, within the time above specified, will at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.

All Persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 7th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.

When a person has failed to bring in a list or a schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate.

The Boys.

There come the boys! Oh, dear, the noise!
The whole house feels the racket:
Behold the knee of Harry's pants,
And weep o'er Bertie's jacket!

But never mind, if eyes keep bright,
And limbs grow straight and limber;
We'd rather loose the tree's whole bark
Than find unsound the timber!

Now hear the tops and marbles roll!
The floors—Oh, woe betide them!
And I must watch the banisters,
For I know boys who ride them!

The very chairs are tied in pairs,
And made to dance and caper;
What swords are whittled out of sticks!
What brave hats made of paper!

How oft I say: "What shall I do
To keep those children quiet?"
If I could find a good receipt,
I certainly would try it.

But what to do with these wild boys,
And all their din and clatter,
Is really quite a grave affair—
No laughing, trifling matter.

"Boys will be boys"—but not for long;
Ah, could we bear about us
This thought—how very soon our boys
Will learn to do without us?

How soon but tall and deep voiced men
Will gravely call us "Mother;"
Or we be stretching empty arms
From this world to the other.

More gently we should chide the noise,
And when night quells the racket,
Stitch in but loving thoughts and prayers,
While mending pants and jacket!

QUEEN PUDDING. Pour over a pint of biscuit or light bread crumbs, enough milk to make a good batter not too stiff; let it soak a while, then mash smooth and add one cup of sugar, one half pound butter and the yolks of four eggs well beaten; flavor with anything you like, and bake. Froth the whites with a cup of white sugar; when the pudding is done spread them over and return to the stove and brown lightly. Eat with or without sauce. Very nice.

CURE F[illegible] small bag, pour on it just enough boiling water to moisten it, then put it on the eye pretty warm, keep it on all night, and in the morning the stye will most likely be gone; if not, a second application is sure to remove it.

Miscellany.

Mrs. Flowers' Furs.

A comfortable sitting-room; a large, old-fashioned open fire; before it a round table, on which stood a generous pitcher of cider, a plate of rosy-cheeked apples and a basket of nuts. Two persons were seated within the ruddy glow of the firelight; one, a hale, hearty man of sixty—kindly, vigorous sixty—the other a dame, ten years younger. Time had touched her gently; her bright blue eyes shone as clearly as they did twenty years before, and, though her round cheeks were slightly wrinkled, a pretty color lingered on them yet, and her smiling lips gave good warrant of a loving heart.

"Got all your clothes ready for your trip, mother?" questioned Mr. Flowers, in a tone of interest.

"Why, no, father," replied she; "I've just begun to think about making them."

The pair was childless, but years ago a little darling had been theirs; and the fond habit of styling each other "father" and "mother," which they had acquired during its short life, had never been stopped.

"Mean to make a pretty good show, don't you?" pursued Mr. Flowers, peeling an apple and handing it to his spouse.

"Yes, I do," returned she, decidedly "Laura shan't feel ashamed of her country aunt if I can help it; and fine clothes count everywhere. I'm going to write tomorrow to see if I can't get that dressmaker from Masonville. They say she always has city patterns; so I guess she can make me look as near like city folks as any one can. But it will take a deal of money."

The farmer was just in the act of raising a mug of cider to his lips. He put it down untasted, and, gravely surveying his wife, asked earnestly:

"Do I ever begrudge you anything, Mary?"

"Law, no! bless you, dear!" said she heartily. "That wasn't my meaning at all. There isn't a man in the country so ready to give to his wife as you. I was ful."

"Pooh! pooh!" said he. "Why shouldn't you have your pleasure? Spend all you want, and more too; there's no waste about it. We've neither chick nor child to save for"—suppressing a sigh—"our niece was brought up with full and plenty at her father's house, and now she's married a rich man; so there's no need to care for her. And why shouldn't you enjoy yourself? I want my old woman to turn out as well as the best of 'em."

"Well father," returned she, yielding the point with the air of one quite willing to be convinced, "if it is your will and wish and my will and wish, I don't see but what you are right in what you say about my having my pleasure along with other folks."

And she quaffed her cider with satisfaction and content.

Her husband regarded her with a twinkle in his eye.

"Now confess, Mary, from a girl you have had a fondness for fine clothes, haven't you? You don't often give way to it, but there it is."

She blushed a little — albeit her fifty winters — and moved uneasily on her chair. He laughed and continued.

"There's handsome furs, now, for one thing. You've been hankering for a real out-and-out set for years."

She started.

"Why father, how in this wide world did you ever guess that?" And she stared at him in open-eyed wonder.

"I was in the next room the other day, when you and your old crony, Nancy Jones, were talking about the furs her cousin from the town had on. It beats me (in a tone of content) how Nancy does go on about that woman. There ain't a thing about her but her clothes; and, to hear Nancy talk, you would think nobody could come nigh her. I heard what the little woman said, plain enough —"I've wished for just such a set all my days, but expect to take it out in whising." There's the exact words for you, and they were said in a dreadful longing way, too," gazing at his wife with laughing eyes.

She fidged and looked away.

"It was a foolish speech, Reuben. Of course I never really thought of having such things. People often wish for things, you know, that they never expect to have."

"And why shouldn't you have them?" he asked coolly.

"Law, father! have 'em? Why, did you hear what Nancy said such furs cost?"

"Yes," replied he, beginning on a plate of nuts; "she said they cost four hundred dollars."

"Well," said she, impatiently, "that settles it, I should think."

Mr. Flowers put his nuts back on the table, poured out a mug of cider for his wife, and another for himself, watched her calmly while she drank hers, which she did rather reluctantly, and then, after taking his own with an air of thorough enjoyment, slowly produced from the depths of his pocket a mysterious roll.

"When I went to Masonville to-day," said he, "I drew this out of the bank for an especial purpose:" and forthwith he counted on her knee four hundred dollars in crisp, new notes; then, slapping her on the shoulder, and bestowing an affectionate kiss on her cheek, he added; "There, Mrs. Flowers, that is for your furs, every penny of it. I won't have my wife craving and raving, and going without it, if I can get it for her."

"Oh, Reuben! you're too good to me—you are! you are!"

CHAPTER II.

HOW SHE SPENT THE FOUR HUNDRED DOLLARS.

After the excitement of the gift was over, Mr. Flowers declared, with a loud yawn, his intention of retiring for the night. "It's no use waiting up for Philander and Joe and the girls," said he. "They'll be at that husking bee half the night;" the parties designated being Mr. and Mrs. Flowers' "hired folks."

Many of the matrons of the neighborhood shook their heads over "Mrs. Flowers' keeping two girls; but Mr. Flowers stoutly held that he wouldn't have his wife killing herself over such a lot of butter and cheese as was made on that farm for nobody's notions."

But the expectant owner of a four hundred dollar set of furs was in no fit state of mind for slumber; so, while Mr. Flowers took himself off to bed, Mrs. Flowers remained seated in front of the fire, staring into it, and meditating upon her unlooked for amount of property.

At first her thoughts run riot among fur coverings and their various shapes.—She was tolerably well posted in those things. She subscribed for one or two affairs the burden of whose song was fashion, and every article appertaining to furs was always perused with longing interest. After a time, however, little stabs of conscience made themselves felt; and matters in a different light [illegible]

Little, however, would conscience listen to reasoning. She scorned it.—"Cold!" replied she, sternly. "There are less expensive ways of keeping warm. Something short of furs at four hundred dollars can do it. What you say about your husband is a mere excuse. If he sees you truly content he will be satisfied.

"But," pleaded keen desire, "I have for years so wished for just these things. I can't give them up. Why should I not have them? There is no one suffering near me that I should just deny myself the gift my husband makes me."

A shuffling step at the door, followed by a knock, interrupted the disturbed thinker.

"Come in!" she cried, rising from her chair.

The door opened, and a distant neighbor entered — an ill-favored, ungainly man, noted for his harsh temper and his penurious soul. Mrs. Flowers greeted him with surprise, but he soon explained his errand. Something was amiss with his horse's gear, and, seeing a light, he had come to borrow a lantern.

"I'm on my way to the poor-house," he said, with a sour grin. "When I came home at sundown, what should I find but a worthless brat my wife had taken in, and she was actually hoping I would let her keep it. Keep it, indeed! The little brat was with a company of tramps the police were after, so I guess they were glad to drop it on the road.—My wife, like a fool, believes the child's gabble, and says they left her because they could not make her lie, and steal."

She'd do it as fast as the rest, I'd venture to say. Her tale is that she's no father nor mother, nor any one, and then tramps picked her up. I don't believe a word of it. So when I came home—though I'd been to the mill, and it was late—I says, says I: "She don't sleep in my house a single night. I'll have her where she belongs before daylight, as sure as my name's "Peter Turner."—So as soon as I was done my chores, I hitched up and started with her. Then the pesky harness broke; and, altogether, I've had more than my share of trouble with her."

"There's the lantern, hanging on that nail," said Mrs. Flowers, shortly."

"I'll bring it back in a minute," he gruffly answered; and, after lighting it, opened the door. He drew back with a muttered oath. "What did you follow me for?" he growled.

A little girl stood on the threshold.—Her wan, wild eyed face, surrounded by pale golden locks falling on her emaciated shoulders, might have moved any heart to pity. Peter Turner's was too small to contain so expansive an emotion; but Mrs. Flowers rejoiced in a larger organ of circulation.

"Come in, child," she cried in her cordial voice, and stretching out her hand. Then, turning to Peter, "You can leave her here till you bring back the lantern."

He made a surly response, and disappeared. The dame drew the child to the fire; the little, trembling thing gazed at her earnestly, as she crouched before it, and spread her blue hands to the generous flaze. Want had stamped its mark upon her; but, though it had dimmed her eyes, and hollowed her infant cheeks, it had failed to destroy the impress she bore of a pure soul.

"See her!" cried conscience. "Is there not a suffering creature near you now! Will you tell me again there is no need to sacrifice your besetting sin?"

Mingling with her voice came those sweet and gracious words, spoken eighteen hundred years ago, and which still breathe their accents through this sin troubled world as clearly as when first uttered:

"Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these, ye did it unto me!"

The childless woman and the motherless child looked in each other's faces, each with a longing, questioning gaze.

"You are not afraid of me, child, are you?" she asked, laying her hand gently on the little one's shoulder. "No," replied the child, "not of you!" and she touched with timid finger the good woman's soft cheek; "but I am of him!" glancing wildly toward the door. "He is taking me to the poorhouse," she whispered, and trembling like a dying bird.

"Not one step shall you go!" cried the true-hearted, motherly soul, and she clasped the desolate little creature to her warm breast.

Great was Mr. Peter Turner's disgust on his return with the lantern.

"So you're opening a refuge for stray thieves, are you, Mrs. Flowers?" he asked, scornfully. "Well, it's nothing to me. All I have to say is, if Mr. Flowers likes to spend his earnings that way, I don't. But I'll help you along," he added, with cutting irony. "Whenever I see any stragglers there's a warrant out agin, I'll send 'em on to you."

And with that Parthinian dart he went [illegible] Mr. Flowers, deeply [illegible] was profoundly unconscious of the sudden addition to his family. He was aroused by his wife pulling his whiskers, and saying she had something to show him.—After struggling in "slumber's chain," for a few moments, he managed to open his eyes sufficiently to discover the sharer of his griefs and joys seated on the side of the bed, holding on her arm a sleeping child, whose golden head nestled in her bosom.

Mr. Flowers stared blankly at this surprising sight. He was just deliberating whether he might not be dreaming, when a sharp pinch from the excited Mrs. Flowers quite convinced him that she, at least, was not an "airy nothing."

"Reuben, dear," said she, "you gave me the four hundred dollars to buy furs to keep myself warm, didn't you?"

"Yes," returned the perplexed benefactor; "and to look handsome in," he added, absently, as an afterthought.

"And you'll let me spend the money in the way that will keep me warmest, won't you dear?" ignoring the latter part of his reply.

"Yes," responded he, with his eyes riveted on the little golden head.

"Well," she went on, in a voice between crying and laughing, "if I choose to keep my heart warm, instead of my back and shoulders, you'll not say "No" to it, will you?"

"Of course not," replied he, staring with all his might alternately at her and the child.

"Well, then, dear," she continued, crying and laughing still more; "if you are agreeable, I'll spend it on this homeless one, and keep her close to my heart to warm it in its old age."

Mr. Flowers was agreeable; and, what is more, he remained so up to his dying day.

What Sickness Costs.

The Medical and Surgical Reporter estimates the cost to the people of the United States, of medical services and medicines, at $100,000,000, and adds $25,000,000 for the quack medicines swallowed. "Let the people," it says, "study these figures awhile, and then reflect that probably one half, or certainly a large fraction, of this expense is incurred by a deliberate infraction of the laws of health; that, if they tippled less, smoked less, overworked less, were less 'fast' and less self-indulgent, they would save some thirty or forty millions a year."

If the cost of the loss of time, loss of happiness, loss of ability to do and dare, was added to the above, there would be no counting the expense of sickness.—And then add to this the expense of those indulgences that make us sick.

The truth is, sickness is the most expensive nuisance on the face of the globe.

There may be instances where it makes people better, but generally it makes people selfish, sad, misanthropic, nervous, mean, and miserable. The best way to make ourselves happy and good is to keep ourselves well.

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

MEMORIAL DAY. The observance of decorating the graves of the fallen heroes took place yesterday. The members of Paul Revere Post exhibited a zeal which was highly commendable in their fraternal labors of love, and the arrangements made for decorating the graves in the several cemeteries was carried out with creditable success in the forenoon. The flowers were not in as great profusion as usual, owing to the backwardness of the season, yet not a grave was forgotten.—Some loving hearts placed their tributes of affection on the resting place of their unforgotten dead, thus adding to the beauty of the floral decorations of the Post. At 3 o'clock a line of procession was formed in the Square in the following order:—Quincy Police; Weymouth Brass Band; Paul Revere Post; carriages containing the orator of the day, and invited guests. They proceeded through several of the principal streets and moved to Mount Wollaston Cemetery where the brief but impressive service of decorating the Soldiers' Monument took place. At the conclusion of these ceremonies the procession moved to the Town Hall, where the following exercises were listened to with great attention. Invocation by Post Chaplain, Stephen G. Abbott, singing by a quartette club, oration by Professor Dimmock and music by the Weymouth Brass Band. The oration was able and eloquent and was listened to with marked attention.

THE FLOWER MISSION. The Boston Flower Mission has begun its beneficient work for the season. Flowers and fruit are sent from the Hollis street Chapel, twice a week, to the various Hospitals and Charitable Institutions of the city.—For the past two years Quincy has lent generous aid to this excellent charity.—Let us do at least as well this year.

Arrangements have been made by which it will be announced, from week to week in this paper, and also from the principal pulpits in the town, at what houses the contributions will be received; and Mr. Bowditch has again most kindly undertaken to call at the places designated, and transport the fruit and flowers, free of charge, to their destination.

A GRAND RECEPTION. Professor having taught, with his usual success a large class of one hundred and thirty-two juveniles to trip through the mysteries of that graceful and beautiful recreation, the mazy dance, with the ease and elegance, for which he has ever been noted, will give a grand reception at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening next. The young ladies and gentlemen are looking eagerly forward to this reception, for an evening of pleasure and enjoyment is expected.

TOWN MEETING. The Selectmen have called a meeting to be held on Monday next, at four o'clock. Let all voters who feel any welfare for the town be present and take a part in the proceedings, and not leave it for a few to attend to the business that belongs to all.

HORSE RAILROAD. The Selectmen give notice, by an advertisement in another column, that they will be at their room, one fortnight from to-day, to consider the location of the street railroad to the Point, and invite all persons desiring to be heard thereon to be present.

PERSONAL. We learn that one of our respected citizens, Mr. Michael Elcock, of West Quincy, sailed on Tuesday last, to make a visit to his native land, after an absence of thirty-three years. He has our best wishes for a pleasant tour and a safe return.

RUNAWAY. Mr. C. A Spear's horse, attached to a buggy, being rather desirous of trying his speed, started on a race last Monday morning, near the store of Geo. W. Brooks on Granite street, and not knowing the proverb that "haste makes waste," shattered the wheels of the carriage by striking against the curbstones as he turned into Hancock street. He rushed into the Hancock House yard, and brought up in W. M. French's stable with the buggy a little bit used up.

FOR SALE. It will be seen by an advertisement in to-day's paper, that a beautiful cottage house, with 10,000 feet of land, situated on the corner of Sea and Brackett streets, is to be sold at public auction, on Saturday June 14th, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The terms are to be easy and it is an excellent chance to secure a good home.

☞ Rev. W. V. Garner, Pastor of the Charles street Baptist Church Boston, will preach at Quincy Point, in the Hall over Messer. & Baker's store, Wednesday evening, June 4th, at 8 1-4 o'clock. A part of the service will be conducted in the Welsh language.

FREAK OF NATURE. A chicken with four perfectly formed legs, was hatched at the residence of Mr. Wm. Bicknell in Old Spain about five weeks ago. It runs and hops about with the rest of the brood.

Fourth of July.

In response to the call in last week's paper, nearly one hundred persons assembled at the Lyceum Room on Monday evening, and selected a committee to carry out the details of the proposed celebration. Subsequently the committee met and selected Mr. Washington M. French collector. Mr. French has received the proper papers and will immediately begin to solicit subscriptions. About seven hundred dollars will be needed, and as soon as that amount is secured the sub-committees will be chosen and in due season a full and complete programme will be published. The time is now so limited, the committee trust that all will be ready to respond at once.

A large and enthusiastic Procession Committee was also chosen, and will be called together soon to perfect arrangements. The prospects are good for a very large and interesting turn out, and many features decidedly new are receiving attention from active men, who are willing to work for their own and others amusements. The programme for the hall will consist of singing, solos and full chorus, poem, and an oration. An effort will be made to have the citizens decorate their houses.

PRESENTATION. A meeting of the Constables of Quincy was held at the Station House on Monday evening, and after the disposal of the business for which the meeting was called, the Chief of Police, Washington M. French, (who is also the efficient head of the Fire Department), arose and said there was a pleasant little duty he had been called upon to perform,—and by a slight-of-hand manœuvre, produced to the admiring gaze of his auditors a beautiful Fireman's Cap,—and turning to Capt. E. A. Spear, (a member of the Constabulary, and who has recently been appointed an Assistant Engineer of the Fire Department), in a few well-chosen and complimentary words presented to him the cap, as a testimonial of his brother constables' regard for him as a constable, a fireman, and a gentleman. Captain Spear was taken altogether by surprise — but he rallied from the shock, and in fitting, feeling, and eloquent terms, acknowledged the honor conferred upon him.

At the conclusion of the presentation, the constabulary, with several invited guests, repaired to the hall of the Hancock House, where a fine collation had been provided, and an hour was passed in a right jolly manner. It was decided by all the participants to be a CAP-ital affair.

THE LAST ONE OF THE SEASON. The Buckley and Sharpley Troupe, will give one of their grand and laughable entertainments at the Town Hall to-night to which all desponding, dyspeptic, disagreeable, dull, desperate, and in fact all fun loving citizens who are desirous of enjoying an excellent concert, are ex- good seats.

MURRAY'S CIRCUS. This large railroad circus visited this place on Tuesday last, and gave two very fine performances on Presidents hill; a new but pleasant place. There was a good attendance in the afternoon and a crowded house in the evening. They came in the night on the cars, and departed the same way,—the street procession was small, and therefore they had but very few attractions outside the canvass.

PICTURES. A fine collection of chromos, oil paintings, steel engravings, &c., will be sold at auction this evening by Joseph W. Lombard, over Mr. Blake's store, on Hancock street. There is a good variety of pictures, some quite large in handsome frames, others smaller and cheaper. Ladies are invited. See notice in another column.

ANNIVERSARY WEEK. This week has been remarkable for its warm and pleasant weather, so unusual the last week in May. The influx of visitors to the city, particularly the white-necked gentlemen to attend religious meetings has been very large, filling the side-walks on the principal thoroughfares so full as to make them at times almost impassable.

ICE CREAM. The warm uncomfortable days of the past week caused us to wish for one of those refreshing creams, which friend Carver knows how to manufacture so well. On Monday next he may be found at the old stand, ready to meet his friends and customers, with his usual pleasant smile and a delicious cream to refresh the system.

AN OLD ESTATE. Last Saturday afternoon Robert Vose, Jr., sold at auction the estate of the late Samuel Blake Pierce at Dorchester, and on which Mr. Pierce had lived ninety-two years. The estate comprised 434,091 feet, and was purchased by Jos. H. Beals, Esq., of the Wollaston Land Co., for $30,386. Terms cash. In addition to the estate there was sold the furniture of the house, among which was a Willard clock, which was sold from the spot wherein it had stood for over fourscore years. Mrs. Francis Atkins was the purchaser at $140. A pair of very antique wine glasses, over 150 years old, brought a very large price. A chair which the Rev. John Pierce, D. D., used at Harvard, ever eighty years ago, was also sold and brought a remarkable sum. An old-fashioned wooden waiter, which had been in the family for nearly a century, also brought a fancy price.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH. Mr. C. C. Wardwell, of Richmond, Va. will lecture in this Church Sunday, beginning at 6. P M. The regular afternoon service as usual.

Wollaston Heights.

To get up a good surprise party and make a success of it, four things are necessary:—A good victim, good purveyors, a good company, and a wife that can keep a secret. All these qualities were found gloriously combined around the beautiful dwelling of our new constable, Mr. Wm. Seeley, last week Friday evening.—When applied to, to serve a writ for the arrest of about sixty of his neighbors and hold them for a couple of hours, the worthy officer's courage failed him, and after all the edible plunder found about their persons had been taken from them, he threw open his entire house and treated the company as welcome guests. From an official stand-point it was conceded that of the entire sixty, not one instance of a lack of strict decorum was observed, and during the confinement, everybody was cheerful, and all in strict conformity with prohibition.

The first "fire" occurred here last Monday, in the cellar of an unfinished dwelling, building by Mr. Fillmore. It is said that $100 will cover the damage done,—all paraphernalia of a fire in older villages was however displayed, such as ringing the church bell after the fire was put out, and bringing to the rescue "Extinguishers," which wasn't charged.

The growth of our place is all that could be desired. Eighteen new dwellings, six births, about one mile of new streets and a fine millinery with the promise of an apothecary shop, all since January.—There seems however to be a "hitch" in the school building and town road improvements.

FIRE. As we go to press news comes of a big fire in Boston. Aid is wanted from Quincy and the bells are ringing.

LATER. The fire is subdued. Losses estimated at ovor $2,000,000. The Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company will not lose over $8000.

Memorial.

OUR SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

Our Soldiers' graves--dear sacred spots—
So thickly scattered o'er our land;
The land for which they bravely fought
And died to save from rebel hands.

Tread lightly on the soft, green turf,
Beneath which sleeps their precious dust;
Tread lightly! O, ye sons of earth—
For these graves hold a sacred trust.

Upon these mounds, so dear to all,
Scatter sweet flowers, both fresh and fair,
With tender hands, and swelling hearts,
Gently, above the sleepers there.

They left their homes and friends so dear,
And all the scenes to them most sweet,
To take their lives within their hands,
And lay them at their country's feet.

Long may they in our memories live;
In memories, fresh as flowers we strew;
And let us oft fresh flow'rets bring,
These sad, sweet memories to renew.

May angels guard these narrow beds,
While our brave soldiers slumber on;
Until "Our Father" bids them rise,
Upon the resurrection morn.

N. J. P.

North Weymouth, May 30, 1868.

The Massachusetts Press Association was organized in 1869, and now has an active membership of one hundred and twenty-five. The annual excursion of the association have proved to be a most interesting feature. The executive committee has now completed arrangments for the next annual excursion, which will start from the Fitchburg depot, in Boston, at 7 A. M. on Tuesday, June 17.

The trip promises to be one of unusual variety and enjoyableness. Among other places the excursion will include the Hoosac Tunnel, Lake George, Lake Champlain and Burlington, with the choice of returning home via the Vermont Central, or adding a supplementary trip to Saratoga Springs, thence down the Hudson by boat and home via the Sound steamers. The party will be exclusively confined to members of the association and their ladies,—not exceeding two,—and to insure convenience and comfort during the trip, it will be absolutely necessary to have a full list of those intending to join the excursion, as early as June 8th, and no additions can be made after that date.

For the Patriot.

Where Economy Ought to Come In.

The Judges of some of our District Courts object to giving State Constables warrants to search, on the ground that it creates great expense, while they think nothing of taking fifteen hundred to two thousand dollars out of the County per year. And for this amount they are loth to devote an hour or so each day. Economy ought to begin by cutting down the salary of such judges. JUSTICE.

SNUG HARBOR. At a meeting of the board of trustees, of the Sailors' Snug Harbor of this town, which was held at the office of the secretary in Boston, on Monday last, the following named gentlemen, were elected officers for the year ensuing.

President,—Thomas Motley.

Treasurer,—W. A. Wellman.

Secretary,—J. Francis Tuckerman.

Executive Committee,—Thomas Motley George B. Upton, Robert B. Forbes, William Perkins and Joseph B. Glover. The treasurer's report shows that the finances are in an improving condition, but that the institution is not yet self-supporting.

BLASTING ACCIDENT. The workmen engaged in blasting rocks on the place recently purchased by Mr Arthur Hobart, on Washington street, Weymouth Landing. fired a charge last Friday morning, which threw out a stone weighing 150 pounds. In its progress through the air it came in contact with eaves on the south side of Mr. Samuel Curtis' residence, making a complete wreck of one corner of the house at the roof. Had the stone struck square upon the roof, it would probably have passed through the floor to the cellar. Fortunately no person was injured by the accident.—Weymouth Gazette.

District Court of East Norfolk.

SATURDAY.

John Abercrombie of Braintree for being drunk. Pleaded guilty and fined $3 and costs. For non-payment of same he was carried to Dedham.

Patrick Maguire of Weymouth, for assault on his wife. Pleaded guilty and sent to the House of Correction for four months.

MONDAY.

Frank Smith of Randolph, for an assault on his wife. Found guilty and ordered to pay the costs and give security in the sum of $500 to keep the peace for six months.

John Freel, of Holbrook, for assault on his wife. By request of the defendant the case was continued till Tuesday morning.

Margaret Daley of Quincy for illegally selling intoxicating liquors. Discharged for a variance between the complaint and the evidence. John Q. Adams for defendant.

TUESDAY.

The case of John Freel for assault was continued this morning. Pleaded guilty but promised to do better, and his case was continued thirty days to give him an opportunity.

THURSDAY.

Charles E. Cook of North Abington, a lad of fifteen years, was brought into Court this morning for entering the South Weymouth depot at sundry times during the last ten days, through a window in the ladies' room, and taking from a drawer in the ticket office, bills and scrip to the amount of about $30. Case continued till Saturday.

Mrs. Margaret Daley of "Dublin," was again before the court this morning, for having intoxicating liquors for sale. By request of defendant the case was continued till Saturday.

She will have to mend her ways, unless Constable Hammond will have her in a tight place.

There was no Court held yesterday it being Decoration Day.

Letter from Portsmouth.

This city and suburbs abound in materials of interest alike to the summer tourist, the scholar, or annalist. The place was first visited in 1603 and the Piscataqua explored. Protected by its situation, it did not suffer as its neighbors from savages. The Royal Governors and the King's Council resided here many years. This fact and the refinement and enterprise of the people from the start, gave Portsmouth a prominent position. A calamitous fire in 1813 swept over fifteen acres, destroying about 400 buildings. Wider streets and finer buildings followed. About 500 vessels were built here prior to 1850, among them the first ship of war, the "North America," and the Kearsarge that sunk the pirate Alabama. The United States Navy Yard, the floating dry dock, houses, the Custom House and libraries are worth visiting. An hour's drive along a shady road brings one to the famous Rye Beach. A pleasant sail of nine miles brings one to the Star Island, the finest of the cluster known as Isle of Shoals. Here a new hotel the Oceanic opens July 1st, under the management of Frank W. Hilton. It has 150 rooms, a Dining Hall for 450 guests, outlaying cottages connected by a covered promenade 1000 feet in length. A concert hall, bowling alleys and billard rooms are added and facilites for bathing, boating and sailing. Ancient legends and modern tragedies attract the curious. The place of Kidd's buried treasure, the cave where Betty Moody killed her two children when hunted by Indians, and the rock from which the school teacher, Miss Underhill, while reading was swept by a huge wave, Sept. 11, 1848, will interest all. After July 1st the steamer will make two trips a day from Portsmouth.

VIATOR.

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT. President Thiers' government was defeated in the French Assembly, on Saturday last by a small majority. The ministers tendered their resignation, which were accepted by M. Thiers, who then resigned the presidency. A motion to appoint a new President caused a tumult in the Assembly, the left moving that M. Theirs' resignation should not be accepted. The latter motion was lost by a vote of 368 to 369, and Marshal MacMahon was chosen president by 390 votes. The people were greatly excited but no disturbance occurred. MacMahon accepted the Presidency, and the political affairs of France are more quite for the present.

A Hint for the Girls.

A wood engraver being asked why he did not employ women replied: "I have employed women very often, and I wish I could feel more encouraged. But the truth is, that when a young man comes to me and begins his work he feels that it is his life's business. He is to cut his fortune out of the little blocks before him. Wife, family, home, happiness are all to be carved by his hand, and he settles steadily and earnestly to his labor, determined to master it, and with every excitement spurring him on. He cannot marry until he knows his trade. It is exactly the other way with the girl. She may be as poor as the boy, and as wholly dependent upon herself for a living, but she feels that she will marry by and by, and then she must give up wood engraving. So she goes on listlessly; she has no ambition to excel; she does not feel that her happiness depends on it. She will marry, and then her husband's wages will support her. She may not say so but she thinks it and it spoils her work."

☞ Flowers and fruit for the Boston Hospital, may be sent, on Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week, to the house of Mr. H. H. Faxon.

FLYING VISIT. Miss Emma Jane Keith of St. Louis, Mo., made a short call at her mother's, Mrs. Emeline Keith, of this place, the present week. She is on a tour to Europe with her aunt, who is on a visit to her daughter's in Paris, and intends to be absent four months.

☞ The stalls in Quincy Market, Boston, yield an annual income of over forty-one thousand dollars.

HOLIDAYS IN NEW YORK. An act recently passed by the Legislature of New York makes legal holidays of New Year's Day, the twenty-second day of February, the fourth day of July, the twenty-fifth day of December, and general election day, any day appointed or recommended by the Governor of that State or the President of the United States, as a day of thanksgiving or as a day of fasting and prayer or other religious observance, and the thirtieth day of May to be known as Decoration Day.

☞ Haverhill complains of great stagnation in the boot and shoe trade. It is reported that there are hundreds of operatives out of employment in that town who would be glad, for moderate wages, to engage in any other business that would afford them steady employment.

SENTENCED TO TWO HUNDRED YEARS IMPRISONMENT! The trial of Robert Atwood, at Louisville, Ky., a prominent insurance man, for forgery, was concluded last week. The prisoner pleaded guilty to ten indictments, and was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary on each.

☞ At the new gas works in Springfield, a new method of making gas has been discovered, by which, it is claimed, a better article can be obtained than is used at present. It is a compounded gas, formed from a union of naphtha and coal gas. It is asserted that this gas gives a stronger light than what is generally burned, and is wholly non-explosive.

Summary of News.

The town of Randolph appropriated the highest percentage of its taxable property last year for the support of public schools, and the town of Nahant the lowest percentage of any town in the State.

When Oakes Ames failed he owed seven millions of dollars. Within two years he paid every dollar with interest.

Gloucester voted on the 15th inst., to accept a city charter, which takes effect on the 1st of January next, and divides the city into eight wards.

A Troy minister and one in Cortland, for a year or two, excited comment by their frequent exchanges. The mystery has been recently removed by the marriage of the Troy clergyman to a lady in Cortland, and that of the Cortland man to a lady in Troy. It was a very nice arrangement.

At the conflagration in Hong Kong on the 23d of March, forty-four acres of houses were destroyed, and five thousand persons rendered homeless.

California anticipates a Chinese immigration of 1800 this year, and considers it "an alarming condition of affairs."

There are forty German newspapers in the United States.

Oxford University, England, is one thousand years old, and its annual revenues amount to one million dollars.

Danvers set out seven hundred shade trees last year.

Senator Sumner has been divorced from his wife.

A rich man in Trenton, Ind., lately sent a barrel of flour to every poor widow in town.

A woman in Augusta, Ga., has been fined $15 for plucking a single flower in a cemetery.

A recent lumberman's circular estimates the number of railroad ties in use in the United States at 150,000,000.

A person who exhibits the best patched pair of pantaloons at the coming Tompkins County Fair in New York will receive a prize.

Base Ball.

The second game of a series between the Quincy and Atlantic Club was played at Atlantic on the 24th inst. The game was a poor one; a good many errors being made on both sides. The umpire was wholly unfit for the position he occupied, and by his decisions all through the game he won the contempt of all except the Atlantic boys. On the third innings for the Quincy boys, Penniman and Hobart had taken their bases by safe hits, and Tilden took up the ash, looked at it, and then called for a ball. When he got one where he wanted it, he spanked it clear over the fielders' heads, and it landed in the adjoining field. This brought himself and the two men on the bases in, amid the shouts of the spectators.

On the ninth innings for the Atlantics, the first five men made runs; then two got out, and the game rested upon the hit of Coughlin, the first base man of the Atlantics. He put the ball between the second base and the right field, bringing himself and three others in; the next striker got out, leaving the score thirty-four to thirty in favor of the Atlantics.—Below is a

On Saturday last, the Active Base Ball Club of this town were again victorious, defeating the Resolutes of Chelsea, by a score of 23 to 14.

On Saturday, June 7, the Actives play the High School nine of Dorchester, on the field back of the Point School House.

DEAD HEADS. It is said that the special committee for the Fourth of July arrangements in Boston, have decided to have no balloon ascension and no fireworks this year. Well, we need not care, for we can all enjoy the programme to be laid out for us at home much better.

THE CONSOLIDATION BILL. The bill which the Massachusetts Railroad Commissioners prepared for the consolidation of the general laws relating to our railroads has, for want of time for its proper revision at the session of the Legislature been referred to the next session, with a direction to the Commissioners to report more fully to the next House.

☞ There were over one thousand packages of merchandise and printed matter lying in the post office at Boston, recently, which were not paid or properly directed. The law requires that merchandise shall be fully prepaid, or it cannot be forwarded, and printed matter for the foreign mail is lost for want of proper endorsement.

☞ Twelve thousand combs are produced annually in the town of Leominster, Mass., in addition to large quantities of horn jewelry. Eighty years ago the business was first begun in this town, and is now its most important branch of industry, three thousand hands being employed in the different establishments.

Marriages.

In this town, May 22d, by Rev. G. W. Whitney, Mr. Lewis M. Soule to Miss Emma G. Maynard.

Deaths.

In this town, May 27th, Mrs. Mary Ann L., wife of Mr John Mahoney, aged 25 years.

At National Sailors' Home, May 28th, Mr Owen Prescott, aged 73 years, 3 mos.

In North Weymouth, May 25th, Mrs. Cylenda French, aged 42 years, 2 mos.

In Hingham, May 22d, Mr. Dixon Lewis Gill, aged 70 years and 9 months.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of every organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

TOO MUCH WATER. As Mr. Barney Mundy was pursuing his course homeward, somewhat "heated," on Wednesday last, he took a free public bath in the canal. Some workmen near by finding he had "no ticket," pulled him out, and he went home a wetter, if not a soberer man.

BURNED MONEY OF BOSTON. The number of cases of burned money received at the United States Treasury, from Boston, after the great fire, was eighty-nine. The nominal amount of money contained in these cases was supposed by the parties remitting them to be $88,812.20. The money was generally very badly burned, and it was with the greatest difficulty that it could be separated and indentified.

☞ The manufacture of dolls' shoes from scraps of morocco, all fancy buttoned and tipped, has within the past three years grown into a big business. One manufacturer in Massachusetts turns out 50,000 pair per annum, and uses 20,000 feet of morocco and sheepskin. The little pets of household angels are well equipped it seems after all.

Pleasant to Think of.

'Tis pleasant to think of those we love,
Who are our friends "indeed;"
Who their regard for us to prove,
Have helped us in our need;
'Tis pleasant to think when we have "erred,"
As all sometimes have done,
That we're forgiven each act or word,
By the offended one;
'Tis pleasant for BOYS to have good CLOTHES,
Coats, Pants, Vest, Hat and Shoes complete,
To think they bought them at FENNO'S
Corner of Beach and Washington Street.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

{L. S.} TO MARGARET DALY, of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, and to any and all other persons claiming any interest in

About 1-4 gallon of Whiskey in one bottle;
Which, by virtue of a warrant issued by the District Court of East Norfolk, has been seized at the place of common resort of said Daly in said Quincy, on the 27th day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, the value of which liquor with the vessel containing it, does not, in the opinion of said Court, exceed twenty dollars.

You are hereby required to appear before said District Court, to be holden at Quincy, in said County, at nine o'clock, A. M., on the 16th day of JUNE, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, to answer to the complaint against said liquor and the vessel containing it, and for trial, and to shew cause, if any you have, why said liquor and the vessel containing it, should not be forfeited for being kept for sale by said Daly, in violation of the laws of this Commonwealth.

Witness, EVERETT C. BUMPUS, Esquire, at Quincy, this twenty-eighth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

District of Massachusetts—In Bankruptcy.

THIS is to give notice that a petition was presented to the Court, on the nineteenth day of May, 1873, by William Gillard of Quincy and William A. Gillard of Natick, copartners as

WILLIAM GILLARD & CO.,

Bankrupts, praying that they may be decreed to have a full discharge from all their debts provable under the Bankrupt Act; and, upon reading said petition, it is ordered by the Court, that a hearing be had upon the same, on the seventeenth day of June, A. D. 1873, before the Court in Boston, in said District, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that the second and third meetings of the creditors of said bankrupt be held before SAMUEL B. NOYES, Esquire, Register, at his Office, No. 96 Washington St., Boston, June thirteenth, 1873, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that notice thereof be published in the Quincy Patriot, and Daley Evening Traveller, newspapers printed in said District, once a week for three weeks; and that all creditors who have proved their debts, and other persons in interest, may appear at said time and place, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted.

Mrs. Dr. Secor's
PRESCRIPTIONS.
QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually
Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup
Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the
Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

Poetry.

The Bride's Departure.

The bride of an hour stood smiling:
Her mother in tears was near by;
For the "pet of her life, so beguiling,"
Was soon to bid her good bye.

Fond friends tried vainly to cheer her,
To stop up the tears that fast fell,
And she clasped her daughter still nearer
And in agony uttered farewell!

The groom with his bride has departed,
To journey far off in strange lands,
And the mother cries out broken-hearted,
"Well! I'm glad that gal's off my hands!"

Home, Farm and Garden.

Soiling Stock vs. Pasturing.

Soiling domestic animals signifies confinement in yards and stables and feeding them with green food. Before one can introduce the soiling system with satisfactory profit, his cultivable fields must be brought to a high state of fertility, so that the ground will yield not less than three crops of grass or four or five of lucerne in one season. The day is fast approaching when fences will not be required, and when every farmer will pratice the soiling system. A cow or eight sheep will gnaw off all that grows on an acre of grass between April and October and no labor need be expended in the process. But the same acre, well manured, would produce thirty tons of roots, which would feed at least five cows or forty sheep for six months better than the grass has fed one large cow for five months.—New York Observer.

Shade Trees.

No native tree we have is better adapted to the purposes of shade and ornament than the sugar maple. Its foliage is full and dense, and its form is that of a round cone of beautiful proportions. It is also clean and free from insect enemies. It would be well if, in planting shade trees on our streets, there could be a suitable alternation of different kinds, some of rapid growth for temporary use, and others for permanence. Some attention should also be paid to variety.—Probably the very best trees for general street planting are the different varieties of the maple. Next in value we would place the elms. For intermediate and temporary planting, the box elder and the ash may be mentioned. Here and there should be the bass wood, or linn, the tulip tree, the horse chestnut, and the buckeye.

The Currant.

Every farmer ought to have a good supply of the smaller fruits in his garden and now is the time to attend to them.—A variety of currants we regard as indispensable. They are easily raised in any desirable abundance and there is no fruit more healthful, or more palatable. If you want a currant that is a little sweeter and that requires less sugar in cooking than the common red, the Dutch or the cherry currant, get Dana's Imperial. That is a white variety, of very good size and is most excellent in quality.—Dig about all currant bushes now and give them a good chance.

A difference of five to one in the size of currants is produced by pruning, manuring and cultivation, when compared with those grown on neglected bushes in grass.

OXEN.

A good ox should have a long, lean face and bright hazel eyes, which show capability to receive instruction and disposition to obey it. Large nostrils denote the capability of the ox to work on a hot day. Very large horns at the base denote laziness. Full breast, straight back, wide ribs—by which is meant the ribs that round out nearly as wide as the hip bones—and wide gambril are evidence of strength. Straight knees, broad toes, pointing straight forward, show an ox can travel on hard road or pavement.—They should be well matched, especially in disposition and speed.

Anecdotes.

A little six-year-old appeared at an oyster dealer's, and said:

"Muzzer sent me down for a pound of hoysters."

"We don't sell 'em by the pound."

"How do youse sell 'em?" he asked.

"By the measure."

"Give me a yard of 'em, then."

The merchant, finding himself beat, replied: "Go home and tell "muzzer" I can't spare her any to-day."

An Albany damsel asked one of her fellow-boarders, a stylish dry-goods clerk, at the breakfast table.

"Why is your moustache like my back hair?"

He blushingly gave it up, when the answer caused him to blush more, "Because it is all down."

A Cockney tourist met with a Scotch lassie going barefoot towards Glasgow.

"Lassie," said he, "I should like to know if all the people in this part go barefooted?"

Part on 'em do, and the rest on 'em mind their own business," was the rather settling reply.

"Are you going to make a flower-bed here, Judkins?" asked a young lady of the gardener.

"Yes, mum, them's the borders," answered the gardener.

"Why, it'll quite spoil our croquet ground!"

"Can't help it, mum; them's your pa's horders; he says as 'ow to hev it laid out for 'orticultur, not for 'usbandry."

THE
Michigan Spring Bed.

WE, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have used the MICHIGAN SPRING BED, for which Thompson & Hitchcock are Proprietors for this County, and after giving said Bed a fair trial, we cheerfully recommend it, as in our opinion, superior to any in market:

Jesse Bunton,	Jos. W. Lombard,
W. Q. Baxter,	G. W. Miles,
Jos. Underwood,	J. E. Hall,
Thaddeus H. Newcomb,	J. H. Morrison,
Samuel T. Allen,	James Newcomb.

The undersigned having purchased the Right for this County to put up and sell the Michigan Spring Bed, of Messrs. Thompson & Hitchcock, is now prepared to furnish all who may give him a call.

I have already taken off numerous kinds of Springs Beds and put mine in their place, to the entire satisfaction of those making the change.

My Ware-Rooms are at

No. 75 Hancock Street,

where all are invited to come and examine the Michigan Spring Bed, which I claim to be superior to any in the country in point of comfort, durability, price, and every other quality which goes to make up a good bed.

Beds put up on Trial—and no one is asked to purchase until after a fair test. Over one thousand of these Beds are sold every week in this State. C. T. MANSFIELD.

Assessors' Notice.

To the Inhabitants and all other persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Quincy:

THE Assessors of the Town of Quincy hereby give notice to the inhabitants of said Town, and all other persons liable to pay Taxes therein, that their Office will be open on and after the 21st day of May, until and including the 7th day of June, from 5 to 6 1-2 o'clock, P. M., to receive the valuation of estates; and all persons liable to be taxed in said town are hereby required to bring in at said Office, a true and correct schedule of the real and personal estates for which they are liable to pay taxes.

Persons holding estates in trust are requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the executor or administrator is required to give notice of such change. In default of such notice he will be held responsible for the tax assessed.

Any person bringing in a list of his taxable property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any one neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list, within the time above specified, will at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors be assessed according to the laws of the Commonwealth.

All Persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, at their Office, on or before the 7th day of June; and that the personal property of all taxable persons must be estimated; notwithstanding a verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.

When a person has failed to bring in a list or a schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed upon such person for such property can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per centum the amount which would have been assessed to that person on personal estate.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.

The Mother's Curse.

O, the drunkard's horrid life!
If he has a brother,
Father, sister, child or wife,
If he has a mother—
What must their affliction be,
What their pain and grief to see,
One who should their comfort be;—

Every sign of reason gone;
On the highway tumbling down—
Lying in the gutter;
Trying, incoherently,
Filthy speech to utter.

With delirium tremens craz'd,
Blood-red eyes with frenzy glaz'd,
Spotted red with whiskey stains,
Misanthropic, addled brains—
Frighted with the horrid glare
Of Demons' eyes, that everywhere
Haunt him with their mocking stare!

Waking from a drunken course,
What must be his dread remorse!
Conscience, like a barbed dart
Tearing through his brain,
Cutting through his guilty heart,
Burning every vein.

What a horrid life he leads,
Thinking of his evil deeds;
Not a sign of comfort there,
All is darkness and despair;
He of all mankind can tell,
What the tort'ring pangs of Hell;
These he knows, alas! too well.

Oh, the drunkard's dreadful end,
Lying all forlorn;
Scarce a mourner or a friend
'Midst the gazing throng:
And if o'er him tears be shed,
'Tis not that he now lies dead,
But that he had been born,
Or that he lived so long!

Hark! upon the moaning gale,
Lo, I hear the mother's wail;
Wailing o'er her ruined son,
Now his dreadful course is run;
Fearing for his future state,
Mourning o'er her cruel fate.

Hark! upon my startled ear,
Sounds of agony and fear,
Like a trumpet, shrill and clear,
Grief and horror in her eyes,
"Curse the rumseller!" she cries,
He who God and man defies.

Oh, that mother's dreadful curse!
Can there be a torture worse
Than that rumseller must feel,
Tho' his heart were hard as steel?

Whereso'er the wretch may be,
On the land or on the sea,
He must hear that awful sound
Ever echoing around:

"May the evil he has wrought,
All on his own head be brought;
May he die a wretched sot,
On a dunghill lie and rot;
May no tears for him be shed,
May no prayers for him be said;
Curse him living, curse him dead!"

Think not that poor mother's wail,
Her sad cry of pain,
Dies unheeded on the gale;
There's an ever list'ning ear
That poor suff'rer's cry will hear;
Hear, and not in vain.
Her dread curse may cling to thee,
Like a loathsome leprosy;
Like the mark on Cain!

TO PURIFY WATER. A tablespoonful of pulverized alum sprinkled into a hogshead of water (the water stirred at the same time) will, after a few hours, by precipitating to the bottom the impure particles, so purify it, that it will be found to possess nearly all the freshness and clearness of the finest spring water. A pailful, containing four gallons, may be thoroughly purified by a single teaspoonful of the alum.

CEMENT FOR GLASS. An excellent cement for uniting broken glass may be made by dissolving in a pipkin over the fire (taking especial care that it does not boil over, one ounce of isinglass in two wineglasses of spirits of wine. This will be a transparent glue.

Miscellany.

A Railway Reminiscence.

"I say, Mr. Conductor, when will the next express train go out to St. Louis?"

"Eleven o'clock and thirty minutes, to-night, sir," was the gentlemanly reply to the rough inquiry.

"Eleven o'clock and thirty minutes.—Go to Texas! Why, its ten this very minute. I'll bet my boots against a jack-knife the morning express is off."

"Yes, sir, it has been gone half an hour.

"Why in nature didn't you get here sooner? Fourteen hours in Chicager is enough to break a fellow all to smash.—Fourteen hours in Chicager puffing and blowing! I've been told they keep a regular six-hundred hoss steam power all the time a running, to blow themselves up with and pick the pocket of every traveler to pay the firemen and engineers! Wal, I guess I can stand it; I've twenty that's never been broke; I think that will put me through. Why didn't you fire up, old brag—give your old hoss another peck of oats? I tell ye, this fourteen hours will knock my calculations all into the middle of next week."

"Very sorry, sir; we've done our best, but as we are not clerks of the weather I hope you will not lay your misfortunes to our account. Snowdrifts and the thermometer sixteen below zero are enemies we can't readily overcome."

"That's so," said the first speaker, with broad emphasis, and a good-natured forgiving smile. "Fourteen hours in Chicager."

The stentorian voice, sounding like a trumpet, had aroused every sleeper from his elysian dreams into which he had fallen after his long, tedious, cold night's travel. Every head was turned, and every eye was fixed on the man who had broken the silence. He was standing by the stove warming his boots. To have warmed his feet through such a mass of cow hide and sole leather, would have been a fourteen hours' operation. Six feet four or five inches he stood in those boots, with shoulders (cased in a fur coat) that looked more like bearing up the world, than you will meet ordinarily in half a life time. His head Websterian, his shaggy hair black as jet, his whiskers to match, his dark piercing eye, and his jaw externally moving, with a rousing quid between them, while a good humor, notwithstanding his seeming impatience, attracted every one's attention.

"Fourteen hours in Chicager, eh?—Wal, I guess I can stan' it if the rest of you can; if my twenty dollars won't carry me through I'll borry of my friends I've got the things that'll bring 'em. That so."

And he thrust a hand a little less in size than a common spade down into the cavernous depths of a broad striped, flashy pair of pants, and brought up that great red hand as full as it could hold of shining twenty dollar gold pieces.

"Don't yer think I can stan' these Chicagers for one fourteen hours?"

A nod of assent from three or four, and a smile of curiosity from the rest, answered his question in the affirmative.

"You must have been in luck, stranger," said an envious looking little man. "You've more than your share of gold."

"I have, eh? Well, I reckon not. I came honestly by it. That's so. And there's them living who can remember this child when he went round the p'rarrie trapping p'rarrie hens and the like, to get him a night's lodging, or a pair of shoes to keep the massasaugers from biting my toes. I've hung myself more than one night in the timber, to keep out of the way of the wild varmints. Best sleeping in the world, in the crotch of a tree-top! Now I reckon you wouldn't believe it, but I've gone all winter without a shoe on my foot, and lived on wild game, when I could catch it. That's so."

"Didn't stun your growth," said a voice near.

"Not a bit of it. It brought me right up. These p'rarries are wonderful roomy. I thought one spell I would let myself out entirely; but me and mother held a corcus, and decided that as she was getting old and blind like, it tuk too long and cost too much to sew up the legs of my trousers, and so I put a stop to it, and concluded that six foot five would do for a feller that couldn't afford the luxury of a wife to make his britches.—It was only the love of my mother that stopped my growth. If I'd an idea of a sewing machine, there is no telling what I might have done."

"You have so many gold pieces in your pocket, you can afford to get your trousers made now. Why don't you and your mother hold another caucus and see what you can do? If she should let you expand yourself you might sell out to Barnum, and make a fortune traveling with Tom Thumb, and take the old woman along."

"Stranger," said the rough great man, and his whole face loomed up with a mingled expression of pain and pride.—"Stranger, I spoke a word here I didn't mean to; a slighty word like, about my mother. I would give all the gold in my pocket to bring her back for one hour to look upon this country as it now is. She had her cabin here when Chicager was nowhere; here she raised her boys; she couldn't give her boys learning, but she taught us better things than books can give—to be honest, truthful and industrious. She taught us to be faithful and true; to stand by our friends and be generous to our enemy. It's thirty years, stranger, since we dug her grave by the lake side with our hands, and with many a tear and sob turned ourselves away from the cabin where we'd been raised. The Indians had killed our father long before, and we'd nothing to keep us—and so we went to seek our fortunes.—My brother, he took down to St. Louis, and got married there, som'ers; and I just went where the wind blowed and when I had scraped money enough together, I cum back and bought a few acres of land around my mother's old cabin, for the place where I'd laid her bones was sacred, like. Well, in the course of time it turned up right in the middle of Chicager. I couldn't stand that, I loved mother too well to let omnibuses rattle over her grave, so I cum back about fifteen years ago and moved her to the burying ground; and then I went back to Texas, and wrote to an agent afterwards to sell my land. What cost a few dollars to begin on I sold for over forty thousand—if I'd kept it till now, 'twould have been worth ten times that; that's so, but I got enough for't. I soon turned that forty thousand into eighty thousand, and that into twice as much, and so on, till I don't know nor care what I'm worth; that's so. I work hard, am the same rough customer, remember every day of my life what my mother taught me, never to drink or fight; wish I didn't swear or chaw; but them's got to be a sort of second natur' like, and the only thing that troubles me is my money—hav'nt got no wife nor children, and I'm going to hunt up my brother's folks. If his boys is clever and industrious, ain't ashamed of my big boots and old-fashioned ways, and his gals is young women, not ladies; if they help their mother, and don't put on mor'n two frocks a day. I'll make them rich every one of them.

"Now gentlemen, 'taint often I'm led to tell on myself after this fashion. But these old places where I trapped when I was a boy, made me feel like a child again — and I felt like telling these youngsters about the changes and chances a fellow may meet in life if he only tries to make the most of himself."

"But, boys," said he, turning to a party of young men, "there's something better than money. Get education.—Why, boys, if I had as much learning as money I could be President in 1857, just as e-a-s-y. Why, I could buy up half the North and not miss it out of my pile. But get learning; don't chaw tobacco; don't take no liquor; don't swear, and mind your mothers—that's the advice of a real live Sucker; and if you mind what I say you may be men some day, (and it ain't every feller that wears a goatee and breeches that's a man by a long ways.) Follow out her counsels; never do a thing that 'will make you ashamed to meet her in heaven. Why, boys, I never done a bad thing but I heard my mother's voice reprovin' me; I never done a good thing and made a good move, but I seemed to hear her say 'that's right, Jack,' and that has been the best of all. Nothing like a mother, boys; nothing like a mother—that's so."

All this had passed while waiting to wood, just out of Chicago. The great man was swelling with emotion, called up by the dark shadows of the past; his big round frame heaved like a billow upon the ocean. Tears sprang to his deep-set and earnest eyes—they swelled to the brim—and swam round asking to let fall to his mother's memory—tributes to the past. But he choked them down, and humming a snatch of an old ballad he thrust his hand down into his pocket, walked to the end of the car, pulled the gigantic collar of his shaggy coat up around his ears, buttoned it close and leaned back against the window in silence.

The cars rattled on. What a mind was there—what a giant intellect, sleeping buried away from light and usefulness by a rubbish of prejudice, habit and custom—doing but half work, for want of culture.

"A mute inglorious Milton," or rather Webster, going about the world struggling with his own soul, yet bound by the chains of ignorance which precluded his doing but a moiety of the good it lay in his power to do.

All the way through our long tedious journey, he had been ever on the watch to do good. He gave up his seat by the fire to an Irish woman and her child, and took one further back; soon a young girl seated herself by his side; as the night hours wore on, and she nodded wearily, he rose, spread his beautiful leopard skin, with its soft rich lining, on the seat, made a pillow of his carpet-bag, and insisted that she should lie down and sleep.

"What will you do?" said she naively.

"Never mind me—I can stand up and sleep like a buffalo; I'm used to it—that's so!"

A little boy, pulled up from a sound nap to give place to incomers, was pacified and made happy by a handful of chestnuts, and a glowing bit of candy out of the big man's pocket. When he left the car for refreshments, he brought his hands full of pies, distributed them among the weary group. A mother and seven little children, the eldest not over twelve years, whose husband and father left the cars at every stopping place, and returned more stupid and beastly each time, scolding the little tired, restless ones, with thick tongue, and glaring his furious red eyes upon the poor, grieved victim of a wife, like a tiger upon its prey, because she did not keep her young ones still; "they would disturb everybody." No bite of refreshment, no exhilarating draft, no rest from that fast, cross baby, came to her all the long night, save when the big man stretched out his great hands and took the baby for an hour, and let him play with his splendid watch, to keep him quiet.

"I'll give you a thousand for him," said he as he handed him back to her arms.

"You may have the whole lot for that," answered the father with a swine-like look.

"It's a bargain," said the big man, "providin' the mother's willin'."

"Indade, sir, it's not one of them that could be bought with money," was the quite determined response of the mother's heart.

How kindly he helped her off the cars when at break of day they came to their journey's end.

Thus all night he had been attracting the attention of the waking ones in the cars. But his kindness and rough politeness would soon have been forgotten by the mass of the passengers, had he not stamped it on our memories with his gold.

"I wonder who he is," and where did he get in? What an interesting character."

"Education would spoil him." "What rich furs?" "Did you notice what a splendid watch he carries?" "He's some great man incog."

Such were a few queries that passed from lip to lip. But there came no answer; for we, who alone could have answered, sat crouched in his fur coat seeming unconscious of all but his own deep thoughts.

"Chicago shouted the brakeman, and in an instant all was confusion, and our hero was lost in the crowd. The next we saw of him was at the baggage stand looking up a bandbox for a sweet looking country girl, who was going to learn a milliner's trade in the city. As we passed to our carriage, we discovered him again holding an old man by the hand, while he grasped the shoulder of the conductor of another train with the other, getting for the gray haired sire the information as to the route he should take to get to "his daughters, who lived near Muscatine, Iowa."

"God bless him for his deeds!" was our earnest aspiration, as he whirled around the corner. May his shadow never grow less, or the gold in his pockets diminish; for in his unnumbered charities and mercies, dropped so unostentatiously here and there, he is perhaps doing more good in his day and generation than he who donates his thousands to build charitable institutes to give honor to his own name.

Oh how much the world needs great hearts that are able to comprehend little things—and yet how often it happens that the learned, the wise and the rich, outgrow the every-day wants of humanity, and feeling within themselves the power to move mightily—pass by the humble duties that would make a thousand hearts leap for joy—and push on, looking for some wrong to right, some great sorrow to be soothed, some great work to be accomplished; and failing to find the great work, live and die incarcerated in their own selfishness and do nothing at all.

This rough man's nature seemed the nature of the little child. His quick eye saw at a glance; his great heart warmed and his hand executed his little works of charity—so that you almost could expect to see them slip between his giant fingers unaccomplished—yet they were done. The "angel over the right shoulder" will have a longer column to his account of deeds well done, than all the rest of the passengers of that crowded car on that long, tedious, stormy night in January.

☞ If the best man's faults were written on his forehead, it would make him pull his hat over his eyes.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1873.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

QUINCY HORSE RAILROAD. At a meeting of subscribers for stocks in the Quincy Point Street Railway Company, the corporation was organized by the acceptance of the charter, and the choice of Lemuel Baxter, John Federhen, Geo. F. Pinkham, Peter Butler, and H. Farnam Smith, all of Quincy, as Directors.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, H. Farnum Smith, was chosen President and Clerk, and Ephraim N. Winslow of Hyannis was chosen as Treasurer.

It was voted to fix the capital stock at twenty thousand dollars.

It is confidently hoped that work will be commenced on the road in the course of the next two or three weeks.

DANCING SCHOOL BALL. The grand reception of the dancing school, of Russ B. Walker, Esq., at the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, was a brilliant affair. At an early hour beauty and fashion filled the hall, and never we believe did Mr. Walker look upon a class with more pride and satisfaction than on this occasion. The children all did well, and were highly complimented. A large number of our citizens and also friends from adjoining towns were present to enjoy the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Walker addressed the scholars in his usual pleasant and happy manner, thanking them for their prompt attention and complimenting them on their excellent behavior during the course, and on closing his remarks informed the school that he would not be with them again till 1875.

INDISPOSITION. We are sorry to learn that our respected townsman, Dr. Wm. B. Duggan, has been confined to his house some days, from sickness, caused by receiving a slight wound from his dog, while playing with him. It is thought the dog had been eating some decayed substance, and his teeth contained some of the poison with which he innoculated the Doctor's hand. The hand and arm are badly swollen, and very painful. We hope a few more days of careful nursing will restore health to our esteemed townsman who has the sympathy and good wishes of a large circle of friends.

PARALYSIS. It was with feelings of anxiety and sorrow, that the friends and neighbors learned of the sad affliction of Mr. I. W. Thayer and Mrs. Eben. Ford, who were both stricken with paralysis on Saturday last. We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Ford is convalescing, and we trust will soon be restored to her usual health. Mr. Thayer we are sorry to say had a more severe shock and yesterday morning he passed quietly away, surrounded by his afflicted family. Mr. Thayer since he has been with us, has been a very enterprising citizen, and has erected several houses in Wollaston and in this village. See notice of funeral under the customary head.

THIEVES. There appear to be a few thieves prowling about the town of late, and it would be well for our citizens to be a little on the watch. A valuable horse, belonging to Mr. James Carey, of West Quincy, was stolen from the stable on Monday night last. The owner has caused posters to be issued, but at last account no trace of the animal had been found.

On Thursday evening two good whips were taken from carriages left in Mr. Abercrombie's shed on Washington street. The rogues should be caught and the whips used, that they might learn that there were two acts to the drama.

PROGRESSING. Carpenters are busily engaged enlarging the store now occupied by Mr. Geo. Saville, on Hancock street. The extension has been raised, boarded and is nearly ready for the masons. It will be completed and ready for occupancy in about four weeks.—When finished it will be one of the largest, and handsomest stores in the Square. It is to be occupied by Mr. Geo. Saville, who will keep his usual good assortment of ready made clothing, boots, shoes, hats, umbrellas &c. on the northerly half, and by Mr. Edward B. Souther, for his periodical store on the southerly part.

☞ Workmen have been engaged the past fortnight in cleaning out the gutters along some of our principal thoroughfares. We believe it to be as necessary and useful, as repairing the centre of a road, and at the same time it gives a more inviting appearance to our streets.

NEW BEER SHOP. Thursday the furniture wagon of N. B. Furnald was seen wending its way to the store house, heavily ladened with beer and other "solids."

ENLARGING. Stone-layers have been employed the present week in laying the foundation for an extension of the shop now occupied by Dr. Chas. S. French on Hancock street. Mr. French not only intends to raise his store one story, but has decided to make it considerably longer,—giving an abundance of room for the Post Office, which will be moved to this building as soon as completed.

☞ The Modoc war is ended. Capt. Jack and his remaining warriors are all prisoners.

Town Meeting.

At the Town Meeting held Monday afternoon last, John Quincy Adams, Esq., was elected Moderator. The attendance was quite small, yet the real business was properly and carefully attended to, and resulted as follows :—

Voted. To accept the reports of the Selectmen laying out Town Ways. One from Hancock street to Adams street, near the Presidents Bridge, and one from Hancock street to the O. C. R. R., formerly known as "Savil's Lane," near the National Granite Bank.

Voted. To indefinitely postpone the laying out of "Mill street" as a Town Way.

Voted. To accept the Report of the Committee on By-Laws, Rules and Regulations for Mount Wollaston Cemetery, as reported to the Town at the last Annual March Meeting, and published,—by a vote of the Town—in the Quincy Patriot.

Note. Inasmuch as all the proceedings under the By-Laws adopted by the above vote, depend upon the election of a "Board of Managers" in the manner specified in article 1, therefore as such election cannot be legally held until March 1874,—the By-Laws, Rules, &c., will be inoperative until after that time. The Cemetery in the mean time and for the present year, being under the entire management of the Committee chosen at the last March Meeting.

Voted. That "Liberty" street, be hereafter called "Water" street. (Water street therefore now connects "Granite street" with the "Weymouth Turnpike.")

Voted. To accept the Report of the Engineers of the Fire Department, to the effect that at present it is inexpedient to construct a Reservoir at the junction of Atlantic and Hancock streets.

Voted. That the meeting be dissolved.

Wollaston Heights.

At the last sociable of the season, held in the Baptist Chapel last Wednesday evening, the order was reversed, and the ladies were made the special guests.

Messrs. Pinkham and Meserve, the hosts, provided sumptuously for a party of three hundred. Hot coffee, cold meats, cake, and strawberries and cream, were dispensed with characteristic liberality.

Previously, however, these gentlemen were surprised by a presentation from the ladies of the Social Circle of two spacious "bibs," which were pronounced "perfect fits," and gave to their rotund forms all the grace of an English Beadle.

A more enjoyable scene, throughout, we have seldom witnessed.

FAIR. It will be seen by an advertisement in our columns to-day, that Christ Church are to hold a fair and tea-party, on Wednesday next, at Mr. W. W. Greenough's place, on Adams street. We hope our citizens will take an interest in this entertainment as it is for the benefit of the Church. Many useful and fancy articles will be offered for sale.—The pretty excursion carriage "Zephyr" will leave the Hancock House, every half hour, to carry parties to the Fair for 15 cents.

PRESENTATION. Last Monday night Mr. Herbert M. Federhen, Captain of the Vulture Engine Company at the Point, was presented with a very handsome fireman's hat. The presentation was made by Mr. Baker, who addressed Mr F. in behalf of the company, with quite a neat and appropriate speech fitting the occasion.

NIAGARA ENGINE COMPANY. At the annual meeting held at the house of this company, on May 6th, the following officers were elected for the year ensuing :

Foreman,—Michael Walsh.
1st Assistant,—John Crathorne.
2d,—Assistant,—Michael Coyle.
Clerk,—Humphrey Moynihan.
Stewart,—John Cuniff.

PERSONAL. Mr. Samuel B. Luzarder, after a residence of twenty-six years in Quincy, has decided to move to South Abington, having purchased a place in that village. He sold his estate on Main street for $2700, and desires to move farther from the salt water, thinking by doing so, his health would be better.

THANKS. C. Dallas Brackett, of Vineland, N. J., a native of this place, has our thanks for papers. Also, Mr. Albert Merritt of Philadelphia for similar favors.

PROBATE COURT. Wednesday next Probate Court will be held in this town, Judge White presiding.

☞ Fruit and Flowers for the Boston Hospitals, may be sent on Wednesday afternoon and evening of this week to the house of Mr. Charles R. Mitchell.

☞ The weather the past week has been cold and dry. The gardens are beginning to be thirsty, and a good shower is much needed.

COMPLIMENTARY. Among the many incidents of Decoration Day, was the manner in which the Weymouth and North Bridgewater Bands (appreciating the labors of Mr. Allen of the Hancock House as a caterer to the wants of the public) showed their respect by discoursing for him some of the choicest music, which they rendered in their finest style. Such acts show the respect and reputation which he has won from the travelling public, and citizens of the neighboring towns, as well as the majority of our citizens, and could not but have been very gratifying to him and to his friends who were there at the time.

Braintree.

MEMORIAL DAY. Post Gen. Thayer, accompanied by the Braintree Brass Band visited each cemetery in town on Friday morning last, placing flowers on the graves of their fallen comrades. At noon one of Fields (of Taunton) splendid collations was served up, and in the afternoon the Town Hall was filled with an attentive audience to listen to the oration by Hon. Asa French of Braintree. The Band discoursed some fine music for the occasion but the Feature of the whole was a Pyramid formed by sixteen young misses dressed in red, white and blue, who sung a beautiful memorial hymn. The first row of little singers was formed by Susie E. Daniels, Minnie Richardson, Winnie Branley, Ada Hallenbeck, Lillie Smith, Hattie Call and Addie Gooch. The second row Kitty French, Annie Dyer, Mamie Call, Della Stevens and Lizzie Bradford. The third row Hattie French, Ida Smith and Jessie Dyer, and the last Carrie Perry, who sat about ten feet from the floor of the platform. This part of the programme was under the direction of Miss Annie Stevens, one of Braintree's favorite music teachers, and was a complete success.

CONCERT. A Benefit Concert was given on Wednesday evening for the benefit of Mr. Loiz Gomez, who lost all his furniture, wearing apparel, &c., at the fire in Braintree on the morning of the 30th. The Braintree Brass Band, the singers of Braintree and others made up the programme. The net proceeds of the Concert were $150. D.

RODGERS' CHAPEL. The Blind Medium will speak at Rodgers' Chapel, to-morrow at the usual hour, 2 1-2 o'clock.

BOARD WANTED. A gentleman is desirous of securing a boarding place.—See advertisement.

AUCTION IN BRAINTREE. Mr. Joseph R. Frasier will sell at auction on Monday afternoon next, at three o'clock, at the residence of the late Gardner S. Penniman, carriages, robes, household furniture and many other articles.

REGATTA. The opening of the regatta season was commenced by the Dorchester Yacht Club, on Saturday afternoon last, off Commercial Point. The day was a very fine one, and a strong easterly wind blowing during the sail, gave the skippers a chance to show their expertness in seamanship. The yachts sailed over a course of nine and a half miles. The Rocket, Capt. Benjamin F. Bass of this town, took one of the prizes, a handsome silver butter dish. The time made was one hour, three minutes and three seconds.

CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH. We are pleased to state that the proposition to celebrate the coming anniversary of our National Independence, meets with a generous and hearty response from all quarters of our ancient and patriotic town — the birth-place of the Adamses, and the head-quarters of Liberty. This is as it should be. Let all unite in contributing to the fund for a real old-fashioned holiday.

Washington M. French, Esq. is the treasurer and collector of the "fund for the fourth," and will reward you with one of his blandest smiles as you hand in your contributions.

COTTAGE HOUSE AT AUCTION. If you desire to secure a good cottage, near the centre of the town, by consulting the advertisement of house and land at auction, in to-day's paper, you may learn the particulars. Attend this sale, and you may secure a cheap and desirable home, as it is to be sold on easy terms.

STOLEN AND RECOVERED. Last week Friday morning, about 1 o'clock, a horse and buggy was stolen from Spencer Brooks, of East Abington. It was fortunately recovered on the afternoon of the same day, by Frederick H. French of this town.

Summary of News.

A horse chestnut tree in New Haven blossoms alternately on the north and south sides from year to year, but once in seven years blooms on both sides.

A petrified negro has been found in an undertaker's garret at Roanoke, Miss. It is thought that he undertook the study of law and became absorbed in Blackstone.

William Stokes, late a ship boy on the British scientific exploring ship Challenger, who was killed by a falling block when off Porto Rico, was buried in the deepest grave on record. His body, wrapped in a shotted hammock was dropped in water close upon four miles deep.

A willow tree twenty-two feet in circumference was cut down in Dorchester a few days ago.

Hon. Levi L. Goodspeed of Barnstable, discovered upon his prenises one day last week, a hen's nest containing sixty-seven eggs.

Eighteen bodies have been found in the rivers about New York within two weeks.

A stock company is fencing in Niagara Falls with a view to entrance fees.

The barbers of Charlestown have agreed not to open their shops on Sunday.

On Tuesday next the Boston Police will don their new summer uniform.

☞ Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is "a combination and a form indeed" for healing and curing diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. It cures a cough by loosening and cleansing the lungs and allaying irritation ; thus removing the cause, instead of drying up the cough and leaving the disease behind.

District Court of East Norfolk.

SATURDAY.

Michael Crowley of South Weymonth for assault on John Walsh. Case continued till Tuesday morning.

Patrick Doherty of Quincy for being drunk. Pleaded guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $3 and costs.

The case of Charles E. Cook for entering the South Weymouth depot, and taking money from the drawer was concluded by sending the youth to the Reform school.

MONDAY.

Robert J. Wiley of West Quincy for assault on C. W. Greeley brakeman on the Old Colony, on Sunday last. Fined $15 and costs.

James Dowd for an indecent assault on Miss Kelly of East Braintree ; a girl of eleven years, about half-witted. Owing to insufficient evidence to prove the charge the defendant was discharged.

The adultery case of James H. Nichols at Squantum, which came before the District Court in April and continued till the first Monday in June, was before Judge Bumpus this morning. The defendant and witnesses were ordered to give bonds for their appearance on the first Monday of September next, before the Superior Court at Dedham.

Margaret Daly, of Quincy, for selling intoxicating liquors to Thomas Malancey was discharged.

James Duggan, of Quincy, pleaded guilty to being drunk, and was ordered to pay a fine of $3 and costs, amounting to $10.25.

Two small boys from East Braintree, were before the Court, charged with catching smelts. They pleaded guilty and were put on probation for three months. The next offender before the court on a similiar complaint, will not be let off so easy, as the Judge intends to enforce the law to its full extent. We advise boys who are in the habit of violating this law, to be careful in future, or they may find themselves in a tight place, some of these mornings.

TUESDAY.

Margaret Bennett of Randolph for violating the Sunday law. It being her second offence, she was ordered to pay a fine of $30 and costs.

Michael Crowley of South Weymouth for assault on John Welsh. The defendant was discharged on paying costs and giving securities to keep the peace for six months.

John McDonnell of Quincy for assault on Mrs. Mack,—a neighbor. From the evidence it appeared that Mrs. Mack was the most to blame and accordingly Mr. McDonnell was discharged.

Mr. Murphy of West Quincy, arrested by Sheriff French for assault on Miss Whalen. Case continued till Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY.

Mr. Murphy, was discharged this morning on the assault case, which commenced yesterday.

THURSDAY.

Margaret Donahue, of Randolph, for violating the Sunday law. Pleaded not guilty, and case continued till Monday next.

THE LOCK-UP. The commitments to the Station house, in this place, for the month of May, were as follows :—

Lodgers,	15
Drunkenness,	7
Larceny,	2
Assault,	4
Total,	28

The Selectmen have appointed Washington M. French, as Superintendent, and the kind and watchful care he takes of those under his charge is worthy of commendation ; and he usually receives the thanks of the prisoners.

KEEP COOL. Mr. F. C. Ellis, in connection with his Periodical Store, near the Willard School House, in West Quincy, has opened an Ice Cream Saloon, where he will furnish all callers with delicious ice creams in large or small quantities.

☞ Rev. Henry Ward Beecher will preach at the Park street church, Boston to-morrow forenoon.

HARVARD. Charles Francis Adams will deliver the oration before the Phi Beta Kappa Society the day after Commencement, at the Unitarian Church.

☞ It has been said that "Jesus" and "St. Paul," have been at Rodgers' Chapel, and it is rumored that they may expect the "Devil" next.

Base Ball.

There has lately been organized in this town a Base Ball Club, composed entirely of junior members, between the ages of sixteen and nineteen. This club is known by the old familiar name of the "Actives,"—a name which has won honor and distinction in the base ball arena in past years, and even now, so great is the consternation which that name bears with it, that the Actives of this year have some difficulty in procuring clubs to play with.

We have an excellent example of the magnetic effect of that name only as lately as last week. The case is this: the Actives challenged the Modocs of South End, Boston, to play on Decoration Day at Quincy, and it was accepted; but that club not wishing to increase their already enormous list of defeats, did not appear at the appointed time and place; therefore, according to rule, the game was claimed by the Actives, by a score of 9 to 0.

As the Modocs did not appear, a game was played with a picked nine, at Quincy Point, resulting in a victory for the Actives by a score of 44 to 4. The other two games of the Actives, this year, have already been recorded in the paper, viz.: Actives, 25; Norfolks 6. Actives, 23; Resolutes, 14.

There will be a game to-day, at 2 1-2 o'clock, at the field at the Point.

A game of Base Ball was to have been played between the Quincys and the Atlantics, but the latter failing to appear, the game was given to the Quincys. Score 9 to 0.

A Club has recently been instituted at the Point, composed mostly of seniors, and entitled the "Quincy Point Base Ball Club," with the following officers:

President.—Z. Sidelinger.
Vice President.—W. Caldwell.
Secretary.—John W. Shaw.
Treasurer.—H. M. Federhen.

Real Estate Sales. Samuel B. Luzarder, house and about one acre of land on Main street, to John A. McDonnell for $2700.

Joseph Adams and others sold one-fourth acre of land with buildings, on Quincy Avenue, Quincy, to Wm. J. C. Giesler, for $2000.

Double House and one-third acre of land on Brackett street, owned by Henry H. Faxon, to Catherine S. Driscoll, for $2100.

Cottage House and one-fourth acre of land on Brackett Place, owned by Evan Evans, to Henry H. Faxon, for $1400.

Thomas J. Nightingale sold a lot of land with buildings, on South street Quincy, to Henry Glidden, for $6500.

William R. Emerson, sold one-half acre of land with buildings, on the Braintree and Weymouth turnpike, in Braintree, to Eliza C., wife of Gilbert Nash, for $5000.

George W. Beck, sold a lot of land with buildings in Weymouth, to James Maynadier, for $2500.

John Faxon and others sold three-fifths of a lot of land on Summer street, near its intersection with Bedford street, Boston, to Faxon & Elms, for $7915.

John Faxon and others to Mary A. Draper, land on West side of Kingston street, Boston for $6000.

Faxon & Elms, one-half of an undivided lot of land at intersection of Summer and Bedford streets, Boston 2904 feet to John Faxon and others for $39,934.

Prospects. The trees, bushes, shrubs, etc., are looking finely, and the indications are that the fruit season will soon be with us. Handsome large green cherries are noticed upon the trees, and early strawberries are nearly ripe. Still the pests, such as canker worms, currant worms, &c., have made their appearance quite extensively in some places. Those who inked or tarred their trees last Spring will be the gainer now.

Escaped. We are pleased to inform our readers, that the store of the Eagle Clothing Company, escaped the terrible conflagration of May 30. All the buildings opposite their store on Washington and Essex streets were destroyed. They are now prepared to show the largest and best stock of Men's and Boys' Clothing in Boston, at prices to suit the times.

Travelling Lock-up. Our South Weymouth correspondent, "Pero," writes that a gent who was "on his beer" the other Sunday night, was placed in Hollis' ice wagon, for safe keeping,—the wagon standing opposite Conant's blacksmith shop at the time. Mr. Hollis came for his wagon next morning, not being aware of its being occupied for a lock-up, and as the individual deposited there had not been heard from at the time of writing it is believed that he has been redeposited in somebody's ice chest, with the ice. Any one finding such a visitor crawling around among their cold victuals is requested by "Pero" to return him to South Weymouth.—Weymouth Gazette.

Ancient and Honorable Artillery. The two hundred and thirty-sixth anniversary of this ancient military organization, was celebrated in Boston, on Monday, and was participated in by upwards of three hundred members. The corps, after marching through some of the principal streets, at 2 o'clock dined in the Cradle of American Liberty. Among the invited guests were His Excellency Gov. Washburn, Gen. Cunningham, Surg-Gen. Dale and other members of the Governors Staff, together with many other distinguished soldiers and civilians. The June prade is chosen as the time for the annual election of officers, and this year the aspirants for the command of the venerable corps were numerous. The customary drum-head election was had, and resulted in the election of Major Ben. Perley P oor, as Captain. Col. Chas. H. Porter of Quincy, was chosen Fourth Sergeant of Infantry.

In speaking of the choice of Maj. Poor as the commander of the corps, the Providence Journal remarks:—

"Major Ben: Perley Poore was on Monday elected to the high distinction of commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Massachusetts. This is one of the most distinguished honors, if not the most distinguished, in the citizen soldiery of the Union. Men of the highest position and officers of the highest rank have contended for it for a time that goes back more than a hundred years before the Declaration of Independence; and some of the most eminent citizens of Massachusetts have accounted it a distinguished accession to the evidence which they have received of the popular confidence and favor. It could not be conferred upon a more patriotic officer, or upon one who in every way, by his pen, by his voice and by his personal service, has been more prompt for the advancement of the interests and the vindication of the honor of Massachusetts."

Approval. The bill for establishing harbor lines, on Neponset river, has been signed by the Governor.

A Sad Affair. A murder of extraordinary character was committed at New York, on Tuesday last. Mansfield T. Walworth, a man prominent in New York City and State, was called by his son, Frank H., to the latter's room at the Sturtevant House, and there shot dead by the young man, who at once confessed the deed, telegraphed the fact to his relatives, and then gave himself to the police. Trouble between Mr. Walworth and his wife, in which the son warmly espoused the cause of his mother, led to the tragedy.

☞ The Treasury department has just settled the expense account of the Geneva arbitration. The total amount was $144,000, of which $22,500 went to Mr. Adams.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of eveny organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels some times costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

For the Patriot.

When it is too Late.

It is amusing to see some of the principal advocates of free rum, who do not want their liberties taken away election day, before our Justice Court for getting drunk and other irregularities. To hear them plead with tears in their eyes to be let off easy for indulging in their rights and liberties, in beating their wives and abusing their children, and it goes to show that they exercise with a vengeance what they preach, but they repent when it is too late to save their reputation or money.

Observer.

Fire. Friday morning of last week, about 2 o'clock, one of the oldest houses in Braintree, was discovered to be on fire, and though the citizens rallied in large numbers, and every effort was made to extinguish the flames, it was without avail, and the building was entirely consumed. The house was occupied by the Mrs. Elisha Hobart and Louis Gomez.—Mrs. Hobart is quite aged, and was rescued from the burning building by her son, who occupies the next house. The origin of the fire is unknown. The estate belongs to the heirs of the late Elisha Hobart.

☞ Three hundred thousand dollars' worth of bonds, stolen from the Waterford Bank, New York, have been returned by the thieves, who received thirty-five per cent., and immunity from punishment. A fine inducement for bank robbers is such a generous bounty.

Weymouth. The admirers of fast trotters can see some tall trotting, at the Weymouth Trotting Park, this afternoon.

A "Learned Judge." Judge McCue, of Brooklyn, demanded $260,000 bail for John McHalpine, the burglar who was recently captured by a young lady. His friends offered $20,000, but the Judge refused to take less than a quarter of a million.

☞ A terrible report comes from Shanghae of the capture of a Mohammedan city in the south western part of China, and the massacre of thirty thousand of its inhabitants by Chinese troops.

Pleasant to Think of.

'Tis pleasant to think of those we love,
Who are our friends "indeed;"
Who their regard for us to prove,
Have helped us in our need;
'Tis pleasant to think when we have "erred,"
As all sometimes have done,
That we're forgiven each act or word,
By the offended one;
'Tis pleasant for Boys to have good Clothes,
Coats, Pants, Vest, Hat and Shoes complete,
To think they bought them at Fenno's
Corner of Beach and Washington Street.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

{L. S.} TO MARGARET DALY, of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, and to any and all other persons claiming any interest in

About 1-4 gallon of Whiskey in one bottle;

Which, by virtue of a warrant issued by the District Court of East Norfolk, has been seized at the place of common resort of said Daly in said Quincy, on the 27th day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, the value of which liquor with the vessel containing it, does not, in the opinion of said Court, exceed twenty dollars.

You are hereby required to appear before said District Court, to be holden at Quincy, in said County, at nine o'clock, A. M., on the 16th day of JUNE, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, to answer to the complaint against said liquor and the vessel containing it, and for trial, and to shew cause, if any you have, why said liquor and the vessel containing it, should not be forfeited for being kept for sale by said Daly, in violation of the laws of this Commonwealth.

Witness, Everett C. Bumpus, Esquire, at Quincy, this twenty-eighth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

Mrs. Dr. Secor's
PRESCRIPTIONS.
QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually
Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup
Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of
Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the
CINCHONA BITTERS
Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the
Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

Poetry.

A Little Dear.

She spread the goods before him
With half averted eyes,
Their quality and value
Extolling to the skies.
That voice—oh, how bewitching!
Those hands—how soft and white!
Those eyes—how fascinating!
That face—how fair a sight!

"The goods are very pretty—
No doubt what they appear,
But then, I think," he added,
"You are a little dear."
With cheeks suffused with blushes,
She turned her head away,
And innocently answered—
"That's what the fellers say."

Home, Farm and Garden.

Preserving Flowers Fresh.

Take a deep plate, into which pour a quantity of clear water. Set a vase of flowers upon the plate, and over the vase set a bell-glass with its rim in the water. The air that surrounds the flowers being confined beneath the bell-glass, is constantly moist with water, that rises into it in the form of vapor. As fast as the water becomes condensed it runs down the sides of the bell-glass into the dish; and if means be taken to enclose the water on the outside of the bell-glass, so as to prevent it from evaporating into the air of the sitting room, the atmosphere around the flowers is continually damp. The plan is designated the "Hopean Apparatus." The experiment may be tried on a small scale by inverting a tumbler over a rose-bud in a saucer of water.

Feeding Poultry.

Most people who feed poultry at all in seasons other than winter, feed them too liberally in the morning. It is the nature of fowls to roam and gather their food in small bits here and there, and if their crops are stuffed in the morning they droop around and become unhealthy.

Feed sparingly if at all in the morning, and let them hunt as is their nature to do during the day, and if they are unable to gather a sufficient amount of food, furnish them a supply just before they take to the roost.

Variety of food is as essential to the health of chickens as to anything else, and if left to support themselves they will obtain it. In the winter when they are dependent upon man for subsistence, the demand of their nature should be as fully complied with as possible. — The Homestead.

Skim-Milk for Currant Worms.

As these pests have begun to make their appearance again, the following simple cure, which we find in the New England Farmer, we give our readers for trial:—"Please say to your readers who are troubled with the currant worm, that skim milk has proved a sure, swift, and simple cure. Apply it with watering-pot or syringe; only be sure you wet all the worms; probably molasses and water would answer as well, or thin glue; but have never tried the two latter, as the milk did not leave any subjects for further experiment. A worm breathes through his skin. Stop the pores and he dies. Milk does it.—J. Nelson Jacobs."

☞ Moore's Rural New Yorker speaks of one of the best and most successful farmers of the times as a man who always had something to sell of his own raising and always took good care to let his neighbors know what he had to sell, by advertising liberally in the papers. There are thousands of others—farmers, manufacturers, storekeepers, merchants, etc., who have done the same, and grown rich in consequence, and tens of thousands who havn't yet seen the point and keep as poor as when they first begun, and this is where the wonder comes in.

Anecdotes.

"Papa, didn't you whip me once for biting Tommy?"

"Yes, my child; and you hurt him very much." "Well, then, Papa, you ought to whip sister's music teacher, too; he bit sister yesterday afternoon right on the mouth, and I know it hurt her, because she put her arms around his neck, and tried to choke him."

"Mamma says it is not polite to ask for cake," said a little boy.

"No," was the reply; "it does not look well in little boys to do so."

"But," said the urchin, "she didn't say I must not eat a piece if you gave it to me."

A down Easter, the other day, came into town in a great bluster, inquiring of everybody he met if they had seen anything of his "keow."

A wag called him to one side, and said he saw a cow hide in a shoe-shop, as he—the owner—came round the corner.

Pet,—"Mamma, I want to make a leetle bargain with you."

Mamma,—"What is it, my dear?"

Pet,—"If you will give me a paper of sugar plums every day, I won't tell anybody you take your hair out of a drawer.

A gentleman in a reading-room happened to look at a person next to him, who was holding his paper wrong side up. After observing him for some time, said he, "my friend, you've got your paper wrong side up." "Oh!" said he, hardly knowing in his confusion, what reply to make, "I'm left-handed!"

"Neat, but not gaudy," as the devil said when he painted his tail sky-blue.

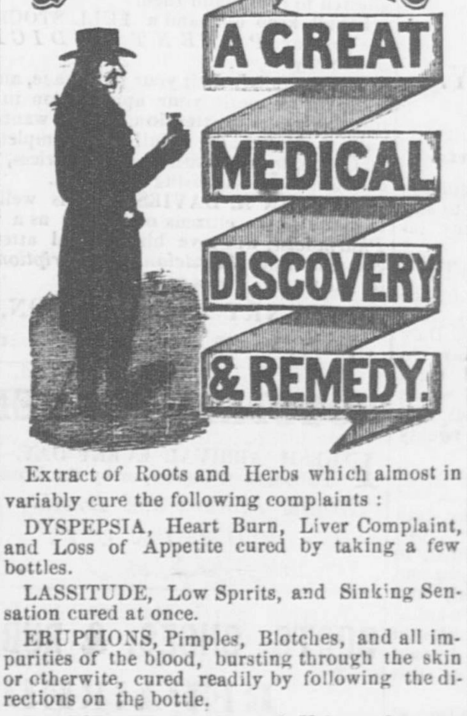
POSTERS Large or Small, printed at short notice, at the Patriot Office.

DR. FLINT'S QUAKER BITTERS



Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwise, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE DIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

THE
Michigan Spring Bed.

WE, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have used the MICHIGAN SPRING BED, for which Thompson & Hitchcock are Proprietors for this County, and after giving said Bed a fair trial, we cheerfully recommend it, as in our opinion, superior to any in market:

Jesse Bunton,	Jos. W. Lombard,
W. Q. Baxter,	G. W. Miles,
Jos. Underwood,	J. E. Hall,
Thaddeus H. Newcomb,	J. H. Morrison,
Samuel T. Allen,	James Newcomb.

The undersigned having purchased the Right for this County to put up and sell the Michigan Spring Bed, of Messrs. Thompson & Hitchcock, is now prepared to furnish all who may give him a call.

I have already taken off numerous kinds of Springs Beds and put mine in their place, to the entire satisfaction of those making the change.

My Ware-Rooms are at

No. 75 Hancock Street,

where all are invited to come and examine the Michigan Spring Bed, which I claim to be superior to any in the country in point of comfort, durability, price, and every other quality which goes to make up a good bed.

Beds put up on Trial—and no one is asked to purchase until after a fair test. Over one thousand of these Beds are sold every week in this State.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN AN IRON TONIC SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Poetry.

The Way of the World.

I leant from out my two-pair back—
The afternoon was mild—
A cab passed by, and on its track
A little dirty child.

Cabby drives calmly through the slush,
With all unconscious mind,
The dirty child comes with a rush,
And clambers up behind.

His mates had look'd with careless eye
On all his efforts vain,
But now he's landed high and dry,
They burn with envious pain.

The driver turns and plies the lash,
The child falls in the dirt,
And in a puddle rolls ker-splash—
I think he must be hurt!

He turns away—that ragged boy,
He's anything but gay;
His little friends they jump for joy,
And go on with their play!

I shook my head despondingly—
"Ah, such is life, I guess?"
A man meets little sympathy
While struggling for success.

And when the back of Fortune's car
He's clutch'd—you'll always find
How ready all his best friends are
To bellow, "Whip behind."

Miscellany.

What a Pretty Little Hand.

I am not a bashful man. Generally speaking, I am fully confident and forward as most of my sex. I dress well, dance well, sing tolerably well; I don't tread on ladies' dresses when I make a bow; and I have not the trick of coloring to the roots of my hair when I am spoken to. Yet, there was one period of my life, when all my merits seemed to my own eyes insignificant, and I felt very modest, not to say bashful. It was when I was in love. Then, I sometimes did not know where to put my hands and feet. Did I mention that in the said hand and feet consisted my greatest beauty? They are both small.

Three years ago, I fell in love. I did not walk into it quietly, weighing my idol's perfections against her defects. I fell in, head and ears, two seconds after the introduction.

"Mr. Hayes, Miss Arnold," said a mutual friend, and lo! I was desperately in love. She was a fairy-like figure, with long brown curls floating over a snowy neck and shoulders, and falling down on the waist of an enchanting sky-blue dress. Her large, dark blue eyes were full of saucy light; yet, oh! how tender and loving they could look.

Of all the provoking, tantalizing little coquette that ever teased the heart out of a poor man, Susy Arnold was the most bewitching. I would pass an evening with her, and go home certain that one more interview would make me the happiest of men; but the next time I met her, a cool nod, and indifferent glance, threw down all my castles. She was very cautious. Not a word did she drop to make me believe that she loved me; and yet her hand would linger in mine, her color rise if I looked my feelings, and her eyes droop, to be raised again in an instant, full of laughing defiance. She declared her intention to be an old maid most emphatically, and in the next sentence would add, "I never did love, but if I should take a fancy to anybody, I should love him dearly! dearly!" Though she would say, carelessly, "I never saw anybody yet worth setting my thoughts upon."

I tried a thousand ways to make her betray some interest in myself. Propose outright, I could not. She had a way, whenever I tried it, of looking in my face with an air of grave attention, of profound interest, that was equivalent in its effect to knocking me down; it took all the breath out of me.

One evening, while there, I was seized with a violent headache. I told her I was subject to such attacks; and the gipsey putting on a grave face, gave me a lecture on the subject of health, winding up with; "The best thing you can do is to get a wife to take care of you, and to keep you from overstudy. I advise you to do it —— if you can get anybody to have you."

"Indeed," I said, rather piqued, "there are only too many. I refrain from a selection for fear of breaking other hearts. How fond all the ladies are of me!" I added, conceitedly, "though I can't see that I am particularly fascinating."

"Neither can I," said Susy, with an air of perfect simplicity.

"Can't you?" said I. "I hoped—hoped ——" Oh! that dreadfully attentive face of hers. "That is, Miss Susy, I thought, perhaps —— Oh! my head! my head!" and I buried my face in the cushion.

"Does it ache so very badly?" she asked tenderly, and she put her cool little hand in among my curls. I felt the thrill her fingers gave me, all the way to the toes of my boots. My head being really very painful, I was obliged to leave; but all the way home the soft cool touch of those little fingers lingered upon my brow.

Soon after this, it became necessary for me to leave home on business. One thing was certain, I could not leave for months, perhaps for years, without some answer from Susy. Dressed in my most faultless costume, and full of hope, I went to Mr. Arnold's. Susy was in the parlor—at the piano—alone! She nodded gaily, as I came in but continued her song. It was "I've something sweet to tell you."

At the words. "I love you! I adore you!" she gave me such a glance. I was ready to prostrate myself; but, sweeping back her curls with laughing defiance, she warbled, "But, I'm talking in my sleep!"

"Then," I cried, "you love me when you sleep! May I think so?"

"O! yes, if you choose; for Rory O'More says that dreams go by contraries, you know."

I sat down beside her. "Ah!" I said, sighing, "Roy's idol dreamt she hated him."

"Yes," said Susy," that was the difference between his case and yours."

We chatted away for a time. At last I began, "Miss Arnold, I came here this evening to tell you that I— I——"

Now she was listening. A bright thought struck me: I would tell her of my journey, and in the emotion she was certain to betray, it would be easy to declare my love.

"Miss Susy," I said, "I am going to Paris to-morrow.

She swept her hands across the keys of the piano in a stormy polka. I tried to see her face, but her curls fell over it. I was prepared to catch her if she fainted, and comfort her if she wept. I listened for the sobs I fancied the music was intended to conceal: but throwing back the curls with a sudden toss, she struck the last chord of the polka, and said, gaily, "Going away?"

"Yes, for some months."

"Dear me, how distressing! Just stop at my linen draper's as you go home, and order me some extra pocket handkerchiefs for this melancholy occasion will you?"

"You do not seem to require them," I said, rather piqued. "I shall stay some months."

"Well, write to "pa," won't you? And if you get married, or die, or anything, let us know."

"I have an offer to be a partner in an English bank in Paris," I said, determined to try her; "and if I accept it, as I have some thought of doing, I shall never return."

Her face did not change. The old saucy look was there, as I spoke; but I noticed that one little hand closed convulsively over her watch chain, and that the other fell upon the keys, making for the first time a discord.

"Going away forever?" she said, with a sad tone, that made my heart throb.

"Miss Susy, I hoped you at least, would miss me, and sorrow in absence."

She opened her eyes with an expression of profound amazement.

"I?"

"Yes, it might change all my plans, if my absence would grieve you."

"Change all your plans."

"Yes, I hoped—thought ——"

Oh! that earnest, grave face. My cheeks burned, my hands and feet seemed to swell and I felt cold chills all over me. I could not go on. I broke down for the third time.

There was an awkward silence. I glanced at Susy. Her eyes resting on my hand which lay on the arm of the sofa. The contrast between the black horse-hair and the flesh seemed to strike her.

"What a pretty little hand."

A brilliant idea passed through my brain.

"You may have it if you will?" I said offering it.

"She took it between her own, and, toying with the fingers, said, "May I?"

"Yes, if—you will give me this one," and I raised her beautiful hand to my lips.

She looked into my face. What she read there I cannot say; but if ever eyes tried to talk, mine did then. Her color rose, the white lids fell over the glorious eyes, and her tiny hand struggled to free itself. Was I fool enough to release it?

What I said, I know not; but I dare say my wife can tell you. Five minutes after my arm encircled the brown dress, the brown curls fell upon my breast, and my lips were in contact with—another pair.

ERRORS.

A newspaper which should be free from typographical errors would be a rare curiosity, and the difficulty of producing one is not realized by outsiders. Some of the mistakes are rather ludicrous. One of our California exchanges brought us news the other day that the Rev. William Morley Puncheon, the eloquent Methodist preacher, would soon arrive there, though the reverend gentleman is far from being a liquor cask. Of texts for sermons we notice that a prominent clergyman selected his text from the 6th chapter of Michael, another from the book of Josiah, and still another from Nicodemus.—Exchange.

Use of a Receipt.

In a city not a thousand miles from this locality, there lives a lawyer, crafty, subtle, and cute as a fox. An Indian of the Choctaw tribe, Kiser by name, owed him some money. The lawyer had waited long for the tin. His patience at last gave way, and he threatened the Indian with a lawsuit, process and execution. The poor Choctaw got scared, and finally brought the money to his creditor. He waited for the lawyer to give him a receipt.

"What are you waiting for?" asked the lawyer.

"Receipt," said the Indian.

"A receipt," said the lawyer, "a receipt! what do you know about a receipt? Tell me the use of one and I will give it to you."

The Indian looked at him a moment and then said:

"S'pose mebbe me die; me go to hebben; me find de gate locked; me see de apostle Peter; he says, 'Kiser, what you want?' He say, you good man? Me say, yes; he say, you pay Mr. A. that money? What me do? I hab no receipt; hab to hunt all over hell to find you."

He got his receipt.—Clarksville Texas Times.

First Introduction of Gas.

It is now sixty-six years since Pall Mall, London, was lighted with gas—the first street of any city so illuminated.—The idea of using carbuertted hydrogen gas for purposes of illumination first occurred to William Murdock, Ayrshire, Scotland.

He made his first experiments in 1792, and six years later he succeeded in lighting up the engineering works of Watts & Boulton, at Birmingham. Murdock was a sagacious man, worthy to associate with Watts. The merit of bringing gas light to London, however, belongs to a German named Winsor. He was an enthusiast, and employed all the arts of quackery and fanaticism to convince the benighted Londoners of the merits of his scheme.

Sir Walter Scott did not believe in this German genius, and actually called him a madman; and even the liberal mind of Sir Humphrey Davy failed to take in the idea that gas was applicable to purposes of lighting houses and streets. Winsor, however, stuck to his business; he won supporters; and one night a long line of streets blazed out in a burst of gas lamps, much to the astonishment and admiration of the citizens. After such a demonstration, the promoters were no longer considered idiots. It is calculated that $100,000,000 are now invested in gas manufactures in Great Britain.

A Voice from Richmond.

We take the following from the Richmond Daily State Journal on "local advertising":

"We had a call on Saturday from Mr. Edward Malley, the merchant-prince of New Haven, Connecticut, who was on his way to Thomasville, North Carolina, with three other gentlemen and a fine pack, of dogs, for a two months' 'hunt' in the Old North State. It is his eighth or tenth annual excursion South for the same manly sport, and we hope his usual 'luck' will attend him, and that he won't forget the 'press' in his liberal donations of game to his many personal friends.

The history of this gentleman is somewhat remarkable, and might be made a suggestive study by some of our leading Richmond merchants. About eighteen years ago he appeared in New Haven, and opened a small 'seven by nine' dry goods store on the principal business street of that city. At that time the heaviest merchant on the street scarcely advertised in the local newspapers to the extent of more than two squares each and then in standing advertisements for the season. Mr. Malley, with a degree of sagacity that no one else had ever dared evince, struck out boldly in the advertising line, engaging a column in each of the three local dailies, with the privilege of changing the same every week, and making his advertisement the most readable part of the newspapers. For this he paid each of the papers at the rate of one thousand dollars a year. The old fogy merchants stood aghast at his hardihood, and everybody predicted that he would 'go up' in less than thirty days; and he did go up in less than that time—to the very height of the mercantile ladder. His store in a few months expanded from a 'seven by nine' room into the occupancy of the whole building in which it was situated, and in less time than a year he was doing the largest business of any merchant in the city. He kept up his 'reckless advertising,' as it was called, and to-day he has a store, built by himself, 260 feet deep, 70 feet wide, and two floors—the largest and most successful mercantile house in New England, outside of Boston. He now pays the local journals not less than five thousand dollars a year for advertising, and yet he frankly confesses that he has made all his money out of the newspapers.

A Darwinian Suggestion.

Max Adeler, in the Boston Courier, remarks: "We are engaged now in developing a scheme for growing kid gloves upon the original animal. Our old friend Darwin teaches us that you can do almost anything with breeds by judicious 'selection;' and we are convinced that, with a little care, it will be possible to produce a beast whose skin, when stripped off, will make a seamless kid glove. Our first experiments are with lizards.—A lizard has four legs and a tail. Now, we believe that eventually the off fore leg can be developed into a thumb, while the three other legs and the tail can be arranged as fingers. We are crossing lizards with short tails with those with long legs; and we are now looking around for a variety of lizards with a button or two on his neck, for the purpose of breeding it in with the others, whose eyes will answer for button-holes. The ultimate result promises to be startling. It will break up the old glove trade, and drive Jouvin to suicide.—Thus it is that human ingenuity advances human civilization."

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

Our Celebration.

The Celebration Committee met at the Selectmen's room on Monday evening, and after hearing the report of the Collector, proceeded to select a sub-committee on music. Messrs. W. B. Wooster, C. P. Tirrell and Albert Keating were chosen to hire a good band, arrange for the evening concert, and attend to all the details of the music department.

The contract for firing the salute was given to James E. Maxim.

Messrs. W. G. A. Pattee and H. Clapp will arrange for the Ball Match.

The other committees, on Fire-works, Children's Entertainment and the Regatta, will be selected at the next meeting.

The Procession Committee have chosen a Marshal, a Poet, and Orator, and have issued a call for a public meeting this evening. All are invited to join, and features whether comic or otherwise, will be given a place is the procession.

There never was so much spirit manifested in Quincy towards a celebration of the Fourth, as is shown this year, and the prospects are that it will be lively and interesting. Instead of our people going away we shall find plenty of amusement at home, and hundreds from the neighboring towns will make us a visit.

The committee at their meetings are pleased to see any one present, as their business is not private, but concerns all interested.

It is expected that a full and complete programme will be published by Saturday the 21st, but if not ready at that time it will appear on the following week.

Let all who have not contributed, do so at once, as the committee are anxious to see the subscription list foot up the needed amount.

Fair! The ladies connected with the Universalist Society of this town, will hold a fair at the Town Hall, on Wednesday and Thursday, the 25th and 26th of June. From what we have been able to learn, a good time may be expected, and a large variety of useful and ornamental articles will be offered for sale.—The proceeds will go toward paying for the new parsonage.

Early Beets. At the recent opening exhibition of the Mass. Horticultural Society on Saturday last, we see that our townsman, John J. Glover, Esq., received a gratuity of two dollars for early Egyptian Beets, raised and exhibited by him. We learn that they were the first and only beets offered for exhibition this season.

Observatory. We learn that Mr. Amos W. Stetson of Braintree, is building at White's rocks, on Penn's hill, in this town, an observatory, about forty feet high. When completed we may expect to see what is being done at Cape Cod, Cape Ann, White Mountains, Mt. Tom, Mt. Holyoke, and in fact all over the country. The rocks are so high that nearly everything can be seen for miles around, and when the observatory is completed we may possibly see Europe.

First Church. The Annual Floral Festival of the Sunday School will be held to-morrow afternoon,—the bell ringing at three o'clock. Baptisms at half past three. Address by Mr. Stephen G. Deblois, of Boston. The Vesper Service will be omitted.

Universalist Church. Floral Sunday will be commenced in this Church to-morrow afternoon,—services beginning at 2 1-2 o'clock. There will be a praise meeting in the evening, at 7 1-2 o'clock. The public are cordially invited.

Music Hath Charms. A highly respectable and appreciative, but not overcrowded audience, assembled at the town hall on Thursday evening to listen to the concert given by the "Hampton Colored Students," of the Normal Institute of Hampton, Va. It proved to be the most interesting and enjoyable vocal musical entertainment that our citizens have listened to for years—it was real music—the "essence of old Virginia"—the rendering of the "rich, passionate impersonations of a people whose natural language is music, and the touching romance of their lives told in their own simple words, unsurpassed by any other people in pathos, humor and interest." The genuine and hearty demonstrations of applause that followed each performance, must have convinced the students that their music gave unbounded satisfaction.

The demand is so great for another concert, that these singers have decided to give another at the town hall on Saturday evening of next week.

☞ Fruit and Flowers for the Boston Hospitals, may be sent on Wednesday afternoon and evening of this week to the house of Mr. James Baxter.

The Adams Academy. We are glad to learn that this school enters upon its second year with every prospect of giving Quincy a high reputation as an academic town. It is favorably known in various parts of the country, and families have already signified an intention of moving into the town in order to use its advantages. An examination for admission will be held on Thursday the tenth of July, commencing at nine o'clock, and applicants are requested to present themselves on that day. It is desired that parents, who propose to offer boys for examination, give previous notice to the Master, from whom may be obtained the conditions required by the Managers for admission to the school. Some account of the plan of education which the Adams Academy is designed to carry out will be found in the July number of "Old and New."—The paper is entitled "A Preparatory School."

Real Estate Sales. George F. Pinkham, sold 15,000 feet of land on the south side of Newport avenue, Wollaston, to David Whittemore, for $2,424.

John A. McDonnell bought 19000 feet of land, on Water street, Quincy, of Chas. Francis Adams, at 5 cts. per foot, $950.

Farrington McIntire, sold 16,000 feet of land on the southwest side of Newport avenue, Wollaston, to George F. Pinkham, for $2400.

Thomas Hollis, sold 2 1-4 acres with buildings, on the southerly side of Adams street, Milton, to Nathaniel H. Beals; also another parcel containing 136 square rods for $20,000.

Eliza and Elizabeth Frye sold 2 1-4 acres with buildings, on the corner of Adams street and Granite Place, Milton, for $10,000.

Columbus Lary sold 18 acres of land on Adams street, lying partly in Quincy and Milton for $2500.

George Wales sold 2 acres of land with buildings in Braintree, to Abbie F. P., wife of George O. Wales. for $10,000.

House Lots. Mr. Samuel Littlefield Jr., has some fine house lots within about five minutes' walk of the depot at East Milton, which he will sell at lower rates than any lots can be purchased in that vicinity. Read his advertisement.

Cottage for Sale. Henry H. Faxon, will sell this afternoon at 4 o'clock a nice cottage house and 10,000 feet of land, at the corner of Sea and Brackett streets.

Also, at the same time and place many articles of household furniture, consisting of bedsteads, bureaus, tables, chairs, mattrasses and a large cook stove.

Large Funeral. Last Monday afternoon, the funeral obsequies of the late I. W. Thayer, took place at the Congregational Church. The church was filled with relatives and friends, many from Braintree and Hyde Park being present. The funeral cortege was one of the largest, for a private one, that we ever witnessed in this town. He was interred in the Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

☞ The Fair in behalf of Christ Church last Wednesday passed off very pleasantly upwards of $700 were realized, and had it not been for the threatening weather, no doubt the receipts would have been still larger as there were many beautiful articles remaining unsold.

Yatching. The first regatta by the Dorchester Yacht Club, for champion prizes, will take place off Commercial Point, this afternoon at 2.15. The prize in each class is to be a gold flag charm. There are to be three races to decide the championship.

☞ Preaching to-morrow at Congregational Church morning and evening.—Sunday School at 12. No service in the afternoon during the summer.

Christ Church. Service to-morrow at the Universalist Church at 11 A. M. Sunday School at the Rectory at 3 P. M.

☞ The attention of the July Celebration Committee is called to a notice in another column.

☞ State Constable Hammond visited G. F. Wilson's yesterday and took three quarter barrels of ale, which we learn Mr. Wilson has had on hand since the first of May.

Beecher. Hundreds of Boston people who have long felt an intense desire to see and hear the acknowledged leader of American divines, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, were gratified Sunday last by his appearance in the pulpit of Park street Church. To say that the church was crowded gives but a faint idea of the crush of humanity which poured into the church, until the latter fairly run over with superabundance. Among the many good things he said on this occasion is the following:—

"I have no such scrimped idea of Christianity as prevails at the present day, but look at the whole universe as Christianity. It is not a handful of doctrines put into a creed, but it includes everything which is good and generous in the universe.

☞ After a short interruption the New England Carpet Co., of Boston, have resumed business, and are offering their immense stock of goods comprising all desirable lines at a great sacrifice.—See advertisement.

District Court of East Norfolk.

MONDAY.

John Norton of North Weymouth was before the Court this morning for being drunk. Pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $3 and cost.

Margaret Donahue, of Randolph, stood at the bar of justice on two complaints, 1st, keeping open shop on the Lord's day; 2d for keeping a liquor nuisance. By her request the cases were continued till Tuesday.

Jared Whiting, of Holbrook, for selling diseased and corrupted beef.

The Judge thinking there was probable cause to believe the defendant guilty ordered him to give securities in the sum of $300 to appear before the Grand Jury, September term of Superior Court.

Charles Blake, a good sized lad of East Braintree, for catching with his hand, five dozen smelts from the Weymouth Smelt Brook. Found guilty and fined $15 and costs.

There was one civil case before the Court this morning that may be of interest to our readers. Mr. Sullivan, who resides on Sea street in this town, complained of Daniel F. Arnold for killing his dog,—a handsome Newfoundland, named Major, and valued at forty dollars. Mr. Arnold, as many of our readers probably know, has a pretty piece of land near Mr. Thompson Baxter's on the west side of Washington street, and spends his entire time in raising early plants, vegetables, &c. He has been considerably troubled this spring with large dogs, sometimes as many as four or five, among his beds, throwing his plants "sky high." This naturally provoked his good nature, and he determined to try and stop their depredations. Accordingly some four weeks ago, soon after light, as he was rising from a quiet night's rest, he saw a drove of dogs and started after them, gun in hand, and when within about forty rods he let drive a charge of shots, but as might be expected, they weren't hurt much. But on the 18th of May, the time Sullivan's dog was shot, he said he did not fire a gun, and was corroborated by the testimony of his two sons. Although one witness said he saw Mr. Arnold going towards his house with a gun, about the time the dog was shot.

The Judge decided the defendant should pay $20 and costs. Mr. Arnold appealed and was required to give securities in the sum of $100 to prosecute the appeal.

TUESDAY.

Daniel Sullivan and Daniel Crowley, two young men of Weymouth, were brought into court this morning for fighting. Found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $20 each with costs; and give surkties in the sum of $100 to keep the peace for one year.

Margaret Donahue, whose case was continued from Thursday last was found guilty on both complaints, and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 and costs for keeping a liquor nuisance, and a fine of $30 and costs for keeping open shop on the Lord's day. She appealed and was ordered to give bonds in the sum of $500 for her appearance before the Superior Court in Dedham on the first Monday of September next.

WEDNESDAY.

William Patterson of Braintree was brought before Judge Bumpus this morning for being a common drunkard. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the House of Correction for two months.

Ellen Barry of Randolph was up for illegally keeping intoxicating liquors.—Pleaded guilty, and it being the first offence, she was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

THURSDAY.

Horatio Cole for assault on Caleb Hayden of Braintree. For want of sufficient evidence he was discharged.

William N. Cushing of Braintree, for being drunk. Fined $3 and cost. Being short of cash he was committed to the House of Correction.

FRIDAY.

Hannah Perkins, of Quincy, the young bride, who found herself minus of a husband, clothes and &c., one day about three months ago, while traveling on her wedding tour in Vermont,—her "better half" having vamosed to part unknown,—was brought into court for illegally selling intoxicating liquors. Found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Wm. Hayes and Richard Welch, two young gents of Weymouth, for breaking and disturbing the peace. Case continued till Saturday morning.

☞ Philadelphia ranks first among the manufacturing cities of the Union. It contains 8,339 manufacturing establishments, employing a capital in machinery alone of $200,000,000.

☞ Statistics of crime show that in England and this country women are more inclined than men to repeat their offences. The average of female committals is nearly twice that of male.—Thus, while one hundred males went to prison one hundred and eighty-two times, the same number of women were committed three hundred and forty-six times.—This shows that while the offences of women are generally less heinous than those of men, their reformation is more hopeless.

☞ Two Yankee ladies are piling up fortunes by the exercise of their inventive and business genius. One has refused $50,000 for the patent of a new paper-bag, and another has patented a new self-fastening button, which needs no button-hole. This last invention will be hailed by suffering, buttonless male humanity with gratification, and the buttons will be eagerly sought for.

One hundred miles of wooden railway are in operation near Quebec.

The Legislature of 1873.

The General Court finished its labors the present week, after one of the longest sessions on record. The amount of business transacted has been unusually large. The attempt to increase the pay of members, which was fixed in 1871, at $750 for the session, was defeated by the House.

We give below a summary of some of its principal acts.

THE HOOSAC TUNNEL.

This most important measure of the session, after much discussion, was disposed of, substituting the Hayes bill, which provides for the completion of the Tunnel and its approaches at a cost of $200,000.

ANNEXATION TO BOSTON.

Bills were passed for the annexation of four municipalities, with an aggregate population, according to the census of 1873, of 48,623, and which must now be considerably over 50,000. These places are the city of Charlestown, and the towns of Brookline, West Roxbury and Brighton. Two municipalities are thus taken from Norfolk County and two from Middlesex.

NEW CITIES.

Three cities were incorporated. Newton, Gloucester, and Holyoke,—thus increasing the number of cities in the Commonwealth from sixteen to nineteen.

EDUCATIONAL LEGISLATION.

Twenty-five thousand dollars were appropriated for Professor Agassiz's Museum of Comparative Zoology.

A grant of a lot of land on the Back Bay was made to the Institute of Technology, on which to erect a building for the departments of chemistry and engineering.

The friends of industrial art-education desired $15,000 for the establishment of a school, but received only $7,500.

An appropriation of $36,000 for an addition to the State Normal School at Bridgewater was made. The truant system has been revived, and its control has been placed in the hands of the school committee instead of the criminal officers of cities and towns.

A bill was passed making attendance at the public schools compulsory.

Among the matters which failed of a passage was the order relative to forbidding the reading of the Bible in the public schools.

LIQUOR LEGISLATION.

Liquor legislation was very prolific, and the prohibitionists came out victorious. The beer law, giving cities and towns the right to vote on the question of allowing the sale of ale, porter and lager beer, was repealed, thus abolishing the local option as applied to the sale of malt liquors. The advertisement of seized liquors was done away with. The salary of the police commissioners was raised from $500 to $800 a year.

STATE PRISON.

There was some important prison legislation. During the year the question of removing the State prison from Charlestown had been agitated, the location being unhealthy and the site valuable for business purposes. A bill was therefore passed for the purchase of a site elsewhere and the erection of a new prison at a cost of a million dollars.

LUNATIC HOSPITALS.

Six hundred and fifty thousand dollars was appropriated for the erection of a new lunatic asylum, either in Essex or Middlesex counties, for the benefit of both Suffolk and the afore-mentioned counties.

The enlargement of the Taunton lunatic hospital by the addition of two new wings at a cost of $125,000 was authorized. The committee on charitable institutions in their report on this subject states that the number of the insane is increasing so rapidly that when these additions are built, and the new Worcester asylum and the new asylum in the northeastern part of the State are built, the accommodations will still be insufficient,

MILITARY AFFAIRS.

The chief work of the Committee on military affairs, was the reorganizing of the militia, and the subject was taken hold of in earnest, the bill of 80 pages reported, passing through five committees and both branches without material change in any of its principal features. The bill makes radical changes in the laws and provides for a thorough reorganization of the militia. The force is reduced to 5000; men are to enlist for three years; exempts members of the militia from jury duty, uniforms the men at the State's expense, and in other ways assures a well organized and disciplined force of citizen soldiers. All other laws on this subject are codified. A resolve for an additional appropriation for the purchase of a State camp ground for the militia was passed, and a tract of land at Framingham was purchased. All encampments of the militia are hereafter to be held there.

AGRICULTURAL.

In accordance with the recommendation of the secretary of the State board of agriculture, a bill was reported providing for the appointment of an inspector of commercial fertilizers. The bill was strongly opposed by manufacturers of doubtful articles, but it was successful. A bill was passed requiring that all cans in which milk is sold by wholesale dealers shall be of a uniform size and hold eight quarts.

SPECIAL ACT OF INCORPORATION.

The Boston Land and Wharf Improvement Company has been incorporated.—The territory intended to improve for commercial and other purposes is located in Ward 16, on the borders of Dorchester Bay, between South Boston and the Neponset River.

BRIDGES.

Bridges are authorized to be constructed across the Connecticut River between Springfield and Agawam, across the Neponset River between Squantum in Quincy to Boston, and across the Merrimac River between Haverhill and Bradford.

INTERESTING TO TOWNS.

Towns will find in the laws of the present year some important changes, some of which will augment to a considerable degree the expense of carrying on their governments. Assessors and school committees have their per diem pay raised from a dollar and a half a day to two dollars and a half, the provision that the towns may pay still more being retained. Clerks and registrars are to receive fifty cents for obtaining and returning the facts relating to births, but a place of more than 10,000 inhabitants may limit the aggregate compensation; and the fees of sextons and undertakers, etc., for return of deaths are raised from ten cents to twenty-five cents. Towns and cities are authorized to vote that on all taxes unpaid at a certain time, interest not exceeding one per cent. a month may be added; and after another certain time an additional one per cent. a month, the interest to be added to the tax. Road commissioners are hereafter to have the powers of selectmen in relation to streets, ways, bridges, monuments, guideposts, shade trees, sidewalks, sewers and drains, and moving buildings. County commissioners are hereafter allowed to assess the expense of relocating highways upon abuttors, as well as on the town or county or the petitioners for re-location; there is also a statute relating to the management of lock-ups, providing for the annual appointment of keepers in places now required to keep lock-ups the keepers to have the powers of policemen, and towns now by law required to keep lock-ups are subject to penalty for neglect, and also for neglect to appoint keepers. Cities and town are authorized to establish hospitals for the temporarily sick who may require relief, with power to appoint "trustees and all other officers, agents and servants necessary." The amount to be paid for the support of a pauper by a town liable for such support, to a town which actually supports such pauper, is raised from $1 to $2 a week.

A Beautiful Sight. No one who wishes to see one of the most novel and picturesque sights ever seen in Boston should fail to visit the flower show in the tent on the Common, and thus encourage the Horticultural Society to make the things as much an institution here as it is in England. The rhododendrons in the exhibition are now in full bloom, and the effect is marvellously and indescribably beautiful.

Summary of News.

The legislature adjourned sine die at 6.30 P. M. on Thursday, having passed 378 acts and 66 resolves.

The sugar crop at Jamacia is reported heavier than during any former season,

The young lady pupils of Prof. Agassiz have given him $4,050.

It is reliably stated that 9,000,000 wooden tobacco pipes are annually made in this country.

A three-year-old colt was lately sold at Ticonderoga, New York State, for $7,500.

Louisiana expects this season to have the largest sugar crop since the memorable harvest of 1850.

There are in the United States, according to recent statistics, 65,000 miles of railroad and 75,000 miles of telegraph line.

In the neighborhood of London, recently, three horses were sold for $135,000. The least valuable of the trio brought $30,000.

The value of the silk raised annually in the United States is from thirty to forty million dollars.

The legislature on Thursday allowed the district court bill to fail by a disagreement in the house.

A piece of land near Spring Valley, Minn., has sunk four feet below its former level, this spring.

Some five hundred horses have been purchased this spring in Champaign county, Ill., by Eastern buyers.

Newton is the first town in the State to adopt the fire-alarm telegraph system.

Fall River is to have a free delivery of letters.

Southern papers are offering a year's subscription for the biggest watermelon.

Over 150,000 young salmon have been placed in the Penobscot river, and 130,000 in the Androscoggin.

Short-hand writers can get seven hundred words on a postal card.

The will of a Westchester, Pa. woman written on a slate, has been admitted to probate.

Low heels are to supplant the high on fashionably-built shoes.

Some envious fellow says it has been ascertained that three out of every five matches made at Saratoga go to the courts for a divorce.

Thirty-six million postal cards have been ordered, but only twelve millions thus far have been furnished.

An old lady of eighty years and a little girl of eleven were baptised in Dr. Lorimer's church Boston, last Sabbath.

Thirty thousand people visited Concord, N. H., last week to witness the inauguration of Governor Straw.

The Boston papers estimate the amount of money paid to the lobby of the Massachusetts Legislature this year at $100,000.

As six is to one, so are potato-bugs to potatoes in Kentucky, according to the papers.

Base Ball.

The Actives, of this town, will play a game of ball with the King Philips, of Boston, at Quincy Point, this afternoon, at two and a half o'clock.

Scientific observation has made it apparent, that the base-ball fever is "catching" in its nature. The epidemic appears to be quite rife in Quincy.

BOSTON, June 11, 1873.

Editor of Quincy Patriot:

DEAR SIR: — On reading your paper of June 7th, I see that you are rather hard on the "Modoc" B. B. Club for not appearing. As I am Secretary of that organization, I would like to have justice done through the columns of your paper, if it would not put you any to inconvenience. We received NO challenge whatever from the Actives. The clerk of the King Philip B. B. C. said something to the effect of "playing decoration day." We never take a verbal challenge, but always a written one; and as for our "numerous defeats," I would state we have played seven games this season, winning five and losing two. When the Actives have played seven MATCH games and can show as good a record, we are ready to congratulate them. As for being afraid of them, I state publicly that on Tuesday, the 17th of June, we intend to meet them, and then play, not words will decide the victors.

I do not write this to have an ill feeling between the Clubs, but only to justify our "red Modoc" title.

If you will publish this in your columns you will greatly oblige us,

Yours, sincerely,
EDW. F. HALL,
Secretary M. B. B. C.

Better Market Facilities in Boston.

Several weeks ago a number of gentlemen, doing business in the vicinity of Faneuil Hall and Quincy markets, appeared before the committee having charge of those institutions and advocated the adoption of some course which would relieve the streets of market wagons and thereby prevent interference with their business. Subsequently the India and Central wharf corporation offered the committee the new made land between the old lines of their respective wharves, covering an area of about two acres, and forming a square between Atlantic avenue and India street. The property was offered free to the city for two years, and as this is an excellent location the offer was accepted.

About thirty thousand feet of the territory have been planked and a plank driveway built from India street. The platform is marked off for the accommodation of one hundred team stands, and outside of the platform there is ample room for wagons to be driven up and loaded. For the present it is not proposed to make a charge for these stands, but a number of marketmen have already offered to pay a stated sum per year for the privilege of occupying one stand permanently. The vegetable dealers say they can now bring into market a larger and better assortment of fruit and vegetables than heretofore and will be able to sell a good deal cheaper, as a better opportunity will be afforded for displaying their stock. The hours assigned for sale at the new market place are from 12 o'clock at noon to 6 o'clock in the evening. This new market place was opened on Tuesday last for the first time.

Destructive Fire at Hyde Park.

At about 1 o'clock, on the morning of the 6th inst., fire was discovered in the picker room of the Hyde Park Woolen Mill. The firemen were promptly on hand, but in spite of all efforts, the fire soon communicated itself to the main building which caused an alarm to be struck in Boston for aid, and six steamers were quickly forwarded. The oily nature of the contents of the building made the progress of the fire very rapid, and soon the roof fell in, and all hopes of saving any portion of the building were abandoned. Nearly all of the looms and machinery on the lower floor are uninjured, except by water. The loss is estimated at $400,000, and the building and material inside of the yard were insured for that amount. A large number of companies had risks on the property. Three hundred and fifty persons are thrown out of employment by this calamity. The cause of the fire is not known, but it is attributed to spontaneous combustion.

STOKES' CASE. The Court of Appeals, by a unanimous opinion, have granted a new trial to Stokes, the murderer of Jim Fisk. The news is unfavorably received. The general belief is that this decision has saved the prisoner from the gallows he greatly deserved.

MORTUARY. Hon. Edward P. Tileston, for many years a member of the honored and successful firm of Tileston & Hollingsworth, paper manufacturers, died at his residence in Dorchester on Saturday evening. Mr. Tileston was born in Dorchester on the 11th of August 1805. The house with which he was connected was established by his father in 1800. Deceased was a member of the council of Governor Briggs.

☞ Rumney, N. H., has recently formed a town insurance company, and will begin operations in a few days. It is stated that within twenty years the citizens of the town have paid in premiums and assessments about $23,800, and have received in return only about $3,000.—They propose hereafter to insure their own property.

☞ A mail carrier in Nebraska was lately shot in nine places by Indians, but escaped by falling in with a party of friendly Cheyennes. He was chased for nine miles, and had to be lifted out of his wagon when rescued.

THE ADDRESS ONLY. The Postmaster-General has issued an order suppressing the circulation, in the mails, of newspapers having any writing on them except the full address. Initials on the corner, or the words "one paper," are unlawful, and will be sufficient reason for keeping such matter out of the mails.

POSTAGE STAMPS. After the first of July new postage stamps will be used bearing profiles and colors as follows;—One-cent, Franklin, blue; two-cent, Jackson, brown; three-cent, Washington, green; six-cent, Lincoln, red; seven-cent, Stanton, vermillion; ten-cent, Jefferson, chocolate; twelve-cent, Clay, purple; fifteen-cent, Webster, orange; thirty-cent, Hamilton, black; ninety-cent, Perry, carmine.

☞ The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne have reached the height of 230 feet. The construction of the spires, which are to bring the total height up to 600 feet, will be commenced. Six years more are required for terminating the work.

Wollaston Heights.

Dr. Cornell, in his excellent monthly publication, Pastor and People, speaks thus flatteringly of our new village:—

"We visited Wollaston Heights to-day, (May 16,) and reconnoitered the territory; and this gives us an opportunity to correct an error published of this place in our last issue. It was then stated that seventy-five houses had been built here since the company commenced operation two years since. We understand it is three years since the first blow was struck, and, instead of 75 houses, 190 have been erected during this time. It is wonderful to see the progress that has been made here. From either of the three hills, that rise successively, as far as the eye can reach, fine looking houses have arisen, as by magic, and the operations are still going forward: The trees are coming forth and in a short time, this will be one of the thickest settlements around Boston, as it is now one of the most sightly and flourishing. With this correction, we repeat our former advice to all who are seeking a suburban residence—visit these HEIGHTS before you make up your mind where you will go."

For the Patriot.

State Constables on the Rampage.

State Constable Furnald, assisted by Porter and Whittaker, made the following seizures of "hard stuff," June 5th, 6th, 7th, 9th, 10th and 11th insts., viz:—About 3 gallons whiskey from Winfield McGoorty; barrel of ale and 3 gallons whiskey and gin from Thomas Dailey; barrel of ale and 2 casks lager beer from Antoine Snyderham; 47 bottles ale from Vincent & Hathaway's beer wagon; lot of ale and whiskey from Ann Hennisy; the above seizures in Ward 16, Boston.

204 bottles of ale from Moses Fairbanks & Co's. wagon at Hyde Park, and about 300 gallons of various kinds of liquors from the grocery of J. C. Talbot of Milton.

There is no doubt that if the whole force of State Officers would only be as zealous in their work as the above officers, the liquor interest would have no occasion to grumble; for it is well known that many of those representing the interest of the rumsellers of the Commonwealth have clamored because the law was not enforced. There is evidence that the liquor interests of Quincy have found out that Officer Furnald has been assigned by the chief of State Police Capt. Boynton, to Ward 16, Boston.

JUSTICE.

ARRIVALS. Schooner Satterthwaite from Philadelphia with 350 tons of Lyken's valley coal. Also, the Schooner E. H. Wheaton, 360 tons of white ash, chestnut and stone coal for D. H. Bills.

A man was arrested in St. Louis last week for a murder committed thirteen years ago.

Deaths.

In Quincy, June 6th, James H., son of Mrs. Eliza A. and the late James H. Gould, aged 1 month and 21 days.

June 8th, Nathaniel, son of Mr. Nathaniel and Mrs. Agnes Carter, aged 3 days.

June 11th, Mr. David Rideout, aged 69 years and 2 months.

June 11th, Mr. Gilbert Blaisdell, aged 57 years, 5 months and 10 days.

Funeral services this afternoon at 2 o'clock, from his late residence.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of every organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.
July 27. 1y

☞ A Pittsfield dog and a Berkshire woodchuck recently met in a clover field and, as is usual at such meetings of antagonistic principals, a battle followed.—They were equally matched in size and grit, and the fight was long and furious, and it became evident that whichever won must employ strategy. The dog was first to discover and employ it. By super-canine efforts he dragged his adversary to a small brook near the battle field and plunged him in, holding him there until the woodchuck was obliged to succumb, leaving the dog master of the situation.

BEECHER A UNIVERSALIST. The Universalist can now claim Henry Ward Beecher as one of their pillars. His last Sunday's sermon contained pure, unadulterated Universalist doctrines.—His next somersault is looked for with much interest.—Boston Daily News.

☞ Several years since, a lady purchased a ticket good from Portland to a point on the Grand Trunk Road, and remained over a few days on the route. She resumed her trip, but was refused passage on the ground that the ticket was good only for the day it was dated. A suit was brought against the road, and the Supreme Court decided that a railroad ticket is good for six years in Maine, if not used before the end of that time.

☞ The centenary of the first Methodist ecclesiastic convention held in America is to be celebrated by the Methodists of Philadelphia next July, commencing on Sunday, the 13th, and continuing three days.

☞ Miss Alice Johnson, an attractive young woman started a barber shop in a Kansas town the other day. All the wives in town seemed moved by a common impulse to present their husbands with some little love token. By a remarkable coincidence they all selected razors and brushes and mugs.

Improvements.

Whichever way we turn our eyes,
We see improvement has been made;
Each seeking by some new device
To cast all others in the shade;
In commerce and mechanics too,
Great changes a few years do show;

Dist. Court of the United States.
District of Massachusetts—In Bankruptcy.
THIS is to give notice that a petition was presented to the Court, on the nineteenth day of May, 1873, by William Gillard of Quincy and William A. Gillard of Natick, copartners as
WILLIAM GILLARD & CO.,
Bankrupts, praying that they may be decreed to have a full discharge from all their debts provable under the Bankrupt Act; and, upon reading said petition, it is ordered by the Court, that a hearing be had upon the same, on the seventeenth day of June, A. D. 1873, before the Court in Boston, in said District, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that the second and third meetings of the creditors of said bankrupt be held before SAMUEL B. NOYES, Esquire, Register, at his Office, No. 96 Washington St., Boston, June thirteenth, 1873, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that notice thereof be published in the Quincy Patriot, and Daily Evening Traveller, newspapers printed in said District, once a week for three weeks; and that all creditors who have proved their debts, and other persons in interest, may appear at said time and place, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted.
EDWARD DEXTER,
Clerk of the District Court for said District.

Poetry.

For the Quincy Patriot.

Rhap-Soda,

(Written under the influence of Small Beer.)

BY QUAD.

Summer is come! and in her train
Flows, flies, flits, blows,
Both beer, bats, bugs and breezes.
Myriads of living things now fill the air;
Some lighting up the sky,
Some lighting on your nose.
Old Sol, now having reached his topmost height,
With melting eye, looks down
On new lump-butter.

Music is everywhere;
In tree, in hedge-row, and the babbling stream:
The Squantum Gabriel blows his sheet-iron horn,
Proclaiming to the lovers of fried fish,
That "mackerels is come!"
And Ole Bull-frog, the Braham of the brook,
Doth pour forth dulcet notes
Riv'ling the viol's twang,
Though rosin'd well with care.

Oh, Summer! thy delights are rich and rare,
Made up in bundles of exquisite taste—
Thy lobster-salads, and Phil Carver's creams;
Thy fragrant juleps, and the ginger-pop—
Creates within the poet's breast a flame,
Whose pent-up power he cannot well restrain.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Curing Grasses.

Views in relation to curing grasses into hay, are just as wide as they are in relation to the time of cutting. Some persons insist that three days of fair weather is none too much in which to change into hay; that grass should be cut when the dew is on it, be stirred during the middle of the day, cocked before the dew is on it in the afternoon, opened at about ten o'clock the second day, cocked again at night, and the third day slightly opened and got in immediately after dinner.

These views are not common, but are still maintained by some persons. Another plan, and one which is gaining new converts every year, is the practice of—

Cutting the grass in clear weather, and housing it immediately, or, at most, after two or three hours' exposure. We have not seen this done, nor should we like to risk a crop in this way; and yet the evidence is entirely convincing that it is done every season, with a perfect success. One of our best farmers states to us that he saw fifty tons of excellent old hay in a barn, in July, where the proprietor was then putting about two tons a day that was cut only an hour or two before! The owner stated that the fifty tons of old hay then in the barn was harvested in the same manner.

At nearly all the large agricultural meetings in New England during the last year, gentlemen have stated in positive terms that they practice this mode of getting their grass, and with a perfect success. We do not urge the adoption of the practice. If tried, let it be in the smallest way, at first, consistent with the principles involved in the plan.

In all the various modes, there is a happy medium which may be observed with safety.

In a clear day, and when there is a gentle breeze, grass may be cut in the morning, and by constant attention in turning and shaking it up lightly, be found in a suitable condition to be taken to the barn by three or four o'clock in the afternoon. These opportunities, however, would probably be rare.

Another mode, and one which is practiced more than all others, is to cut the grass in the morning, shake it out by tedder or by hand once or twice before two o'clock, and cock it while warm.—After the dew is off the next morning, shake it open so that it will lay up lightly, without spreading it much, and as soon after one o'clock as possible get it in.

By adopting this course, no doubt need be left upon the mind as regards the keeping of the hay; it will remain sweet and nutritious, and the stock will give ample evidence of the skill exercised in preserving the crop.

The above remarks do not relate to the clover crop. It is possible that our "green grass" friends may be able to preserve it by their rapid system. But in the usual practices of making hay, clover requires a treatment quite unlike that of the grasses.—New England Farmer.

Anecdotes.

In a debating society out West, the parties engaged in a controversy became hot, and addressed each other instead of the chair. The gavel, like on all such occasions, was used in vain. But at last, when the parties called one another a fool, dunce, numbscull, &c., the chairman's stentorian voice was overheard with:—"Gentlemen, I forbid such language to one another; you must address yourselves to the chair." After a roaring laugh, order was restored.

The general servant of a Parisian gentleman entered, "like Niobe, all tears," his wife's chamber, sobbing, "Oh, madam! oh, madam!"

"What is the matter, Francoise?"

"Madam, I have stuck a fork into my finger."

"Oh, that's nothing, Francoise; you will not feel it to-morrow."

"I should not be afraid, madame, if I knew the fork was silver."

"You may, then, be perfectly easy; the fork is; all our forks are silver."

"Oh! then I don't feel alarmed; but I was dreadfully frightened, for I tho't the fork was plated."

The next day Francoise disappeared, taking all the forks with her.

Having a bill against a man in a Kennebec town, we sent a letter of inquiry to a newspaper man of that locality. The reply was, "He is dead; but he pays just as well as he ever did."

PRESCRIPTIONS.

QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the

Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No. 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

DR. FLINT'S QUAKER BITTERS

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwite, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side aud Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

The Adams Academy.

We copy the concluding paragraph of Mr. Quincy's notice of the Adams Academy in the July number of "Old and New." It recognizes the creditable manner in which the Academy has been sustained by the people of this town to whom President Adams entrusted its control.

"The object of this paper is not to give undue importance to the establishment of a single school of very limited capacity. It is rather to suggest the demand that exists throughout the country for academies of a similar or an improved character. Our people will sustain them upon one condition. They must be public institutions. I do not mean that no fees should be charged.—On the contrary, the expense of such schools must be far greater than any ordinary endowments can meet; and on every account it is best that those who are able to do so should pay some portion of the cost of the education of their children. But the great schools of our nation should never be controlled by close corporation of trustees bound to carry out, for all time, the possibly silly whims of a dead man. John Adams wisely left the direction of his classical academy in the power of the living generation of men who shall vote in his native town. And the result has proved his foresight.—When the school was opened, his townsmen came forward in their private capacities, and guaranteed generous aid to his endowment fund. It is to private liberality that we owe the new dormitory which promises to be of so much advantage to the school. The assistance that has been offered to the academy by leading citizens of Quincy who were neither classical scholars, nor had children to educate, is a most interesting circumstance. It shows that sensible people realize that college cant and anti-college cant are equally absurd. There is no first or last about the matter. We want different educations for different boys.—The wise farmer will feed his grains upon phosphates, and his potatoes upon potash and salt. But a bushel of early-rose potatoes is as important in its way as a bushel of wheat; and a good potato is certainly much better than a blasted ear of corn. The Adams Academy can hope to supply only a very small portion of the demand which exists for "classical schools of the highest order." Its greatest usefulness may be inducing other communities to equal or surpass it."

A SAD MISTAKE. An old lady, but little acquainted with the ways of the world, went into one of the drug stores in East Bridgeport the other day and asked for a dose of castor oil, at the same time inquiring the best method of taking it. The proprietor informed her that soda water was one of the best methods known to the profession, and the old lady appeared satisfied with the information. Supposing, of course, that she desired to take the dose herself, he prepared it by putting the oil in a tumbler and filling it with soda from one of the most approved fountains, and then handing her the glass, she drank it with a zest that showed that she liked it. After drinking, she quietly took a seat by the counter and waited.—The proprietor, noticing that she continued her stay a long time, inquired what more he could do for her. "I'm waiting for me dose of ile," she replied. "Why," said he, "you have taken that in the soda water already." "Oh! dear," sure "the ile wasn't for me, it was for somebody else."

TAKING CARE OF HIMSELF. A negro minister, who married rather sooner after the death of his wife than some of the sisters thought proper and becoming, excused himself as follows;—"My dear brethren and sisters, my grief was greater than I could bear. I turned every way for peace and comfort but none came.—I searched the Scriptures from Ginsee to Riverlation, and found plenty of promises to the widder, but nary one to the widderer. And so I took it that the good Lord didn't waste sympathy on a man when it was in his power to comfort himself; and having a first rate chance to marry in the Lord I did so, and would do so again. Besides brethen, I consider that poor Patsey was just as dead as she would ever be."

BE CAREFUL. In these days, when tight hats, hot air, and sedentary occupations cause the hair to fall out, it is a matter of no little importance to know which of the hair preparations are of any value. The majority, as has been frequently proved by the first dermatologists, or hair-doctors, possess little or no merit. Such being the fact, it is consoling to those who are afflicted to know there is really one good article, which is recomended and used by the first medical authority, and has stood every test many years. This preparation is Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer,—a truly scientific compound, which is unquestionably the best preparation of the kind now before the American public. It will restore to gray hair its original color, cleanse the head thoroughly, cure all eruption of the scalp; and will always restore the hair so long as any germs remain, as they almost invariably do, until extreme old age has destroyed the roots. The original article is made by R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

Forney's Press, Jan. 25, 1868.

The Fall River apothecaries have been notified by the state constables that they must stop the sale of cigars, confectionery, soda and mineral water on Sunday, or take the consequences.

YACHTING. On Saturday last, the second regatta of the Dorchester Yacht Club took place. The weather was all that could be desired, and a large number of Yachts contested for the prizes.

Among the entries were the "Rocket," Capt. Bass, and the "Dolphin" Capt. Turner, of this town. The "Rocket" (the winner of the prize at the former regatta) was fouled soon after starting by the "Rob Roy," a yacht of the same class, but for this unfortunate occurence, she would undoubtedly have won the race, as she was but one minute behind the "Bessie," the winning yacht.

The next regatta of the club will take place on the afternoon of June 30th.

HOSE 1 ON THE WAVE. On Tuesday last, the members of the W. M. French Hose Co. No. 1, of this town, with a few friends, participated in their fifth annual fishing excursion, leaving Quincy Point about 7 1-2 o'clock, A. M., in the sloop "Starlight," Capt. Burr. A good breeze and the skilful management of Capt. Burr, soon brought them to the fishing grounds near Minot's Ledge, where an hour or two was spent in playing with the finny tribe, after which the sails were hoisted and the balance of the day spent in visiting the principal places of interest in the harbor.

HARPER'S MONTHLY. The July number of this magazine opens with a timely paper, entitled "Jack Ashore," with many illustrations, showing the influence and temptations that surround sailors while in the great cities of our metropolis, this is followed by an illustrated article, on National Standards and Emblems. Its series of illustrated papers descriptive of General Sherman's recent tour in Europe and the East, is begun in this number. The editoral departments are as usual excellent. For sale at Souther's Periodical store.

THE HORSE DISEASE. An historical paper on the horse disease racently prepared by Dr. Judson of N. Y., shows that it first appeared at Toronto, September 30, 1872, and spread in a month all over the Northwestern States, in 81 days to St. Louis, in 89 to Galveston, and 200 to San Francisco. It took 34 days to compass the unsettled space between Galveston and Brownsville, and the only places where it has not appeared on the continent are at Key West and Prince Edwards Island.

Deaths.

In this town, June 15th, Lizzie E., daughter of Thomas W. and Helen M. Lincoln, aged 14 years, 2 mos. 7 days.

"Peacefully at sunset,
At the close of the holy day,
God sent an angel earthward
And called our child away.
Beloved Christ forgive us,
Sometime our hearts may say,
Thy will be done, oh, Father,
But our lips refuse to-day."

June 18th, Capt. Lewis Bass, aged 78 years. Funeral this after noon at 2 1-2 o'clock. from his late residence.—Friends and relatives are invited to attend without further notice.

June 16th, Mr. George Veazie, aged 82 years and 10 months.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of eveny organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Sold by Druggists generally.

QUICK WORK IF TRUE. An exchange contains the following: "The manufacture of rails by a new system, which does away with manual labor to a great extent is to be carried on in a railmill, which is now being erected at Louisville, Kentucky, at a cost of $500,000. In the process of making the rail, the iron passes through thirteen sets of rolls, without a halt, and is turned over five times for side-rolling. The iron is taken from the heating-furnace, and transformed into a rail in half a minute.

Improvements.

Whichever way we turn our eyes,
We see improvement has been made;
Each seeking by some new device
To cast all others in the shade;
In commerce and mechanics too,

— AND —
Pharmaceutical Preparations,
OF ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND AMERICAN MANUFACTURE.

I shall keep on hand at all times an assortment of such

FANCY GOODS,

as are usually to be found in an Apothecary Store. My intention is to keep as near the strictly Drug and Medicine trade as possible—in short to be known as a FIRST CLASS

DRUG, MEDICINE, AND
Prescription Store.

I would call particular attention to my manner of dispensing PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS, none but competent Pharmacists being allowed to compound them.

I shall keep on hand a FULL STOCK of all the popular PATENT MEDICINES of the day.

I respectfully solicit your patronage, and shall endeavor to merit your approbation in the future by a strict attention to the wants of my patrons, by keeping a Full and Complete Stock of Goods, by the fairness of my prices, and by carefulness in dispensing medicines.

Mr. JOHN A. DAVIES, who is well known to many of the citizens of Quincy as a reliable Pharmacist, will give his personal attention to compounding Physicians' Prescriptions, DAY OR NIGHT. Yours respectfully,

That he never was so tired
That he wished to go to bed.
Though he scarcely can hold up
His drowsy little head,
Yet this very foolish boy
Cannot bear to go to bed.

When the big, golden sun
Has laid down to sleep;
When the lambs every one
Are lying by the sheep;
When underneath its wing
Every chick tucks its head,
Still this odd little boy
Does not like to go to bed.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Overwork.

Overwork causes considerable ill health in farming communities. Very many farmers, in their efforts to avoid idleness, which they consider a sin and a shame, go to the other extreme and lose both health and happiness thereby. While industry tends to health, *over*work breaks down the constitution and shortens life. It injures both the body and mind, and if long continued results either in death or premature old age. For this sin, and sin it is to overwork, there is not nearly the excuse on the part of farmers which there was twenty years ago. Now one has machines to take, in a great degree, the place of hand labor, and the farmer who will use them need not break down his health by working took hard. But it is not the farmer who is most liable to overwork. The farmer's wife is generally the greatest sufferer. Every day in the year, Sundays not excepted, she has much to do. Often there is as much required of her as two women ought to perform. As the result of her overwork, health is lost, and she either dies long before her time or lives only to suffer the penalties of the law she has transgressed. For this course there is no justification. This killing himself and his wife, which so many farmers do, for the sake of laying up a few dollars which they never expect to use, and which they cannot carry with them when they die, is a miserable speculation as far as profit and loss are concerned, and a sinful, shameful thing for any man to do.—Working Farmer.

Thinning Grapes.

We think it a matter of the utmost importance that early attention be given to thinning the fruit on the vine. It gives larger bunches and berries, and aids greatly in equalizing the product. Some wonder what is gained in thinning, if the same weight of fruit is produced may or may not be the case as the thinning is performed; but supposing that two bunches are grown instead of three, as would be the case if not thinned, all the facts in nature show that the vital functions are exhausted to the greatest extent in perfecting the seed, and if a third of this exhaustion is prevented, even if much juice and pulp is formed, it economizes the vitality of the vine.

ROSE INSECTS. If any one is desirous of keeping their rose bushes free from the small green vermin that frequently infest them, the following remedy will be found a most effectual one: To three gallons of soft water add one peck of soot and one quart of unslacked lime; stir it well, let it stand for twenty-four hours and when the soot rises to the surface, skim it off. Use a syringe for applying it.

☞ Dr. Nichols, in his Journal of Chemistry, says corn fodder, from broadcast sowing, or close drills, is comparatively worthless, while that grown in hills or wide apart he thinks valuable.

Anecdotes.

An old lady called at a country post-office the other day, and asked, "Is there a letter for John Jones, if ye please, sur?"

There being several persons of that name in town, and a letter for one of them, the clerk asked if this John Jones was in business? The innocent answered, "No, sure; he's in jail."

A Bennington man who celebrated the Fourth rather too freely, managed to get home and attend to his "chores" after a fashion. While he kept perpendicular he could carry his load — as soon as he laid down it wouldn't stay. To his wife's questions as to what ailed him, he replied:

"Milk, wife, milk; that's what's the matter; drinked too much warm, and it's soured on me."

"Oh, yes," said the lady, "that story is all right, but that smell is rum."

"Then the cussed old cow's probably been cel'brat'n' in'pen'ence day," said the inebriate.

A young lady was alighting from an omnibus, when a ribbon fell from her bonnet to the floor of the stage.

"You have left your bow behind," remarked a lady passenger.

"No I haven't he's gone a fishing," replied the damsel.

A child dining out with its mother was asked at dessert by the lady of the house if she would have some rhubarb-pie.

"No, ma'am," she replied, "I don't think I need it."

A young gent was singing, "Why am I so weak and weary?" when a little sister responded:

"Because you came home late and was not sober last night. He forgot the rest of the song.

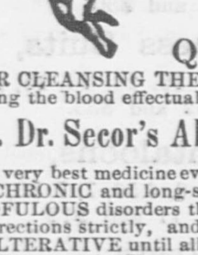
Mrs. Dr. Secor's PRESCRIPTIONS.



QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the

Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

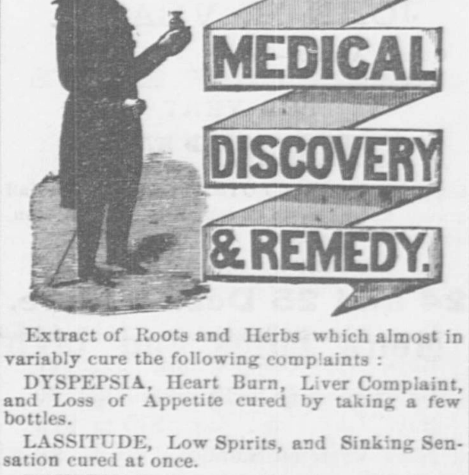
Poster Printing.

POSTERS Large or Small, printed at short notice, at the Patriot Office.



Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwite, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side aud Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Poetry.

JUNE.

BY MIRIAM EARL.

Hail thee June! queen month of roses,
Every fragrant bud uncloses,
  Shows its fresh heart to the light,
Sunbeams kiss it, dews caress it
  All the quiet summer night.

Balmy south wind comes and tarries,
Luscious, tempting, coy strawberries
  Hide amid their glossy green;
Blue skies hover glad earth over,
  Wild birds sail and sing between.

Perfumes float from spicy far-lands,
Forest monarchs lift their garlands,
  Hymning one unending strain:—
Praise the Giver, praise Him ever,
  June is in the field again!

Branches, drooping over water,
Filled with young birds' song and flutter,
  Shelter violets darkly blue;
No heat finds them, no light blinds them,
  Always cool and moist with dew.

Robin tries the cherries' flavor,
Shouting in a joyous quaver
  They are growing sweet and good.
Lilac flowers fall in showers,
  Scattering scent like sandalwood.

Bees kiss close the honey clover,
Mourning dove calls for her lover
  Insects flitter in the sun,
Grain gets yellow, small fruits mellow,
  Purple shadows haunt the plum.

Revel earth in thy completeness,
Drink, oh soul, thy fill of sweetness,
  Dearest things die all too soon,
Worlds keep turning, sunsets burning,
  Thirty days are all of June.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

PORK CAKE. One pound pork chopped fine, 1 pound raisins, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1 of sweet milk, I teaspoon soda, 2 of cream tartar, all kinds spice; bake 1 hour. This cake is very nice using 1 cup coffee instead of milk, and dried apples soaked and chopped instead of raisins.

COOKIES. Three eggs; two cups of sugar; one cup of butter; one-half cup sweet milk; one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the milk. Make them hard enough to roll.

CORNS. Tie a piece of raw cotton to the corn; and wet it several times a day with spirits of turpentine. This will in three days cure the corn without the least apparent pain.

☞ A darkey in Natchez, Miss., was boasting to a grocer of the cheapness of ten pounds of sugar he had bought at a rival store. "Let me weigh the package," said the grocer. The darkey assented, and it was found two pounds short. The colored gentleman looked perplexed for a moment, and then said, "Guess he didn't cheat dis chile much, for while he was gettin' the sugar, I stole two pair of shoes."

☞ A toper got so much on his stomach the other day that said organ repelled the load. As he leaned against the lamp-post vomiting, a little dog happened to stop by him, whereupon he indulged in this soliloquy: "Well, now, here's a conundrum, I know where I ate the baked beans, I remember where I ate that lobster, I recollect where I got that rum, but I'm hanged if I can recall where I ate that little yallar dog."

☞ An individual living near Royal Oak called on the Detroit chief of police last week, to ascertain if Detroit was going to celebrate the Fourth of July. He was very anxious to find out, because, as he expleined, "If you are going to sling powder and have a whooping old Fourth July, I want to get a red woollen shirt and a new pair of boots, and come in with Sarah."

☞ Capt. Semmes, the ex-Confederate pirate, was in Newburyport last week and attended a wedding. While there he met the owners of several vessels which he captured during the rebellion, but they refused an introduction.

☞ Profanity never did any man the least good. No man is richer, or happier, or wiser for it. It commends no one to society. It is disgusting to the refined and abominable to the good.

☞ Devote each day to the object then in time, and every evening will find something done.

☞ A New Orleans colored boy got a jackstone in his throat, and was relieved by a doctor who took him by the heels and shook it out of him. This is a new method of healing.

☞ Mrs. Jenkins complained in the evening that the turkey she had eaten didn't set well. "Probably," said Jenkins, "it was not a hen turkey. "He got a glass of water in his face.

☞ A little boy being asked in court what they do with persons who swear to a lie, said:—"They make policemen out of them."

☞ A man who had a scolding wife, being asked what he did for a living, replied that he "kept a hot-house."

Miscellany.

The Widow Wood.

I don't say Brother Ben's widow was'nt good looking for her age and size. Then too, she had a pretty penny left her.—And she might have married well if she wanted to change her condition; but, you see Margaret Ann was a fool—she was a widow of forty, to set her cap for young Sam Spencer, who was only twenty-four! If I was her brother-in-law, and if Ben had said to me as he did, "Richard, always be kind to Margaret Ann," I couldn't help seeing that. The fact of the matter is, that, as a general. thing, widows do make fools of themselves oftener than girls.

In this case I admit the age was the only obstacle. Sam was a good young man, above selling himself to a woman old enough to be his mother, for her money bags. Sam was a clerk in the store.—I was poor Ben's partner. I'd tried to buy the widow out. I'd said over and over again, Margaret Ann, you have plenty and to spare; why not retire?" But you see she wouldn't. Ben had left his share of the furniture to her, and she wouldn't drop it, After a while I found out the reason. It was Sam Spencer.

That is why she liked to sail about the store in her dead black silk; that was why she was always finding some excuse to hand down that part of the stock he had in hand, mixing every thing up and giving him no end of trouble.

You see I couldn't help it. The concern paid, and Widow Wood owned just as I did. If I said "Margaret Ann, go home," she could have said, "I've a right here." That was it. She never waited on a customer. She never did anything but bother and pry. She had no children to occupy her, and she brought her white poodle along with her. "So lonesome," she said she was, in the big house opposite; and that was why she had us come to tea so much of late.

Well, this went on for nearly a year. Big eyes at Sam, sweet smiles, soft speeches! I used to wonder whether old Ben knew how soon he had been forgotten. To be sure he was sixty when he died, a bald-headed, stoop-shouldered man, with solemn ways about him; but she'd been his wife for twenty-three years, aud though I'm a bachelor, I know what feelings ought to be. And Ben was my brother, too. I hope it wasn't wicked of me to make up my mind to put an end to her capers, as far as Sam went, and tell him that we wanted a young lady, as cashier, and why not? and if Lilly Rathbone could leave Grigg & Grater, I'd give her the place. Sam was in love with Lilly, I knew that, but Margaret Ann had not seen her.

"Margaret Ann," said I one day, "we will have a new cashier to-day. We need one, and I have engaged one."

"Well," said Margaret Ann, "perhaps we do. I hope he's a nice young man and good looking. Good looks attract custom."

"I am glad you coincide with me," says I, and laughed to myself, for I knew Margaret Ann was thinking of somebody else to flirt with. But I said nothing.

It was fun to see her face change when she saw Lilly behind the counter next day. And she gave it to me in the private office I can tell you. She hated females about a store, and she didn't like Lill's looks. I could laugh at her, however, there. I had good references with Lilly, and signed a written agreement with her for six months. She was to be cashier, you know, as I told you. Margaret Ann couldn't help herself, and I suppose she knew it, for she said nothing after that, and Sam and Lilly were as happy as young birds. I believe he proposed to her behind my counter I knew he did it somewhere, and I knew he was accepted.

"Lord bless you," said I to myself, "and help you to build your nest." I'm not crusty if I am a bachelor.

A few days after I found Margaret Ann in the office in a towering rage, with her face flaming.

"Richard," say she, "a woman is always right about another woman. Men admire a pretty face, so that they are always blinded by it. It was always so with Mr. Wood. Many a time he's thought a woman everything that was splendid until I've proved that she wasn't by telling him things. Now I've found out about your Lilly Rathbone. She exactly what I thought—exactly."

"Well, what is it? says I.

"No better than, than she should be," says Margaret Ann. "I saw her kiss Sam Spencer behind the counter this morning."

"And he didn't want her to I suppose, and hollered for help?" says I.

"You know what men are," says she, "of course he kissed her back."

"Didn't he kiss her first?" says I.

"Well, she let him, anyhow," says she.

"Well," says I, "suppose you used to kiss Ben after you were engaged, if not before?"

"What has that to do with it?" says she. "Why they—at least—did he propose her coming here, Richard?"

"No," said I, "but they are engaged, Margaret Ann."

"Don't believe it," says she.

"It's gospel truth," says I.

And then—well I didn't mind it, it didn't hurt me a bit—but then that woman turned around and slapped me in the face she was so hopping mad.

"Such actions in a respectable store! You depraved brute!" says she; and marched out and didn't come back for a week, for which I was truly thankful.

When she did come she was all smiles and amiability; and she talked to Lilly and smiled at Sam, and she really did come out beautifully, considering. Lilly took a great notion to her.

"What a nice, pleasant lady Mrs. Wood is," she said, as we were folding things up that night; "and so pretty for her age. I think she is splendid."

"Glad to hear it."

"Dear me!" she said, with her head under the counter.

"Sister-in-law, you know," said I; one of the family; it won't do to praise her too much."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking of what you were saying," said she. "I'm surprised about my key. "I'm sure I hung it here. A little brass door-key with a nick in handle and a piece of pink ribbon tied to it. I can't think where it is gone."

"Well, we both looked everywhere. We unrolled packages and peeped into boxes, and poked down cracks in the floor, Lilly kept worrying about getting a locksmith to fit another before she could get in, and said Rosa was always tired.

Rosa was her sister. The two were orphans, and kept house together in one little room of respectable tenement house.

"I've alway had tea ready before Rosa got in, said Lilly,' "but to-night she will have to wait."

It's odd how we remember little things sometimes. Perhaps the girl's pretty, puzzled face and graceful motions as she ran about looking for her key, impressed this one on my mind. At all events we did not find the notched key tied with pink ribbon, and Lilly went without it. I told Margaret Ann about it when I saw her next, and she enquired very politely of Lilly as to the end of the affair when she next saw her. The key was never found, but Lilly said she had two made, so that such a thing could never happen again. She could keep one and Rosa the other.

"And as I presume it was lost here, you must have the value of it from us," said Margaret Ann. "It's not much, but it's just." And that I thought very kind of the Widow Wood, considering.

Well, time passed on, and one day was about like the other. Winter went and Summer came. People began to go to the country, and trade was dull. And Sam told me that he and Lilly were going to be married soon—God willing.

I had just left Sam when Margaret Ann's colored girl stepped across the street and told me her mistress wanted to see me.

Of course I went over. And when I got into the back parlor I found Margaret Ann wrapped up in a shawl, her eyes red with crying.

"Anything happened?" says I.

"Yes," says she, "I'm afraid so. Oh I'm so sorry!"

"Dear me! Do mention the fact," says I.

"Well," says she, "I can hardly bear to; but — who has a chance to the safe besides you and me?"

"Nobody but Lilly Rathbone," says I.

"You are sure?" says she.

"Why, of course," says I.

"Ah, well!" says she, "perhaps there is another way out of it. Maybe you've had occasion to use that money of mine. I mean the thousand dollar bank note that I put in there in a red pocket-book last week."

"No," said I. "Of course I'd spoken of it. It was your private money."

"Its gone, Richard," said she. "You saw me lock it into the safe to-day?"

"Yes," said I.

"Well," says she, "it was gone then. I couldn't bring myself to speak of it.—You see a gal like that has so many temptations; going to marry, and all.—Richard, promise me you won't have her arrested, or anything, if it is her."

"It's not!" I cried. "Besides it was your money. You would be the prosecutor for any thief."

"Dear me, yes," says she, "and I'll let her go; but I must get it back, and she must leave the store."

"How can you think so ill of the girl," said I. "Why don't you suspect me? I'm ever so much more of a doubtful character than she is."

"You are my brother-in-law," said Margaret Ann. "Now listen to reason.—Come to the store with me and we'll search. If we don't find it, I shall charge she don't confess, get a search warrant for her rooms. I'll be very kind, but I can't lose a sum like that."

She cried again. I did really feel that she was in great trouble. We went to the store again and searched the safe, but the money was gone. Margaret Ann had the number in her pocket-book. It was easy to identify, and besides the poor girl was in a suspicious position, and I said if she should prove guilty my faith in human nature was gone."

"Mine too," said Margaret Ann. "I had come to like her so. And then poor Sam."

I went home to tea with my sister-in-law, but we had not much appetite. She promised not to come to the store until the closing hour, and to be very merciful and to give the girl every chance.

And so we parted. I arose to say good night, and came around the table to shake hands with Margaret Ann, when, being a clumsy old bachelor, not used to women's fixins, my coat caught in a little wickerwork sewing basket, on long spider legs, and overset it. Out tumbled cotton, buttons and tape, and I stooped down to pick them up, when among them I saw a key, with a nick in it and a long piece of pink ribbon tied to the handle. It was a very little thing, but it made my blood run cold.

If that was the key Lilly had lost, what was it doing there? I didn't dare to look at my sister-in-law. And I walked the floor all night; but by morning my mind was made up.

At nine o'clock I met that boy and girl at the store, and told them I should be gone all the day. In ten minutes more I stole Lilly's key from under the counter and went to the house—to her little room on the third floor, and entered it like a thief. It was very poor and very bare, but very neat and clean; and there was a closet in it, with a few dresses hanging upon pegs, and a bonnet box on a shelf.

Into this closet I went, and there I sat down on an old trunk and waited. I heard a queer old clock ticking in the room. I heard it count the hours, ten, eleven, twelve. And I kept saying to myself:

"If you are a wicked, suspicious old Richard Wood Lord forgive you."

But I waited still, and just as the long, black hands pointed at half-past one, I heard such a knock as my sister-in-law always gave at the office door.

I drew my closet door tight, and put my eyes at a crevice in it.

There was another knock—a pause; and then I heard the key turn in the lock, and saw the door open and my sister-in-law come in. She looked about her, shut the door, relocked it and stole across the room. Then — God forgive the woman; I suppose she was mad with jealousy—she lifted up the mattress of the neat little bed in the corner, and taking a red pocket-book thrust it under, pulling the quilt well down about the bed afterward.

I hardly think you'll marry Sam Spencer after all, Miss Lilly," she said aloud, with a wicked toss of her head. "I've outwitted you."

"Not quite," said I. "Margaret Ann, there are two words to that matter."

I walked out of my closet and stood with my back to the outer door. She knew herself trapped, but her wicked tongue had its way still.

"So you're in the habit of coming here!" she said. "Nice young lady, certainly."

"I never came here before," said I, "and you know it; but I've been here all day waiting for you. I saw Lilly's key in your basket last night, and I began to guess the truth. Bring me that pocket-book."

Margaret Ann did it. She was as pale as death and almost as cold. I looked at her and felt sorry for her after all.

"You're my brother's widow." I said, "and a poor foolish jealous creature.—I haven't told any one of my suspicions yet, and I never will on two conditions."

"Name them," said she: "I cannot help myself."

"You'll retire from the business," said I.

"Glad to do it," said she.

"And you'll give that thousand dollar note to Lilly as a wedding present."

She looked at me and gave a great gulp. "Nasty little cat!" she said, "I won't."

But she did, and only I ever knew why the Widow Wood was so generous to Lilly Rathbone on her wedding day, or why she started for Europe on the very next steamer that sailed from New York and still remains there.

A Blackguard Story.

"Now, gentlemen," said a peripatetic lecturer to a somewhat noisy crowd who had gathered to one of his seances in an eastern village, "how would you like a good blackguard story? All in favor will raise their hands." Nine-tenths of Lilly with the theft to-morrow, and if the dexter paws present instantly went up, and there was a sudden hush of all noisy demonstrations. The lecturer went on with his original subject for a few moments, when some incautious individuals broke out with—"Say, where's that story?" "Bless you," was the reply, "I did not intend to tell you any such story. I only wanted to know how many blackguards are present." You might have heard a pin drop any time during the lecture, after that.

Coming to the Point.

A gentleman once wrote to a lady whom he had offended by his dilatoriness, and who for a long time had refused to speak to him. His letter was earnest in supplications for forgiveness. It concluded thus;—

"One word from your lips will make me happy. When and where will you speak it?"

Her laconic answer was;—

"Next Wednesday, at the altar."

To which he sent the following equally laconic reply;—

"I will be there."

The Lobster.

When a lobster shakes hands with you, you always know when it takes hold, and are exceedingly pleased when it gets done. They have small features, and lay no claims to good looks. When they locomote they resemble a small boy shuffling off in his father's boots. They are backward, very. They even go ahead backward. They occasionally have a row like people, and in their melee lose a member, but have the faculty of growing out another. The process is patented both in this country and Europe, which accounts for not coming into general use with the human lobster, so to speak.

A lobster never comes on shore unless he is carried by force. They are afflicted with but one disease, and that is boils.—There is more real excitement in harpooning a whale or in having the measles than there is in catching lobsters. The fisherman provides himself with a small hencoop, and places in it for enticers several dead fish. He then rows his and sinks his coop to the bottom, and anchors it to a small buoy (from eight to ten years will do,) and then goes home. When he feels like it again—say in the course of a week or so,—he goes back and pulls his poultry-house, and if he has good success he will find the game inside the coop.

As an article of food, the real goodness of the lobster is in the pith. Very few persons relish the skin, and physicians say it is hard to digest. We therefore take the lobster and boil it until it is ready to eat. Nothing is better for colic than boiled lobster. It will bring on a case when cucumbers have failed. For a sudden case we advise them crumbled in milk. Eaten at the right time, and in proper quantities, lobster stands second to no fruit known.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Good-Bye.

It is a hard word to speak. Some may laugh that it should be, but let them. Icy hearts are never kind. It is a word that has choked many in utterance, and started many a tear. The hand is clasped, the word spoken, we part and are out on the ocean of time; we go, to meet again—where? God only knows. It may be soon, it may be never! Take care that your good-bye be not a cold one—it may be the last you can give. Ere you meet again, Death's cold hand may have closed his eyes and chained his lips forever. Ah! he may have died thinking you loved him not. Again it may be a long separation. Friends crowd on and give you their hands.

How you detect in each good-by, the love that lingers there; and how you may bear with you the memory of those parting words many, many days. We must often separate. Tear not yourself away with careless boldness that defies all love, but make your last words linger—give your heart full utterance—and if tears fall, what of it? Tears are not unmanly.

A Boy's Business.

It exactly suits the temperament of a real boy to be very busy about nothing. If the power, for instance, that is expended in play by a boy between the ages of eight and fourteen, could be applied to some industry, we should see wonderful results. But a boy is like a galvanic battery that is not in connection with anything. He generates electricity, and plays it off into the air with the most reckless prodigality. And I, for one wouldn't have it otherwise. It is as much a boy's business to play off his energies into space, as it is for a flower to blow, or a cat-bird to sing snatches of tunes of all the other birds.

TO ADVERTISERS.

We would invite all advertisers and correspondents to bring in their favors by Wednesday of next week, without fail, Friday being the fourth of July we shall put the Patriot to press on Thursday to give all hands a chance to participate in the pleasures of the day.

The Editorial Excursion.

In company with one hundred and thirty ladies and gentlemen,—members of the Mass. Press Association, we left the Fitchburg depot, in Boston, at 7 1-2 o'clock, on the morning of the 17th inst., to indulge in a little recreation; it being the fourth annual summer excursion by the Press Association.

The morning was delightful and the party full of life and mirth, from anticipations of the many joys and pleasures in store for them.

After a pleasant ride of fifty miles we reached Fitchburg,—a thrifty city, about two hours' ride from Boston. Only a short stop was made here, and we were again soon on the move by a special train over the Vermont and Massachusetts, Troy and Greenfield railroads for the Hoosac Tunnel accompanied by the Fitchburg Band.

Along the route we passed many pretty villages, picnic groves and rich farms that looked very attractive. Some of the farmers were sowing, others hoeing, and a few had commenced haying in earnest. The crops generally appeared backward, and from the looks of the streams and brooks, showers had been few and light. Corn in many instances was but three or four inches high.

At Turner's Fall we stopped and witnessed the process of grinding wood into pulp, and then seeing it pass along over rollers, and finally delivered in thick sheets, which we learned were sent to paper mills, and ground with rags,—about half and half,—and made into paper, similar to that used by the New York Herald and other cheap daily newspapers.

After a long ride of seven hours,—traveling about 140 miles,—we arrived at the Hoosac House, tired and hungry, having had nothing to eat since early breakfast. After a wash and a little fixing of the toilet we were invited to take our seats at the tables. From the scarcity of food, or the incompetency of the waiters, we rose from the tables about three o'clock not over and above pleased with our dinner. Perhaps the party [illegible] was too large for the house, but [illegible] certainly the dinner was too small for [illegible] of the party.

After leaving the tables we took carriages for the [illegible] mile distant, and there spent an hour or more. We found the tunnel damp, dark, wet and smoky; and but a few of the party had any desire to enter but a few rods.

We then took stages and had a pleasant ride of nine miles over the mountains to North Adams. Just before we commenced to descend, we had one of the finest sights to be witnessed anywhere in Old Massachusetts. Hundreds of feet below us, in a lovely green valley, filled with handsome residences and pretty shade trees, lay North Adams,—a more beautiful stereoscopic view we never saw.

We were landed at the Ballou House, one of the largest and handsomest in the place, and were much pleased to find everything in good taste,—the waiters obliging and attentive, and the tables well provided with the fat of the land.

In the evening the party had a fine gathering at the Arnold House. Many excellent speeches were made and a jolly pleasant time was had. After the social gathering, a short business meeting was held, then all were pleased to retire, being somewhat fatigued from the day's journey.

Early the next morning, we were up bright and early, and most of the party after breakfast visited Sampson's large shoe manufactory, and saw the Chinese at work. Mr. Sampson employs 111, and we must say we never saw a pleasanter, happier, or more industrious set of men in any workshop in this country.

Their cook and dining rooms were very neat, and in fact all parts of the building. They keep but two holidays during the year, and are very economical and temperate. We learned that they had each laid up over $700; or collectively over $77,000 since they came to this country three years ago.

We left about 8 A. M., for Troy, passing out of the northwest corner of Massachusetts into Vermont, and then into New York State; finding vegetation there about the same as in the western part of the Old Bay state. The distance was about fifty miles and the route quite pleasant at this season of the year. Many large fields of clover were just in blossom, and the air was rich from their perfume.

Arriving at the Troy House we partook of an excellent dinner, served in good taste by attentive waiters; and after two or three hours spent in sight seeing, &c., we were again started on the rail for Glen's Falls,—a delightful village about fifteen miles north of Saratoga.

At this point we left the cars and took coaches for Caldwell, a small village at the head of Lake George. As we passed through Glen's Falls a large number of the citizens were in the square, and a a brass band discoursed sweet music, while from a handsome fountain, leaped beautiful jets of water, attracting the attention of all.

The ride from this place was delightful,—ten coaches, four horses to each, with as gay a party as you may seldom see. The coaches, were well loaded, outside and in, but the road was very level and delightful,—planked the whole distance,—nine miles. We arrived at Fort William Henry Hotel about sunset; completing our second day's excursion. A more lovely spot, or a prettier public house is seldom seen. Music was provided and in a large, splendid parlor all had an opportunity to enjoy a social dance, but few indulged.

The next morning we embarked for a sail through Lake George,—and a more delightful one we never witnessed.—Language is inadequate for us to give a description. We hope however, that all our readers may at no distant date enjoy a sail on this charming lake, the most beautiful on this continent.

Arriving at Ticonderoga we took the coaches for a three miles' ride, (and it was the longest three mile ride we ever had) to Lake Champlain. Here we had an hour or more to rest ourselves, and visit the ruins of the old fort Ticonderoga, where Col. Ethan Allen made his name noted by capturing it from the English in the name of the "Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress."

We next took the steamer Vermont and sailed to Burlington; it was a delightful trip, but the scenery was not so enchanting as along Lake George.—We arrived in season for an early supper at the Van Ness House,—the newest and finest hotel in the place.

The landlord was very courteous and obliging and endeavored to make our stay pleasant. In the first part of the evening the Queen City Cornet Band serenaded the party; the last part was enlivened by speeches, toasts, poems, songs, etc., by members of the press and others.

Burlington is one of the finest places in Vermont. The splendid residences on the side of the hill, overlooking the lake are truly magnificent. It is destined to become large and beautiful city, from present indications. It is already the second lumber market in the country.

Leaving Burlington the next morning, we took the steamer for Whitehall, and went from there by rail to Saratoga. Arriving about 7 P. M., we wended our way to Congress Hall, the largest hotel in America, and one of the very best in Saratoga, where we found an excellent supper.—We visited several of the springs, but not relishing the mineral taste of the water we were satisfied with a few swallows although some of the party drank quite freely. In the evening a complimentary ball was given us in grand style by the Saratogians, but time and room will not permit of a description.

The next morning we took a special train for Albany where we [illegible] embarked on the Daniel Drew for a sail down the Hudson to New York. The day was pleasant and the sail delightful, and 7 P. M. found us at the St. Nicholas Hotel, on Broadway, New York, which we found to be one of the best public houses we had ever visited.

After a stop of two days in Gotham we came home by the way of Fall River, much pleased with the trip, and with many thanks to the officers of the Association, for the pleasures enjoyed.

A HANDSOME PRIZE. Mr. Wm. Gardner Prescott of this town, took the first prize of $20 at the Massachusetts Horticultural Exhibition in Boston, the present week, for the four best varieties of strawberries,—two quarts of each.

FATAL ACCIDENT. A brakeman on the West Quincy branch railroad, named James R. Kelch, was instantly killed near the depot in that place, on Monday last. It is supposed that he was thrown from the cars as they were starting, and some twenty of them passed over him, mangling him in a shocking manner. He was a resident of Milton Lower Mills, and was about 18 years of age.

THE FAIR. The Fair held at the Town Hall, the present week, by the Universalist Society, has given good satisfaction to all interested in the work.—The tables were all well loaded with articles and the attendance, considering the extreme hot and dry weather, was quite large. Mr. Willian J. Vinal, who resides on Quincy Avenue, took the first prize of a handsome piano, valued at $500, Mr. Wm. H. Jones took the next, a handsome music box, valued at $100.

The Society has been very successful with the parsonage they built last season. With the money subscribed by the members of the parish at that time, together with liberal donations, before and at the fair, and with the sale of articles and tickets at the gathering the present week, the society will be able to pay in full, the whole cost of the parsonage, — about $4000.

RECEIVED DIPLOMAS. Among the graduates of Harvard College, on Wednesday last, on whom the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred, was two young gentlemen from this vicinity; Mr. Joseph Maurice Sheahan, of this town and Mr. Lemuel Hollingsworth Babcock, of Milton.

FIRE IN THE WOODS. A large fire has been devastating the woods in Wareham, South Carver and Plymouth for the past week, and although every means known in the power of man, have been used to stay its progress, it seems to bid defiance to man, and the drouth seems to furnish fresh food for the fiery element.

THE ESCAPE OF WAGNER. The Isle of Shoals murderer escaped from jail in Alfred, Maine, on Wednesday night.

REGATTA.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

In order to better accommodate our citizens who may wish to witness the Regatta on the afternoon of July 4th, the committee have hired, for that day, the old Farm House at Houghs Neck, known as the "Willow House," from the grounds of which a good view can be had, and they propose engaging some suitable persons to furnish Refreshments, Ice Cream, Lemonade and perhaps a chowder.

As the place is not this season kept as a public house, but will be entirely under the control of the Regatta Committee, ladies and gentlemen can be assured that no disorderly conduct or intoxicating liquors will be allowed on the premises.

District Court of East Norfolk.

MONDAY.

J. Bradley of Braintree for being drunk. Found guilty and fined $3 and costs.

TUESDAY.

Patrick Shehan of Quincy arrested by Sheriff French, for making threats, of violence on one of the ladies occupying a tenement under the same roof with him. The Court ordered him to recognize in the sum of $200 for his appearance one fortnight from to-day, and to keep the peace.

Charles T. Hatch, of South Weymouth, was up before Judge Bumpus on two complaints,—being present at games of billiards on Saturday evenings. Pleaded guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $5 and costs on each.

THURSDAY.

James Carrigan of East Braintree was fined $5 and cost for being drunk. For non-payment of fine and costs he was carried to the House of Correction for 30 days.

JUVENILE OFFENDERS.

Eugene B. Sullivan and Joseph Flood minors were sent to the House of the Angel Guardian for larceny of money in the Boston Flax Mills at East Braintree.

Thomas McFaun, a minor was fined $15.35 for assault and battery.

Three other boys from Weymouth for the same offence were discharged.

John Shaw and three other boys, were arrested for assault and battery at East Braintree. Their case was continued in order that other boys concerned who were not arrested, should be tried at the same time.

SEVENTY YEARS AGO. Mr. Thomas Kettell, a smart, pleasant looking gentleman with long, flowing white hair, residing at Railway Village, called at our office on Thursday and handed us the following item, relating to travel between Boston and England in his young days. He will please accept our thanks for the favor.

"M[illegible] PER CENT

"More than seventy years ago but three ships sailed from Boston to England, every Spring and Fall. The ship President for London, and the Liverpool Packet for Liverpool, owned by Samuel Smith, a merchant on Long Wharf, and the Ship Galen for Liverpool, owned by [illegible] a dealer in drugs and paints in Dock Square.

Mr Smith did not employ a clerk, but collected his freight bills himself."

During his long and useful life of ninety-one years, he has lived to see great changes in time and mode of travelling. In those days he said it took about six months to cross the Atlantic, now we have steamers crossing in eight and ten days, and can learn any important fact by telegram in a few hours.

QUICK WORK. We learn that the building being fixed in the Square by Dr. French for the Post Office is nearly completed. Messrs. Bailey & Baxter have pushed the carpenter's work forward so rapidly that they think by Monday next Postmaster Bass can move his boxes, &c., to the new stand. The room is very large, and cannot be otherwise than convenient and satisfactory to our citizens. Mr. French will continue to occupy the building,—and being up one flight nearer heaven cannot help making prettier teeth than ever; and as his work could never be surpassed for durability and good fits, he may expect a big rush of business after he gets settled.

THE WEATHER. We are having a long spell of dry, but pleasant weather, having had only a few sprinkles for some weeks. One or two uncomfortable hot days are all that we have had so far, and as the nights and mornings have been very comfortable we have had little cause to complain of the heat. Vegetation begins to look yellow and scorched, for want of rain, and the grass crop will be very light. This dry spell of weather seems to extend all over the eastern states.—We hope soon to be blessed with copious showers, which will cool the parched earth and start vegetation into new life. In this town there has been considerable sickness the past month. Some cases of Typhoid fever are prevailing thus early this season.

The farmers are busily haying. Some have nearly or quite finished cutting their first crop, which is quite light and there is very little prospect of a second. Indications are that hay will be scarce and high this fall.

For the Patriot.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE. The Congregational Church in East Milton, has recently been reopened. For the past few weeks, an unusual interest has been manifested in the services.

Rev. Hilary Bygrave lately from England, has been secured as acting Pastor; he is proving himself a preacher of rare ability, and the society may well be congratulated on their good fortune. Sabbath services are held at 10 A. M. and 6 P. M., to which all are cordially invited.

OUR NATION'S BIRTH DAY!

Its Observance in Quincy.

The Committee chosen to perfect the arrangements for the celebration of the

"GLORIOUS FOURTH,"

have attended to the various duties and trust the festivities will be brought to such a happy conclusion that all our people will be entirely satisfied, and ready in the future as in the past, to sustain a well ordered celebration.

In selecting the Fire-works, which to many is the chief feature, the Committee have avoided large set pieces, not caring to take the risk of their total destruction in case of a shower or damp weather. The exhibition will give satisfaction, and in case of rain it will be saved for some future evening.

PROGRAMME.

The Bells of the Churches will be rung and a National Salute fired at sunrise, noon, and sunset.

Comic Procession.

At six o'clock the features of the Procession will assemble on the new road leading from the Poor House to Greenleaf Street. Head Quarters at junction of Greenleaf and Putnam Streets, and at preceded by the WEYMOUTH BAND, will march over the following route:—

SEVEN O'CLOCK,

Greenleaf to Hancock, down Hancock to Bridge, Bridge to Adams, to foot of Baxter's Hill, countermarching to Hancock, to School, to Franklin, to Water, thence to Pleasant, to Quincy, to Marsh, to School, down School to Franklin, to Water, to Quincy Avenue, to Elm, down Elm to Union, to Edwards, to Washington, to Temple, to Hancock, then passing in review, the members will enter the Lyceum Room, partake of a COLLATION, and then enter the Hall to take part in the exercises.

Staff will assemble at Head-Quarters at 4 1-2 o'clock.

Exercises in the Hall.

The doors of the Hall will be opened upon the arrival of the column, to admit ladies and gentlemen. Seats will be reserved for the members of the procession, who in the mean time have entered the Lyceum Room.

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

1. Song—"We meet while bells are ringing."
2. Poem—(Humorous.)
3. Song and full Chorus.
4. Oration—(Humorous.)
5. "America"—With full Band and Piano accompaniment.

The words for the first two songs have been written for this occasion by Earl Marble, Esq., and will be printed with the hall programme.

Regattas.

A Sailing and a Rowing Regatta will [illegible] place at Three o'clock, P. M., on the "Willow House," Hough's Neck.

Messrs. Holden, Pierce and Newcomb are the Committee. All persons wishing to enter boats will apply to them on or before Thursday, July 3d.

JUDGES.—J. T. Penniman, Charles H Porter, Joseph Glover.

Base Ball.

A Game of Base Ball will be played between the Actives of Quincy, and the Resolutes of Chelsea, at Three o'clock, on the Grounds at Quincy Point.

The Children's Entertainment

Will take place in the Town Hall, beginning at half-past Two, and will consist of Vocal and Instrumental Music.

Character Songs, by Frank Edwards.

Comic Sketches, by Percy Wallin.

Decorations.

The Committee trust that all citizens, particularly those living on the route of the Procession, will display flags and mottos. They would also ask all to send refreshments to the Lyceum Room on the afternoon of the 3d, (Thursday.)—These refreshments are for those who join in the Procession, and will be served in the Lyceum Room just after the march is over, and immediately before the exercises in the hall.

EVENING CONCERT,

AND

FIRE WORKS.

Soon after sunset, the Band will be stationed near the Fire-Works Ground, on land of Mr. Carey, rear of Quincy Adams Depot, and give the Evening Concert of National and Popular Airs.

At dusk the Display of Rockets, Shells, Batteries of heavy calibre, will begin, and, interspersed with Set Pieces, will continue until ten o'clock, concluding with Brilliant Illumination, bringing to view a tall Staff, and to the peak our Flag is hoisted amid the ringing of bells, and a salvo of artillery—a fitting termination of the day's festivities.

Per order.

SPECIAL NOTICE. The Constables of Quincy, are hereby notified to meet at the Station House on WEDNESDAY EVENING next July 2d, to perfect the Police arrangements for the celebration on the 4th. Every member of the force is requested to be present.

Mortgagee's Sale.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage Deed given by Paul William Costain to John F. Bispham, dated the thirty-first day January, A. D. 1872, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 419, fol. 37, and for breach of the condition of said Mortgage, will be sold at Public Auction, upon the premises, on TUESDAY, the fifteenth day of July, A. D. 1873, at four (4) o'clock in the afternoon,

ALL and singular the premises conveyed by said Mortgage Deed, together with the improvements thereon, namely:—A certain lot or parcel of land with the Buildings thereon, situated in the northerly part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and State of Massachusetts, and bounded by five (5) several straight lines, as follows, viz.:—Commencing at a point in the easterly line of the Neponset Turnpike at the southwesterly corner of marsh land of the heirs of Horatio N. Glover, and running first on said Glover marsh North 77 deg. 50 min. East ninety-three and three-tenths (93 3-10) feet; thence on said Glover marsh South 81 deg. East fifty-five (55) feet; then turning an acute angle and running southwesterly on land of Thomas Costain, seventy (70) feet; then turning and running on land of said Thomas Costain, by a line parallel with and twelve (12) feet distant from the southerly side of the Cottage; South 53 deg. and 45 min. West, about fifty-seven and two-tenths (57 2-10) feet to said Neponset Turnpike; then turning and running Northwesterly by the easterly line of said Turnpike, as laid out by the County Commissioners in the year 1859, sixty-two and five-tenths (62 5-10) feet to the point of beginning; said premises containing 4,468 square feet; being the same land conveyed to said Paul William Costain by two Deeds, the first dated March 1st, 1870, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 390, fol. 182, and the second dated January 25th, 1872, recorded with said Deeds. Said parcel is subject to two Mortgages, amounting to nineteen hundred dollars at the date of the Mortgage first above named.

For terms of sale and further particulars, apply to the Auctioneers.

PURITY!

IS A

Splendid Hair Dressing.

NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lusture. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.

20 State Street, Boston.

Messrs. J. C. HURSELL & Co.

Gentlemen: I have analyzed HURSELL'S PURITY for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from Sulphur, Lead, Silver, Acids, Alkalies, and may be used with entire safety.

For the Patriot.

The Late George Veazie.

The long residence of Mr. Veazie in Quincy and his connections with various institutions in town, seems to call for a more extended notice than appeared in the Patriot last week.

Mr. Veazie was truly a Quincy man, having lived most of his long life on the estate and near the house formerly occupied by his father, Dea. Elijah Veazie. He died after a long life of industry and usefulness. He was twice called by his fellow townsmen to fill the office of Selectman, and for years was on the Board of School Committee; and for near thirty years held an important office in the religious Society connected with the Episcopal Church in this town. He felt an interest in the anti-slavery and other reforms of the day, but it is with reference to his influence and labors in the temperance cause, that I wish to speak of more particular.

In order to do so, it is well to give the reader an idea of the habits and customs of people in Quincy, at the time when he commenced his labors in this cause. It was the fashion of business men, to provide a drink of grog for their workmen, and sometimes their boys, once in the forenoon and once in the afternoon.—The raising of a house or a barn at that time was an event of considerable importance, and the owner was expected to invite his neighbors to assist at the raising, and the boys to come without any particular invitation. A good supply of liquor and some refreshments was always provided on such occasions. At funerals (the writer had not much experience at weddings) decanters of ardent spirits were brought in for the sexton and bearers, and wine glasses well filled with wine were passed around for the mourners, male and female, woman's rights being respected on these occasions. All the respectable grocers in town, (and at that time there was not supposed to be any other) retailed various kinds of intoxicating liquors from their counters to men, and not unfrequently to minors. At the social evening call of neighbors, ardent spirits of some kind were generally provided.

Such was the habits and customs of the people about the year 1825. When Mr. Veazie saw the fearful inroads of intemperance among his neighbors, and friends, and decided to use his influence and example for the cause of temperance. He refused any longer to provide intoxicating liquors for his workmen, discouraged the use of it at raisings, and banished it from his house as a beverage, and did much to induce his neighbors to follow his example. A temperance society was formed in town in 1831, and his name was third on the list; from that time to the day of his death I think he lived a straight forward, consistent temperance man.

It is not often that a man changes his religious opinions and associates when past the age of fifty, and to do so is generally evidence of large conscientiousness and a progressive, though sometimes diseased state of mind. When past that age Mr. Veazie had satisfactory evidence in his own mind that the Church to which he had been devoted so many years had in a measure fulfilled its mission and was tending to a sort of a fashionable religion; that the time had come for people to think less of "creeds and formal worship and more of a christian life." He withdrew from his church and embraced the views generally held by the better class of spiritualists, and from these views he seemed to derive comfort and consolation in his declining years.

His first wife Sarah Hardwick, mother of his children and daughter of the late Henry Hardwick, was a woman of much force of character and great executive ability in household affairs, and proved really a help-meet for her husband.

Dr. Jewett in his interesting work on Temperance "Forty years fight with the Drink Demon" gives the names of thirty-two distinguished advocates of Temperance, some of whom are now living whose average age was over eighty years and three months. Mr. Veazie was over that, having reached nearly eighty-three years.

After an acquaintance with him a long time approaching nearly half a century, if I were asked for an inscription to be placed on his tomb stone I would write:—"An honest man is the noblest work of God."

Boston, June 22d, 1873. B.

THE NEW TRADE DOLLAR. A device for a new silver trade dollar, authorized by the Coinage Act of 1873, has been prepared at the United States Mint. It is as follows:—On the obverse side is a female figure seated upon a bale of cotton, her right hand extended towards the sea and grasping an olive branch. In the left hand appears a scroll bearing the word "Liberty," and at the bottom of the device is seen the legend, "In God We Trust." The date of coinage (1873) appears on the same side, together with the emblematical thirteen stars. On the reverse is the figure of an eagle, with the inscription, "United States of America," and the motto, "E. Pluribus Unum." The weight and fineness, together with the words "Trade Dollar" are also appropriately inscribed on this side. The working dies have been commenced at the mint, and the chief coiner expects the coins to be ready for delivery in a very short time. It is not designed for general circulation, but is to be used simply in trading with Japan and China, and will be coined only as is needed for this use.—Lynn Reporter.

It is stated by a prominent official in the Internal Revenue Bureau, that if the female clerks of that bureau were permitted to compete for the fourteen hundred dollar clerkships, they would be appointed to two-thirds of the vacancies, over men now employed in the bureau.

☞ A warrant was drawn on the United States Treasury a few days since for one cent. The same forms were observed as though the amount had been a million dollars. This indicates with what precision the accounts of Uncle Sam are kept by the officials in that department.

☞ Rev. Mr. Cudworth, of East Boston, will speak on temperance at the Second Congregational Church, on Sunday evening, July 6th. The citizens generally are invited to attend.

☞ Flowers and fruit for the Boston hospitals, may be left on Wednesday afternoon and evening, July 2d, at the residence of Mrs. William S. Morton, Spear Street.

BILL POSTERS, BEWARE! The following is one of the laws enacted at the recent session of the Legislature:—"Whoever paints upon, or in any manner affixes to, any fence or structure, or upon any rock or other natural objects, which is the property of another, any words, device, trademark, advertisement or notice, without first obtaining the consent thereto of the owner of such property, shall, upon the complaint of the owner or tenants of such property, or the city or town authorities, be punished by a fine not exceeding ten dollars for each offence; provided that this act shall not apply to any notice required by law to be posted in a particular place." It is hoped that this statute will have the effect to put a stop to the practice of disfiguring every available rock, tree or fence with glaring notices of unmitigated humbugs.—Lynn Reporter.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often occasion the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of every organ that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels some times costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food that is taken lies heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy colds, and if the cough in these cases be suddenly stopped, the lungs, liver and stomach clog, and remain torpid and inactive, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable result.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is an expectorant which does not contain any opium, nor anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Seaweed tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juice of the stomach, digests easily, nourishes the system, and creates a healthy circulation of the blood. When the bowels are costive, skin sallow, and the patient is of a bilious habit, Schenck's Mandrake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Northeast corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Penn., and for sale by GEO. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, and JOHN F. HENRY, 8 College Place, New York, Wholesale Agents.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

PHARMACY.

HAVING fitted up the Store formerly occupied by I. W. THAYER, Sea Street,

Opposite the Congregational Church,

I respectfully offer my services to the people of Quincy and vicinity as a

PRACTICAL DRUGGIST,

I WOULD INVITE ALL TO EXAMINE MY STOCK OF
CAREFULLY SELECTED
Pure Drugs, Chemicals,
— AND —
Pharmaceutical Preparations,
OF ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND AMERICAN MANUFACTURE.

I shall keep on hand at all times an assortment of such

FANCY GOODS,

as are usually to be found in an Apothecary Store. My intention is to keep as near the strictly Drug and Medicine trade as possible—in short to be known as a FIRST CLASS

DRUG, MEDICINE, AND
Prescription Store.

I would call particular attention to my manner of dispensing PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS, none but competent Pharmacists being allowed to compound them.

I shall keep on hand a FULL STOCK of all the popular PATENT MEDICINES of the day.

I respectfully solicit your patronage, and shall endeavor to merit your approbation in the future by a strict attention to the wants of my patrons, by keeping a Full and Complete Stock of Goods, by the fairness of my prices, and by carefulness in dispensing medicines.

Mr. JOHN A. DAVIES, who is well known to many of the citizens of Quincy as a reliable Pharmacist, will give his personal attention to compounding Physicians' Prescriptions, DAY or NIGHT. Yours respectfully,

HENRY K. APPLETON, JR.

Poetry.

The Steamboat.

Did you ever go down to the steamboat?
  By jings! I'll knock under to that!
I can't hardly tell what to make on't,
  It does beat creation all flat!

Why, that great copper kettle; my patience!
  I'd tell what it holds if I could,
An' it beats all our Nancy's relations,
  To see how they heave in the wood!

Then them wheels all agoing and jangling,
  'Tis strange how they ever can sleep—
An' long iron rods, all sprangling,
  Good George! what a thrashing they keep!

The great wheel, too, that paws up the water,
  An' sends up a hogshead a stroke!
Then that iron chimly's a snorter!
  By cat owl! how it sends out the smoke!

I swagger! 'twould puzzle a fellow
  To find out the head or the starn!
Why one of the rooms in the cellar
  Is as long as the side of our barn.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Cucumbers on Trellises.

Wherever we go we see the cucumber in the open air suffered to run on the ground. This is no doubt a relic of European culture. There it is necessary. The climate is not hot enough and the plants have to be started, if not grown altogether, in low, flat glass frames. But where the cucumber grows wild, it spreads over bushes and trees, and the growth and product are enormous. All plants with tendrils prefer to ramble in this way. The grape vine, it is well known, seems fairly to rejoice when it can find a large mass of twiggy brush to ramble over as it wills, and so does the cucumber. No one who has not tried can have any idea of the luxurious growth of a cucumber when trained to a stake which has a set of stubby side branches left along its length. Some which the writer saw might be taken at a distance for some vigorous kind of ornamental gourd—and the crop was enormous.

A great advantage in the style of culture is that the plants occupy far less ground than when permitted to spread over the surface in the usual way. This is a great gain to small gardens, and to large ones, for that matter — for if we have land enough and to spare, few of us have time to waste in preparing more of it than is necessary to the perfection of a crop.—Gardener's Monthly.

"When the Cows Come Home."

Many of our farmers have [illegible] years of valuable time [illegible] they did not teach their cows [illegible] come at night. Any one who has lived or travelled in the country will remember the familiar Co-bos, Co-bos! of the farmer's son or hired man, as he endeavors to coax the cows from the great pasture.—We have had a little experience in these matters, and well remember how many times we have waded through the brush and bogs looking for the cows, and, boy-like, we thought them dreadful contrary animals. But we have lived long enough to learn better, and now think that the biped was the more contrary animal of the two. Boys we will tell you a secret that will save you a great deal of trouble, and it is this: Every time the cows are driven up at night or in the morning, give them a good lick of meal or bran, and our word for it the cows will always be on hand at milking time. Besides this, they will give more milk, and forget to kick over the milk pail, even if you do whistle a little too loud.—Am. Stock Journal.

A Hanging Garden.

A hanging garden of sponge is one of the latest novelties in gardening. Take a white sponge of large size, and sow it full of rice, oats and wheat. Then place it for a week or ten days in a shallow dish, in which a little water is constantly kept, and as the sponge will absorb the moisture, the seeds will begin to sprout before many days. When this has fairly taken place, the sponge may be suspended by means of cords from a hook in the top of the window where a little sun will enter. It will thus become a mass of green, and can be kept wet by merely immersing it in a bowl of water.

Texas is the third State in the Union, as a wheat-growing State. The wheat crop of Texas was, in average per acre, just equal to that of California last year.

William Birnie of Mass., has recently sold an Ayrshire cow which is said to have given her live weight in milk every 26 days, from April to October.

Anecdotes.

A Cantab being out in ready cash, went in haste to a fellow student to borrow, who happened to be in bed at the time. Shaking him, the Cantab demanded:

"Are you asleep?"

"Why?" says the student.

"Because," replied the other, "I want to borrow half-a-crown."

"Then," answered the student, "I'm asleep."

A German peddler is the innocent author of a problem of which we beg a solution. He was asked if it was not heavy work carrying a big pack about day after day.

"Oh, yes," he replied, "it was heavy."

"Well," said the querist, "do you make much?"

"Vell, I dunno. Some days I makes notting, and oder days twice so much."

A physician advised a patient to take a walk on an empty stomach.

"Whose stomach?" feebly asked the invalid.

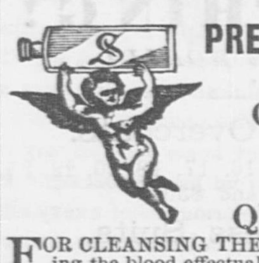
Mrs. Dr. Secor's
PRESCRIPTIONS.



QUALITY
NOT
QUANTITY.

FOR CLEANSING THE SYSTEM and purifying the blood effectually

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative Syrup

Is the very best medicine ever yet compounded.

In CHRONIC and long-standing cases of the SCROFULOUS disorders the patient must follow the directions strictly, and continue the use of the ALTERATIVE until all traces of the disease have disappeared. Even when no disorder appears, the ALTERATIVE should be taken to dissipate the depression and listless languor so common, especially with the ladies and children in the spring of the year.

Ladies, if you wish a Beautiful Clear Complexion, without the aid of Poisonous Cosmetics, get a bottle of

Mrs. Dr. Secor's Alterative.

If the patient feels very much depressed and weak, the

CINCHONA BITTERS

Should be used in connection with the ALTERATIVE, taking the Bitters before eating and the Alterative after meals.

For Dyspepsia, Debility, Flatulency, and all KIDNEY COMPLAINTS and BILIOUS AFFECTIONS. A Reliable Tonic for Ladies and Children, and the best APPETIZER ever offered to the public. A Preventive of Sea Sickness.

If unable to sleep sound, try the

Nervous, Neuralgic and Asthma Pills.

They are an excellent remedy for nervous fits or spasms, tetanus, wakefulness, suspended animation, delirium tremens.

CHOLERA SPECIFIC, COUGH SYRUP, CATHARTIC PILLS, LINIMENT AND SALVE.

Ask your druggist for MRS. DR. SECOR'S Circular, and examine the list of references and testimonials from some of the most respectable people in New England.

MRS. DR. SECOR can be consulted as usual at parlors, No. 159 Warren Aveune, Boston, and she refers by permission to the following named gentlemen, who of their knowledge will cheerfully testify to her skill and success as a physician and the efficacy of her prescriptions;

Poster Printing.

POSTERS Large or Small, printed at short notice, at the Patriot Office.

Extract of Roots and Herbs which almost invariably cure the following complaints:

DYSPEPSIA, Heart Burn, Liver Complaint, and Loss of Appetite cured by taking a few bottles.

LASSITUDE, Low Spirits, and Sinking Sensation cured at once.

ERUPTIONS, Pimples, Blotches, and all impurities of the blood, bursting through the skin or otherwite, cured readily by following the directions on the bottle.

For KIDNEY, Bladder and Urinary derangements it has no equal; one bottle will convince the most sceptical.

WORMS, expelled from the system without the least difficulty; a few bottles are sufficient for the most obstinate case.

PILES; one bottle has cured the most difficult case when all other remedies failed.

NERVOUS DIFFICULTIES, Neuralgia, Headache, &c., eased immediately.

RHEUMATISM, Swelled Joints, and all Scrofular Afflictions removed or greatly relieved by this invaluable medicine.

BRONCHITIS, Catarrh, Convulsions, and Hysterics cured or much relieved.

DIFFICULT BREATHING, Pain in the Lungs, Side and Chest almost invariably cured by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

FEMALE BIFFICULTIES, so prevalent among American ladies, yield readily to this invaluable medicine, the Quaker Bitters.

BILIOUS, Remittant and intermittant Fevers, so prevalent in many parts of our country, completely eradicated by the use of the Quaker Bitters.

The AGED find in the Quaker Bitters just the article they stand in need of in their declining years. It quickens the blood and cheers the mind, and paves the passage down the plane inclined.

NO ONE can remain long unwell (unless afflicted with an incurable disease,) after taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

At their Great Medical Depot, 195 & 197 Broad Street, Providence, R. I.
FOR SALE BY J. H. VEAZIE, QUINCY.
March 15—6m.

THE
Michigan Spring Bed.

WE, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have used the MICHIGAN SPRING BED, for which Thompson & Hitchcock are Proprietors for this County, and after giving said Bed a fair trial, we cheerfully recommend it, as in our opinion, superior to any in market:

Jesse Bunton,
W. Q. Baxter,
Jos. Underwood,
Thaddeus H. Newcomb,
Samuel T. Allen,
Jos. W. Lombard,
G. W. Miles,
J. E. Hall,
J. H. Morrison,
James Newcomb.

The undersigned having purchased the Right for this County to put up and sell the Michigan Spring Bed, of Messrs. Thompson & Hitchcock, is now prepared to furnish all who may give him a call.

I have already taken off numerous kinds of Springs Beds and put mine in their place, to the entire satisfaction of those making the change.

My Ware-Rooms are at

No. 75 Hancock Street,

where all are invited to come and examine the Michigan Spring Bed, which I claim to be superior to any in the country in point of comfort, durability, price, and every other quality which goes to make up a good bed.

Beds put up on Trial—and no one is asked to purchase until after a fair test. Over one thousand of these Beds are sold every week in this State.

C. T. MANSFIELD.
